DUKE NICHOLAS WINS ARMY AID TO NEW RUSSIA

Choice as Leader Means That Forces Will Support the Change.

BULLETIN.

PETROGRAD, via London, March 18, 3:05 a. m.—After his abdication Emperor Nicholas returned to general staff headquarters.

It is generally believed that the appointment of Grand Duke Nicholas as commander in chief will be received enthusiastically by the troops, with whom he is extremely popular.

DEMOCRACY IS COMPLETE.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

PETROGRAD March 17.—The triumph of democracy in Russia was complete today. It now remains only for the people to decide the form the government is to have in the future.

The abdication of the czar on Thursday carried with it the refusal of the crown prince to accept the throne. Then the Grand Duke Michael, younger brother of the czar, refused to accept the crown until a plebiscite shows that the people are in favor of this [illegible].

In making known this determination the grand duke appealed to the people to obey the provisional government, composed of the committee of the duma and the new ministerial body, until the new form of government is agreed upon.

GRAND DUKE'S REFUSAL.

The declaration made by the grand duke was as follows:

"This heavy responsibility has come to me at the voluntary request of my brother, who has transferred the imperial throne to me during a period of warfare which is accompanied with unprecedented popular disturbances.

"Moved by the thought which is in the minds of the entire people, that the good of the country is paramount, I have adopted the firm resolution to accept the supreme power only if this be the will of our great people, who, by a plebiscite organized by their representatives in a constituent assembly, shall establish a form of government and new fundamental laws for the Russian state.

"Consequently, invoking the benediction of our Lord, I urge all citizens of Russia to submit to the provisional government established upon the initiative of the duma and invested with full plenary powers, until such time, which will follow with as little delay as possible, as the constituent assembly, on a basis of universal, direct, equal, and secret suffrage shall by its decision as to the new form of government express the will of the people."

HOW CZAR ABDICATED.

The abdication of Emperor Nicholas was signed at the town of Pskoff, where the train on which he was traveling toward Petrograd was halted early in the week.

From Pskoff the emperor communicated with members of the executive committee of the duma, who informed him that they were sending emissaries to meet him.

Accordingly, a member of the duma committee and one of the ministers of the new cabinet proceeded to Pskoff and had an interview with the emperor in the presence of Gen. Nicholas Vruzsky, a member of the council of the empire and of the supreme military council; Baron W. Fredericks, minister of the court; Count Narishkin, and others.

DEMAND THAT HE QUIT.

After relating to the emperor the latest developments in the revolution, the emissaries advised him not to send any troops from the front to Petrograd, as all the troops were going over to the revolutionists as fast as they arrived.

"What is desired that I should do?" the emperor inquired.

"Abdicate the throne," was the response.

After devoting some time to deliberation, Emperor Nicholas said:

"It would be hard to be separated from my son, therefore I will abdicate in favor of my brother, in behalf of myself and my son."

The document, which had been prepared in advance, was handed to the emperor and he signed it at once.

Meanwhile the provisional government is continuing the work of organization to meet the questions of government. It is assured of the full support of the army and the few of the politicians of

LATEST REPORTS OF RUSS REVOLT

PARIS, March 17.—The return to their fatherland of thousands of exiled Russian political suspects is expected here to be one of the immediate results of the Russian revolution. A large colony of Polish and other refugees from the Russian empire is in France, and many of them are serving in the foreign legion. A committee was appointed to solicit from the French, British, and Russian governments facilities for their repatriation.

LONDON, March 17.—The Russian constituent assembly, says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd, will be convened at the winter palace, which has been proclaimed national property.

New York, March 17.—Dispatches received tonight by the Russian-American-Asiatic corporation said that the Russian duma is promulgating orders for the formation of a government to be known as the United States of Russia, with Prince Lvoff as president.

GENEVA, March 17.—The Russian Black sea fleet has announced its support of the new Russian provisional government, according to dispatches received tonight.

SKATES THROW CHILD TO DEATH BENEATH WAGON

John Stanley, 9 years old, 3232 Wallace street, was fatally injured while roller skating near his home yesterday. The boy was unable to check his progress when a wagon belonging to Moran Bros., 818 South Main street, and driven by John Holden, 2020 West Van Buren, crossed his path. He collided with the front wheels, fell, and was run over. The driver did not know an accident had occurred until one of the boy's playmates notified him. Holden took the injured boy to the office of Dr. George McDonald, 557 West Thirty-first street. He died while his injuries were being dressed. His ribs were crushed. The coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow.

FRENCH CABINET QUITS; POINCARE TO PICK NEW MEN

Briand and His Aids Take the Step After Many Attacks.

PARIS, March 17.—The French cabinet, headed by Premier Briand, has resigned. An official note, given out after the cabinet meeting tonight, says:

"The council of ministers met tonight at Elysee palace. The premier reported on various consultations he had had with a view to completing the cabinet so it could present itself to the chamber.

"After hearing him the cabinet decided that circumstances compelled it to leave to the president of the republic complete liberty to interpret the situation in the best interests of national defense.

ATTACK ON MINISTRY.

The Briand ministry had been attacked in the French parliament repeatedly during the last few weeks for its economic policy.

It succeeded the Viviani cabinet in October, 1915, and was reorganized last Dec. 12, when the number of ministerial portfolios was decreased and a war council appointed.

The war council included Premier Briand, M. Ribot, minister of finance; Gen. Lyautey, minister of war; Rear Admiral Lacaze, minister of marine, and M. Thomas, minister of national manufactures.

Gen. Lyautey Forced Out.

Attacks by the opposition in parliament resulted on Wednesday in the sudden resignation of Gen. Lyautey as minister of war.

The chamber of deputies had held a secret session on Wednesday in which the French aviation service was discussed. No specific attack was made on Gen. Lyautey and it was explained that his resignation, which he refused to reconsider, resulted from his ignorance of parliamentary procedure.

Premier Briand, a dispatch from Paris on Friday said, had decided to reconstruct the cabinet and the resultant ministry was expected to be approved by President Poincare Saturday night.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR

Report received in New York says republic of United States of Russia has been proclaimed with Prince Lvoff as president. Grand Duke Michael demands that people choose form of government by plebiscite.

British troops capture German base of Bapaume and all nearby positions on wide front, including many strongly fortified towns and positions, north and south.

French troops carry all positions between Andechy and the Oise, which had been held by the Germans for two years.

French cabinet resigns after many attacks in chamber of deputies for its economic policy. Now up to Poincare to pick new men.

$690,000 IN CASH, STEWART RICHES, ROLLS FROM BAG

Money, Tossed About by Travelers, Comes to View in Bank.

When a suitcase, the property of Mrs. J. K. Stewart, who died in Aiken, S. C., last Monday, was opened in the offices of the Merchants Loan and Trust company on Adams street yesterday $690,000 in currency—in $5,000 and $10,000 gold bills—rolled out on the table.

Certified checks to the amount of $296,000 also were found in the bag, which was supposed to contain articles of small value—clothing and some jewelry, and possibly a second will. Scant attention had been paid to it on its trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Stewart was the widow of the late founder and president of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer company. He died ten months ago in New York.

Two to Be Buried Here.

The body of Mrs. Stewart reached Chicago Thursday morning and was taken to a vault in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Stewart's body is in a vault in Brooklyn. It will be brought to Chicago and the two will be buried side by side in Graceland.

Unless a second will is discovered in the vaults in New York the entire Stewart estate, now placed at approximately $7,000,000, goes to the two daughters—Marion, 14 years old, and Jean, 5 years old. The eldest daughter came with the funeral party from the south and is now at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Leander H. La Chance, 1020 Ardmore avenue. Jean was left in Aiken under the care of her governess.

The finding of nearly $1,000,000 in the suitcase was as great a surprise to friends of the family as to the officials of the bank, which is trustee of Mrs. Stewart's estate under the only will her Chicago attorney, John D. Black, who drew this will, has any knowledge of.

Suitcase Checked?

It was reported that the suitcase with its precious contents was checked in the baggage car when the funeral party left Aiken the fore part of the week and that the baggage masters threw it about like any ordinary bag. While members of the family would not talk about it, acquaintances said it was carried in the Pullman car along with other hand luggage and no heed was paid to it, as none of the party knew what it contained.

That it should be sent to the bank in Chicago was generally understood and it was known that some valuables were in it which the bank should take charge of as trustee. But that it contained nearly $1,000,000 was not suspected.

Turned Over to Bank.

When the funeral party arrived in Chicago an official of the local bank met them. The suitcase was then turned over to him with the remark that it should be left in the custody of the trustees until they had an opportunity to itemize the contents.

The official took it to the bank and put it in a vault, little dreaming that he carried hundreds of thousands of dollars in currency, besides other hundreds of thousands in certified checks.

The denomination of the currency is the largest now in circulation. Few $10,000 gold bills are seen in any of the banks and only occasionally do the larger denominations turn up.

From all that could be learned yesterday the members of Mrs. Stewart's immediate family had no intimation that such a fortune was kept in the winter home in the south, especially in currency that was immediately available for use.

The suitcase was forgotten until after the funeral services at Graceland.

Disposition of Estate.

The death of the widow revives interest in the disposition of the estate, accumulated by Mr. Stewart with the invention of the speedometer.

At his death, ten months ago, a contest was instituted in the effort to break one of two wills he was said to have made, the last will, except for what purported to have been a copy, having been lost.

In his first will, made two years before his death, he bequeathed $125,000 outright to Thomas F. Clark of Pasadena, a son of Mr. Stewart's former partner, created a trust fund of $1,000,000 for the two daughters, and provided a life interest in the remainder for the widow.

The second will, the original of which was lost, and which was made two weeks before his death, gave only the income from $150,000 to young Clark and divided the remainder of the estate equally between the widow and the two daughters. This is the will that finally was proven up as the last testament.

ALLIES CARRY MANY TOWNS IN BIG DRIVE

Bapaume and Roye Among Strong Points Which Have Fallen.

BY ARTHUR DRAPER.

LONDON, March 17.—The Somme front in France today was the scene of the greatest war movement in two years. In a joint offensive the British and French forces ripped the enemy's entire line along a sixty mile front from northwest of Bapaume to the Oise river. The Germans are retiring rapidly from both the Arras salient and the great Noyon sector.

It is thought probable here that the Germans do not intend to make a stand until they have reached a line extending from the Douai region, southeast to Soissons, thus eliminating the two great bends in the Picardy front. Hundreds of square miles of territory will be evacuated if this plan is carried out.

SOME OF STRONGHOLDS TAKEN.

Bapaume, the German stronghold, which has been the goal of the British for eight months; Roye, the bastion in the German line of defense along the western side of the Noyon salient, which has withstood the onslaughts of the French for two years, and no less than seventeen villages and fortified posts fell into the hands of the British and French troops. All had been held by the enemy ever since the fall of 1914.

The average gain of the French on the front of twenty-five miles, extending from Chaulnes to a point beyond Lassigny, was six miles, while the British penetrated the German defenses from three to four miles.

MANY SMALLER PLACES FALL.

North of Somme, in addition to Bapaume, the British captured La Thansloy, Achiet-Le-Petit and Achiet-Le-Grand, Biefvillers, Bihucourt, Ablainzeville, Bucquoy, Essarts, Monchy-Au-Bois, and Guesnoy farm. South of the river the villages of Fresnes, Horgny, Villers, Carbonnel, Barleux, Etterpigny, and La Maisonette fell into British hands.

On their front to the south of Chaulnes the French overran Roye and Lassigny, cut the important road to Noyon, and swept the entire defensive system which the Germans have been building for two years.

In many quarters it is thought that the withdrawal of the Germans will not end without disaster for them, as the British and the French are not only pressing closely on their heels but are sweeping into control of the main roads and lines of communication on which the Germans depend for their retirement to a new line.

PERONNE SEEMS DOOMED.

The allied gains logically involve the evacuation of the important strongholds of Peronne and Chaulnes, with their adjoining defenses. Both of these places have been pocketed in such a manner that their capture is only a matter of hours.

The fall of the village of Eterpigny, which lies on the eastern bank of the Somme immediately south of Peronne, seals the fate of that town, while Chaulnes has been left far to the west of the British and French lines to the north and south and is almost surrounded.

The Germans are destroying every town they evacuate. British official accounts say Bapaume is in flames, while the smaller villages flanking it were reduced to ruins before the enemy departed.

RESULT OF LONG EFFORT.

From July 1 of last year the allies have been hammering at the defenses of Bapaume, which last summer was used as the headquarters of Crown Prince Rupprecht and the center of all the German activities on the Somme.

From Bapaume radiate a number of little valleys of a depth of a hundred feet, with roads running in every direction. Beyond the town lie the plains of Flanders, with the important points of Cambrai, Valenciennes, and Douai almost within view. With Bapaume, the British came into possession of two

WILSON PLEASED

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—President Wilson tonight telegraphed the representatives of the railroads and their employes meeting in New York expressing pleasure over the agreement to postpone the threatened nation-wide strike until Monday and earnestly urging further conferences to draw the two sides closer together. The president's message follows:

"I am exceedingly glad that the conferences have been reopened and that the prospect of a settlement looks brighter.

"I hope most earnestly, for the sake of all concerned, and, most of all, for the sake of the nation, that the two parties will continue to draw closer together, and that a little further conference will lead to the result the entire country hopes for and expects."

STRIKE DELAYED

New York, March 17.—The statement issued by the government mediators that the railroad strike had been postponed for forty-eight hours follows:

"At our request and out of appreciation of the national situation, the brotherhoods and the railway managers have resumed negotiations, and, in the hope that some adjustment may be had that will avoid the necessity for a strike, the brotherhoods have wired or telephoned their general chairmen asking that all action be postponed for forty-eight hours, and, unless prior to that time advised of a settlement, the men will leave the service under the authority already given."

SEBASTIAN WINS HEIRESS AS WIFE GETS DIVORCE

South side society circles experienced a slight thrill yesterday when it was reported that Miss Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of Charles F. Thompson, wealthy lumberman, and Carlos Sebastian, the dancer, were married in Meridian, Miss. A marriage license was issued in Meridian yesterday.

Sebastian, it was said, left Chicago for Meridian immediately upon the close of the proceedings wherein he was divorced from the former Miss Dorothy Bentley. Miss Bentley has kept her maiden name throughout her marriage, inasmuch as she has been appearing with her husband as his dancing partner.

Despite the suit for divorce, the Sebastians continued to dance together. They appeared together in the Edelweiss Gardens and it was said they would continue as a team.

News of the marriage of Sebastian and Miss Williams could not be verified through either Miss Bentley or her mother, who live at 1113 Dearborn avenue. Miss Bentley said she had heard her husband had been friendly with Miss Williams.

The Williams residence, at 3350 South Park avenue, has been closed since Feb. 1, when the family went to Quitman, Miss., near Meridian, for the cold spell. It was not denied that Miss Williams is with her parents in the south. The housekeeper in the Williams residence said the family will move south in the spring.

Miss Bentley was awarded a lump sum and weekly alimony of $50. She said last night she was not surprised if her former husband was married, but she was not interested and couldn't give any details. She denied, however, that it was Miss Williams she named in her bill for divorce.

THE REVOLUTION

On page 7 is published a cablegram from Petrograd giving for the first time in America the thrilling details of the eight days of revolution in Russia, sent by an eyewitness in the capital, Arno Dosch-Fleurot.

U. S. MEDIATORS WHIPPING RAIL FOES INTO LINE

Each Side Is Obdurate, but Some Concessions Are Agreed On.

New York, March 17.—"I believe that by Monday we shall reach an agreement which will avert a strike."

This statement was made this evening by W. G. Lee, chief of the trainmen and spokesman for the railway brotherhoods. It was the first significant word touching the outlook that was given out by any of the parties to the strike conferences which ended at 3:30 o'clock with the announcement that a forty-eight hour truce had been declared.

MEDIATORS MAKE HEADWAY.

Mr. Lee's statement for the brotherhoods was taken to mean that the efforts of the president's committee of mediators, representing the council of national defense, not only had been successful in halting the strike tonight but that with the resumption of conferences tomorrow and Monday the whole situation probably would be cleared and the country again assured of normal transportation conditions.

In this connection an official of the railroad brotherhoods, who would not permit the use of his name, made the flat declaration that there would be no strike, and that "the brotherhoods had won a complete victory."

AWAIT 8 HOUR DECISION.

The optimism of the brotherhood chiefs, however, was not shared by the railroad managers. While no statement was forthcoming from them, it was asserted that the settlement of the differences was entirely contingent upon a decision on Monday by the Supreme court favorable to the Adamson law.

In that event, it was understood, they agreed that they would accept the application of the law on the basis of ten hours' pay for eight hours' work, with pro rata pay for overtime.

No other concessions were made and the question as to what turn the situation would take in the event of no decision Monday, or of a decision declaring the Adamson law unconstitutional, remained to be determined, according to an official in close touch with the managers.

The consent to a truce was made by the brotherhoods—and that was the sum of all the "yielding" thus far.

QUESTIONS FOR PARLEY.

From sources regarded as authoritative it was learned that three important considerations entered into the negotiations. These were:

Pressure of public opinion against the strike.

The possibility of a decision Monday by the Supreme court on the constitutionality of the Adamson eight hour law.

A proposal that the railroads accept the brotherhoods' interpretation of the law in the event of its being upheld.

The brotherhood chiefs admitted that the possibility of a decision by the Supreme court on Monday had been discussed, as well as the interpretation to be placed upon the law by both sides to the controversy in the event of its being declared constitutional.

MEN WILL FOLLOW ORDERS.

Mr. Lee's reassuring statement as to the outlook came after he was informed that many members of the four brotherhoods in Ohio, West Virginia, Pensylvania, and Illinois, failing to receive word of the postponement of the strike actually had quit work tonight. He said he was not surprised at this, inasmuch as there was so little time—less than three hours—in which to comunicate with the men.

"That should be proof of the fact that we were not talking idly when we said our members would obey the strike order," said Mr. Lee. "We knew they would—every one of them."

It was agreed with the railroads, he aded, that in the event of the men failing to receive word of the change in the situation and going on strike, the railroads should not attempt to discipline them in any way. Mr. Lee said he was confident the misunderstanding would be straightened out before midnight tonight, and that those who had left their places would have returned to work by that time.

The decision to postpone the strike for forty-eight hours was reached only after three of the president's mediators—Secretary of the Interior Lane, Secretary of Labor Wilson, and Daniel Willard—had labored almost incessantly since early last night with the four brotherhood chiefs and the conference committee of railroad managers.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who also was appointed a mediator, did not arrive in this city until tonight, explaining that he had been at Atlantic City and did not learn that his presence was desired here until this afternoon.

It was learned that the question uppermost for consideration tomorrow was to determine the attitude of the brotherhoods and the railroads in the event of the Adamson law not being upheld by the Supreme court. In quarters close to both factions it was said that a tentative agreement already had been reached and that the conference tomorrow would be held to settle the details.

Gompers Finally Shows Up.

Mr. Gompers is expected to participate in the conference tomorrow. The first thing Mr. Gompers did after arriving here tonight was to communicate with Secretary Lane and inform him he was ready to go to work. The labor leader denied emphatically that he had absented himself intentionally from the conference.

"People who know me," Mr. Gompers said, "know I do not run away. It was not until 3 p. m. today that I learned the national council of defense, with the sanction of the president, had appointed a commission of mediation in connection with the railroad situation and that I was a member of that body.

"I left Washington Thursday afternoon for Atlantic City to get two days' rest because of the tremendous strain I have been working under. My physician not only advised me to go away but ordered me to do so.

Hid from Public Gaze.

"I stopped at a hotel, but, because I was recognized by almost every one, I went yesterday afternoon to stay with a private family, not leaving my new address at the hotel until this afternoon, when I stopped there to inquire for mail. I was then informed my offices in Washington wanted me on the long distance telephone.

"I got in touch immediately with my secretary, who told me about my appointment on the commission. I instructed my secretary to advise Secretary Lane I would come on here at once, and I took the first train for New York, arriving here at 8 o'clock tonight.

"I have made ready to be of any possible assistance with my associate mediators in the effort to bring about an honorable adjustment of the problem and I will remain here as long as my associates deem it necessary."

No Statement to Make.

Immediately following the announcement this afternoon that the strike had been postponed the brotherhood chiefs denied themselves to every one, saying they would have no statements to make and that any information concerning the negotiations would have to come from Secretary Lane. Later, however, Warren S. Stone, head of the engineers, said:

"The situation is unchanged. As reasonable men we did not wish to fly in the face of the president's advisers and when they requested a postponement of the strike for forty-eight hours, we made the concession to enable them to work out their plans. Unless something intervenes, the situation will be the same Monday night as it would have been at 7 o'clock tonight."

After the statement made several hours later by Mr. Lee, an effort was made to see Secretary Lane, but it was said he had retired for the night and did not wish to be disturbed. When the conference ended today he announced that he had no statement to make and would have none before tomorrow.

Moral Victory Over Men.

The postponement is in itself regarded generally as a moral victory over the unions, despite the threatening attitude of the leaders. Railway executives privately and unofficially declare their contention is won.

Reports of heavy defections in the workers' ranks are believed to have led the union leaders to reconsider their arbitrary stand. Had they gone ahead with the strike order it is likely many employés would have refused to walk out, and thus would have lessened the efficiency of the strike.

Reverts to First Position.

No one pretends to know when the Supreme court decision will be handed down. How far it will go toward curing the situation, of course, depends on its nature. If the court upholds the Adamson law the men will have won most of their contention.

On the other hand, if the court decides the act was unconstitutional, the whole tangle returns to the exact place it occupied last summer.

The railroad executives, however, have pledged themselves to work toward a solution of that difficulty. They have announced that if the act is upheld and there is disagreement about its application the roads will be willing to submit the case to the eight hour commission, headed by Gen. Goethals. This is the commission which the president named to investigate the working of the law.

If the act is thrown off the statute books the roads have pledged themselves not to take advantage of any immunity implied thereby, but again to bow before this eight hour commission, submitting their side of the case with that of the brotherhoods, and accepting the decision of this board.

Union Also May Balk.

The obstacle to this program is the attitude of the brotherhoods. They have persistently refused to submit their case to arbitration on the ground naively stated that "the arbitration board might not decide in favor of the employés."

This field of possibilities lies ahead, with no chance of disposition before the court's presentation of opinions on Monday, possibly not then.

In the meantime the New York conferences will continue. One is already set for tomorrow at 10 a. m., when both sides will go to the Biltmore, where the president's commission from the council of national defense is quartered.

Presumably Messrs. Lane, Wilson, and Willard will follow the same method used today, closeting the two factions separately and moving from one to the other with fresh programs of settlement and fresh arguments.

U. S. Army Surgeon Here to Form College Corps

Maj. Robert U. Patterson of the medical corps, United States army, and director of the bureau of medical service for the American Red Cross, arrived in Chicago yesterday to complete the organization of ambulance company No. 3 of the Red Cross. This company is made up of students of the University of Chicago who are to go into training at the opening of the spring quarter. The company is made up of eighty-six men and five officers.

Western Railways Answer Charge of Press Payments by Brotherhoods.

THE following statement was issued yesterday at the office in Chicago of the Association of Western Railways:

"According to this morning's newspapers, a statement has been issued from the headquarters of the labor brotherhoods in Chicago charging that '17,000 newspapers were paid untold amounts of money to create a demand for a law suppressing industrial unrest.' In another place in the same circular it is charged that 'those Wall street interests that direct the affairs of railroads have within the last year expended millions of dollars to create a demand in the mind of the public that there be no more railroad strikes.'

"This statement can have reference to only one thing and that is the advertising published by the railroads for the purpose of presenting to the public the facts regarding their controversy with the employés in train service. It has been repeatedly charged by spokesmen of the brotherhoods that the expenditure of the railroads in this campaign amounted to millions of dollars.

"The public is entitled to know the facts about this matter. It is true that advertising was inserted by the railways in every daily and weekly newspaper of general circulation in the United States which would accept it. The number of newspapers to which this advertising was given was approximately 17,000. The number whose bills for advertising have up to this time been paid is about 14,000, some of the newspapers having failed to run the advertising and others having failed as yet to render their bills.

"The 14,000 newspapers which have rendered bills—and this includes all the large daily newspapers in the country and all the leading weekly newspapers—have been paid in full payment of their bills slightly less than $300,000. In other words, the total amount which has been spent for advertising in these newspapers averages less than $22 per newspaper.

"The railways believe that it was their duty to present the facts regarding this controversy to the public and the only channel available for reaching the entire public was the press. It should be added in this connection that the railway brotherhoods also inserted paid advertising matter in a large number of newspapers throughout the country presenting their side of the controversy."

ORDER DELAYED; SOME UNION MEN IN EAST STRIKE

Fail to Get Edict on Postponement of Walkout.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Members of the Big Four brotherhoods employed on Baltimore and Ohio freight lines between here and New York walked out on strike shortly after 7 o'clock tonight on failing to receive official notice of the forty-eight hour postponement. It is understood, however, that the men will suffer no loss of jobs because of this slip-up.

800 Quit at Connellsville.

Connellsville, Pa., March 17.—More than 800 members of the four railroad brotherhoods, employés of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads, quit work here at 7 o'clock tonight. It is believed the orders to postpone the strike have been held up in transit here.

Many Out at Erie.

Erie, Pa., March 17.—More than three hundred trainmen on the Nickel Plate and New York Central lines quit work at 6 o'clock. They said they had received no instructions to postpone the strike.

Tie-up Near Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., March 17.—Traffic on the Baltimore and Ohio at Chicago Junction, south of here, was tied up tonight when employés struck.

Men Out at Columbus.

Columbus, O., March 17.—More than fifty employés of the Big Four and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads quit work tonight, stating they had no official notice that the strike had been postponed.

Back at Work in Toledo.

Toledo, O., March 17.—Four hundred New York Central engineers, firemen, and conductors who struck today were returning to their work late tonight.

Dayton Yard Men Out.

Dayton, O., March 17.—All the yardmen of the Big Four road in Dayton struck at 6 o'clock tonight in the absence of any word countermanding the strike orders previously received.

Nickle Plate Hit.

Conneaut, O., March 17.—The Nickel Plate railroad is tied up here by a strike of freight crews, who received no official notice of a postponement of the walkout. A similar tie-up is reported from Fort Wayne.

Strike, then Go Back.

Newark, O., March 17.—Eight hundred engineers, firemen, trainmen, and freight train conductors employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here struck at 6 o'clock. At 7 o'clock the engineers returned to work on receipt of official word of the postponement.

Fifty Return to Work.

Dickerson Run, Pa., March 17.—Fifty employés of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad went on strike at 7 o'clock tonight and returned fifteen minutes later, when formal notification of postponement of the strike was received.

Walkout at East St. Louis.

East St. Louis, Ill., March 17.—Several hundred railway employés here walked out tonight, claiming that they had received no notice that the strike had been postponed. None of the employés of the Terminal Railway association, however, walked out.

"CALAMITY"

That's What Dunne Thinks Railroad Strike Would Be.

FORMER Gov. Edward F. Dunne yesterday expressed the hope that President Wilson's mediation committee will be successful in averting permanently the impending railway strike. He said:

"It would be a national calamity, the effect of which would prove most disastrous. In fact, next to war, it is the greatest calamity this country could suffer, I consider. The situation that has arisen is the best argument I know in favor of government ownership."

Mayor Thompson said:

"I am hopeful it will now be settled before Monday night. However, we are getting prepared for any eventuality. In fact, we have been preparing for some time. The last two big strikes we have had have been without bloodshed and without the destruction of property — the building trades and the street car strikes."

RAILWAY STRIKE PLANNED JAN. 11; PARLEY SECRET

That plans for the railroad strike were secretly worked out in detail in Chicago as far back as Jan. 11 of this year was learned by THE TRIBUNE last night.

Verification of the report was obtained from Timothy Shea, who has charge of the strike on the roads entering this city. He said:

"The entire strike program was planned at a secret meeting of 640 chairmen of the brotherhoods on all the railroads of the country held in the Masonic temple on Jan. 11. It was then that the brotherhoods decided they must act as they are now doing in order to get the eight hour day. The failure of the railroads in observing the Adamson law led to the holding of the meeting."

Zones of Quiet Fixed; Two Persons Gravely Ill

Two blocks in Vincennes avenue, between Forty-eighth and Fiftieth streets, are closed to traffic because of the serious illness of members of two of the wealthiest families of the neighborhood. Mrs. Abram Levine, 4833 Vincennes, lies desperately ill of pleuro-pneumonia. Her husband is an iron manufacturer. Herman J. Millhauser, president of Hornthal & Co., dealers in undertakers' supplies, is in a critical condition a little more than a block away. His home is at 4945 Vincennes avenue. Uniformed police guard the approaches to the forbidden zone day and night and wooden barriers, lighted at night, shut off the streets. The block in front of the Levine home was closed first and when Mr. Millhauser was stricken both blocks were shut off.

Canned or Bottled?

Max Lewandowski, owner of a saloon at 934 West Lake street, fired two shots at two men last night when he found them attempting to take some canned goods from a room at the rear of his saloon.

ROADS ON GUARD, BUT GRATIFIED BY ARMISTICE

Some Lines Modify Terms of Their Embargo Orders.

News of the railroad strike postponement, while received with evident gratification by Chicago railroad officials, did not serve to unscramble freight traffic conditions which embargoes, ordered by the roads in preparation for a strike, have brought about.

No roads threw their lines open for all business on the strength of the news. Lack of time to cancel embargoes and the fear that by tonight "absolute embargoes" might again be a necessity, caused railroad heads to leave their offices yesterday afternoon thankful for the respite, hopeful of a settlement, but unwilling to throw open their doors during the breathing spell.

"I Told You So."

Some of those who had foretold the delay were prone to adopt an "I told you so" attitude, but inquiry at their freight offices showed that strike embargoes on all except perishable freight were still in effect.

"The situation looks most hopeful," said Hale Holden, president of the Burlington. "It looks as if the union heads had realized the gravity of the situation facing the country, and also that the railroads can offer no concessions until the constitutionality of the Adamson law has been passed on."

Many roads modified their embargo orders, however. The Northwestern was the only road which announced a near return to normal conditions. Vice President Marvin Hughitt Jr., head of the operating department, said the Northwestern lines will accept all freight which may be delivered by Monday noon.

The New York Central, Chicago and Alton, Chicago, Milwaukee and Gary, Erie, Baltimore and Ohio Terminal, Indiana Harbor Belt line, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, which had ordered "absolute embargoes," modified these slightly to admit of acceptance of perishable freight which may be delivered before the walkout hour.

Action Roads Took.

On the Illinois Central, Santa Fé, Pennsylvania lines, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and Belt railway of Chicago freight was still being accepted, subject to strike delay. The Burlington continued to refuse all live stock but accepted perishables for delivery before Monday noon and subject to delay.

Among minor railroad officials there was a feverish activity when the good news came. There were hundreds of small orders, given as a strike preparation, to recall. Orders for special switching in yards controlled by the Switchmen's Union of America were countermanded. The Rock Island, which planned to plaster its property with notices warning against interference with property under the jurisdiction of the federal courts, decided to await developments. Plans for running big trains in one section, instead of two or three, were dropped.

The recruiting of strike breakers on behalf of four roads went on, however. These roads are said to be the Burlington, Northwestern, New York Central, and Michigan Central.

WILL SUIT OVER ST. LOUIS PAPER

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—A suit to construe the will of Miss Ellen McKee, chief owner of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who died twelve years ago, was filed in the Circuit court here today. The suit was brought by Andrew Hill of Barrytown, Mich., a cousin of Miss McKee.

The will provided that the majority stock of the Globe-Democrat should be held in trust by Charles H. McKee for twenty years and that a thirty-sixth of the dividends should be paid for the benefit of Mr. Hill or members of his family.

Mr. Hill has ten children, some of them married, and he contends that the married children are not members of his family in the meaning of the law and therefore are not entitled to any share of the dividends. Three of the children contested this point.

FOODS ON HAND IN CITY ENOUGH TO LAST WEEKS

Huge Stores of Meat and Grain Ready for Siege.

Even if the railroad strike is finally called, there is little reason why Chicago should suffer, at least for lack of any of the necessities of life.

So far as food is concerned, Chicago is the butcher shop of the world. The storage warehouses of the great packers at the stockyards alone contain a supply of fresh meat which is not equaled by that of any other city. There is enough hanging on the hooks at packing town to furnish twenty-five pounds of beef alone to every inhabitant. In addition, there are vast quantities of pork, veal, and lamb. Of poultry the supply in storage equals a per capita allowance of ten pounds.

Big Supply of Wheat.

Chicago, just now, also comes near being the world's greatest wheat center. There are something like 40,000,000 bushels of wheat in local elevators and on track in the city. If stocks of flour should run low there are mills in Chicago which probably could grind the wheat fast enough to keep anybody from going without bread.

The same situation exists in regard to almost all food products. Even in the matter of milk there is no doubt that, in the remote event that regular milk trains are stopped, a supply sufficient to keep children and invalids from any inconvenience could be brought into the city on the electric roads which run in from almost every point of the compass.

Use Motor Truck Trains.

In case of necessity, motor truck trains could be organized with sufficient carrying capacity to keep the babies from crying. Of eggs there are a couple of dozen in storage for everybody in town.

All it would require in case of an emergency would be economy on the part of the housewife and a decent spirit of coöperation among the dealers in foodstuffs. If there is no attempt to buy surplus foodstuffs for storage in the homes of the city there will be plenty to go around. And if dealers do not try to take advantage of the situation to raise prices there is no reason why there should be any undue advance.

No Dearth of Coal.

Even the coal situation would be by no means desperate. If a strike should last more than two or three days many factories would probably close down, thus releasing large stocks of coal for domestic use. The public utility corporations already have enormous supplies of fuel on hand, and there would be no chance of gas or electric light plants shutting down or of a stoppage of street cars.

There is no city in the world which could get along so easily for so long a time inside a high and solid wall.

Tardiness of passenger trains was excused by rail men, who said that in all possible cases passenger trains are being sidetracked to meet the demand for the movement of foodstuffs.

PUBLIC WORKS HAVE COAL FOR EIGHT DAYS' RUN

Commissioner of Public Works Frank I. Bennett yesterday completed checking up on the coal situation in Chicago and said that the city was in no immediate danger.

"We have about eight days' supply of coal on hand," said Mr. Bennett. "There is considerable coal on the tracks and most of the pumping stations are close to coal yards."

VETERAN ENGINE DRIVER CHARGES TRICK BY CHIEFS

Old Timer Says Young Men Seek Best Jobs, but Will Fail.

This is an old timer's story of why he believes the four great railway brotherhoods will defeat their own cause if they go on strike Monday night. The old timer is a veteran engineer in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road for thirty-three years, a man who drives one of the crack passenger trains on the St. Paul system.

In plain words he yesterday told a reporter that the veterans who have risen to top notches in railway service will oppose the walkout almost as a unit all over the country.

Charges Ulterior Motives.

Here is his story:

"We think that we old timers are not properly treated. I am talking of the old men who run engines. The young men are not running engines.

"Now when the brotherhoods took the strike vote two-thirds of the engineers did not vote to strike. But to make it two-thirds the brotherhood officials put in the votes of brakemen, switchmen, and conductors. The result was that the young men won, as they are in the majority. The young men want the strike because they see visions of getting good runs without long, hard years behind the firebox.

Irregularity Cited.

"There was another irregularity—when the matter of taking a strike vote was under consideration there should have been a referendum to obtain the consent of all to take the strike vote. But the referendum was not taken. Instead Chairman Stone said that it 'isn't necessary.' They didn't take the referendum because they knew that it would fail; and, when they took the strike vote, it was done under false pretenses.

"Now, who wants the strike; not the old timers. It is the young men. They haven't got the nerve to work like we old men to get the good jobs. It is proved that it is only the young men who want the strike, because the brotherhoods' officials refused to call out the passenger service engineers. It is only the old men who have the passenger runs and to call them out they knew would mean a revolt.

Threatens a Revolt.

"I don't believe there'll be a strike. But, if there is one, I can tell you now that the brotherhoods will defeat their own cause. They know that right here in Chicago and all over the country we old men will stand together, that we're not going to buck the company. We are treated right by the railway officials; all that troubles the young men is that they haven't got the jobs we have.

"If there is a strike, for two or three days you'll see these young men burn red fire and rally round their banners, then you'll find them seeking their old jobs. I know that on the Milwaukee road the strike could not last a month, and if one big road fails, the brotherhoods might just as well give up the ghost."

Jury Clears Wife of Bank Employe's Charge

Mrs. Julia Stanton, charged with drunkenness by James M. Stanton, manager of the safe deposit vaults of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, in a suit for divorce, was vindicated by a jury before Judge Charles M. Foell yesterday. They were married April 9, 1913, and separated July 9, 1915. Mrs. Stanton contested the suit.

SHERMAN URGES ANTI-STRIKE LAW IN EMERGENCIES

Suggests Walkouts Be Made Offense—View Sent to Gompers.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Senator Sherman of Illinois in a letter to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today suggested that it might be advisable to make it an offense to strike in time of war or the imminence of war or of other national emergency. On Feb. 2 Mr. Gompers wrote Senator Sherman the following letter:

"As the question of compulsory service of workmen by law for a specified or unspecified period, pending governmental investigation prior to such workers' lawful right to stop working—to strike—has received so much attention by congress as well as the press, we are desirous of securing an expression from you on this important subject. . . . Opinions of members of congress with reference to compulsory service are of special interest to wage earners whose welfare will be vitally affected by such legislation."

Changes Mind After Replying.

The senator replied to Mr. Gompers as follows:

"I am opposed to compulsory service of workmen for either a specified or unspecified period pending arbitration or investigation by the government or by a tribunal authorized by it. I was a workman and an employé of others during the earlier part of my life. It does not accord with my ideas of the rights of an American citizen to make his service compulsory. I think it not only impracticable but rankly unjust as a proposed remedy for industrial controversies."

When the railroad brotherhoods proceeded to call a strike at a time when the country is on the verge of war with Germany Senator Sherman decided that there are circumstances under which compulsory service of employés might be justified.

Calls Rail Strike Unjustified.

So today Mr. Sherman addressed the following letter to Mr. Gompers:

"On Feb. 3, answering your request under date Feb. 2, for a statement of my views on compulsory service of workmen pending government investigation, I said: . . . I was opposed to such legislation. In view of the threatened strike today, which will be operative . . . at a time when every department of the national government is exerting itself to prepare for imminent war, such a strike is unjustified. It may delay military and naval preparation so as to incur a needless loss of life or possible disasters. It is not only an inopportune time but is a menace to the public security.

"I take this occasion to say that if the railway strike contemplated occurs, it may lead me to modify my views on compulsory arbitration, at least so as to make it an offense to strike during a time of war or threatened war, and possibly extend it to other national emergencies."

SCHUETTLER CONFERS WITH RAIL OFFICIALS

Cautions the Companies Against Aggressiveness in Case of a Strike.

With the announcement that the railroad strike had been postponed forty-eight hours, 1,200 policemen on reserve duty throughout the city were dismissed yesterday and ordered to appear tomorrow afternoon. In districts which will be particularly affected by the strike order a few policemen were retained for reserve duty.

The delay in the strike gave a staff of city draftsmen an opportunity to prepare reserve duty maps for the police department. A staff under W. C. Houser, city draftsman, worked until late last night finishing maps of the city giving localities of roundhouses, terminals, freight yards, and track routes. The postponement also affords Maj. John Bauder, drillmaster of the department, an opportunity to perfect police plans for coping with the situation.

Earlier in the day thirty-seven officials and special agents of the railway lines were in conference with Chief of Police Schuettler and First Deputy Westbrook in the office of the chief.

Among Those Present.

Among those present at the conference, besides the chief special agents, representing every road, were:

C. B. Pratt, superintendent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway.

P. D. McManus, general superintendent of the Monon railway.

Elliott E. Nash, assistant superintendent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad.

U. E. Gillen, general superintendent of the western lines of the Grand Trunk railway.

Chief Asks Co-operation.

The railway representatives gave the chief information which he said later he did not care to make public. He said it was intended to aid the police in handling the strike, should it come.

The chief asked the cooperation of the railroad representatives and cautioned them against undue aggressiveness, declaring that no unjustifiable violence would be tolerated from either side. He warned the railroad men [illegible] hastily in filling the places of the men who are expected to strike, stating that most of the violence in strikes was due to this cause.

RECEIVERSHIPS LOOPHOLE FOR STRIKE QUIETUS

Government Considers the Step in Event Rail Rivals Balk Mediators.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—To maintain operation of the railroads under court receiverships, with protection by the armed forces of the government, is the measure to deal with the threatened general strike now being most favorably considered by the administration.

The application for protection by Receiver Dickinson of the Rock Island in Judge Carpenter's court in Chicago today was the first step taken to pave the way for general action of this character if the strike actually goes into effect and the administration finds no more feasible means of enforcing uninterrupted transportation.

Could Name Receivers.

There are several railroad systems already being administered under federal court jurisdiction by receivers. Administration officials say that it would be a simple matter for the government to cause other lines to be thrown into receiverships, which would be dissolved as soon as court protection against strikes ceased to be necessary.

The underlying theory of this plan is that a railroad, being operated by a federal court under receivership proceedings, is being operated by the government, which is obligated to employ all its powers and resources to maintain the service.

A strike on a receivership line would in effect be a strike against the government, and, according to the administration officials who favor the plan, it would be possible to indict the individuals participating in the strike for conspiracy against the government.

Contempt of Court.

Moreover, it is contended that a strike tying up transportation on a receivership road and making the court incapable of performing its functions would constitute contempt of court, notwithstanding the provisions of the Clayton act, designed to prevent strikers from being held amenable to contempt proceedings.

The Clayton law provides that no injunction shall be issued in a labor dispute between the employers and employés "unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right of the party making the application for which injury there is no adequate remedy at law."

No such injunction, the law provides, "shall prohibit any person or persons, whether singly or in concert, from terminating any relation of employment, or from ceasing to perform work of labor or from recommending, advising, or persuading others by peaceful means so to do."

Believed U. S. Can Act.

Under this act railroads could not procure an injunction of a threatened strike, but it is considered that the law does not inhibit the government from applying for such injunction of courts administering railroads under receivership proceedings from issuing such restraining orders upon their own initiative or holding in contempt any persons who hamper the judicial receivership function in any manner.

Administration officials are hopeful that the postponement of the strike for forty-eight hours will favor a peaceful settlement. The Supreme court may give its decision on the constitutionality of the Adamson act on Monday.

If the law is held valid the strike menace will disappear at once. If the act is found unconstitutional it is expected the brotherhoods will proceed to strike unless the railroads surrender or offer concessions which could be made the basis of further negotiations.

What Will Court Do?

Half of legal Washington believed tonight that the Supreme court cannot afford to hand down its opinion in the Adamson eight hour law case Monday in the face of "intimations" from labor men that the court will be given an "opportunity" of letting its decision be known before a railroad strike is effective. The legal experts, however, who favor Monday believe the court is ready to hand down its opinion.

The other half feels that the court would lay itself open to "boasting by radicals" that the court had been "reached" by open threats and forced to hand down an opinion. Such a situation, they held, would embarrass the country, and would destroy much of the carefully developed idea that threats will not hurry the highest court in the country.

LIFE IN A HOTEL

She Goes Home and He Defends Her from Gossip to the Extent of a Fist Fight and a $10,000 Suit.

WOMEN TATTLE AND MEN BATTLE TO $10,000 SUIT

Ralph C. Bennett, Ex-Hoyne Aid, Sues Sidney H. Boynton.

Ralph C. Bennett, former assistant state's attorney, announced yesterday that he would file a suit for $10,000 damages tomorrow against Sidney H. Boynton, manufacturer, with offices in the Monadnock building.

The suit will mark the climax of a feud between the two men which resulted in a personal encounter in the lobby of the fashionable Gladstone hotel at 6200 Kenwood avenue on Feb. 18.

Mr. Bennett was married last May to Miss Rebecca Pallette of 4818 Sheridan road after a five weeks courtship. The couple lived at the Gladstone. They have been living apart for a few months. Mrs. Bennett is with her parents.

Sharp Tongues Wag.

The separation caused gossip at the Gladstone and Mr. Bennett, it is said, warned Mrs. Boynton against talking about his domestic affairs. Mr. Boynton said Mr. Bennett snapped his fingers in Mrs. Boynton's face and threatened her with action in court.

Mr. Boynton upon his return from a visit to Texas met Mr. Bennett in the dining room. He asked him to accompany him outside. Mr. Bennett refused the invitation. Mr. Boynton then knocked Mr. Bennett down and the two men indulged in a rough and tumble affair before crowded tables.

Mr. Bennett had Mr. Boynton arrested and Judge Trude on March 15 fined Mr. Boynton $100. In court Mr. Bennett testified he had not snapped his fingers in Mrs. Boynton's face, but had protested against her reflecting upon his character in hotel gossip.

All Around Athlete.

Mr. Bennett was graduated from Yale with the highest honors in 1912. He previously had graduated from the Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington. At both colleges he won fame as an all around athlete. He later became head of the law department of the University of Oregon. Since his service in the office of State's Attorney Hoyne he has been teaching in Webster College of Law and the Chicago Business college.

His mother, Mrs. Clara C. Bennett of 2424 Augusta street, is assistant principal of the Burr school on Wabansia avenue, near Ashland avenue. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Pallette.

Frank Priska, 1149 West Adams street, was at the telephone in John Maskell's saloon, 1159 West Adams street, when a tall man, coatless, wearing a cap, entered the place. He pulled a revolver out of his pocket and "covered" Priska.

One of the men at the bar, Peter Johnson, 1151 Monroe street, leaped at the intruder and wrenched his arm away. Priska joined in the struggle. There was a shot and Johnson dropped. The armed man leaped over the bar, emptied the cash register of its contents—about $25 in cash—and fled.

Maskell got his own revolver and fired five shots at the retreating figure, none of which took effect.

Johnson probably will die.

Girl's Thieving Mania Almost Rivals Magpie's

Annie Shafarski, 15 years old, 5721 South Talman avenue, who, the police say, is a kleptomaniac, was arrested in the basement of the home of Mrs. Burt Thurn, 5718 South Maplewood avenue, yesterday. When arrested the girl had an election pollbook of the Forty-third precinct of the Twenty-ninth ward, a cash book, and a thermometer. The thermometer, the Englewood police say, was stolen in a store owned by Joseph Sarsfield, 2257 West Garfield boulevard. She was arrested about a year ago for the theft of jewelry valued at $150.

"WE'RE LOYAL," IS MILWAUKEE REPLY TO SLURS

Milwaukee, Wis., March 17.—Resolutions pledging loyalty to President Wilson in whatever step he may take in protecting American lives and rights in the present international crisis were adopted at a massmeeting of more than 7,000 persons tonight, called by the citizens' committee for the purpose "of offsetting reports that Milwaukee is disloyal."

Senator Paul O. Husting and Representative I. L. Lenroot were the principal speakers. The senator said the size of the audience should convince the country that Milwaukee is not a German city or Wisconsin a German province, as he said had been reported in the east.

Congressman Lenroot declared that he considered it the duty of every American to uphold the president. He said the news of the loyalty meeting, held in the center of German population in the United States, might have an important bearing on the future policy of the German government.

A few attempts were made to heckle teh speakers, but these were quickly suppressed.

UNION LEADERS HERE PASS WORD ON; MARK TIME

Ready to Quit to a Man, Timothy Shea Asserts.

Local chiefs of the railroad unions rested from their strike planning activities last night for the first time in many hours.

Following the receipt of the postponement order from New York, the transmission of it here to local chairmen and by them to the men in the various railroad yards, Timothy Shea and the other subchiefs in charge of the brotherhood affairs in Chicago prepared to "mark time."

Late last night Mr. Shea made the following statement:

"Every brotherhood member in Chicago has been notified of the postponement order. Glad of it? No, on the contrary they were disappointed. Every man had steam up to go on strike on schedule time, and was waiting quietly at the throttle. Had the strike gone into effect there wouldn't be a wheel turning in Chicago tonight so far as railroad freight service is concerned.

Blames Railroads.

"We are all pleased to hear of the possibility of a settlement being reached, however, if such a settlement carries with it the granting of the eight hour day. I don't see how the railroads can afford to permit a rupture at this time, because they are responsible for this controversy on their failure to put the Adamson law into effect—the law recommended by President Wilson."

Mr. Shea was given the postponement order over the long distance telephone by President Carter of the firemen's brotherhood. Later it was transmitted by Presidents Sheppard of the conductors, Lee of the trainmen, and Stone of the engineers to Vice Presidents Turner, Murdock, and Burgess, in conference with Mr. Shea at the time.

The Official Order.

An agreement has been made with the United States government mediation board representing President Wilson and the national conference committee of the railways for the postponement of the effective date of the strike in the Chicago switching district from 6 p. m. Saturday until 6 p. m. Monday, and unless a satisfactory settlement is reached in the meantime the strike will automatically go on at that hour.

Mr. Shea explained that the postponement extended only to such districts as would have gone on strike previous to Monday and that in the event of a failure of negotiations all the districts scheduled for a strike on and after Monday would go out as already ordered and the districts scheduled before Monday would automatically go out without further orders.

SWEET 28 SUES FICKLE 83 FOR MILLION BUCKS

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Admission was made today at the office of Martin Littleton, attorney for John B. Manning, that Miss Honora May O'Brien had filed an action for $1,000,000 damages in Queens county Supreme court. She charges Manning with having broken his promise to marry her.

Rumor of the litigation was received last December when it was publicly announced that Manning, because of the influence brought to bear upon him by his children, had jilted his former secretary, Miss O'Brien. A difference of fifty-five years in their ages, it was announced, was the real reason for "calling off" the proposed marriage. He is 83 and she is 28.

Manning is reputed to be worth more than $15,000,000. Since his first wife died, in 1905, he has lived with an unmarried son and daughter.

Mother Gets Child Cared For by Grandparents

Judge Thomson yesterday ordered that 4 year old Anita Krubeck, held at the home of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Krubeck Sr., since the filing of a bill for divorce by Mrs. Elizabeth Krubeck against John Krubeck Jr., be given into the care of her mother. Mrs. Krubeck's bill for divorce charges cruelty. Krubeck is a tailor at 751 Belmont avenue.

COST

Railroad Strike Preparations Cost Brotherhoods $750,000, According to Estimates.

Efforts to bring about an eight hour day have cost the four railroad brotherhoods more than three-quarters of a million dollars during the last year, according to railroad officials.

The brotherhood heads have consistently refused to discuss the cost of their fight. It is known, however, that 650 general chairmen were in session for ninety days last summer and that they were paid at the rate of $10 a day. It is therefore argued that this item alone must have cut into the brotherhoods' strongbox to the tune of $585,000. Expenses incident to the strike vote were $250,000, it is said. One estimate put the total cost at $1,000,000.

"I cannot talk about the cost of the fight, but $1,000,000 is out of the question. The cost was much less than that," said Timothy Shea, spokesman for the brotherhoods in the west.

FEDERAL COURT PLEDGES AID TO RAILWAY CHIEFS

Jacob M. Dickinson, receiver of the Rock Island lines, and William J. Jackson, receiver o fthe Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, yesterday applied to Federal Judge George A. Carpenter for protection of the respective properties and of such employés as may remain in the service or shall be employed in event of strike. Judge Carpenter gave assurance that this would be done to the full extent of the power of the court.

United States Marshal John J. Bradley was called into the conference. The receivers wired to Attorney General Gregory for coöperation. It is expected that all employés will be sworn in as deputy marshals.

Federal Judge Carpenter returned to Chicago on Friday night from California because of the railway strike crisis.

Judge Carpenter declined to comment on the situation, beyond saying that the plan of action announced is precautionary.

"We believe a vast number of the railway employés will stick to their jobs," said Mr. Dickinson, "and with the authority of United States deputy marshals vested in them they will be in position to protect themselves."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Mr. Jackson.

"The orders of the court will be carried out so far as this office is concerned, and to the full letter of their meaning," said Marshal Bradley. "My orders are to swear in special deputies from the ranks of the loyal employés of the railroads if it is necessary."

Judge Carpenter called attention to the injunction he issued when he appointed Mr. Dickinson receiver for the Rock Island. This injunction restrains "all persons, firms, or corporations" from interfering with or disturbing the property while it is in the hands of the receiver.

Beat Mother's Telegrams; Take Vows Before Judge

Love laughed at telegrams yesterday when Miss Velva Taylor, 19 years old, of Terre Haute, Ind., fearing her mother might have telegraphed to her old friend, Judge Stelk, accompanied Floyd Samuel Campbell, 22 years old, of 2 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, to the courtroom of Superior Judge J. J. Sullivan and took her marriage vows.

Mrs. J. E. Taylor, the girl's mother, lived up to expectations, but while Judge Stelk was endeavoring to prevent the marriage Attorney Gordon Berg was arranging with Judge Sullivan to perform the ceremony.

Attorney Berg and the bridegroom's mother were witnesses. The newlyweds will reside in Chicago.

JEWELRY LURE TRAPS JANITOR IN THEFT ACT

Trapped by a dictograph, Louis Orsini, 38 years old, 1121 South Wabash avenue, a janitor employed in the McCormick building, 332 South Michigan boulevard, was arrested early yesterday by waiting detectives while in the act of stealing jewelry left as a lure for the thief.

Eugene F. McDonald, head of E. F. McDonald & Co., automobile dealers, with offices in room 1739 in the McCormick building, left jewels valued at $15,000 in a drawer in his desk Thursday night. He had intended placing the gems in the vault, but it had been locked before he left the office. When he returned Friday morning, a diamond pin valued at $1,000 was missing.

Calls In Detectives.

He notified the detective bureau, and Detective Sergts. Gregory Moran and Thomas Loftus were assigned to investigate. They decided the theft had been committed by an employé of the building. They had a dictograph installed in McDonald's office. The wires of the instrument led to a room on the eighteenth floor, the windows of which commanded a partial view of the offices.

Mr. McDonald baited the trap with jewelry, and the detectives and Mr. McDonald began a vigil in the upper room Friday night.

At 9 o'clock the dictograph informed them that some one had entered the McDonald offices. From their point of vantage they saw Orsini go to Mr. McDonald's desk, throw up the roll top, and open the drawer in which the spurious gems reposed. He fingered the jewels for some time, examined them closely, and put them back in the drawer. The detectives made no arrest at that time. They wished to see if Orsini had any confederates who might return with him.

Wait All Night.

They waited all night. Again the dictograph recorded the opening of the door of the McDonald offices at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Again the watchers from the window saw Orsini open the drawer and take out the jewels. They descended upon him and arrested him, it is said, as he was placing the gems in his pocket.

When the detectives burst in upon him Orsini apparently was engaged industriously in dusting off Mr. McDonald's desk. Charged with the theft of the $1,000 pin the night before, he is said to have admitted it.

The detectives later searched his room at his lodgings and in a trunk found a bank book showing deposits of $1,700, a number of silver cigaret cases, and odds and ends of jewelry. Orsini declared the bank book represented his savings and the trinkets, he said, he had found in wastebaskets in the building.

Orsini's arrest, the detectives believe, has cleared the mystery of a series of thefts in the offices of the building which have been going on for several months. The C. A. Goodyear Lumber company, it is said, was robbed of $106 last week.

Equestrian Association's Banquet.

Col. Milton J. Foreman, Charles E. Wacker, William E. Mason, and other famous horsemen will address the banquet of the Chicago Equestrian association at the Congress hotel on Wednesday evening. There will be a program of music which will be followed by dancing. John Williamson is president of the association. John S. Hummer will act as toastmaster.

Official Reports Tell How British and French Have Swept Way Forward.

FRENCH FRONT

BRITISH.

LONDON, March 17.—Bapaume has been captured by our troops after stiff fighting with the German guard. The town has been systematically pillaged by the enemy. All private houses and public buildings alike have been destroyed and everything of value carried off or burned.

Our advance has proceeded rapidly during the day on both banks of the Somme. South of the river we have entered the enemy's positions on a front of about sixteen miles and occupied the villages of Fresnes, Horgny, Villers-Carbonelle, Barleux, Eterpigny, and La Maisonnette.

North of the river, in addition to the town of Bapaume, we are in possession of the villages of Le Transloy, Biefvillers, Bihucourt, Achiet-le-Grand, Achiet-le-Petit, Ablainsevelle, Bucquoy, and Essarts. We also hold Quesnoy farm, 1,500 yards northeast of the last named village, and have gained the western and northwestern defenses of Monchy-au-Bois.

We carried out successful raids this morning east and northeast of Arras. The enemy's support line was reached and two machine guns and a number of prisoners captured, A hostile raiding party was driven off during the night northeast of Vermelles.

FRENCH.

PARIS, March 17.—Along the whole front, between Andechy and the Oise (about fifteen miles), the enemy, declining battle, abandoned under the pressure of our troops powerfully and skillfully fortified lines, which they had held for more than two years.

Today our advance movement continued rapidly. Our advance guard entered Roye, pursuing an enemy contingent which blew up crossings and streets in the interior section. About 800 of the civil population, whom the Germans did not have time to remove, greeted our soldiers with enthusiasm.

North and northeast of Lassigny, which we likewise occupied, we have reached at several points, and even advanced beyond the road between Roye and Noyon. In the course of our pursuit we made prisoners, who have not yet been counted.

Quite violent artillery fighting took place in Champagne, in the region of Maisons de Champagne and on the right bank of the Meuse, in the sector of Les Chambrettes and the Caurieres wood. On the left bank of the Meuse we directed destructive fires effectively against the German organization in the region of Avocourt. There is nothing to report on the rest of the front.

DAY REPORT.

PARIS, March 17.—North of the Avre and between the Avre and the Oise our detachments continued to exert vigorous pressure on the enemy and during the night extended their progress on a front of thirteen miles and to a depth at certain points exceeding two and one-half miles. We took 100 prisoners.

Northwest of Berry-Au-Bac, after the spirited bombardment reported in the communication of yesterday, the Germans attacked our lines. The attack broke down under our fire. Certain enemy detachments which succeeded in penetrating part of a trench were ejected immediately with the bayonet.

East of Reims our grenadiers checked promptly enemy attacks on small posts. In the region west of Maisons de Champagne we made considerable progress in grenade fighting during the night and captured several portions of trenches. Heavy artillery fighting continued throughout this sector and in the vicinity of Auberive.

East of the Meuse there was spirited fighting yesterday and last night. In the region of Chambrettes farm several enemy attempts against one of our trenches were finally repulsed after a series of advances and retreats. The Germans suffered in several surprise attacks.

We made several successful surprise attacks west of the Meuse in Cheppy wood, Le Pretre wood, and near Regnauville, west of Pont-A-Mousson, and also in Alsace at Sudekopf, where we took 150 prisoners.

GERMAN—

BERLIN, March 17.—Between La Bassee canal and the Ancre there was lively artillery fire. At several points British reconnoitering detachments were repulsed.

Between Sailly and St. Pierre Vaast wood, British, and between Beuavraignes and Lassigny, French detachments settled in trenches which had been abandoned by us according to our plan.

On the Aisne front an enterprise in the forefield enabled us to bring in thirty-five prisoners. In the Champagne there was strong artillery fire for a time. An attack of a French company west of Tahure failed. Between the Meuse and the Moselle German thrusting detachments at four different places brought in prisoners from the enemy's lines.

In a successful surprise attack near Moncel, on the Lorraine frontier, twenty Frenchmen were taken prisoner.

In the Artois sector, between the Avre and the Oise, and on the east bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) there has been temporarily spirited fighting.

BELGIAN.

PARIS, March 17.—Belgian communication—Bomb fighting was characterized by great intensity in the region of Dixmude, in the direction of the ferryman's house, and at Steenstraet. During the day the reciprocal bombardment was resumed with violence in the neighborhood of Dixmude.

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN.

ROME, March 17.—In the Adige valley zone yesterday there was intense artillery activity on both sides. Our artillery bombarded the railway station at Culliano and enemy cantonments in the environs of Villa Lagarina. During minor encounters of infantry attackers Serravalle, Val Lagarina, on the slopes of Monte Sief, in the upper Cordevole, near the lower Studena, at Ponteblana Fella, and on the heights of Hill 126, on the borders of the Carso plateau, we repulsed some enemy groups and made some prisoners.

AUSTRIAN.

VIENNA, March 17.—Artillery duels have been revived in several sectors. East of Monte Forni, at the north of the Asiago plateau, detachments of the Twenty-seventh infantry regiment, advancing through snow tunnels, penetrated into the hostile trenches, destroyed the dugouts, inflicted considerable losses upon the Italians, and captured twenty-two Alpine soldiers and two machine guns.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

GERMAN.

BERLIN, March 17.—French attacks between Lakes Ochrida and Presby and northeast of Monastir were repulsed. North of that town the fighting continues.

North of Monastir new engagements are going on. A British battalion occupied the railroad station at Poroy, situated before our protecting lines east of Doiran lake.

RUSSIAN FRONT

GERMAN.

BERLIN, March 17.—No engagements of importance are transpiring on the eastern front, where the severe cold continues. North of Stanislau and south of Solotvina a successful enterprise of thrusting detachments brought in 106 prisoners, six machine guns, and one mine thrower.

AVIATION

FRENCH.

PARIS, March 17.—At 5:30 o'clock this morning Zeppelin L-39, which had come from a flight in the region of Paris, was reached at a height of 3,500 meters by our anti-aircraft guns while above Compiegne. The L-39 fell in flames on a garden wall. Neither the fall of the machine nor the explosion of the bombs caused damage. The airship was completely wrecked.

Yesterday our pursuit airplanes were particularly active. Numerous engagements were fought by our pilots, and eight enemy airplanes were brought down. Three of these machines were destroyed by Capt. Guynemer, falling in flames within our lines. This brings up to thirty-four the number of German airplanes which this officer has destroyed up to the present time. Lieut. Doulin brought down his twelfth airplane within our lines on the same day.

The ninth enemy airplane was shot down by the fire of our special cannon, falling to earth in the region of Corbeny, in the Aisne.

Last night our air squadrons bombarded enemy organizations in the region of Arnaville and factories and blast furnaces at Wolklingen, where a great fire started, as well as stations and roads in the region of Ham and St. Quentin. All of our airplanes returned in safety.

In reprisal for the setting afire of Bapaume, one of the airplanes today bombarded the town of Frankfort-on-the-Main.

BRITISH.

LONDON, March 17.—An encounter took place yesterday between a patrol of eight of our airplanes and sixteen enemy machines, with the result that in twenty minutes' fighting the hostile formation was broken up. Two German airplanes were destroyed and two others driven down damaged. All our machines returned.

GERMAN.

On the morning of March 16 a German seaplane successfully dropped bombs on the railroad station and sheds at Margate (Kent, England). Two large fires were observed by the pilot.

German airplanes brought down sixteen entente machines. Lieut. von Richthofen disabled his twenty-sixth hostile airplane, which he forced to the ground near Vimy; Lieut. Baldamus brought down his twelfth machine east of Rouvroy, and Lieut. Pfeiffer defeated his ninth adversary east of Bersieus. Two captive balloons also were destroyed.

The air squadron of the late Capt. Boelcke brought down its 100th machine.

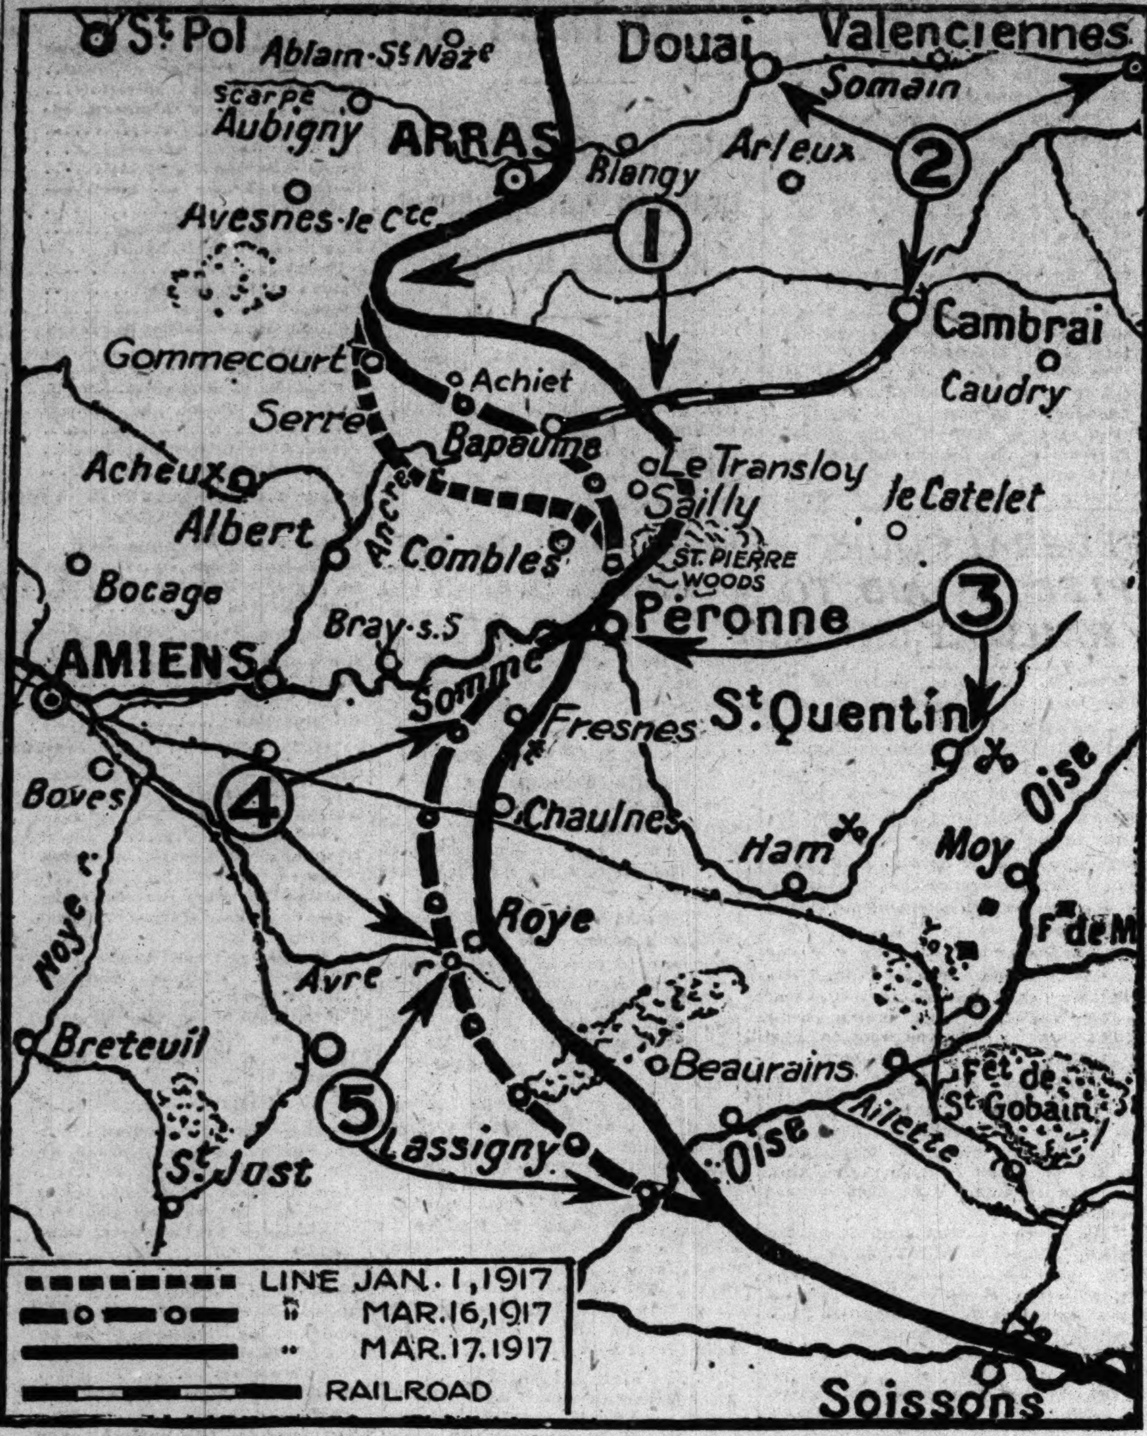
German aviators by air attacks brought down four captive balloons in flames.

AUSTRIAN.

VIENNA, March 17.—Our naval air squadrons before dawn attacked the military establishments at Avlona (Albania) and dropped more than 1,200 kilograms of explosives with visible effect. Extensive fires were observed. All the machines returned unharmed.

VON HINDENBURG'S RETREAT FROM "GIBRALTAR"

Where the British and French Take Important Positions and More Than a Dozen Towns Long Held by the Germans.



1—The British advanced on a front from Le Transloy and Sailly to a point north of Gommecourt, capturing, besides Le Transloy and Sailly, the important fortress of Bapaume and the villages of Biefoillers, Bibucourt, Achiet-le-Grand, Achiet-le-Petit, Oblainzeville, Bucquoy, Essarts, Monchy au Bois, and Quesnoy farm, all west of Bapaume.

2—The fall of Bapaume imperils Douai, Valenciennes, and Cambrai, and the Bapaume-Cambrai railroad.

3—Peronne is now said to be untenable and its fall is next in order. The German base at St. Quentin is expected to drop back.

4—Below Peronne, on the south end of the British line to Roye, the Germans lost the villages of La Maisonette, Eterpigny, Barleux, Villers, Carbonnel, Horgny, and Fresnes. Roye itself was captured by a joint French-British attack.

5—Between the River Avre at Roye and the Oise east of Lassigny, the French advanced a varying depth of several miles, capturing Lassigny and road arteries indicating that the Germans must retreat from the whole of the Noyons salient.

GERMANS LOSE ON 60 MILE LINE OF FRENCH FRONT

Bapaume and Roye Among Strong Points Which Have Fallen.

important railroads running to Cambrai and Arras.

Bapaume having failed to fulfil the function of a pivot for the German retirement, the Germans are now trying to effect their main resistance along the dominating ridge near Peronne. If this is unsuccessful, as the sweeping advance of the British and French indicates, Soissons must become the pivot for the withdrawal.

Bapaume Historic Place.

The British efforts to take Bapaume have been greatly accelerated during several weeks past by the great retirement operation of the Germans on the Somme front, beginning late in February. From day to day with only brief intervals the retirement has been kept up, assisted at times by strong pressure from the British, until early this week the British forces stood at the very doors of the town, occupying the commanding ridge lying just west of it.

The town, which had a population of 3,000 before the war, is a place of historical note. It was the scene of a hard battle between the French and Germans during the Franco-Prussian war on Jan. 3, 1871, the Germans after the struggle falling back behind the Somme.

Armies have struggled in or near it in wars since the time of Louis XI., and it is related that its capture by the French during the thirty years' war was effected on Jan. 13, 1645, by no less a person than the D'Artagnan of the Dumas romances.

Result of War Council.

Reports of the great movement today give every indication that the Germans' original plans of retirement have been completely upset by the rapidity of the British and French pursuit. Never before have the two allied commands worked in closer harmony and conjunction.

It was probably during the visit of Gens. Haig and Nivelle in London this week that this plan of copartnership was evolved, leading to a singleness of effort and at the same time preventing any question of precedence arising between the two commanders.

Whole Salient to Cave.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 17.—Whether the German retreat means the evacuation of the entire Noyons salient—whether it is merely the enemy's first step toward bringing about a war of movement or whether it is merely a delaying feint to gain time and delay the opening of the allies' gigantic offensive—is the subject of analytical articles by the various leading Paris military writers.

Regardless of what Gen. von Hindenburg may plan, the French writers agree he will be unable to maintain and hold the Noyon salient—marking the nearest German forces to Paris—and must continue falling back to a new line.

The unwillingness of Von Hindenburg to attempt to stand on his original lines and weather the allies' blows, as he did last summer at the Somme, proves the terrible losses which the Germans sustained throughout the tremendous hammering by the allies' new artillery and indicates that, despite the "strategic reserve," he dare not waste more divisions in a give and take warfare.

Valparaiso Alumni Elect.

Chicago alumni of Valparaiso university elected the following officers last night: President, E. D. Brothers; vice president, J. B. Chizum; secretary, Charlotte W. Becker; treasurer, Jesse T. Wilson. The annual meeting was held at Hotel Sherman.

"FOR RUSSIA"

Czar, in Abdicating, Says He Quits Throne in Order That Nation May Be United and Victorious.

PETROGRAD, March 7.—Czar Nicholas, abdicated ruler of all Russia, has issued this manifesto:

"To All Our Faithful Subjects:

"It is well known in the days of the great struggle against a foreign enemy who has been endeavoring for three years to enslave our country that it has pleased God to send Russia further painful trial.

"Internal troubles threatened fatally to affect the further progress of this obstinate war and to affect Russia's destinies.

"Her heroic army, the happiness of the people, the whole future of the beloved fatherland demand that the war should be conducted at all costs to a victorious end.

"The cruel enemy is making his last efforts. The moment is near when our valiant army, in concert with our glorious allies, will finally overthrow the enemy.

"In these decisive days we realize we owe to the people a close union and organization of all forces for realization of a rapid victory.

"Therefore, in agreement with the imperial duma, we recognize it is for the country's good that we should abdicate the crown and lay down supreme power.

"Not wishing to separate ourselves from our beloved son we bequeath the heritage to our brother, the Grand Duke Michael, with our blessing for the future throne, that he may govern it in full union with the national representatives and take inviolate oath to them in the name of our well beloved fatherland.

"We call all faithful sons of the fatherland to fulfill their sacred patriotic duty of obeying the czar at this painful moment of national trials, and to aid him, together with the nation's representatives, to conduct the Russian state in the way of prosperity and glory.

"May God help Russia!"

RUSSIANS SPLIT IN TWO FACTIONS ON THE FUTURE

Duma Committee and the More Radical Men Hope to Reach Agreement.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PETROGRAD, March 17.—Now that the revolution is successful, all Russia is awaiting the outcome of the struggle between the moderate duma committee and the more radical revolutionary committee, which are trying to come to an understanding so as to gain the most possible from the revolt and at the same time bring it to a quick end so that the course of the war will not be interfered with.

I visited the Toryde palace, where the committees were in session. The usually calm parliamentary hall was jammed with soldiers and dozens of committees on provisions and munitions were making extemporary speeches.

Outside swirling crowds were cheering incendiary speeches. Coatless students were directing everything over the whole scene. The revolutionary air is surely unmatched since the French revolution.

I went with Frenchmen, and everywhere we were greeted by the students with shouts of "Frenchmen! Americans! friends of liberty; friends in the name of the revolution."

The Marseillaise, which was not permitted even in the houses a week ago, is played by every band arriving with the troops.

Seek Moderate Action.

Members of the duma, friends of mine, told me of the attempt being made to induce moderation on the part of the revolutionary party, whose demands were limitless.

As the day progressed, greater and greater crowds gathered and were led by students in cheering and supporting the revolutionary committee meeting within. When I left the duma at nightfall I found the streets full of crowds of others coming from a distance, hoping by showing the popularity of the movement to induce the cooler duma members to go further.

The most conspicuous feature was the growing importance taken by the bodies of workmen, led by students, who were appealing to the committees to take radical measures. The moderates, however, wished to get quick results.

Officers Again in Control.

Officers once more command in Petrograd. The city is under the command of the duma military committee, which also has its headquarters in the Toryde palace, making that corner of the city, where the revolution began, the center of the city.

There are remarkable changes in the aspect of the city. All day I have not heard a single shot. The irregular sniping, which continued yesterday, largely for fun, is over. The city is in the hands of regular soldiers. No civilians except students in uniform are carrying arms. The streets are absolutely safe and tranquil. This shows that the men who are handling the difficult situation are strong, and it also indicates the single mindedness of the people and the soldiers.

The entire journal issued today by the official committee is addressed to "the workingmen and soldier deputies." Its whole tone is equality.

Happy in Braving Cold.

Many shops are closed and there are longer lines than ever before all the stores today, but everywhere there are happy faces in spite of the cold and snow and the necessity of waiting all day in the open air. The prices of sugar, tea, butter, and other eatables is almost normal, after months of high prices. I saw butter sold today for one-tenth of the price of a week ago. Food is coming in in plenty, the trains are running, and, in most respects, the life of Russia is normal.

Everything I hear leads me to the belief that this has been a coup d'etat. For three days the whole country has been under the red flag, and the unanimity of opinion is remarkable.

GUYNEMER AGAIN PROVES HIMSELF ACE OF THE AIR

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 17.—Capt. Georges Guynemer, the French "ace of the air," demonstrated again yesterday his claim to the title of world's premier aviator by dashing a trio of German machines to earth in three combats during the space of an hour. The intrepid, slightly built youth who travels in the fastest man made vehicle ever constructed took the air after several weeks of resting up and immediately apprised the enemy of his presence.

Climbing to a tremendous altitude, he flew well inside the German lines and darted on a big two gun Fokker, keeping above it so the German machine guns were useless and sniping off both of its wings with his own mitrailleuse.

As the Fokker plunged to earth Guynemer turned his machine upward and bagged a second German machine by his repeated feat of shooting through the floor of the enemy machine. This endangers him, as the other aeroplane is likely to fall upon him, but Guynemer always has escaped so far.

The third German machine was destroyed when it tried to lure Guynemer down within range of the German antiaircraft guns. The Frenchman pretended to start into the trap, then suddenly accelerated his speed and shot the enemy machine to pieces before the latter had time to turn and fire back.

LOYALISTS WIN SANTIAGO CLASH

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 17.—The first skirmish between government forces and rebels since the landing of loyal troops at Santiago was won by the soldiers of President Menocal. The clash resulted from steps taken to prevent the destruction of the pumps at the city water supply station early today. Bombs intended for blowing up the pumps were captured.

Santiago is quiet. The American forces still hold their positions in the city, while the Cuban forces have taken up positions in the outskirts.

"THE LADY FROM MONTANA"

That Is What She Will Be Called Soon in the Halls of Congress.

Miss Jeannette Rankin

The Sphinx from Montana might be the new name for Miss Jeanette Rankin, the woman congressman, who arrived at the Blackstone yesterday looking fresh, pink cheeked, and alive, fully equal to the work which she has undertaken. She was modishly gowned in black, with a large black hat which is the very last word in spring millinery, and she was charming and gracious and communicative about everything except the things the reporters wanted most to hear. She refused to tell anything about what she is going to do in congress, except that she is to work with might and main for woman's suffrage, child welfare, and absolute prohibition.

"I feel that I am a symbol of the woman's suffrage cause," she said. "Like a 'votes for women' banner. Every time the senators and congressmen see me they will remember that women are now a power in the politics of the country. The men of my state recognized this, and they were wonderful at the time of my election. But one of my chief interests in Washington will be the work of the child bureau and protection of the workers."

Miss Rankin has numerous purely feminine interests which she hopes to have some time for in her Washington home, where she will keep house for her mother and a younger sister, Miss Edna Rankin, now a law student at Missoula, Mont. She is a good cook and a famous seamstress. A year ago she went to New Zealand to study the conditions among working women there and was able to raise the scale of wages for dressmakers from 6 to 12 shillings a day by taking a position as a dressmaker at one of the fashionable shops. She is also a good horsewoman.

After the lecture at Orchestra hall tomorrow there will be a reception, at which the public will have a chance to see the "Lady from Montana."

DROPS "GERMAN" IN BANK'S NAME

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—The German-American Trust and Savings bank, one of the oldest and largest financial institutions here, today filed a petition in the Superior court asking permission to change the name to "Guaranty Trust and Savings bank," because "the significance of the name is often misconstrued by the public," among other reasons.

U-BOAT RAMMED; SHOT AT LAPLAND

New York, March 17.—A British patrol boat pounced on and sank a German submarine which launched a torpedo at the White Star liner Lapland as it was putting into Liverpool on its eastern trip, officers of the ship reported when it returned to this port today. The torpedo missed the liner by twenty feet. The patrol boat convoy of the liner rammed the U-boat, which turned over and sank.

AUSTRIA SEEKS AN ARMISTICE WITH RUSSIA?

Emperor Is Reported to Be Anxious to Arrange with Cabinet.

LONDON, March 17.—Dispatches from Vienna, according to the Exchange Telegraph company's correspondent at The Hague, say that the German chancellor was received this morning by the Austrian emperor and empress at the Luxemburg castle, near Vienna. Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg had a long conference with Emperor Charles jointly with Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, chiefly with reference to the Russian situation.

Political circles in Vienna, the dispatch adds, are considering the possibility of entering into negotiations with the Russian cabinet, with a view to an armistice. Emperor Charles is anxious about the matter. The German chancellor will leave Vienna Saturday night for Berlin and will immediately visit the German emperor at headquarters.

Puzzle to Vienna.

VIENNA, March 16, via London, March 17.—The news of the revolution in Petrograd produced the greatest sensation here, but there is no official inclination to pass judgment upon the probable effect on the war. The general opinion here is that the course of the war at least will be influenced by the moral effect of the Petrograd coup, because its swiftness and extent has introduced a new factor in the world's political and military activities.

Responsible circles here withhold any statement regarding the extent to which the revolution may influence the military operations on the east front in the immediate future. Much would depend, they say, on what the old Russian régime will do. Some are inclined to believe that the emperor will accept the new state of affairs, while others express the opinion that the deposed factions will move against their liberal adversaries and in so doing cause a civil war, the results of which might be far reaching.

Watch Result on Army.

There also is much speculation as to what effect the news of the revolution will have on the Russian troops on the fighting front. Many incline to the belief that the Liberals plan, by their act, to augment Russians' participation in the war, but it is felt here that they will get scant sympathy from the men in the trenches, and that the soldiers would readily support the old government if by so doing they could bring peace nearer.

All the press comment in Vienna and Budapest runs in this channel. The newspapers generally warn the public not to expect too much from the events in Petrograd. Today's Vienna Tageblatt epitomizes this advice as follows:

"Let us keep our eye open, our powder dry, and our rifles in readiness."

GERMANS RETURN 13,000 BELGIANS

ROME, March 17.—Germany has acceded to Pope Benedict's pleas for repatriation of Belgians deported from their country by returning 13,000 out of 80,000 deported, according to the newspaper Corriere D'Italia today.

The German government, however, has intimated that no further repatriations will be made beyond the 13,000 announced.

RADICALS FORM PART OF DANGER TO NEW RUSSIA

English Leader Says the Socialists May Bring Menace.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 17.—In a statement published today an important English public man, especially well informed regarding the Russian situation and having the most up to date knowledge of events there, said the success of the revolution depends on the formation of a truly national government.

"No matter how perfect any constitution adopted may be," he emphatically asserted, "it can only succeed by establishing a decent administration of Russian affairs. At present it might be said wholly new machinery is being installed in its place.

Much Depends on Socialists.

"Will the Socialists of the left wing demand and obtain concessions making the government too radical for the support of the Grand Duke Nicholas and the rest of the army? The grand duke is one of the biggest figures in Russia now, as is also Prince Lvoff.

"The latter is a man with whom I have had considerable acquaintance. He is a statesman and a man of affairs. His liberalism is aided by a large capacity for business. Unless the more radical elements in Russia distract his attention from the remedying of the transportation evils and obtaining of proper distribution of food, I believe he will stand.

"At present I see no attempt on the part of the reactionaries to spring a coup on behalf of the czar, and unless the radicals force measures unpalatable to the army there is certain to be a gradual readjustment of affairs."

Czar Still a Menace.

The statesman added that in the French revolution "Paris swung France, but it is still a question whether Petrograd and Moscow can swing Russia." The czar's position, he went on, is still enigmatic, despite his manifesto.

"It would be a source of strength to the government if the czar abdicated in favor of his son. But he wants to take his son with him. It will always be a source of danger to any government of Russia to have the czar traveling about Europe."

It was believed by this man that wise counsel will prevail and that Russia will prevent the Socialists from going too far, but by keeping to the lines of a true national government will insure its safety and a successful prosecution of the war.

MRS. M'CORMICK CARES FOR MEN OF YARROWDALE

ZURICH, Switzerland, March 16, via Paris March 17.—Fifty-nine American sailors and horse tenders, the now famous Yarrowdalers, each clad in a new outfit, aroused the fashionable Hotel Baur au Lac from its well bred lethargy this afternoon when they filed into its imposing lobby. They had been invited to "tea" by Mrs. Harold McCormick—an entertainment, however, that proved far more substantial than the ordinary afternoon event.

The hostess had provided music and a repast that approximated a man sized meal. The guests, most of whom are still suffering from the semi-starvation of the German prison camp, were fully appreciative. The sailors, the majority of whom call the Bowery home, were inclined to be embarrassed at the outset, but Mrs. McCormick, aided by United States Consul General Keene, soon put them at their ease.

Mrs. McCormick, whom the sailors had already to thank for their new clothes, put them further into her debt by presenting each one with $50 for pocket money.

The sailors left today for Spain by way of Lyons.

JUST RULE FOR IRELAND URGED BY NORTHCLIFFE

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 17.—Lord Northcliffe, speaking tonight before the Irish club, said a supreme effort should be made now to find good government for Ireland, and added:

"The chief cause of Irish unrest is the poverty at the present moment, when so many industries in England and Scotland and, to a lesser extent, in Belfast are enjoying the war. Irish salaries and wages are the lowest paid in any English speaking country.

"Evidence that the Irish population in a hundred years has been reduced to what it is is an unanswerable argument that this department of the British government has been badly managed. The fact that the average young Irishman wants to get away from Ireland and would be getting away in thousands today but for the limitation of transport, has proved things have not been as they should.

"Those who have the welfare of Ireland and the good reputation of Great Britain at heart should take this great time by the forelock and make a supreme effort to find good government for Ireland.

CRANE ASSERTS RUSS REVOLT IS BOON TO ALLIES

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who has spent many years in Russia, today said that democracy coming into the Russian government will add a new element of strength to the allies in the war against Germany. "This change," he declared, "will unite the people and put more punch into the war."

Mr. Crane knows personally several of the new ministers, and says they have been admirably chosen. He thinks A. J. Guchkoff, minister of war and navy ad interim, and Paul N. Milukoff, foreign minister, are men of particular strength with the people.

"Guchkoff has the confidence of the army probably more than any other person," he said. "He is a man of great ability, high character, and great industry, and he won the confidence of the army by his conduct of the Red Cross in the Russo-Japanese war. He was at the head of the munitions plants during the last year. Milukoff is widely known as an historian and an editor, who always has been a very determined fighter for progress in Russia."

U.S. WILL INTERN GERMAN SAILORS AT ARMY POSTS

Washington, D. C., March 17.—The 700 interned German sailors at the Philadelphia navy yard will be moved to Forts McPherson and Oglethorpe, Georgia. The Seventeenth infantry was today ordered from the border to those forts to act as guard. The prisoners and troops will be evenly divided between the two posts.

The Seventeenth infantry was recalled because the entire strength of the mobile army is now gathered along the Mexican border and there was not a sufficient force of troops at any one army post to form a proper guard for the German sailors. Recently the mayor of Philadelphia requested that the men be taken to some other point, as it was believed their presence was a menace to the city.

DUKE NICHOLAS WINS ARMY AID TO NEW RUSSIA

Choice as Leader Means That Forces Will Support the Change.

the older order who still oppose the reformation are being rounded up and imprisoned.

All army officers in Petrograd met today and unanimously resolved to recognize the authority of the duma. Speeches were made stating the realization of the army of the indispensable need for reestablishment of order as speedily as possible, that the "work behind the trenches" might proceed.

By order of the provisional government, Admiral Mepine today arrested Gov. Zein of Finland. Deputy Rodicheff was named as minister of Finnish affairs and ordered to proceed at once to Helsingfors.

One Garrison Besieged.

Gen. Ignatieff, commander of troops in Finland, requested his forces to join the revolution. The Sveaborg garrison, alone of all the troops, refused to join, whereupon the other forces immediately besieged the forces.

Order was steadily being restored throughout Petrograd. The list of provinces and cities announcing adherence to the new régime was increasing rapidly.

The violent change from a repressed autocracy to a wide open democracy was being made with ease. The provisional government leaders have impressed the people with the sincerity of their purpose, their energy, and their patriotism to the cause of the people of Russia.

On every side in Petrograd were heard today renewed avowals of vigorous prosecution of the war against Germany.

Three Hundred Killed.

Estimates today placed the number killed and injured by the police on Saturday and Sunday at 300. This was really before the actual revolt started, and the casualties were in small riots over the city. After Sunday the number killed and wounded was comparatively small.

One of the first steps taken by the provisional government was to place guards over all stores suspected of selling vodka. The result was that there was an exceedingly small amount of drunkenness.

Through prompt and enthusiastic cooperation of railway employés the hunger of the people in famine stricken districts throughout the land is being quickly relieved. Hundreds of carloads of provisions were rushed to these sections.

Grain stores everywhere have been requisitioned by the provisional government, fair prices being paid the owners. The distribution, through a carefully organized system, of these stores of food is being arranged.

Evidencing the complete democracy of the new order in Russia and utter disregard of the ancient almost feudal rights of other days it was announced today that local committees of the provisional government are taking over all estates of more than 125 acres.

End Comes Quickly.

The house of Romanoff, which has ruled the empire for 300 years, came to an end with the abdication of Nicholas II., perhaps the weakest representative of his line. Following on the heels of this startling development came the rumor of the death of the little son of the emperor, whose abdication was included in that of his father.

Although apparent from the beginning of the revolution that the removal of the monarch was the inevitable end, the actual fact, so suddenly accomplished, came as an overwhelming surprise to the population. Within four hours after the abdication the crowds in the streets had secured ladders and began to tear the imperial insignia from the Winter palace and the front of buildings on the main thoroughfare. In a short time all the emblems of the old empire literally lay in the dust.

In anticipation of the news, bigger crowds than ever filled the halls and grounds of the Tauris palace, awaiting official confirmation by the duma committee of the rumors. When this came the orators, who had been haranguing soldiers and workingmen from the balcony of the palace, suddenly interrupted their discourses and shouted the news to the crowds below them. Indescribable confusion seized the vast throng. A roar of cheers such as never before had been heard in those stately halls continued until the men and women were forced to cease from utter exhaustion.

Anger at Royal Family.

As early as two months ago rumors became current that the emperor would be forced to surrender his throne. Until that time the chief dissatisfaction at the economic disorganization of the country and the criminal mismanagement of affairs was vented against the cabinet and the influence of the court was only vaguely alluded to, without touching the person of the emperor.

It became definitely known that all irresponsible and evil influences, symbolized by such figures as Sturmer, Protopopoff, and Rasputin, had a deeper and more powerful source than the government itself. The prevalence of startling rumors of court scandals and intrigues, and the existence of mysterious channels which seemed to run from court circles into the camp of the enemy, contributed to bring the imperial family into disfavor.

Whether these were true or not it was felt that the weakness of the ruling family in allowing persons to direct the affairs of the country who were secretly designing against the best interests of the nation and apparently doing all possible to interfere with the proper conduct of the war, unfitted them to govern the country.

Queen Is Accused.

There was little restraint in the manner in which this opinion was expressed. Accusations were made against the empress in almost every gathering where people privately assembled to discuss the political situation. From the tribune of the duma the same thing was hinted in veiled form. Prof. Milukoff, in his address at the opening of the duma last November, read an act from a German paper which spoke of a group of mysterious persons who were gathered around the young empress. He used this article as the basis for an attack upon the "dark forces" which reflected the pro-German influence at the court.

It was the general conviction when the revolution began that it had been provoked by the government, working through the medium of the police, and that the government had decided upon this daring expedient as the means of completing its previous efforts to tie up the industrial activity of the country and bring the war operations to a standstill.

But the force which set in motion and which first appeared easy to control, drawing to itself all the discordant elements of the country which were awaiting an opportunity to revolt, soon became so tremendous that it was impossible to hold.

London Well Pleased.

LONDON, March 17.—The British government is dealing with the provisional commitee of the duma in Russia as the de facto Russian government, it was announced today.

British officialdom, as a whole, expressed undisguised satisfaction today over the turn of events in Russia. They were pleased not so much because a popular government has apparently supplanted the reign of the Romanoffs, but because they are convinced Russia's war effectiveness will henceforth be greatly increased.

The best proof of confidence in the new order is the fact that even the most reactionary elements of the British press joined today in the general chorus of approval.

But it will be several days before the significance of the upheaval in Russia will penetrate to the rank and file of the people.

"Gen. Alexis Brussiloff, the commander of the Russian armies in Galicia, on Thursday evening authorized the publication in Kieff of the telegrams announcing the revolution," says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd dated Saturday. "Apart from the killing of a few officials, including the reactionary governor of Tver (a province in central Russia), no bloodshed has been reported from the provinces. Confidence in the duma seems to be the guiding star of the revolutionary movement. At Moscow the chief of police was arrested and the headquarters of the secret police were burned.

"The revolutionist, Burtzeff, appeared in the duma yesterday with Deputy Piankah, after ten years in the Schluesselburg prison. Both were cheered by the soldiers in the lobbies. The ruins of Russian prisons in which political prisoners have been confined will be preserved as historical relics.

"Count Kokovsoff was placed under arrest when he called at the treasury, according to custom, to receive his salary as a member of the council of the empire."

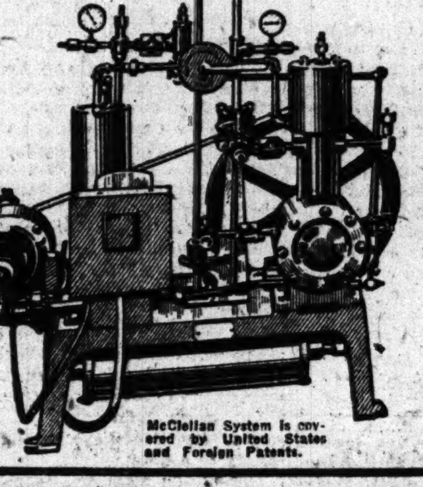
20 lbs. Ice Frozen in Freezing Chamber



McClellan System is covered by United States and Foreign Patents.

The Wonder of the Day Economical Refrigeration
The McClellan Refrigerating Machine enables you to keep your food without ice—and makes pure ice for table use.
Easy of Operation
No mechanical knowledge is necessary. You simply turn a water valve and start or stop it as easily as turning a water faucet.
Three years ago began the revolutionizing of our idea of refrigeration. For it was then that we brought forth this wonderful refrigerating machine, giving to the world one of its greatest and most valuable inventions.
Already the McClellan System of Refrigeration is coming to be universally recognized as the true solution of the refrigeration problem for every type of home. In fact, we have a complete line of machines for all purposes.
One-half to One-fourth Cost of Ice
A McClellan Refrigerating Machine attached to your refrigerator (or refrigerators) absolutely eliminates the necessity of ice for food preservation. No ice bills to pay, no iceman to bother with, and yet you can make all the ice you want—pure, crystal ice—for your table purposes, at ½ to ¼ the cost of refrigeration with ice.
McCLELLAN Refrigerating Machines
Can Be Attached to Any Refrigerator
Specially Designed For Homes Hotels Clubs Restaurants Hospitals Stores Markets Soda Fountains Ice Cream Parlors Delicatessens Water Cooling Plants Etc.
The machine may be placed in the basement or any convenient location. It may be attached to one or more refrigerators placed throughout the home or any other building. Drinking water coils, a McClellan Ice Cream Freezer and a 50 to 100 lb. ice freezing cabinet, as well as one or more main refrigerators, may all be operated from a single McClellan machine.
McClellan Iceless Refrigeration insures a cold, dry air of even temperature in your refrigerator at all times. There is no fluctuation of temperature, which allows spoilage, as there is no dampness to allow germs to develop. The McClellan system keeps a temperature of 40 degrees or lower continuously in your refrigerator, keeping your food fresh, sweet and in a wholesome condition.
Reliable Service Assured—Time Payments If Desired
With a McClellan Machine operated with Commonwealth Edison electric service you can absolutely depend upon perfect refrigeration at all times. There is no excuse to be without this service, as you can purchase a machine on time and pay for it monthly instead of paying ice bills.
Ice money melts away and is lost; a McClellan Refrigerating Machine is a real dividend-earning investment.

HOW RUSSIANS SWEPT RULER FROM THRONE

Restless, Hungry, Goaded by Police, People Rose, Eyewitness Says.

The following story of the upheaval in Russia is the first connected account of the uprising and scenes from an eyewitness of the stirring events.

BY ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.

(Copyright: 1917: By Press Publishing Company (New York World).)

PETROGRAD, March 17 [via London].—Eight days have passed since the mild demonstration caused by the lack of bread in Petrograd developed into one of the greatest revolutions in history.

It happened so unexpectedly and developed so rapidly from day to day that it cannot be understood without an account of the changes. Nobody knows the whole course of events because the duma took up its work when the government failed, and the purposes and intentions of the government were unknown to the committee of safety now controlling the situation and trying to prevail upon the emperor to give the country an effective government.

COSSACKS RUSHED TO CITY.

I was in Petrograd constantly throughout this time, and give my personal impressions by days. The week before the trouble began the government, knowing of the bread shortage and fearing the consequences, brought 12,000 Cossacks into the city. They also had several reserve regiments of guards, as well as other regiments, in the city, including a new recruitment of many thousands which had just entered the barracks, police and gendarmes in an undetermined large number.

I saw the first Cossacks on the Nevsky Prospekt on Tuesday, riding in scattered threes, and again on Wednesday. Meanwhile occasional strikes were occurring in the factories, and the bread lines before the shops were becoming seriously long. Many shops were closing.

BREAD SHORTAGE IS ACUTE.

On Thursday the bread shortage became serious. A few bolder spirits gathered on the historic Nevsky Prospekt and spoke before the Kasan cathedral opposite the Singer building. The Cossacks appeared, a dozen at a time, riding down the streets and preventing the crowds from accumulating on the sidewalks. There was no resentment on the part of the crowd, no brutality by the Cossacks.

After visiting the duma, where the failure of the government to provide proper regulations for the distribution of the ample flour supply was discussed, I returned to the Nevsky at 5 in the afternoon, where there was a new demonstration and a larger crowd had gathered. Obviously there were only a few protestors; the others were spectators like myself.

POLICE APPEAR ON SCENE.

The Cossacks continued calm and in small numbers, but the crowd remaining, the mounted police appeared, forcing their way with what appeared unnecessary violence. The idea first occurred to me that they had been trying to provoke trouble, but the crowd dispersed quietly.

Friday the crowds came to the Nevsky Prospekt earlier. Before noon I stood on the steps of the cathedral watching the Cossacks trying to keep the street clear.

I learned that the universities were striking in sympathy with the bread demonstrations, and the appearance of students' green caps everywhere corroborated this. The number of actual protestors was much larger than before, as the bread lines everywhere were longer and the students were urging them on.

FIRST RED FLAG WAVED.

I soon saw the first red flag. It was only a moment before the Cossacks began riding up and down faster, but they kept the streets clear. The police were less moderate.

A moderate crowd moved down the Nevsky all afternoon, causing an occasional tieup of the tramways. At 6 in the evening a thousand protestors moved good humoredly toward the Nicola Moscow station. I returned to the hotel feeling that it would be easy for the government to avoid trouble by bestirring itself to provide flour.

My acquaintance with and recent conversations with members of the duma who are now on the committee of safety makes me sure that they were then doing their best to do everything to avoid a revolution.

Hungry Crowds in Protest.

On Saturday the bread situation became acute. There was an open protest and there were larger crowds on the Nevsky. The tramways were arrested from the early morning. Before noon it was hard to move through the Nevsky, but I was struck by the continuous cheering given the Cossacks whenever they appeared. I realized it was because they had not unslung their [illegible] Enjoying the popularity of their [illegible] they were good natured, but the mounted police had their sabers bare by the middle of the morning; and between 11 and 12 I was caught on the sidewalk before the Singer building as the police charged down the sidewalk. Innocent onlookers were knocked right and left.

The crowd began throwing bottles. The police charged anew, driving the crowds, which for the first time were becoming angry, toward Sadovia. The [illegible] began appearing in the side streets with their bayonets fixed, and the crowd was forced into the arcades of Gostinni and Dwor. The really hungry began taunting.

Twice within an hour the soldiers shot into the crowd. For the first time I considered the situation really serious. But pushing through the crowd all afternoon, as it gathered and was dispersed repeatedly between the Kasan cathedral and the Nicola station, I heard little talk of revolution, although a few red flags appeared.

All afternoon I noticed with disquiet the increased violence of the police, the idea returning to me with greater force that there might be a possible attempt at provocation, without, however, comprehending the motive. The calmness of the Cossacks began giving the crowd greater temerity, and near the Nicola station I saw the crowd begin to turn seriously against the police, the Cossacks not interfering.

Cossacks Save Policemen.

Several times the crowds let the Cossacks rescue mounted policemen who were hard pressed without touching them. This unexpected turn of events seemed at the time a good sign, despite the increasing violence, and though several were killed and many wounded in the crowds, they dispersed after dark.

During the afternoon I had the feeling that the Nevsky situation was not deeply revolutionary. I made a long visit to the Wiborg workingmen's district, where I found the usual long bread lines, and groups of silent workmen on the corners. The silence here impressed me more than the surface violence on the Nevsky, which seemed a sort of Russian national tournament enjoyed by both sides.

Saturday night all except the most radical in Petrograd did not consider the revolution imminent. Sunday the spirit of the city was much as Saturday, although mounting as the contact with the police increased.

As the crowds began gathering late in the morning I was impressed with how easy it might have been for the police to prevent the demonstration by closing the streets. This applied to other days also and deepened the impression that the crowds were allowed to gather purposely. The idea of provocation kept growing.

Both Sides Grow Violent.

The day passed much like Saturday, with more encounters of greater violence on both sides. The crowd was fired on more often, but always was permitted to regather. As a result of the constant attacks the gathering of thousands was broken into groups of hundreds, who were sporadically attacked.

Every one I met said it was the last day of demonstrations, as bread was at hand. This seemed possible, except for a new unconditional poster pasted on the walls by Commanding General Khabaloff, saying that the crowds would be shot into wherever they gathered. This looked provocative and so proved.

Constant charges and counter charges now began taking place the length of the Nevsky. There were smaller crowds, but greater violence and desperation. I encountered bodies frequently on the sidewalks. The firing was almost constant. All the shooting I witnessed was between the infantry and the populace or between the police and the populace. The Cossacks were almost entirely withdrawn.

Firing Grows Almost Constant.

Between Sadovia and the Fontanka canal on the Nevsky there was almost constant firing after 6 o'clock Sunday evening, and the machine guns were turned steadily on the crowds. Sunday evening was really bloody. Only the courageous spirits continued taunting, many falling wounded.

The whole Nevsky was cut off, although crossing was permitted. By crossing at many points I realized the extent of the conflict and the growing seriousness.

By 8 o'clock in the evening the crowds were finally repelled and the police were in control. I felt sufficiently insured against violence to go to the French theater. The house was fairly full.

Crossing the Nevsky at midnight I heard rumors of soldiers attacking the police, of soldiers being arrested for refusing to obey orders to shoot the crowd, and being refused passage of the Catherine canal, where there were rumors of trouble.

Awakened Before Dawn.

I went to bed, and at 3 o'clock in the morning I was awakened by steady rifle fire coming from the direction of the Catherine canal. I dressed and hurried toward the scene through the empty streets, but, approaching the Catherine canal on the Gorokovava, I was turned back. The firing ceased at 4 o'clock in the morning.

I learned at 9 o'clock Monday morning that all bridges over the Neva had been closed to prevent the workmen reaching the Nevsky. I also heard vaguely of soldiers attacking one another near the Litanie bridge to the Wiberg district. This district is near the duma and also near some of the embassies, including the American. There are many barracks there.

I left the center of the city in the company of Roger Lewis of the Associated Press at noon. People were afoot; the Nevsky bread lines were longer, and everywhere there were signs of violence. Blood spilled in the snow marked the route. There were no trams, and even Ishvoshiks, which were rare on Sunday, were now entirely absent.

Unnatural Hush in City.

The city was under an unnatural hush. There were few mounted police and no soldiers gathered in the square. On the Litanie we could hear scattered shots and we encountered some cavalry companies arriving at a gallop. The Litanie began to look too dangerous, so we paralleled it for a quarter of a mile until we reached a point three miles from the Neva. Here, as everywhere, the crowd was gathered in the doorways as if awaiting fire.

To cross the Litanie it was necessary to pass between several companies of infantry ready to fire down on the scattered gatherings of the populace between us and the arsenal.

Scurrying to cover at the corner of the Fourshtatzkaya, on which the American embassy is located, I was struck by the sight of a 14 year old boy carrying a rifle. I saw a soldier with only a bayonet and another with an officer's sword.

Snipers Fire from Roofs.

There was scattered shooting around the arsenal, but the crowd did not notice it. There were rifle shots everywhere and inconsequential sniping from the roofs. I saw a student trifling with a rifle. It exploded in his hand. He threw it down, disregarding the wounded hand. A small boy annexed the bayonet.

At the embassy I was told that the stories of revolt among the troops were true; and, continuing on my route toward the duma, I was puzzled by the meaning of the scattered unarmed soldiers and the many armed civilians.

Even automobiles which we met at the corner were full of civilians and soldiers who stopped to harangue the soldiers, and their first effect appeared to us to be to calm the troops and restore order.

Rebels Gather More Strength.

But before we reached the duma, half a mile distant, we knew that we had crossed into a section of the city entirely in the hands of the revolutionaries, who were gathering strength every minute. Auto after auto passed us loaded with soldiers and civilians extremely excited. Unfortunately I was wearing an English trench coat and a fur collar and cap to match—which made me look to the armed workers like a new type of Cossack. I felt in constant danger from hands unused to guns.

The red flag began appearing everywhere. Students in green caps were conspicuous in all autos; and as we approached the duma there was a great crowd before it, surrounding it and calling attention to the state of revolution and demanding action against the government.

The duma was trying hard to hold a cool session and to take into its hands the reins of government, but the streets were too interesting to remain inside.

Leaving, we passed dozens of autos and motor trucks loaded with civilians and soldiers crying for revolution and obviously controlling that whole quarter of the city. All were bristling with rifles, revolvers, and swords. My personal disquiet because of my costume was steadily increasing. I was stopped and questioned.

We reached the embassy again, now the center of a district recruiting and rearming establishment. I saw a whole regiment of civilians from the working classes trying their guns on a swirling flock of pigeons and responded to by bullets from the houseotps. There was blood on the snow every few feet. The air was electric with danger.

Leaving the embassy, I was joined by Capt. McDaulley, the naval attaché. We avoided the corner of the Litanie Fourshtatskaya, as the shifting between the revolutionists and the government trops was now constant.

Opponents Separated by Corner.

Turning to the next street toward the Nevsky we passed from the revolutionists to the loyal troops by turning a corner. Within 300 yards we passed back and forth between the revolutionists and the others twice unfired on. A block nearer the Nevsky we could see nothing but trouble in all directions, so we decided to make a dash across the Litanie.

Suddenly we found ourselves among a great crowd, a mixture of civilians and soldiers, and some soldiers racing toward us with machine guns close behind. The machine gun company was commanded by a general of cavalry, obviously a chance command.

"Hurry," he called to us in perfect English.

We scurried around the corner, encountering a long line of infantry prepared to fire down the Litanie. There was another line further down the Litanie undecided whether to continue firing toward the Neva or to turn upon the crowd of revolutionists filling the cross street and emerging into the Litanie.

Soldiers Go Over to Rebels.

Jumping into a closed doorway we saw the line of infantrymen in the cross street suddenly capitulate and the company farther down the Litanie do the same as it became surrounded by the crowds. The company threatening us with its fire hesitated while we counted the seconds.

There was also danger of being fired on by another company half a block up the street, but it hesitated second after second until the crowd, with leaps of triumph, swept it off its feet.

While the revolutionists stopped to embrace the troops joining them, company after company scattered up the street and waited; and this situation continued until we reached the Nevsky again half a mile distant.

Our progress was faster than that of the revolutionists, but not faster than that of the troops which had not yet revolted and were getting away. I caught a glimpse of the cavalry general with his machine gun corps surrounded and joining the revolutionists.

No Signs of Policemen.

The rapidity was remarkable. We left the embassy at 4 o'clock and reached the Litenie Nevsky at 5, McCaulley turning towards the Nicolai station in search of further adventure. Lewis and I walked rapidly along the Nevsky. There were no police and no soldiers at the Fontaka canal.

At 5 o'clock I saw the first motor truck of revolutionists swing across to the other quarters. At 5:30 I was at the Moike canal. I had walked rapidly fifteen minutes since last passing between the lines, and still I saw no police.

Hurrying down the Morskaya towards the telegraph station, I started back at 5:45 o'clock, hoping to reach the Hotel France across the Nevsky. But the revolutionists had advanced so rapidly across the city that I was cut off. I was blocked too at the Gorohovaya and the Morskaya by an encounter with a company of unrevolted troops, and by revolutionists descending from the Nevsky on the Morskaya.

One Section Holds Out.

In less than an hour the revolutionists had captured the length of the Nevsky, leaving only a corner of the city near the ministries of war and the navy still uncaptured.

I was caught again between fires and barely escaped a heavy fusillade because, thinking I was still well away from the revolution, I had stopped to make a small purchase in a Morskaya shop.

A regiment of the guard swinging along in step to a Russian march, led by a marine band, passed before the Astoria hotel at 5:40 en route to the Nevsky Prospekt. At 5:50 there was fighting in every street between the companies following it and the revolutionaries arriving in motor trucks. I wondered what had become of the regiment guard until I saw the band the next morning leading the triumphant revolutionists.

I was caught in the Gorokovayr between the Morskaya and the Moika canal until 9 in the evening by the constant shooting, but was finally able to reach St. Isaac's cathedral by stepping along the walls and by making a detour of the Alexander garden to reach the Winter palace square, into whic the Morskava leads.

Last Conquest in City.

The square was empty. The ministries were dark. I saw only a galloping company of cavalry in silhouette, en route to the admiralty. A quick run across the Morskaya brought me in safety to a hotel.

During the night the conquest of this last small remaining corner of the city was completed. The Astoria Military hotel was entered, and the officers not joining the revolution were arrested. All night motor trucks thundered through the city, and machine guns combed the roofs where the police still hid. Crowds were seeking them Tuesday night. As late as Wednesday morning they were still fighting, creeping from their hiding places in the ministries over the roofs to points on the Nevsky, where they could sweep with mitrailleuse the streets full of people.

By Wednesday noon the police who had fired so ruthlessly had been killed.

Police Still Hold Ground.

The police held out at many points through Monday. The last half mile between the hotel and the telegraph station was under three sniping fusillades. The snipers were finally driven out by the quick arrival of motors touring the neighborhood.

There is tremendous elation, but the people are steadier this morning. There is less wild riding in automobiles and less useless shooting, although there is some sniping. The feeling of the people about their success is increased by the return to normal prices. A sign on a shop beside the telegraph station reads:

"Butter selling at 60 kopeks (30 cents); before the revolution 4 rubles ($2)."

The offices are beginning to reopen.

ZEPPELIN DROPS, A MOLTEN MASS; MEN INCINERATED

Compiegne French Bring Giant from a Height of 13,000 Feet.

BY HENRY WOOD.
[UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

COMPIEGNE, via Paris, March 17.—Men, women, and children, comprising the bulk of the population of Compiegne, today witnessed the destruction of a Zeppelin in broad daylight.

They saw the huge air raider come whirling dizzily from the sky in a two mile fall. They saw the bodies of four members of the crew come hurtling through space after they had leaped from the blazing craft. The bodies of the four men were completely carbonized when picked up. They were buried later in a field nearby.

Was Cripple in Air.

The Zeppelin was first sighted at 6 o'clock this morning drifting before a westerly wind. The air cruiser had apparently exhausted its supply of petrol or its machinery had been broken. The crew had apparently lost their way and were drifting two miles in the air when the French anti-aircraft guns opened fire.

Within ten minutes an incendiary shell struck the Zeppelin. The air cruiser seemed powerless to move out of range. As the bombardment increased in intensity the Zeppelin burst into flames and began to settle slowly. It was when within a few hundred feet of the ground that four of the crew jumped.

Bodies in the Ruins.

The Zeppelin fell close to Compiegne, striking across a high stone wall, separating two empty gardens. Half of the giant burning structure fell in one garden and half in the other. It caused no damage except to the wall across which it fell. Firemen quickly put out the flames, and the skeleton of the wreck remained hanging over the wall.

Aside from the four who jumped, other members of the crew—possibly numbering a dozen—are presumably pinned under the wreckage. Several scorched and burned skulls were visible through the twisted frame of the wrecked craft.

French Official Report.

PARIS, March 17.—From 13,000 feet in the sky French expert anti-aircraft gunners today at Compiegne brought down in blazing ruins the giant German Zeppelin L-39, one of a number apparently returning from a raid on England.

This is the first raid in which Zeppelins have participated since the death of their inventor.

The following official statement covering attack on the Zeppelin was given out:

> Zeppelin L-39 was brought down this morning at Compiegne by anti-aircraft artillery while flying over the town at a height of 3,500 meters. It remained flying in the air for a moment and then fell, striking a garden wall, and broke in two.
> All the bombs were thrown overboard during the fall. They dropped on vacant ground. Most of them did not explode.
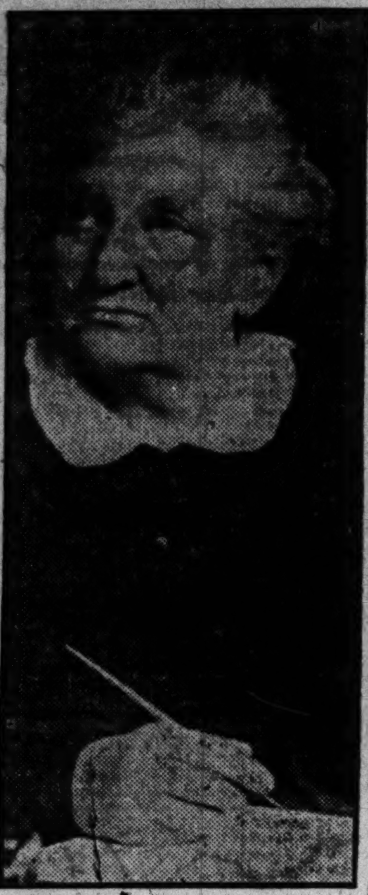
> Several of the crew jumped out and were crushed to death. The others were burned.

[Compiegne is forty-five miles northeast of Paris and is close to the battle front, which the Zeppelin had presumably crossed.]

"COME HOME"

"Grandmother of the Russian Revolution" Invited by New Cabinet to Return from Many Years of Exile.



Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya.

PETROGRAD, March 17, via London.—Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya, who is known as "the grandmother of the Russian revolution," has been invited by M. Kerenski, minister of justice in the new cabinet, to return to Petrograd. Mme. Breshkovskaya has spent thirty years in exile, most of the time in prison. She escaped twice, only to be recaptured.

The activities of "Baboushka" (the little grandmother), Russia's famous political prisoner, caused her to be known throughout the world. She has many friends in America, to which she made a visit in 1904.

Mme. Breshkovskaya is 73 years old. She is the daughter of a Russian noble, and while she was still in her 'teens her radical ideas were received with so much opposition by her parents that she left her home, attracting a large following from 1870 on. In 1874 she was arrested and sent to Siberia. She escaped, but was recaptured and was kept in Siberia for sixteen years. On returning to Russia she was under constant surveillance by police agents.

During her visit to the United States she made the acquaintance of many prominent Americans and collected more than $10,000 for the cause of the revolution. Soon after her return to Russia she was arrested. Petitions for her release were circulated in the United States and sent to the Russian premier and the ambassador at Washington. In 1910 she was sentenced to Siberia and again made an unsuccessful attempt to escape.

Award Claims of $87,332.

Applications for the adjustment of claims received during February by the arbitration department of the industrial board numbered 254. Compensation was ordered paid in ninety-seven. The total amount of compensation ordered upon findings of the arbiters was $87,332.

GERMANY FEARS POPULAR RISING AFTER RUSSIAN

People Seem Ready to Throw Off Rule of Autocrats.

AMSTERDAM, March 17.—Unrest in Germany against militarist repression of the people has been violently accelerated by the success of the Russian people in casting off the yoke of centuries.

Even those elements of the German people who favor autocratic control of the fatherland have been affected by the news from Petrograd, seeing therein the failure of German plans and the certainty that, instead of Russia growing weaker as the war progresses, she is likely to grow stronger with a new government animated by united determination to do its best against Germany.

Admit Fear in Germany.

German newspapers containing the chancellor's speech of Wednesday afternoon increased the impression among observers of German affairs here that the German government itself is apprehensive of this unrest among the Teutonic people.

Dispatches from Vienna today declared the Russian revolution has created a profound impression there. That the government did not regard this impression as one favorable to continuance of the military autocracy was indicated in the return to the Austrian capital of the emperor and the departure from Berlin for Vienna of imperial German Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Denounced by Socialists.

Meanwhile German newspapers hail the chancellor's speech as one of the most momentous in German history. Additional details printed in these articles indicated a dramatic scene in the Prussian diet on this occasion. Socialist speakers bitterly denounced the government and the "sins of those in power."

"Absolutism" was one of the targets of their attack. Several speakers declared the time was coming when the nation would arise and sweep "junkerism" away.

It was in reply to this outburst and fiery speeches by other delegates that the chancellor made his announcement of increasing powers to be granted the people after the war.

CALLS RUSSIAN REVOLT MOVE TO BRING PEACE

Dr. Krishna Believes Soldiers Favor an Early Truce.

The Russian revolution presages the end of the war within the next six weeks, according to Dr. N. Krishna of India, president of the French Indian committee and personal friend of Prince Serge Lvoff, reported to have been made president of the Russian provisional republic. Dr. Krishna is in America on a lecture tour. He is now staying at 1506 North La Salle street.

"By a stroke the destiny of peace is put in the hands of the Russian army," said Dr. Krishna last night. "The soldiers have the alternative of having peace or being a catspaw of the allies. If they wish war they are in favor of the old bureaucracy. They have shown themselves in favor of the democratic spirit."

Means More Borrowing.

Dr. Krishna said the continuance of the bureaucratic policy would mean the continuation of borrowing which aimed at crushing out the democratic spirit. Only by borrowing to buy munitions can the war continue, he declares.

While in Paris after the beginning of the war Dr. and Mme. Krishna were close friends of the Princess Lvoff, who at that time was in Paris incognito on a diplomatic mission of the committee of the Russian reform leaders. She was trying to ascertain how much England had been able to inflame the populace of France against the Germans.

Likened to Franklin.

"Prince Lvoff is the Franklin and Jefferson of the Russian revolution," Dr. Krishna continued. "He has the scientific knowledge of the former and the political wisdom of the latter.

"Strange to say, he comes from one of the oldest Russian noble families and was, up to the time of the revolution, grand chamberlain of the czar. The seat of the family is at Moscow. The family estate is estimated at $50,000,000.

"Though an idealist, Lvoff is none the less practical. The spirit of Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln have languished in America and democracy here is a failure he thinks. It is left for Russia to show the world what kind of democracy the leaders of American history were striving to effect.

No Personal Interest.

"Like the true martyr, Lvoff thinks not for his own safety. In revolution he sees the end of the war. And in the end of the war he sees the triumph of the democratic spirit."

Mme. Krishna is a great idealist. She wore long flowing pink robes of satin that formed themselves in a hood over her head. She is French.

BOUCK WHITE IS LEARNING TO HONOR U. S. FLAG

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—While the keepers stood by and hummed "The Star Spangled Banner," Bouck White, pastor of the Church of the Social Revolution, self-styled "Bad Patriot," flung the stars and stripes from a window at the front of the Tombs this morning and slowly pulled it to the end of a new pole.

At sundown he pulled the flag in again and handed it to August Henkle, another "bad patriot," who, with a keeper to see no contempt was cast upon it on the way, carried it to the warden's office.

Correction Commissioner Lewis has ordered this "prison work" shall be done by the men each of the twenty-seven remaining days that White, Henkel, and Edward R. Ames have yet to serve for burning the flag in a "melting pot" ceremony at their church last June.

MODEL MAID, TO BE MADE MODEL, SEES AID FADE

Miss Elva Carlson, an Evanston maid, has an ambition to become a model, but she isn't taking any chances with bold young men who claim to represent corset companies, wherefore she caused the arrest yesterday of Ben Voorsanger, 5432 Prairie avenue, Chicago.

Miss Carlson told the police she has grown tired of housework and had advertised for a position as a model. Friday night Voorsanger called at 823 Hamlin street, where Miss Carlson lives, and, according to the girl, offered her a place at $10 an hour.

Miss Carlson grew suspicious and notified Detective Sergt. Arthur Johnson that she had an engagement to meet Voorsanger yesterday morning. Johnson was at the Davis street station in time to arrest Voorsanger, who denied he had been guilty of any indiscretion. He pleaded for leniency on the ground that his wife has heart trouble and the shock of his arrest might cause her death.

Even Doc Yak!

THE photograph is that of Mr. Sidney Smith, noted cartoonist with The Chicago Tribune, and the originator of "Old Doc Yak."

Mr. Smith writes:

"I have named my new King Eight the Rocky Mountain Goat. It will climb hills on high that even Old Doc Yak's car could not back down. It is so fast that I have to tie its shadow to the rear axle so that it won't run away from it. It goes so slow on high through congested traffic that the sparrows build nests between the spokes and it is so quiet running that you can hear a pin drop in the mud."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN THE MORNIN', NOON, AND NIGHT

Tags, Banquets, Masses, Balls, Speeches, and Smiles.

Ireland's sons and daughters—and their sons and daughters—joined yesterday in what generally was conceded to be as noteworthy a commemoration of St. Patrick's day as the city has known.

From the beginning of the tag day activities, in which 2,500 Irish maids and matrons sold 200,000 tags for the Irish relief fund, until the final strains of "Home, Sweet Home," at the various dances, there was not an unoccupied moment in the day.

Amount Not Yet Known.

Masses in the churches, banquets, Irish programs, dances, and other forms of celebration by the various organizations were attended on every hand. The tag day work was an enormous success, but at a late hour last night no definite estimate of the financial return could be obtained.

At the Coliseum Annex the Associated Celtic-American clubs gave a ball attended by more than 700 persons. Among the features were several reels of "Auld Erin" motion pictures, folk dancing by children, and Irish jigs. The grand march at 11 o'clock was led by James T. Igoe. Irish melodies formed the dance repertoire for the evening.

German-Americans combined with Irish societies and held their celebration at the Great Northern hotel. Harry Rubens, a German-American lawyer, evoked plaudits by protest against what he termed "sham neutrality" and "sacrifice of American independence by plunging the United States into the European war."

Some Other Celebrations.

Other noteworthy celebrations were:

The Irish Literary society, the Rev. J. K. Fielding, president, held its annual entertainment at the Strand theater. M. V. McGivern, "Irish rebel," spoke.

Charles Carroll council, Knights of Columbus, gave a musical program at Mount Vernon hall, Madison street and Crawford avenue.

St. Patrick's church celebrated St. Patrick's day with five masses in the morning, a banquet and a musical program in the evening. Solemn high mass was celebrated in the presence of Archbishop Mundelein at 11 o'clock.

The German-Irish Alliance gave a banquet at the Great Northern hotel. The Rev. Father Francis X. McCabe, president of De Paul university, was the guest of honor.

Seumas MacManus, Irish poet and story teller, was the principal speaker at the "Irish program" arranged for the St. Malachi's parish celebration last night.

Judge McGoorty Speaks.

Women of Old Glory Circle, No. 96, G. A. R., held a social at the home of Mrs. Jennie M. Donnellon, chaplain, [illegible] Ellis avenue.

The Society of Midland Authors gave a dinner at De Jonghe's restaurant, 14 East Monroe street.

The Shamrock Athletic club held a dance at McDermott's hall, 5443 South Ashland avenue.

The city hall was almost deserted under the order of Mayor Thompson, which excused every employé of Irish birth from duty.

Archbishop Speaks.

As typically Irish as any St. Patrick's day affair was the celebration of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the Hotel Sherman. For atmosphere there was plenty of brogue. There were shamrocks and green carnations, harps and songs of the River Shannon. On the program were many representatives of the city hall, who had no difficulty in proving their Irish descent in order to get a holiday.

Archbishop Mundelein, the guest, made a short talk, following a presentation to him of a perpetual scholarship for young men studying for the priesthood. Archbishop Mundelein thanked the Hibernians for their generosity, which, he said, had been instilled into the Irish people by the work of St. Patrick. He urged them to maintain the ideals and traditions of the people.

An ocean of small change rolled into the coffers of the United Celtic-American Societies of Chicago at the charity ball held last night for the benefit of the Irish fund.

In order that disquieting rumors concerning the sincerity of purpose of the sponsors of the event be set aside, representatives of the Chicago Trust and Savings bank were present to check up on all receipts. It was hoped by the organization under whose auspices the ball was given that $10,000 would be collected for the fund.

SPEAKER CLARK GIVES VIEWS ON PREPAREDNESS

American citizens do not want their country turned into an armed camp and they want "peace with honor" was the verdict of Speaker Champ Clark laid before the Irish Fellowship club in the annual St. Patrick's day banquet last night in the Hotel La Salle.

The speaker said he had traveled the country over and talked with men in every station of life to discover that "we are not willing to bankrupt this country in military preparation."

"We glory in the valor of our volunteers on hundreds of historic fields," he said, "and we have no ambition to have our country pose as a great military power. The average American is in favor of adequate preparation."

Mr. Clark paid his respects to a certain ranting contingent when he said the Missouri mule is playing an important part in the great war, having lately fallen under a slight operation devised by French surgeons, which prevents braying. "That operation would stop a lot of braying in our own country," said the speaker.

Enthusiasm greeted a letter from former Mayor Carter H. Harrison, who, with Mrs. Harrison, is traveling in South America. Mr. Harrison's letter, from Bolivia, spoke feelingly of the sight of but one American flag flying in those waters—atop a naval repair boat at Callao. He urged immediate preparation for the development of South American trade.

Resolutions passed at the banquet reaffirm loyalty of the members of the society to America and agree that in the peace conference the cause of Ireland and other small nations be presented. "Self government is what the Irish people have been struggling for these many centuries, and it is what she is entitled to and must receive if racial animosities are to be obliterated and peace is to be permanent," the resolutions conclude.

KAISER LOSES TO YOUNG AMERICA IN 'DUTCH' CLASS

Teacher Put Up Wilhelm's Picture—Roper's 'Bad Boy' Smashed It.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Devotion to the fatherland on the part of Miss Marie Siebert, a teacher of German in the Central High school here, may cause her expulsion by the board of education.

Miss Siebert's loyalty to Germany, which has carried her to the length of advocating pro-Germanism in her class lectures, has been known for some time, but it remained for Harry C. Roper, the 14 year old son of Daniel C. Roper, former assistant postmaster general, who was recently appointed to the tariff commission, to bring matters to a crisis.

In defiance of the request of the faculty Miss Siebert has kept on her classroom walls pictures of the kaiser, the empress and her children, and another of the German royal family. Last Thursday young Roper turned the pictures to the wall and was sternly reproved by his teacher, who locked the room at the lunch hour to protect the photographs.

Thereupon young Roper climbed through the transom, captured the picture of the kaiser, and destroyed it. Miss Siebert promptly replaced the photograph with another of William II., which she was persuaded with difficulty to remove. She wrote a note expressing her regret that the faculty was "so narrow."

Stranded in Germany.

When the war opened Miss Siebert was stranded in Europe and was not able to return to Washington until late October. She had been spending her summer vacation in Germany.

Miss Siebert has served as a teacher here for the last twenty-one years, but is said to have often said her "noblest ambition was to become a German nurse."

Young Roper's teachers, when asked to give their opinion of the episode, declared the lad was not in any way to blame.

SNAKES ALIVE!

You Can't Kill 'Em, or Sororities Either, Says Sigma Tau Girl, After Victory.

On the anniversary in 1916 of the day when St. Patrick drove the reptiles from offen the Isle of Erin the faculty of Lake Forest college met in secret conclave and by official edict drove out the Sigma Tau and Theta Psi sororities.

Yesterday, exactly one year later, they met in equally secret session and drove them back again.

"You cant' keep a good snake or sorority down," said Miss Jessie Carr of Sigma Tau when the pedagogues hoisted the white flag.

LEWIS' WARNING TO FOREIGNERS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—[Special.]—In a speech before the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick here tonight Senator Lewis of Illinois denounced the constituencies represented by senators and congressmen who opposed the administration measure to arm ships as it was presented to the recent congress.

The Illinois senator said that the congressmen and senators who killed the armed ship bill were not so guilty of un-American action as the constituencies which compelled them to vote as they did.

He called upon all foreign born American citizens to be loyal to the country of their adoption in its present crisis.

"The hour is now on America to impress on all of our foreign born population," he said, "that if ever the conviction shall get to be general in the United States that it is any portion of the foreign born population that foments obstruction and defeat of America in her efforts against foreign foes, the result will be a national prejudice against all foreigners and a final prohibition against all immigration of foreign born people to America."

WOMAN IS LURED TO HER DEATH BY PHONE CALL

Wife of New Yorker Found Strangled in Hotel—Niece Gives Clew.

New York, March 17.—A mystery which started with a secret phone call, the disappearance of a wife and the finding of the body of "Florence Grey, Boston," in the Martinique hotel, came to light this afternoon when Harry J. Helair identified "Florence Gray" as his wife.

A coroner's physician, who examined the body of the woman, found clad in a night dress and lying across a bed, declared she had been strangled to death. She was first reported to have died from natural causes, and the police were advised when no trace of relatives had been found in Boston.

Husband Reports Wife Missing.

Helair, who had repored his wife missing after receipt of a mysterious phone call, identified the body as the physician was reporting that two distinct finger prints were visible on her throat. These marks indicated strangulation by a powerful man, the doctor said.

A purse containing 13 cents was found. Jewels valued at more than $2,000 were missing. Only the wedding ring and another trinket of slight value were left in the room. The woman had received no visitors or phone calls and had sent no telegrams, hotel employés declared.

Niece Tells of Phone Call.

"The whole affair is a mystery to me," Helair said. "We have been married fifteen years and have been very happy. Mrs. Helair had no friend I did not know. She seldom went out without me."

A niece who lived with the Helairs said Mrs. Helair left home after receiving a telephone call from a man who apparently wished her to meet him.

WHY CARDINAL REFUSED TO SIGN LOYALTY PLEDGE

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—It became known for the first time today that Cardinal Farley refused to sign the declaration of loyalty that is being presented for signatures to citizens of New York by the mayor's committee on national defense.

Cardinal Farley's refusal to sign the declaration was explained today by Mgr. Thomas G. Carroll, secretary to his eminence.

"The pledge was presented to his eminence," said Mgr. Carroll. "He was one of the first asked to sign it. This avowal is rather belligerent in tone. It might magnify hostile sentiments.

"His eminence, prepared to back up the president in case the break leads to hostilities, nevertheless feels that as a churchman he should not sign—certainly should not help—any movement that might foment war feeling."

EQUIPMENT FOR MILITIA URGED

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—Resolutions calling upon the war department at Washington to put the national guard organizations of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania on a war footing by providing them with adequate supplies and equipment and calling for state inventories of resources available in the event of military necessity were adopted at a meeting here today of the governors of these states. Copies of the resolutions were sent to President Wilson.

Chicago Kennel Club Show Starts on March 29

Canine aristocracy will hold forth at the Chicago Kennel club show to be held at the First Regiment armory March 29 to 31. A majority of the 1,400 entries will come from Chicago. The entries from the eastern circuit are expected to be larger and of greater merit than ever before.

The Vickery kennels of Chicago top the list thus far with thirty-nine dogs. Other Chicago entries are O. W. Lehman, with a string of nineteen; Blackstone kennels, with ten cocker spaniels; the Normandy kennels, with four French champions, including Gamin de Luxe; A. W. Swift, Al Kennedy, and A. H. Stewart.

LOAN TO FRANCE OF $100,000,000 LAUNCHED IN U. S.

Part of Collateral to Be in American Issues—Yield 6 Per Cent.

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—The flotation of a new French loan for $100,000,000 in this country was announced by J. P. Morgan & Co. today. The loan is in the form of two year notes dated April 1 and bearing interest at the rate of 5½ per cent. The notes are being offered to subscribers at 99 and interest, at which price they will yield about 6 per cent.

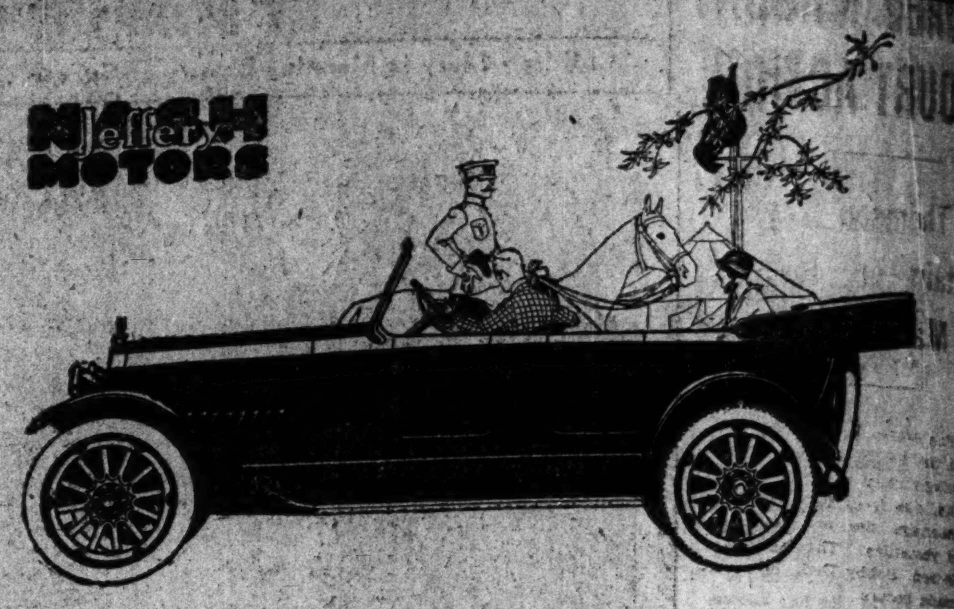
Collateral acceptable to Morgan & Co. is to be deposited at all times equal to 120 per cent of the face value of the notes and these securities may be replaced by others approved by the bankers. Of the collateral $20,000,000 is to be in American securities, including Canadian Pacific issues. The remainder will be bonds of Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Switzerland, Holland, Spain, Egypt, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, province of Quebec, the cities of Berne and Stockholm, and certain Spanish railways and Suez Canal company bonds.

The notes are payable as to principal and interest in francs or dollars at the option of the holder at the fixed rate of exchange of 5¾ francs to the dollar. Should French exchange return to the rate prevailing before the war each $1,000 note would be enhanced by about $110. The notes are exempt from French taxes.

At maturity the notes are convertible into 5½ per cent French bonds to run twenty years.

Youth Seizes Woman's Purse.

A young Negro snatched Mrs. Anna Rountree's pocketbook yesterday as she was walking underneath the elevation of the Wabash railroad in West Sixty-fourth street. He was pursued, but escaped. The pocketbook contained $4.



NASH Jeffery MOTORS

The Smoothest Motor Made

Stand on the Blackstone corner of Michigan Avenue as the six o'clock motor parade swings north and south.

From the traffic jammed boulevard single out the Jeffery Sixes. See how many there are in comparison with other cars in that same price class. Note how they smooth down to a two-mile gait when the copper blows his whistle and when he says "go" how the Jeffery steps away from the rest of the cars at the first touch of the accelerator.

Your first ride in a Jeffery Six will impress you with its smoothness, its lack of vibration at all speeds, and the substantial way that it is built.

Whether the needle says "two" or "sixty" the man at the wheel gets no "electric shock" in his arm,—always the steady smooth flow of power that makes Jeffery motoring a real pleasure.

The Hammock-slung body is stanchly built with extra heavy gauge metal. The light piston assembly and the inherently balanced crankshaft are insurance against vibration.

The Jeffery Six motor has less vibration than any other motor on the market priced under $2,000.

"That car convinced me absolutely that it is a car which my associates and I would be proud to sell over our name to our friends.

"It is a great car—a really great car—a wonderful value—and we can prove it anywhere, any time you say."

C. W. NASH, Pres., Nash Motors Co.

We will prove any statement we make about Jeffery cars alongside of any car on the row in its price class.

The Centaur Motor Co.

A. M. ROBBINS, President

Jeffery cars are being shown temporarily at 2929-37 So. Wabash Ave.—our service station. New salesrooms at Michigan and 23rd St. will be occupied on or about March 15. Phone Calumet 4631.

Dunham Radiator Trap

Dunham Coal Economy Offsets Soaring Coal Prices

JUST so much coal is required to heat a house—to keep it a cozy and healthful place to live. More than just enough is used in a big percentage of Chicago homes. The margin between is waste. And with coal at such high prices this waste runs into a substantial total.

The Dunham Vapor Heating System brings real economy to home heating—the kind of economy which balances high coal prices. No human being can regulate heating to duplicate Dunham economy.

The Dunham Thermostat automatically keeps temperatures stable—saving coal which would be wasted heating rooms beyond reason. It closes dampers at night and opens them in the morning at set hours—saving coal which would be burned at night when too much heat does more harm than good. Yet it assures that the house will be warm at getting-up time.

Dunham Radiator Traps (shown in the circle)—another automatic feature—keep radiators clear of heat-destroying air and water—insuring that radiators will be hot from end to end. It is the trap known the world over to heating engineers as the device that revolutionized vacuum steam heating. Leading architects everywhere use it.

The DUNHAM VAPOR HEATING SYSTEM

is easy to install—a steam fitter can do the work. It applies with the same success to houses already built as to houses being built.

PRESNELL BABY ASSURED NAME IN COURT ACTION

Judge Thomson Lowers Curtain on Joke Marriage.

Mrs. Adeline Millspaugh-Bryant-Presnell, one of the heroines of a "double [illegible]" marriage which came as the end of a joy ride, was freed for the second time of marriage ties by annulment proceedings yesterday. The legitimacy of her little son, Bobby Dick, however, has been made secure.

Judge Thomson cleared up the amazing troubles of little Bobby and his mother, and Lester Bryan and Robert R. Presnell, the two husbands.

The Marriage in Fun.

It was back on the night of April 14, that Miss Adeline Millspaugh and Miss Louise Hollearn went riding in a touring motor car with Lester L. Bryant and Edgar A. Curtis.

They've never been able to tell just who suggested the escapade, but that night there was a double wedding, unplanned, unthought of until the hour the licenses were taken out. Next day four sets of parents took the matter in hand, and the marriages were annulled within a few days.

In August of the same year Adeline Millspaugh married again. The bridegroom this time was Robert R. Presnell, son of Dr. James F. Presnell, an army physician, retired, with the rank of major. The Presnell home is at 4720 [illegible] avenue. A year later little Bobby came into the world. All went happily with the family until the militia was ordered to Texas.

Robert R. Presnell was a corporal in Company H, First Illinois infantry. About the time he was ordered south Lester L. Bryant, the husband of the "joke marriage," alleged the annulment of his marriage was irregularly secured. Testimony was submitted to Judge Heard, and he ruled that the "joke marriage" to Mr. Bryant was still binding. The next day Bryant's suit for divorce, charging desertion, was filed. He was given a divorce.

Presnell Returns.

The court's decision on the Bryant marriage nullified the marriage to Presnell and the stigma of illegitimacy upon the child seemed almost inevitable. Young Presnell, in his tent on the border, heard the story. He rushed home. He found his child and its mother gone. And then comes the story of pursuit to a hidden retreat on an island in northern Wisconsin, forty-five miles from a railroad, where Mrs. Adeline Millspaugh-Bryant-Presnell was in hiding.

At the island castle of Dr. Harold Thomas, wealthy sportsman, Presnell found his wife and baby. Dr. Thomas met the canoe at the landing. He ordered Presnell away. But they were old friends. Soon they parleyed. Though rumor had linked the names of Mrs. Presnell and Dr. Thomas, there, forty-five miles from a railroad, the two men shook hands. Dr. Thomas asserted he was but a protecting friend. Young Presnell turned away and retraced his steps along the deer trails.

He caught a midnight train. The next morning, on his way back to Chicago, the porter tapped him on the shoulder.

"A lady in the drawing room wants to see you, sir."

"I thought I'd better come away," Mrs. Presnell was saying to him a little later, with faltering voice. "I'm going to California to be with my people."

The judge gave her the custody of the boy yesterday.

MELTING POT ADDED TO KIT OF ROBBERS

Melting pot burglars, who, it is believed, have robbed twelve residences of wealthy people in Lake Forest in the last few weeks, added the country home of Mrs. W. S. North to their list recently.

The robbers carry a melting pot in which they melt up the silverware as soon as they have looted a residence to avoid the possibility of the owner's identifying the stolen articles. Chief of Police Walter McGuire of Lake Forest discovered that the burglars had melted up the silverware obtained in the North residence in a church west of the old Elm Golf club, near Fort Sheridan.

Mrs. North and her family were at her residence, 7 West Walton place, Chicago, on the night of the robbery. The thieves ransacked the house and carried off several hundred dollars' worth of silverware and jewelry. Tracks in the road indicated they escaped in an automobile.

FREY TRACED AND HELD AS FORGER; TALE OF A DOG

"Myron Herrick's Nephew," Who Duped Banks, Is Found in the East.

Traced through his wife's black Pomeranian that won a blue ribbon at the Chicago bench show last winter, John C. Frey, who fleeced Chicagoans while posing as the nephew of former Gov. Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, was arrested in New York by Pinkerton operatives yesterday.

Frey had been arrested in Chicago, in the offices of Fred W. Upham, president of the Consumers company, on Feb. 21. He was charged with swindles which totaled $3,500.

Prominent Men Duped.

Among the men he persuaded to cash his checks were:

D. A. Moulton, vice president of the Corn Exchange National bank, $50.

B. E. Sunny, president of the Chicago Telephone company, $125.

J. S. Runnels, president of the Pullman company, $25.

He jumped his bond on March 6. The Pinkertons traced his wife from the Lakota hotel to New York. There they traced her by her prize Pomeranian, which she had placed in a dog hospital, where she had given orders that it be dieted on a certain brand of dog biscuit said to be a tonic for strained canine nerves.

Son of "Katy" Official.

When arrested, Frey declared he was the son of a former president of the "Katy" railroad, and a nephew of former Gov. David R. Francis of Missouri. Forty persons identified him as having swindled them and the New York police decided to hold him for trial there. He is said to have cleaned up $10,000 by forgeries and swindles in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. Isidore Gumbiner, 502 Milwaukee avenue, was on the $1,000 bond which Frey jumped in Chicago.

James Frey, cashier of the Third National bank in St. Louis, said yesterday that he had a brother named John C. Frey, whom he had not seen for many years. The father, he declared, was the former president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road. The New York prisoner has a long police record. He served a term in Sing Sing in 1912.

Police Enforce Quiet About Sick Woman's Home

The police have established a zone of quiet about the residence of Mrs. A. Levine, 4833 Vincennes avenue, because she is seriously ill from pneumonia. For five days policemen have been stationed at the north and south corners of the block to divert traffic into other streets. Mrs. Levine is the wife of a wealthy iron manufacturer.

Just as the resonant, sustained notes of the deep-singing cello are the result of many vibrations turned into one, so the rapid impulses of the Twin-six motor blend and become one sustained, driving force.

It is lost motion put to work—harmony.

Will you ever be worth $1,000,000?

Figures indicate at least 1200 new millionaires in the next few years

THE number of millionaires in the United States is approximately 5600. This is about 1000 more than there were ten years ago.

At the present rate of increase, the new millionaires in the next few years will be at least 1200 more.

Will you be one of them?

Most of the millionaires of today are self-made men. They began poor, enjoyed no special privileges, but won their places in the worth-a-million class by making good use of every opportunity. Did you ever consider how men become millionaires or near-millionaires? Did you ever read the real story of one of these successful men—or hear him tell it?

They didn't start out with a deliberate purpose to acquire a million dollars. Their sole capital was a determination to succeed. They realized early in life and all through life the necessity of knowing, and, therefore, of studying. They didn't "guess" about things, or take them for granted or jump at conclusions.

You have the same chance

You, perhaps, have no desire for great wealth—but you certainly want to succeed in whatever you do, and success in these days does not go unrewarded.

If you have ambition, if you have determination, the way is open. And you can find no surer guide to knowing than the new Encyclopaedia Britannica.

To own and use this wonderful work is to have a steadily increasing working capital of practical knowledge. No matter what your ultimate aim is, or where you begin, you can find in the Britannica just the kind of knowledge that can be applied to the mastery of your problem, whatever it is.

Realize that the Britannica assembles all the latest proved or accepted knowledge on any subject. It affords full and authoritative information on whatever is of special interest to you. It gives you the broad general knowledge which is more and more necessary to make the all-around successful man.

You can't be a great merchant like John Wanamaker if you merely know how to buy at one price and sell at another. For example, you must know how linens and silks are made; what China and Japan and Persia have to sell to American buyers; where the best woolens come from—and thousands of other facts that the Britannica will tell you.

Suppose you aspire to be a noted mining engineer like John Hays Hammond—a thorough knowledge of geology and of modern mining methods is essential. And you also require a vast amount of other information which is contained in the 740 articles in the Britannica relating to the earth's structure, to mining, to gems and minerals as well as to engineering.

Or perhaps your ambition is to be a banker like Henry P. Davison, who rose from a $20-a-week clerkship to a partnership in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. You can't succeed on a mere knowledge of deposits and loans. You must know the practices of the world's financial centers. You must have an understanding of international relations. You must know your own country and the world as well as Mr. Davison knows them, And the Britannica will help you to acquire all this.

A profit of 1000 per cent. or more

Consider the Britannica as an investment—and take a practical illustration. If you were assured that by investing $100 in some enterprise you could make 1000 per cent. profit in 5 or 10 or 15 years, you'd use every honorable means to get the $100.

Do you realize that this is exactly what the Britannica can mean to you? It will give you the very knowledge you need to make you successful. And your success will represent many times more than the original investment you make in buying the Britannica to-day.

This is your last opportunity to own this great work in the "Handy Volume" form, printed on genuine India paper. The few thousand sets in stock are the last that can be printed.

You can buy the complete set (29 volumes) for only $1 down and monthly payments averaging about 10 cents a day (for the cloth binding) for a limited period. Is your future success and financial independence worth the investment of 10 cents a day for a short time?

If it is, send at once for the illustrated book (free) which tells all about the Britannica, gives prices and full information.

ARMY TRAINING FOR ALL A TRUE AMERICAN IDEA

League of Which Chicago Man Is Head Analyzes Chamberlain Bill.

The Universal Military Training league, of which Howard H. Gross of Chicago is president, has made a thorough study of the Chamberlain bill to provide universal training for citizens of the United States. Its deductions are set forth herewith in a series of questions and answers, based on an analysis of the bill, its provisions, and effects. The first question considered was: Is it necessary under the existing conditions? The league views the matter thus:

Our isolation from Europe, regarded in the past as our best safeguard from agression, has been made a thing of the past through modern means of rapid transportation. International relations are becoming more complicated, and there are more sources of danger now than a generation ago.

Peril Ever Present.

Out of the European war the United States has made the most extraordinary gain in wealth in the world's history. While the belligerents have been spending we have been reaping. They have become envious, and as a nation today th United States has few friends. By a narrow margin America has kept out of actual war, but, as the president recently said, "With the world on fire and sparks flying everywhere, we know not what a day may bring forth."

The Monroe doctrine, in the opinion of many thoughtful men, is becoming a menace which at any time may involve us in trouble. It already has caused complications in Mexico. Should a foreign power seek restitution for losses in Mexico, the United States would be forced to interfere or abandon the Monroe doctrine.

Is It a Safeguard?

The second question considered by the league was: Will the establishment of universal military training safeguard the nation?

Training for all would give over 500,000 trained men a year, or 2,500,000 in five years.

The voluntary system has been shown to be a failure in that in a prolonged war voluntary enlistments never were sufficient and conscription had to be used. This was true of the north in the civil war and is true in England today.

The third question was: Will training tend to increase democracy?

Democracy means the rule of the majority and service from all. All need and demand protection, therefore all should share in defense.

The fourth question was: What will training do toward regenerating manhood?

The physical benefits to the youth of America cannot be overestimated. Training develops a boy; after training he stands erect; he knows how to walk correctly; his muscles and lungs are developed.

There is also a commercial value. One hundred large employers were asked to express their opinions, and nearly all agreed that an employé taking this training would be more dependable, more alert, and would have greater initiative, better judgment, and greater strength than one untrained. They said they would give the man who had been trained the preference over the untrained man, other things being equal.

Goethals Says It Is Fair.

Gen. George W. Goethals in discussing the Chamberlain bill recently said:

"It is the most moderate and the most reasonable plan of national training ever devised. One great thing about it is that it is a distinctively American plan. It is not an adaptation of the Australian act, nor is it the Swiss or Argentina systems remodeled to fit the United States.

"Every man owes a duty to his country which he should pay in part by personal service and it is only fair to him that his country should so train him that if ever an emergency arises and he is called upon to serve he may do so in the most efficient manner and with the least personal risk. This was has demonstrated that you cannot take men from the streets and push them into battle. It would mean nothing short of murder; so we must have military training and such training must be universal."

UNIVERSAL TRAINING

The Salient Points of the Chamberlain Bill for Military Preparedness in Defense of the United States.

1. All male citizens, except those who are the sole support of a family, must train in their nineteenth year; no substitutes; all must do their part.
2. Those trained can be called for service only in a defensive war.
3. The trained citizen army cannot be used for police or strike duty.
4. Criminals and notoriously bad characters to be trained separately.
5. No intoxicating liquors or tobacco to be sold or supplied at any military or naval training station.
6. The government pays all expenses, furnishes uniforms, equipment, medical attention, et cetera. Should a person be disabled while training, or en route to or from a training camp, he becomes entitled to a pension.
7. When called for training, young men may express their preference for the branch of service, cavalry, artillery, infantry, aviation corps, engineers' corps, or navy; also for the time of year in which they will take their training. So far as practical their wishes shall be observed.
8. The training will be for six months. Credit up to three months will be allowed those who have had training in schools approved by the federal government.

GEORGE SIKES DENOUNCES CAR FRANCHISE BILL

Calls 30-20 Year Plan Nothing but Fifty Year Deal.

An attack upon the proposed thirty-twenty year franchise bill was made yesterday in the public hearing before the council committee on local transportation by George C. Sikes, formerly secretary of the Municipal Voters' league.

"The companies intrenched behind a long term franchise are beyond control," said Mr. Sikes. "What we are considering is a fifty year franchise. It is called a thirty year, twenty year franchise, but thirty and twenty make fifty. If we are right today, and Mr. Fisher says we are, he owes an apology to the men whose reputations he blasted twenty years ago.

Traction Heads "Grasping."

"The men at the head of these traction companies—Mr. Insull, Mr. Busby, Mr. Beale—are grasping men. They are honorable enough in their dealings with their fellow men, but in their dealings with the city they are grasping.

"This is my first break with Mr. Fisher on local government or local politics, but I don't question the faith of any member of this committee or Mr. Fisher. The traction question in this city is primarily a political one. Those who knew the situation twenty years ago know it was on the traction question that the council was cleaned up."

City Ownership His Favorite.

Municipal ownership is the only way out of the situation, according to Mr Sikes, and he advocates that this be brought about within ten years. Because of the war and the crisis which this country is facing, he said, this is the wrong time to talk about a long term franchise. Mr. Sikes also advocated compelling the traction companies to grant interchangeable transfers between the surface and elevated lines.

After Mr. Sikes had finished speaking Mr. Fisher and members of the committee asked him a number of questions with regard to his recommendations. They wanted to know if he thought the people got the best of the 1907 ordinance, and Ald. Capitain and Block disagreed with him when he said that he thought they had. Ald. Block characterized the 1907 ordinance as an "expensive experiment" for the city.

Ashley Lamb Acquitted of Safeblowing Charge

Ashley Lamb was acquitted by a jury yesterday of a charge of being a member of a band of safeblowers which terrorized Chicago Heights on Oct. 27, 1915.

CRIME OF THE WEEK

A Seven Day Chicago Record.

Murders	2
Holdups	40
Burglaries and larcenies	320
Pickpocket cases	1
Con game cases	4
Stolen autos (not recovered)	4
Safe robberies	1
Bogus check swindles	5

The total of property reported as taken, according to police information, is $27,000, of which $20,000 was in burglaries and larcenies.

TOLEDO HOLDS LOYALTY PARADE

Toledo, O., March 17.—Five thousand persons took part in a patriotic street parade here tonight. Following the demonstration a meeting was held in a public hall "to consider the crisis that confronts the nation and to take such action as will strengthen the hands of President Wilson in his efforts to maintain the rights and uphold the dignity of our country."

The main speaker of the evening was Congressman T. T. Ansberry. The demonstration was given as "vindication of community loyalty," it was announced.

Truck Kills Sweeper; News Surprises Driver

Jacob Falder, 53 years old, of 917 South Keeler avenue met instant death yesterday afternoon under the wheels of an auto truck driven by Joseph Hayes of 1257 South Kedvale avenue while sweeping the street at South Crawford avenue and Taylor street. Hayes denied knowledge of the accident when arrested several blocks away by a Fillmore street motorcycle policeman.

20 PER CENT CUT IN CRIME BRINGS SMILE TO CHIEF

A 20 per cent decrease in the number of holdup robberies for the last week, compared with the week before, inspired Chief Schuettler yesterday to the extent of a broad smile and a shamrock.

That record of fifty "stickups," which the holdup men put over on the police department the previous week, had the chief worried. When his secretary announced yesterday that only forty holdup jobs was the week's quota, the chief was correspondingly happy.

There were 320 larcenies and burglaries reported during the week. Forty automobiles were stolen and one safe robbery netted the thieves $2,500.

YACHTS OFFERED TO GUARD COAST

New York, March 17.—Some of the finest American yachts have been offered to the government for auxiliaries to aid in the defense of the coast in the naval district extending from New London, Conn., to Barnegat, N. J., it was announced today.

Among 375 craft thus far volunteered toward the 500 that the navy department considers a minimum necessary for the district are J. P. Morgan's Corsair, Mrs. E. H. Harriman's Sultana, John Borden's Kanawha, Mrs. John S. Kennedy's Cherokee, George S. Baker Jr.'s Viking, and Vincent Astor's Noma.

Many of the yacht owners not only have offered their vessels free but their crews' services as well.

Michigan Alumni Meet to Boost Student Show

An informal luncheon was given at the Hotel La Salle yesterday by the Chicago Alumni association of the University of Michigan. The principal object of the luncheon was to sell tickets for "Fool's Paradise," an opera written and produced by Michigan students, which will be presented at the Auditorium theater April 13.

ALD. KENNEDY ARGUES FOR M. O. BEFORE WOMEN

Ald. John C. Kennedy, speaking before the Political Equality league yesterday, said:

"What the people of Chicago should do is to serve notice on the Chicago Surface Lines that there will be no more franchises of any kind granted to it under any circumstances. Tell it that the people are ready to take over all of the street car lines in Chicago and have them operated by the people."

"What the people want is service," he continued, "and they know that the street car company will not give them good service for any period of time. Another thing the people want is rapid transit for the outlying districts. All the people need is a strong financial backing and power after the constitutional convention to take over the surface lines."

The other speaker was Ald. Henry Capitain, who also discussed the franchise question.

BAY STATE GETS READY FOR WAR

Boston, Mass., March 17.—The Massachusetts committee on public safety is "trying to get ready for war." This was the explanation made by the executive committee today in a report of its work to the full committee.

"The man who thinks our country has kept itself in a fighting condition and ready for a first class war with a great power is hopelessly blind to a thousand sure indications that we are totally unready," the report says.

"We believe," it adds, "that our governor was correctly voicing the wish of the people of the state, that Massachusetts should at once prepare to assist our government and should strive by every means in her power to anticipate every possible demand the government or the times may make upon her."

The Cadillac Landaulet, $3935

Landaulet—the Body of Distinction
Cadillac—the Chassis of Certainty

Poise, power, character, refinement—all the things that sum up business and social rank—are blended and expressed in the exclusive dignity of this fine car.

In style, the Landaulet is the car of royalty. Its charm and dignity all now admit. In the East it outsells other enclosed types. In year 'round comfort it is supreme—and thoroughly practical.

This latest Cadillac is a new type of Landaulet with windows all around. Rear seat passengers have as free a view as in a limousine, with the advantage of a richer, finer type of car.

The leather back drops down as shown. For warm spring days it is as open as any car need be. In case of storm the top is quickly closed. It cannot leak with this new type construction—as warm and tight as any limousine.

An extra roominess in the bodies of these new Laudaulets is secured by a longer wheel base chassis. This, too, permits wider doors and unusual comfort in the folding seats.

In town or out, this car is "the thing"—as you know if you have toured the East. Its graceful beauty and rich interior will be remarked in any company. Its superb comfort and easy riding will prove a year 'round delight.

Cadillac quality, through and through, means reserve power and steadiness on any road—continuous service of the finest kind—enduring performance that age seems only to improve.

$3935 is all it costs—an extraordinary value as every one knows every Cadillac to be. Finer car cannot be built nor higher price buy more of quality.

Begin now to enjoy real year 'round comfort in this Cadillac Landaulet. Deliveries of two more can be made this month.

LEFT $30,000 TO WOMAN DEAD FOR FOUR YEARS

John M. Wing Bequest Mystifies His Friends and Relatives.

Relatives and friends of the late John M. Wing, wealthy publisher, learned last night from Louisville that Mrs. Margie Parker, to whom he bequeathed $30,000, has been dead for more than four years.

Relatives of Mrs. Parker said they were unable to say how she and Wing were in any way associated. Mrs. Parker left two daughters, Ellen Whipp of Petersburg, Ill., and Anna Myers of Jacksonville, Ill. She is also said to have left a large estate.

Friends of Mr. Wing in Chicago said they knew nothing of a friendship between him and Mrs. Parker, though it was known Mrs. Parker frequently visited Chicago for long periods. In Mr. Wing's will Mrs. Parker was designated as "my friend." Mrs. Parker has a sister, Mrs. Carrie Anderson of Lincoln, Ill., who, it is believed, will claim the $30,000.

DR. SCHUETTLER DUCKS MARCH 17 WITHOUT GRIEF

Dr. Arthur F. Schuettler, son of the chief of police, passed March 17 without mishap. He may hear some time today that his money was robbed from his bank. At least he'll have barked knuckles from knocking on wood.

Oct. 17 was the day he had the blowout on the road from Plano and missed the reception the night before his wedding.

Nov. 17 was the day he was smashed up in an automobile accident on Irving Park boulevard.

Dec. 17 was the day he was operated on for appendicitis.

Skip one.

Feb. 17 was the day he was robbed and battered by four thieves. He landed in the hospital again.

"Wonderful luck so far," he said last night. "I've been mighty careful. Stayed at home all day. But it isn't midnight yet."

Killed by Street Car.

Anton Beloisky of 10037 South May street was killed last night when he was struck by a street car at Vincennes avenue and One Hundredth street. Beloisky was just emerging from behind a fence parallel to the car tracks, separating them from railroad tracks near by, and walked in front of the approaching car.

IN TRAGEDY

Woman Who Admits She Was Innocent Cause of Killing of N. F. Delaney.

Mrs. Arthur Lindenmeyer

REMBRANDT PHOTO

Mrs. Irma Lindenmeyer of 1312 West Van Buren street admitted yesterday she was the "mystery woman" in the fatal shooting of N. F. Delaney by Thomas M. Watson, who was exonerated. Delaney, who sought to be a detective, was killed in the Watson home after he had told Mrs. Watson of supposed flirtations by her husband.

Mrs. Lindenmeyer said she had met Watson by chance on the street and had gone into a café with him. Later she said Delaney, who lived at her home, asked her for some one "to kid," and she gave Watson's name.

BOMB VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED, BUT MYSTERY GROWS

Boston, Mass., March 17.—The positive identification tonight of the second victim of the bomb explosion in the anteroom of the Suffolk county courthouse yesterday as Daniel Brady of this city and the conclusion of experts that the bomb is identical with one that partly wrecked the Harbor police station a few months ago, deepened the mystery surrounding the explosion.

The police theory has been that the hitherto unidentified man had perished by his own bomb and that Louis A. Zelinger, a janitor, had lost his life in trying to take the explosive from the one who carried it.

Tonight, however, Police Superintendent Crowley said he was convinced that Brady did not place the bomb. Witnesses have been found by the police who said an article resembling the infernal machine lay near the ante-room all day yesterday.

The police now are inclined to believe Zelinger found the bomb and was removing it when he bumped into Brady, the bomb dropping to the marble floor and exploding.

DANIELS GIVES RULING UPON NEWS SECRECY

Promises Reports of Sinking American Ships to the Public.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—After a conference today between Secretary Daniels and representatives of the leading American press associations the government began preparation of definite regulations to guide the press in voluntary suppression of information which might be of value to an enemy.

Mr. Daniels took occasion today to inform the press generally that his recent request that movements of American merchant ships be withheld from publication did not mean that arrivals of such ships in American or European ports should not be reported.

"Such arrivals," he said, "could not afford any information that might jeopardize life, and such news would be of the deepest interest to the public and should be published."

Mr. Daniels also gave assurances that no effort would be made to suppress the news if American ships should be sunk.

"If there should be any disaster, of course," he said, "the information would be furnished and it would be expected that the papers would print the facts."

"STOLEN" PEARLS FELL OFF; FOUND

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—The pearl necklace of Mrs. Frank Sullivan Smith of New York, valued at approximately $100,000, was found in the corridor of a hotel here today by a youth, who returned it to Mrs. Smith. The necklace was reported stolen yesterday.

Westerner Gets License to Wed Chicago Girl

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—[Special.]—A marriage license was taken out yesterday at Santa Ana by Charlton P. Brooke Jr., aged 22, and Katherine McKey of Chicago, also 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton P. Brooke, who are wealthy members of the Pasadena social set, declared tonight they knew nothing of the engagement or marriage, or even the identity of Miss McKey.

Relatives or friends of Miss McKey could not be located in Chicago yesterday.

Evanston Film Censor Wins Her Divorce Decree

Mrs. Nevada S. Rose, 809 Washington street, Evanston, moving picture censor of the north shore city, was granted a divorce from Willard N. Rose by Judge Charles M. Thomson in the Circuit court yesterday. She was given the custody of the two minor children. By the terms of the decree an apartment building valued at $17,000 is to be transferred to her by her husband. Mrs. Rose charged intoxication. The Roses were married in 1903 and separated in 1915.

DRUGGIST HELD AS ACCESSORY TO PAY THEFTS

Edgar G. Sollitt, a druggist at 1300 North Crawford avenue, who was implicated in the confessions of three men, was locked up at the detective bureau yesterday. He is charged with being accessory after the fact to several pay roll robberies. The police say the robbers stored their weapons and divided their loot in his shop.

Sollitt became involved through statements by John McGovern, Fred Carlson, and Alfred Hart, held to the grand jury on several charges, and identified as the men who robbed Dr. Arthur Schuettler, son of Chief of Police Schuettler, several weeks ago. Sollitt said he thought the men had gathered in his store for "friendly chats."

Policeman William C. Kelly, who committed suicide by turning on the gas in his home Friday night, after he had been exonerated of charges made by one of the same bandits, will be buried from his residence, 1040 North Crawford avenue, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

VETERAN LAWYER IS FOUND DEAD; SUICIDE, THEORY

The body of William W. Rathbun, 67 years old, a former well known Chicago attorney, was discovered yesterday in his room at the Chicago hotel, 22 South Clark street. Gas flowing from an open jet and the fact that the man's body was partly clad caused the police to suspect suicide.

Rathbun was born in Greenville, Pa., and before becoming an attorney took a course in art. His wife was Emma D. Barge of Dixon, Ill. Rathbun practiced law in Dixon and Rock Island, Ill., before coming to Chicago, where he specialized in writing briefs for other lawyers. His offices were in the Chicago Title and Trust building. He was known to be in financial difficulties recently.

Dr. Frank D. Rathbun of New Windsor, Ill., supposed to be a brother, has been notified.

SOCIETY SEES WAR FILMS AT CASINO CLUB

Society, or a goodly portion of it, spent St. Patrick's night in the trenches on the European battle fronts. At least, it got a good idea of what modern warfare really is, for "movies" of scenes which occurred during actual engagements were shown to it at the Casino club.

The films depicted the work of the American ambulance corps and the American Red Cross, and were shown to illustrate a lecture given by Luke Doyle, who came to the United States to further interest in the two organizations.

Scenes showing soldiers hurling hand grenades from the trenches, ambulance workers picking up wounded men under fire, and field hospitals in operation were among the more thrilling portions of the films.

CARRANZA CHIEF LOST 1,200 BY VILLA VICTORY?

Murguia Said to Have Met a Severe Defeat in Rosario Fight.

El Paso, Tex., March 17.—Gen. Murguia lost approximately 1,200 men in killed, wounded and missing at the battle of Rosario, according to a foreign refugee who arrived here tonight from Chihuahua City.

Murguia also lost six cannon, fifteen machine guns, and large quantities of stores and ammunition, according to this man, who also confirmed the capture of Jimenez by Villa.

This foreigner also reported that when Villa entered Parral Tuesday he ordered two Germans and seven Syrians executed on charges of aiding the government troops.

Villa Draws Foes Into Trap.

The Carranza troops, according to this account, were led by a subordinate in the absence of Gen. Murguia, who was in Chihuahua City. They came into contact with Villa's main band about ten miles north of Rosario last Saturday. Villa pretended defeat and retreated to Rosario. The government troops followed and encamped that nght a few miles above the town.

Led into a false sense of security by Villa's feigned defeat, the government soldiers were lying around their camp Sunday morning when they were caught completely off their guard by a surprise attack. The men on foot were practically all killed, wounded, or captured. The cavalry, however, managed to escape. It was said the entire number of survivors did not exceed 800 out of the 2,000 engaged.

Denies Obregon-Carranza Break.

A statement by Carranza Consul Eduardo Soriano Bravo tonight denied that Gen. Obregon was leading a new political movement in Mexico and announced that he would continue to serve in the Carranza provisional cabinet until May 1, when Carranza would be inaugurated president and would appoint his new cabinet. This, the consul said, was positive proof that Obregon's loyalty to the government was unquestioned by Gen. Carranza.

The German question, which has been hinted at in connection with the rumors, took definite form today when it was said Gen. Obregon was known to be friendly with the Germans in Mexico City.

WATERMAN TO BE GIVEN LAST HONORS TODAY

Many Chicagoans of prominence will pay their respects to the memory of Arba N. Waterman at funeral services to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in his home, 649 Groveland park.

The Rev. Thomas A. King of Cleveland, who conducted the funeral of Mrs. Waterman two years ago, will have charge of the services. Services at the chapel in Oakwoods cemetery, where burial will take place, will be in charge of U. S. Grant post No. 38, G. A. R., commanded by Gilbert R. Tucker. A number of veterans of the civil war commanded by Lieut. Col. Waterman during that conflict will be present.

Active pallbearers, close friends and fellow members of Mr. Waterman in the Hamilton club, will be E. A. Dicker, Henry C. Morris, Royal F. Munger, Fred W. Pringle, Frederick A. Rowe, and Charles S. Woodard.

Committees representing the Hamilton club and the Chicago Bar association will attend the services.

DUST

Don't Beat Rugs or You May End Up in Jail.

HOUSEWIVES who have been making plans for their spring house cleaning had better look up section 1437 of the Chicago code of 1911 before they begin, or they will find themselves in trouble with the police. This was announced yesterday by Health Commissioner Robertson after he had received a letter from Chief Schuettler.

"I have been receiving a large number of complaints about the beating of rugs," said Dr. Robertson, "so I wrote to the chief about the matter. He sent back a letter stating that the ordinance which provides, in part, 'No mat, carpet, or cloth shall be shaken or beaten,' so that the dust shall fly around in the wind, will be strictly enforced, and that he had informed all the members of the department to that effect."

ERMINA CARRY LANDS SAFELY IN NEW YORK

Word was received yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Carry of 1100 Lake Shore drive that Miss Ermina Carry, their debutante daughter, who had renounced the season's gayeties here for work in London among the wounded soldiers, had arrived safely in New York in the morning. Mrs. Carry, who left last Thursday for New York to meet her daughter, telegraphed that she did not know when they might be expected home, but those in the house hope to see her and her daughter either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Miss Carry left for England several weeks before Christmas in company with Mrs. Harry Gordon Selfridge and her daughter, Violette, of London, who had been visiting here for some time. Miss Selfridge and Miss Carry had been together often at debutante parties of the season and when the Selfridges left for home Miss Carry accompanied them.

She had taken a number of training courses in emergency nursing. Together the girls went daily to a hospital near Highcliffe castle, the out of town residence of the Selfridge family, and were later assigned to hospital work in London.

Miss Carry has returned with the intention of helping her own country in case of necessity.

PERSHING IN NEW INSPECTION TRIP

San Antonio, Tex., March 17.—Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing left San Antonio tonight on another inspection tour of the border. He was accompanied by Col. Malvern Hill Barnum, his chief of staff, and Lieut. James L. Collins, his aide.

This is the third trip Gen. Pershing has made to the border in a few weeks. He is making a careful survey of the entire river patrol and studying conditions and the arrangement of the organization of the regular army.

On this trip he will go from El Paso westward as far as Yuma, Arizona.

Ira Bond Goes to Trial Tomorrow in Auto Cases

Ira Bond is scheduled to be placed on trial before Judge Brothers tomorrow on charges of receiving stolen property in connection with the thefts of automobiles by the so-called "automobile thieves' trust."

CUMMINS FAINTS DURING SPEECH ON FILIBUSTER

Senator in Hospital After Collapse — Replies to Wilson Criticism.

New York, March 17.—United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa was removed to a hospital here this afternoon after he had collapsed during a speech at the Republican club. While he protested that he did not need aid, his friends forced him to ride to the hospital.

Later it was announced that his condition was not serious. His collapse was attributed to a fainting spell. He would be removed shortly to the home of a friend, it was stated.

Answers Wilson's Criticism.

Senator Cummins, one of the "little group of willful men" mentioned by President Wilson at the close of the recent senate filibuster, alluded today to that situation.

"The charge that I engaged in a conspiracy to defeat legislation by prolonging the debate upon it until the expiration of congress is false, and was known to be false by those who gave it publicity," he said.

Senator Cummins asserted he opposed the legislation solely because it attempted to confer on the president the power to make war.

Protests He's Doing Duty.

"My ancestors," he added, "were Americans a full half century before the liberty bell proclaimed the independence of the colonies of the new world. I intend to do what little I can to maintain what they helped to create, and no storm of censure, criticism, or abuse can turn me one hair's breadth from the path of my duty, which, no matter how it may appear to others, lies so straight and clear before me that it can neither be mistaken nor misunderstood."

Senator Cummins alluded to Germany's method of submarine warfare as "the last product of the devil's arsenal."

LOWDEN REBUFFS SUFFRAGE GROUP

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—Gov. Frank O. Lowden declined today to lend his support to the Suffrage Amendment alliance, which is seeking an amendment to the state constitution proposing complete suffrage for women.

To a delegation of the alliance the governor said he was heartily in favor of suffrage, but felt that it would be provided in the new constitution of the state to be drafted by a constitutional convention.

Care of Chicago Children Neglected in 198 Schools

The first issue of the Bulletin of Safety published by the public safety commission of Chicago which appeared yesterday shows that of the 308 schools investigated during the last two months 198 have neither warning signs for automobiles and street cars nor policemen to keep children from the streets during recess and on their way home. The schools bordering on the lopo, the report read, where care is most needed, have no protection.

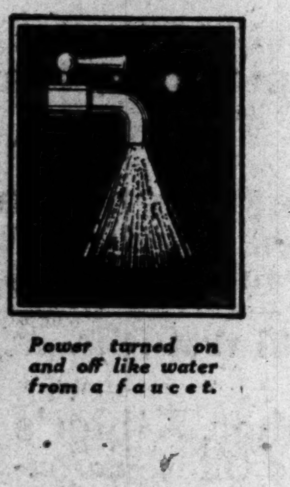
Power Control Gives Desired Flexibility



Power turned on and off like water from a faucet.

Every motorist demands flexibility in his car—instant response to every driving need.

And he has been told to look under the hood to find it.

Thus he is woefully misled!

Flexibility is not power—it is power control!

And the Owen Magnetic is the only gas car which gives a noticeably greater degree of flexibility than any other automobile.

Because of the marvelous magnetic transmission used in the Owen Magnetic, the power turns on and off like water. At the mere touch of the small finger-lever on the steering wheel, the power flows from the engine to the rear wheels with the smoothness of water pouring from a faucet.

And like all masterpieces, the Owen Magnetic is conspicuous because of its charming simplicity, both in mechanical construction and operation.

Words alone cannot convey to you the great desirability of the Owen Magnetic. You must ride in it—drive it—and then you will fully appreciate what flexibility and comfort really are.

Just 'phone for demonstration appointment. There is absolutely no obligation.

FORESEES LABOR SWAYING EUROPE AFTER THE WAR

Writer Predicts Changes for Better Likely in Great Britain.

BY NORMAN HAPGOOD.

[Copyright: 1917: By Norman Hapgood.]

LONDON—Early March.—Europe after the war will be a new Europe. On that point everybody agrees. It will be fascinating to watch the attitude of the laboring class and what it will expect and demand.

It has been treated as one of the great powers, to be consulted considerately; it has been called upon for sacrifices and concessions, and it has received encouraging promises. Germany began under the leadership of Bismarck to use the state as a means of bringing about better labor conditions, and as the war has progressed there have been governmental promises that political liberalization, or increased self-government, will come with peace.

France has no special labor question on her hands except the problem of taking care of the disabled soldiers and their families, but her Socialist party is strong and is taking an active interest in the future.

Big Changes in Britain.

It is in England that the most sweeping changes in the position of labor are to be expected, since England has been going along mainly on the doctrine of laissez-faire until the last few years, and now she finds herself by this struggle led to take a wholly fresh view of industrial class relations.

The most prominent labor leaders believe labor is to be much more consulted in government after the war than it was before. More important, they are convinced that in some way or other it is also to receive a larger percentage of the total production.

One valuable lesson the war is teaching to the laboring men is that most of the prevailing capitalistic ideas about what is industrially possible can be thrown overboard when the desire to accomplish something is sufficiently strong.

The laborers see enormously expensive machinery thrown on the scrap heap every day without a moment's hesitation if a more efficient machine is invented. That is war machinery, and the change is made immediately because of the importance of the issue. The country inevitably will remember such decisions and such enterprise when after the war the old cry is raised that this, that, or the other improvement cannot be afforded.

Labor Congress Backs Government.

The labor congress at Manchester took up the question of what labor has a right to expect from the government after the war. There were 750 delegates, representing two and a quarter million members. The gathering was of the opinion that the governmental control of railways and coal mines, brought about by the war, should be completed after the war. Also that agriculture should have some kind of government supervision along similar lines.

This last point about agriculture receives a graphic reinforcement from the experience of the commission for relief in Belgium. It has been proved there that by selling through community stores it is possible, not only to reduce the cost of the necessities of life in the stores themselves but also to bring down the price in the independent stores through the influence of competition.

This lowering of price in Belgium has been accomplished by eliminating the cumbersome and expensive machinery of distribution and credit. Goods are sold only for cash, and the purchasers have to carry away their own purchases.

Purchasers Protect Selves.

One interesting detail is the opportunity the purchaser has to protect himself regarding the quality of the food he procures. The different bakers, for instance, exhibit their bread in hangers or racks, side by side, the purchaser selects for himself, and the baker is paid according to the amount of his bread chosen.

It is not a bad guess that the principal belligerent nations after the war will take steps bearing on the cost of living that an Englishman or an American before the war would have deemed violently socialistic.

At the Manchester conference, which was attended not only by the British labor delegates but by representatives from France and Belgium, all the French delegates spoke warmly in favor of internationalism after the war, and some wished it continued even during the war in the way of congresses.

M. Louis Dubreuihl, representing the majority of the French Socialist party, spoke not only for a close union of the proletariat all over the world but for a peace that was not a peace for territories or anexations. Deputy Jean Languet, a member of the minority of the French Socialist party, demanded that any peace offers from belligerents should be sympathetically examined.

Voting Done in Secret.

I happen to know from the inside a good deal more about the votes at Manchester than has been published, as the real voting is done in secret the day before the meeting begins.

The engineers had 136,000 votes, represented by a delegation of twenty-four. They were cast in favor of resolutions that amounted to a vote of confidence in the present British government and its method of conducting the war. The actual vote, however, was 11 to 10 among the delegates, one being absent.

The General Workers' union had 130,000 votes. The delegation was equally divided and the 130,000 votes were cast for the government on the vote of the chairman.

The miners had 600,000 votes. The minority among their delegates on the various resolutions ranged from a quarter to nearly a half.

On the day before the conference the delegates who were in favor of a more pacific, international, or negotiating attitude got together and found they were able to cast 300,000 votes. They also estimated that minorities, which they could not cast, totaled 500,000. After making all due allowances for the strength of the minority vote, however, it should be stated that the votes cast against the coalition government were a smaller percentage of the whole than were cast against the government last year at Bristol.

PNEUMONIA

Dr. Robertson Warns Persons with Colds to Beware of Complications.

NOW THAT the health department has the scarlet fever situation well in hand, it is confronted with another disease which is fatal to a large number of persons every day, according to an announcement made yesterday by Health Commissioner Robertson.

"There is a lot of talk about the deaths caused from scarlet fever and diphtheria, which average about three or four a day," said the health commissioner, "but nobody thinks anything about pneumonia. In the last nine days the deaths from pneumonia have averaged twenty-eight a day, which is pretty high. I would advise all persons who are suffering from colds, especially in this damp weather, to take particular care of themselves."

OBITUARY.

WILLARD T. BLOCK, formerly prominent in railroad circles, and at the time of his death treasurer and trustee of the Grant Land association, Railway Exchange building, died unexpectedly at his home, 3123 Calumet avenue, yesterday. He was born and educated at Columbia, Pa., and entered the Reading railroad service at the age of 14. Later he moved west and built the Diagonal railway, in Iowa. He was a colonel on Gov. Larrabee's staff. He was a member of his Union League and South Shore clubs. At one time he was also vice president of the Sons of the American Revolution. He married Miss Anna Scott of Cedar Rapids, Ia., niece of Col. Thomas A. Scott, president of the Pennsylvania railway. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence.

FREDERICK W. BYRAN of 1423 Kenilworth avenue, a pioneer Chicago real estate dealer, was buried last week in Rosehill. He died on Monday after an illness of one day. Mr. Bryan was born in Chicago on May 13, 1848, on Clark street at the present site of the Chicago postoffice. His father, F. A. Bryan, was an early settler, coming to Chicago in 1836. Throughout his life he has been interested in horticulture and had one of the finest Japanese gardens in the country. He was a member of the Chicago Horticultural society, the Chicago Historical society, and the Chicago Athletic club. Mr. Bryan is survived by a widow and one daughter.

Some are Misled
By Seeming Likeness to the HUDSON SUPER-SIX

Don't judge cars, or choose between them, by a half-hour demonstration. Nearly any new car, without competition, seems an excellent performer. But the paramount question covers years to come. And that cannot be settled in that way.

Mark These Great Distinctions

The Super-Six motor, in outer aspects, seems like a hundred light sixes. The cylinder size is common. The type doesn't look unique.

Clever salesmen, unchecked by proofs, often class other sixes with it. Or even depict an advantage.

But remember that Hudson long built the finest light Six produced. And the Super-Six invention, as proved by common, standard tests, increased its efficiency 80 per cent. That's a very wide difference, you know.

Salesmen of V-types—Eights and Twelves—often call them the newer type. But we built both for testing long before the Super-Six. And we quit them only when the Super-Six proved its vast supremacy.

Mark how this invention stopped the trend toward V-types. And returned the sovereignty of Motordom to a light and simple Six.

What of the Future?

The question is, What will five years show? Or perhaps one year, or two? That must be shown by long, hard tests, under a fearful strain.

It has been shown with the Super-Six.

It was shown by driving 3,000 miles, at speed exceeding 80 miles per hour, without evident wear on any part or bearing.

It was shown by driving 1819 miles in 24 hours—breaking all like records by 52 per cent.

It was shown by driving from coast to coast in by far the record time. Then turning around and breaking the records back.

It was shown by beating—again and again—the costliest racers with a Super-Six. Simply by keeping going.

The Beauty Question

Standing alone, many a car looks handsome. But their beauty pales beside a Super-Six. The latest Hudson models were first molded in wax. Then sculptured by artists to utter perfection. Then built by master craftsmen. Then finished and trimmed and upholstered as cars never were before.

Hudsons are not merely handsome, but right. The styles will endure. That is one reason why Hudsons now outsell any other front-rank car.

Remember These Facts

The Hudson Super-Six, in the past year, has won all the worth-while records. It has shown itself the supreme performer in every sort of feat.

That fact is recorded in a hundred records, many of them official. Let no more claims outweigh them.

And those records prove super-endurance. Its speed tests, its hill climbs, its long distance records—all were won by that.

The whole advantage of the Super-Six lies in minimizing friction. Motor wear is almost nothing. That was ever the chief aim in motor car engineering. It is, by all odds, the chief thing to consider.

The Super-Six is a Hudson patent. That's why every ruse and scheme is used to minimize it. To choose that motor means to choose the Hudson. And you'll do that when you know.

6,600 DONORS TO CHARITY ASSIST 66,000 IN YEAR

80 Per Cent of the Funds Goes to Aid Families, Report Shows.

The "family relief and rehabilitation" department of the United Charities used more than 80 per cent of the organization's disbursements during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1916. This is shown in the new year book, "The Poor in the Midst of Prosperity," which is being distributed.

Financial statements show that of the total disbursement of $254,300 by the relief department only 7.3 per cent was used for administration and 10.7 per cent for equipment and maintenance of the eleven district offices.

6,600 Contributors.

While there were only 6,000 contributors, ten times that number of individuals were befriended, according to the report. It makes the following recommendations:

A larger number of givers and better financial support for the United Charities.

More social service district buildings.

More facilities for the care of convalescents.

To Aid Prisoners' Families.

Continuation and perfection of the payment of their earnings to prisoners' families.

A desertion bureau.

A farm colony for inebriates.

Study of health insurance.

A general charities building.

BEING A FOOL NO CRIME, JUDGE FREES JURYMAN

Declaring the only question before the court was "whether he should have been punished for being a fool," Judge Fitch yesterday dismissed the charges against George F. Brown, a member of the October grand jury who was accused of having telephoned grand jury secrets to Albert Mohr, a south park commissioner.

It was alleged Brown told Mohr that "things looked black" for former Chief Healey, in the testimony of the alleged bribers, Thomas Costello and Lieut. A. M. White. There were twenty-nine interrogatories and Brown admitted all save the ones bearing directly on his guilt.

"Brown is deserving of the contempt of the community," said Judge Fitch. "He wasn't fit to serve on that jury. There doesn't seem to have been an attempt to obstruct justice."

Brown claimed the conversation related alone to his candidacy for alderman.

Oldest Woman Doctor in City Ousted from Home

Dr. Mary Vincent, nearing her eightieth year, sought refuge in the Hyde Park police station yesterday after her effects had been deposited on the sidewalk in front of the residence of Mrs. Mary Banks, 5519 Kenwood avenue. It is understood she will be cared for by Dr. Jennie Cohn of 555 West North avenue.

Dr. Vincent is the oldest woman physician in Chicago. She has practiced nearly forty-five years and is known as a pioneer exponent of city hospitals to serve as local adjuncts to the county hospital. She was graduated from the University of Michigan.

Of late years she has not practiced and has been in want. Until yesterday she had been at home in 5519 Kenwood avenue, but was ejected, she told the police.

SOX ROUT FOES IN FIRST REAL BATTLE

CORBETT LOST CROWN TO FITZ 20 YEARS AGO

"Fight of Century" Story Told by Referee Siler and Principals.

'FIGHT OF THE CENTURY'

Twenty years ago on March 17, 1897, at Carson City, Nev., Robert Fitzsimmons knocked out the champion of that day, Jim Corbett, in the fourteenth round in what probably was the greatest battle in heavyweight pugilistic history.

George Siler acted as referee. Mr. Siler died in 1908. At the time of his death he was "The Tribune's" fight expert.

Bob Fitzsimmons is now on the coast, where he is reported to be contemplating pugilistic work.

Jim Corbett is in New York resting after a season's work on the stage.

Accounts of the fight by the three principals, as they appeared in "The Tribune" on the morning of March 18, 1897, are reproduced herewith.

BY GEORGE SILER.

Carson City Nev., March 17.—[Special.]—The fight of the century has been won and lost.

It was by long odds the best contest I ever saw. It was clean throughout and there was never even a suspicion of foul work on either side.

Fitzsimmons today ranks head and shoulders above all living pugilists. It is a question whether the world will ever see his equal. I know that he weighed 157½ pounds and that Corbett scaled 183 or more. That a man giving away this amount of weight should be a 10 to 7 second choice is not to be wondered at.

This weight matter is no guess. It is founded upon actual fact gathered from unimpeachable sources. While Bob found it difficult to land on his opponent at times, the latter cleverly evading the hammerlike leads of the lanky one, he worked with a confidence and nerve which evidenced his ultimate desire to land just one.

Fitz Always Smiling.

There were stages in the contest in which Bob and his blood bespattered body looked as though he was having a hard time of it. He kept up his good natured grin throughout, however. Every time that Corbett landed on him his face expanded into a broad grin, and then, gritting his teeth, he would bore in and on.

From the beginning the fight bore the earmarks of a spectacular affair, but with the finish came a scene such as I never hope to witness again.

I jumped out of the ring as soon as I found an opportunity to declare Fitzsimmons the winner with the intention of avoiding any sort of argument with the losing side.

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

[Copyright: 1897.]

Sacramento, Cal., March 17.—I came out of the ring today a defeated man. I believe in the main I fought as well as I ever fought in my life, but luck was against me. The blow which won the fight for Fitz was in a large measure an accidental one. It was a left hook, and it caught me directly under the heart.

When I received it I went to my knees. I am told that he struck me another left hander on the jaw while I was sinking. I did not feel that. It was the punch under the heart that defeated me. My brain was clear and I could see everything that was going on around me, but I could not move a muscle and I felt as if I could not take a breath.

Protest Against Count.

I could not even move my lips. It was almost a case of complete paralysis. After awhile I gained partial control of my limbs and edged along toward the ropes on my knees. I held onto the top rope with my hand and tried to draw myself to my feet. I was unable to do so. I raised my left hand in protest against being counted out, as I knew that the seconds were slipping away. At last I stood erect, but it was too late.

I felt that I was full of fight, and it seemed to me to be a terrible thing to have a defeat accorded against me under such conditions.

I had no idea that I had been struck in any way, nor have I now. It was a legitimate punch, and the man who delivered it is entitled to every credit for his victory.

Enraged After Knockout.

When it flashed across my mind that I was counted out, I grew desperate. I rushed over to Fitzsimmons and fell upon him. I was frenzied. I remember crawling down under the ropes when I reached him; then friends pulled me away. If I had been knocked out by a blow on the jaw, or, in fact, any kind of a punch that would have lulled me into temporary forgetfulness, I would not have cared, but to lose the championship when I was strong and winning, as I consider I was in every round, was wormwood to me. My trainers and seconds kept me from reaching Fitz again until I cooled down somewhat.

Then I felt it was my duty to acknowledge defeat, and I grasped the hand of the man who took the championship from me. I went over to him and we shook hands. "Fitzsimmons, you have defeated me fairly and squarely and I give you every credit for your achievement. I still think, though, that I can lick you, and I believe honest men who witnessed the fight will bear me out."

BY ROBERT FITZSIMMONS.

Carson City, Nev., March 17.—I have fought and won the last prize fight I ever will engage in. It has given me the additional joy of proving that a middleweight could dispose of a heavyweight, and on this particular occasion I have wiped out, too, insults against me by the man I whipped.

For five years, although I have had the opposition of the press and the sporting fraternity and various authorities, it has been my ambition to meet James J. Corbett in a fight to a finish, Marquis of Queensberry rules. Unmindful of the right I had to challenge him, and totally ignoring the quality of my record, he maligned me, spat in my face, refused to take my hand, and otherwise exhibited conduct unbecoming a gentleman. It took the combined efforts of his manager, Dan Stewart, and the public mind to get him to confront me, so either one or the other could prove superiority.

Old Bat Nelson Scores Knockout at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—[Special.]—Battling Nelson knocked out Pierce Mathews in the eighth round of their scheduled twelve round bout tonight with a heavy right to the body, following a steady battering which the Battler kept up all through the earlier rounds. In the third a left hook sent Mathews down for a count of four. In the fifth he took nine from a right to the jaw.

The only round in which Mathews showed well was the second, when honors were about even. Mathews appeared scared, and confined his efforts to left jabs, with which he succeeded in closing Nelson's eye. It was an old fashioned sluggish match from Nelson's standpoint.

CUBS REVERT TO 1916 FORM AND LOSE, 3-2

CUB BOSSES QUIT

San Francisco, March 17.—President Weeghman and Vice President Walker viewed the game and decided to pull out for Chicago tomorrow afternoon, as both apparently have seen as much as they can stand. During the game they conversed with Johnny Powers, owner of the Los Angeles club, who came up to try to get two or three Cub recruits, but no business was done.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

San Francisco, Cal., March 17.—[Special.]—Chicago's remodeled Cubs seem to have swung into their last season's stride. Some bad defensive playing with their hands and feet and minds caused their defeat again today by the San Francisco Seals, who galloped off with the victory by a score of 3 to 2. Once more the celebrated ocean fog failed to appear, so all the folks present, and there were 4,000 of them, saw just how bad the Cubs looked.

Rube Oldham, former American league hurler with Detroit, was on the rubber for Frisco and set the Cubs down just as if he belonged to the White Sox. However, if the Chicagoans hadn't blown up in their fielding they would have licked the former Detroiter in spite of their weakness with the stick.

Elliott's Wild Heave Costly.

In the second round the Cubs walloped home one run, well earned, and followed by earning one in the second. From then on they were null and void. Frisco banged one home in the first and should never have scored again, but Rowdy Elliott, a favorite in this burg, ran amuck in the fifth. He heaved a bill in the direction of second base trying to head off a runner, and not only did it sail over Steve Yerkes' head but it bounced through Cy Williams in center field and let the tying run get home all the way from first base.

To make matters worse, Elliott allowed the Seals to turn a double steal on him a moment later for the winning run, and it was the pitcher who came in from third. He was almost home before Rowdy threw to second, but Rowdy pegged just the same, and pegged with such ardor that Wolfe couldn't hold the ball at second.

Carter and Aldridge Good.

Nick Carter and Vic Aldridge, two former Indianapolis hurlers, did the slabbing for the Cubs and turned out some good stuff. It wasn't their fault that the boys were licked. Nick tossed 'em over for four rounds, allowing one run, and Vic finished with a splendid curve ball and plenty of speed, but his mates blew up on him in the critical spot. Score:

SOX YANNIGANS WIN BY RALLY, 3-1

Dallas, Tex., March 17.—[Special.]—"Won in the ninth" was dramatized by the Sox Yannigans today. Dallas, Doc White's team, which conquered the Giants last week, led at the start of the ninth, 1 to 0. Bruce Hartford then led an assault which resulted in three runs, and the Yannigans won, 3 to 1.

Pitcher Lewis of Dallas had a great spitball and the Sox were practically helpless up to the finish. Red Faber started Dallas with a score off him before a man was out, then he steadied and showed the best stuff of the season. He fanned four straight men. Benz relieved him in the sixth and was invincible.

Owner Comiskey and his party enjoyed the game. They waited to see the regulars play here tomorrow. The Yannigans leave tonight for Fort Worth, where they play tomorrow. Score:

EVANSTON PREPS ANNEX TITLE IN MIDWAY TOURNEY

BY MAROON.

Battling five minutes overtime, Evanston High school of the Suburban league annexed the central states basketball championship in the University of Chicago tournament last night by beating Freeport, Ill., 27 to 22. Third honors went to Waite High of Toledo, which swamped St. Johns Military academy of Delafield, Wis., 33 to 4.

At half time of the titular clash Freeport held the advantage, 14 to 12. At the close of the second period the count was 20 all. Three times the official timekeeper attempted to stop play at the end of regulation time, but the gun proved defective, and grabbing a whistle from another official, he broke up play just as a Freeport man shot toward the ring and caged a basket. Referee Des Jardien ruled the basket was not legal.

Nine Points in Extra Period.

During the extra period Helstrom shot two ringers and Carney one, and Phelan a free throw for the suburbanites, while Kennedy made the two points for the visitors. Helstrom and Carney divided the victors' honors, each dropping five through the hoop.

The battle for third place was a frolic for the Toledo team, which led all the way. At half time the Ohioans were in front, 14 to 2. In this combat Ballmer featured with seven ringers.

The medal for best individual play went to Chester Langenstein, captain of the Freeport five. One of the largest crowds of the season jammed its way into the gymnasium.

Results of Semi-Finals.

Evanston won its way into the final by downing St. Johns M. A., 27 to 11, while Freeport won from Toledo, 31 to 18, in the afternoon semi-final round. Lineups:

CRAZY KENNEDY, DETECTIVE

Words AND Pictures

BY RING W. LARDNER

CHAPTER 1.

ONE morning I climbed the dingy stairs leading to Crazy Kennedy's laboratory, and instead of walking right in, as usual, I jokingly rapped at the door.

"Come in, Mrs. Holloway!" called the voice of my friend.

I opened the door and entered.

"Aha, Kennedy!" I cried. "You were expecting a lady caller. I'm sorry to disappoint you. I had no idea you were a gay Lothario."

"Nonsense, Morrison," replied Crazy petulantly. "Don't be flippant. A client named Mrs. Holloway just phoned that she was coming right up for a consultation. As her case promises to be most interesting, I am glad you will be present."

Hardly had he finished speaking when there was another rap at the door, and this time, in response to Kennedy's "Come in!" a well preserved woman of 23 entered.

CHAPTER 2.

"Mr. Kennedy," she said, after removing her hat, coat, and shoes, "I am the unhappiest girl in the world."

"Corns?" inquired Kennedy, observing her discarded footwear.

"Oh, yes," the visitor answered. "But they are the least of my troubles. I will tell you everything. My name is Bertha Holloway. Two years ago I married George Holloway, and up to the middle of last month we were perfectly happy. But in the last three weeks I have been made miserable. For three successive Saturday nights he has not come home until after midnight."

"Up to the middle of last month we were perfectly happy."

"The idea!" commented Kennedy. "And have you inquired the reason for his strange conduct?"

"No," said Mrs. Holloway. "To tell you the truth, I fear to learn the real reason. But I have strong suspicions that he is romping around with other women."

"I wouldn't jump at conclusions, Mrs. Holloway," comforted Crazy. "What basis have you for suspecting him?"

CHAPTER 3.

"It embarrasses me to speak of it," she replied, "but I suppose, if you are to help me, you must know everything."

"I do," said Kennedy modestly.

"Well," she said, "on each of the Saturday nights referred to, after he has come home and retired, he has talked in his sleep. And his conversation has been of the most incriminatory character. It could only be the talk of one who is living a double or a treble life."

"What does he say?" asked my friend.

"Here are some of the fragments that I recall," said his client: "'I've only got two ladies'; 'They're all pink'; 'Jack's full' (Jack is the name of one of his best friends); 'I'm Pat' (evidently he himself is using a fictitious name); 'Aunty' (George has no aunts, and neither have I, so this must be a reference to some relative of the girls he is associating with); 'A nice hand' (he never said that about mine); 'Tray full' (evidently ordering wine or beer);——"

"I'm Pat."

"That will do, Mrs. Holloway," interrupted my friend. "I believe I have solved your mystery. Instead of only three or four rivals, you have fifty-two."

"What!" whatted the visitor.

"Your husband," continued Crazy, "is not playing false; he is playing cards. He has evidently joined a Saturday evening poker club."

"The devil you say!" replied the bride.

"That will do, Mrs. Holloway!" said Kennedy sternly. "I will not stand for such language in the presence of my friend here."

"And when you go out," I added, "don't forget your shoes."

I. A. C. FIVE WINS NATIONAL TITLE FROM UTAH TEAM

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

The Illinois Athletic club returned the national basketball championship to Chicago after a lapse of two years by downing Brigham Young university of Provo, Utah, in a whirlwind game, 27 to 14, at the Second regiment armory last night. The Utah tossers matched speed with speed and brawn with brawn, but could not flip baskets with as much skill as the local five, and this was responsible for the outcome.

In the first game of the night to decide third honors in the National A. A. U. tournament, Montana State college of Bozeman, Mont., outplayed Seward Park Blues of Chicago, 16 to 9. This was a wild conflict, more like football than basketball in many spots. Failure to shoot free throws lost the Blues their chance. Six of the seven players tried their skill at free tosses, but the combined ability of the squad could net only five of eighteen chances.

I. A. C. Leads at Interval.

The I. A. C. ran up a lead of 17 to 8 in the first half, but the disparity in points represented only better aim on basket shooting, as the Utah players covered the floor as well and guarded just as closely as the formidable six footers of the Michigan avenue club. The Tricolor club was outplayed most of the second half, but luck on the shooting was against their foemen.

Ralle started Brigham Young in the lead by a free throw less than a minute after the opening whistle. The local players, who tore loose from all guarding in every other game this year, found it impossible to get free against Utah. The two fives worked the ball up and down the floor, with first one and then the other losing it under the basket, due to vigorous guarding.

I. A. C. Stars Warm Up.

Baskets by Elliott and Griesel ran the count to 11 to 7 after ten minutes and after this the I. A. C. never was headed. Utah completely broke up a favorite I. A. C. play which kept Center Feeney waiting underneath the basket for an easy shot, because the lanky Chicago boy never got a chance to make a shot. The I. A. C. handled the ball with more certainty and had fewer fumbles and Utah was thrown off its game.

Elliott dashed down the floor for a ringer in the opening minute of the second half and for a brief spurt the I. A. C. machine kept registering points. This was stopped mainly by the individual prowess of Andrus, who started the game as goal guard for the Provo quintet and ended by playing the whole floor, with an uncanny knack of breaking in on all the victors' rallies.

REGULARS COP 10 TO 4 VICTORY AT FORT WORTH

Slam Texas Hurlers and Steal Bases at Will on Real Diamond.

"BACK TO OLD TRICKS"

Fort Worth, Tex., March 17.—Kid Gleason thinks he has discovered one reason why Scott's work fell below his standard last season. Jim changed his style of delivery. Instead of pivoting on the slab while winding up, as Scott used to do, he delivered the ball straightaway, even when there were no men on bases. This spring Scott has gone back to his previous windup and turns his back to the batsmen while in the act. This gives him a better chance to conceal the ball from the batsmen and enables him to get more body swing into the delivery.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 17.—[Special.]—The White Sox saw a real diamond today for the first time this year and liked it so well that they beat Jakey Atz's Fort Worth Panthers, 10 to 4, in the opening game of their exhibition season.

The local diamond is better than the one of the Chicago south side except for the base lines, which are oiled to keep the Texas zephyrs from blowing them away. The Sox ran wild on the bases and hit the dirt so often that their suits were a sight to make John D. Rockefeller nervous. They may have to change their name from White to Black Sox.

Wallop Two Texas Flingers.

The regulars hammered two Panther pitchers hard. Simms was knocked out in two rounds after being pounded for seven runs. Applegate kept them from hitting the apple often enough to score in the next four innings, then gave way to Gross, who is well named. He would have given at least 144 bases on balls with a major league umpire calling them.

Felsch did the heavy work with four swats, including a triple. Risberg and Collins grabbed two apiece and one of Risberg's was a double. Everybody got a safety except Eldred and Schalk. The outfielder walked twice and Schalk did not play the string out. He caught six innings. Although it was the manager's intention to leave him at the Wells to recuperate, when the Sox went to the train this morning Schalk was first on board.

Panthers Scoreless After First.

The Panthers made all their runs in the first inning, before Russell got loosened up. They sure did sting the pill for a while, making five clean hits off Reb before he could stop them. After that the locals were checked to a walk. Russell finished five innngs, then handed his job to Red Ainsworth, who shut out his opponents for four rounds. Ainsworth regained over night the control which he lost yesterday in Mineral Wells, and issued only one pass. He was touched for only one single.

The Sox ran bases at will and were seldom checked up, but in spots showed they had not recovered from their old failing of running with their heads down. This fault cost them several runs today and the American league pennant last year. Risberg made the only blob in fielding and it was on a grounder that ran up his sleeve.

Maneuver Before Empty Stands.

Sergt. Smiley gave the Regulars their daily drill before their batting practice, instead of just before the battle. The players are not far enough advanced in their military team work to be confident of their appearance before a critical "audience," and preferred to take their evolutions while the stands were nearly empty.

It was colder this morning than at any other time since the Sox came to Texas, but warmed up by game time, although it kept the attendance down to a thousand. Tonight the Regulars went to Dallas, where they play tomorrow.

OVERTON BEATS RAY, SMASHING 1,000 YARD MARK

Defeats Chicago Runner by 15 Yards—Loomis Equals Record.

Table of Points

Chicago A. A., 37.
New York A. C., 26.
Irish A. C., 22.
Millrose A. A., 8.
Boston A. A., 7.

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Johnny Overton of Yale smashed the world's indoor record for the 1,000 yard run in the National Amateur Athletic union indoor championships at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory tonight. Overton whirled around the smooth pine floor track in 2:14, cutting 1 2-5 seconds from his own world's record, which he made in the same race a year ago.

Jole Ray of the Illinois A. C., who has made two world's marks this winter, was second, a badly beaten man. He finished fifteen yards behind Overton. Dave Caldwell of the Boston A. A. was third, and J. J. O'Brien of the Victrix club of Philadelphia was fourth.

Overton Jumps Into Lead.

Overton raced to the front with the the bark of the gun and never was headed. He ran a race designed to kill off all opposition, and he made a complete success of it. The distance evidently was too short for Ray, who burned himself up trying to follow Overton's wonderful pace.

Six men were in the race. Overton, Ray, Caldwell, O'Brien, Homer Baker of the Irish-American, and Larry Scudder of Pennsylvania. The Yale champion led half a lap from the start, with Baker and Ray fighting for second place and O'Brien close up. Caldwell moved up to second place on the second lap, with Ray third and O'Brien fourth. Baker fell on the turn, shaking up Ray a bit, but not throwing him off his stride. Overton shot past the quarter mile post in 57 seconds.

Travels Smashing Pace.

Increasing his speed, Overton went right along and led Ray, who had regained second place, by two yards at the end of the second lap. O'Brien was just behind Ray.

At the half mile mark Overton was timed in 1:57 2-5, with Ray hanging on like a leech only a few yards back. It was in the last 100 yards that Ray began to crack, and Overton, letting himself go to the last notch of his speed, opened a gap of ten, then twelve, and finally fifteen yards on the Illinois flyer, breaking the tape with a final sprint that was spectacular in the extreme.

Andrew J. Kelly of Holy Cross college also established a new world's mark in winning the 300 yard run in :31 2-5 in his trial heat as well as in the final heat, which he won by ten yards from Sherman Landers, Chicago A. A. Two heats in this event had been run, one of them going to Kelly in :33, but the track was remeasured and both heats were run again. It was then Kelly made his new record.

Loomis Equals Record.

Jo G. Loomis of the Chicago A. A. equaled the world's record of :06 2-5 in the sixty yard dash. Loomis regained his title in this event, but only after the hardest kind of a struggle. Brooke Brewer of the Maryland State college was right at his shoulder when the tape was reached, and it took the judges a minute to decide whether the sturdy little southerner had not beaten the lanky Chicago cyclone.

The race was a thrilling one from the crack of the gun. Loomis shot ahead and seemed to lead by a yard in the first ten. Brewer, never a fast one at getting away, lost not a little ground, and by the time the fifty yard mark had been reached was almost a yard back. In the last thirty feet, however, he hurled himself forward with a phenomenal effort and was beaten by Loomis barely by inches.

Summary of Events.

Five mile run—Won by Haywood Hilden, N. Y. A. C.; Villar Kyrnonen, Millrose A. A., second; Charles Pores, Millrose A. A., third. Time, 25:35 4-5.

JUNIOR A. A. F. MEET TO ARMOUR SQUARE; SINAI SENIORS COP

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Frank Schnell of Armour square, a mere slip of an athlete, won the junior championship of the Amateur Athletic federation last night at the Sinai Social center. He scored 9½ points, enough to give his team the title in the junior ranks. Athletes representing Sinai were easily victorious in the senior events.

Without counting the jump and relay, Sinai registered 36½ points. The nearest opponent was Eckhart Park, which had 13½. There was a dispute in the last event, the relay race. The judges claimed the stick had not been passed properly on the exchanges and decided to have the race run over at a later date.

The meet was featured by close and keen competition, but no records were approached. The track is twenty-two laps to the mile and the floor space permits of only a twenty yard dash. The performances of Frank Schnell in the junior events easily featured the games. Summaries:

20 yard dash—Won by Mills, Sinai Social; Palmer, Gary Y. M. C. A., second; Wales, Central Y. M. C. A., third; McGary, Eckhart park, fourth. Time, :02 4-5.

220 yard dash, senior—Won by Stern, Sinai; Ziv, Sinai, second; Palmer, Gary Y. M. C. A., third; Hane, Wilson Y. M. C. A., fourth. Time, :27 1-5.

880 yard run—Won by Berg, Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A.; Pearson, Sinai, second; Holderman, Gary Y. M. C. A., third; Semple, Eckart park, fourth. Time, 2:17 2-5.

Mile run, seniors—Won by Evans, Hamilton playground; Adler, Sinai, second; Neufeldt, Holstein park, third; Simon, Sinai, fourth. Time, 5:20 2-5.

100 yard dash—Stern, Sinai; McGary, Eckhart park, and Palmer, Gary Y. M. C. A., tied for second; Mills, Sinai, and Wales, Central Y. M. C. A., tied for third. Time, :11 1-5.

Standing broad jump, junior—Won by Koca, Hamlin playground; Bornstein, Eckhart park, second; Schell, Armour square, third; Klawans, Sinai, fourth. Distance, 8 feet 8½ inches.

Running high jump, senior—Won by McGary, Eckhart park; Page, Ogden park, second; Peterson, West Side Y. M. C. A., third; Brunn, Sinai, fourth. Height, 5 feet 7 inches.

220 yard dash, junior—Won by Schell, Armour square; Koca, Hamlin playground, second; Sanyon, Hyde Park H. S., third; Frankenstein, Hyde Park H. S., fourth. Time, :26 1-5.

One lap dash, juniors—Won by Klawans, Sinai; Frankenstein, Hyde Park H. S., and Schell, Armour square, tied for second; Heshen, Sinai, Unger, Hyde Park H. S., and Feinberg, Hamlin playground, tied for third; Lyon, Sinai, fourth. Time, :10 1-5. 80 yards.

440 yard run—Won by Cattorini, Sinai; Pearson, Sinai, second; Bone, Ogden park, third; Lehman, Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., fourth. Time, :60 3-5.

Standing broad jump, seniors—Won by McGary, Eckhart park; Rey, Gary Y. M. C. A., second; Tatge, Ogden park, third; Wales, Central Y. M. C. A., fourth. Distance, 9 feet 10 inches.

M'Graw and Sentell Near Fist Fight at Ball Game

Galveston, Tex., March 17.—The old Baltimore feud between McGraw and Sentell bade fair to stage a revival in the third inning, when trouble between these two ancient antagonists was narrowly averted by the players. The argument arose over a home run across the right field boards by Dave Robertson, which Umpire Sloane called fair, putting the Giants in the lead, 3 to 1. In the ensuing argument, personalities passed freely, and but for interference by players there would have been another contest in the pugilistic record of McGraw. The affair was smoothed over with the substitution of another umpire.

CORNELL ATHLETES DOWN MICHIGAN IN DUAL TRACK GAMES

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 17.—[Special.]—Cornell found Michigan an easy opponent tonight in the biggest track meet ever held under a roof in Ann Arbor. The final score was 50½ to 26½. A crowd of more than 2,500 filled Waterman gymnasium to the doors.

Cross and O'Brien were the only Wolverines to land first places. Vic Simmons disappointed the crowd when he failed to win over Richards in the high jump. The Ithacan took the event at 5 feet 11½ inches. Windnagle led two other Cornellians to an easy victory in the half mile. Boynton of Cornell just nosed out Capt. Carroll in the mile run.

Cleminshaw of Cornell lowered the gym record one notch when he ran the sixty yard hurdles in :08 flat. Summaries:

Shotput—Won by Cross [M.]; Richards [C.], second; Smith [M.], third. Distance, 45 feet 7¼ inches.

50 yard dash—Won by O'Brien [M.]; Culbertson [C.], second; Thompson [M.], third. Time, :05 3-5.

60 yard high hurdles—Won by Cleminshaw [C.]; Watts [C.], second; Beardsley [M.], third. Time, :08.

880 yard run—Won by Windnagle [C.]; McDermott [C.], second; O'Leary [C.], third. Time, 1:58 1-5.

High jump—Won by Richards [C.]; Simmons [M.], second; Haigh [M.] and Myers [C.] tied for third. Height, 5 feet 11½ inches.

440 yard dash—Won by Acheson [C.]; Crim [C.], second; Huntington [M.], third. Time, :53.

Mile run—Won by Boynton [C.]; Carroll [M.], second; Dresser [C.], third. Time, 4:19 2-5.

Relay race—Won by Michigan [Hardell, Huntington, O'Brien, Fontanna]. Time, 2:43 1-5.

M'Graw in Regular Form, Quarrels as Giants Win

Galveston, Tex., March 17.—In a free hitting contest the New York Giants regulars defeated Galveston, 12 to 7. Trouble between McGraw and Manager Sentell of the locals was narrowly averted. Score:

Galveston	7	17	6
New York	12	8	3

Batteries—Karr, Whittaker, Cole, and Smith and Wright; Middleton and Krueger.

OTHER EXHIBITION GAMES.

Shreveport, La., March 17.—Cincinnati's second team won from the Shreveports, 9 to 1. Batteries—Knetzer, Gerner, and Allen, and Huhn for Cincinnati; Gleason, Terry, and Betts for Shreveport.

Houston, Tex., March 17.—The New York Giants' second string men staged a batting and base running bee at the expense of the Houston Texas leaguers and won, 11 to 3. Batteries—Benton, Perritt, and Rariden, and McCarty for New York; Hiett, Moore, Utt, Noyes, and Query for Houston.

Beaumont, Tex., March 17.—St. Louis Cardinal youngsters won from Beaumont of the Texas league, 9 to 4. The playing of Outfielder Cruise featured. Beaumont made four double plays. Batteries—Niehaus, North, and Roche for St. Louis; Watkins, Swan, Henry, and Bobo, and Dilger for Beaumont.

San Antonio, Tex., March 17.—St. Louis Nationals, playing first string men, defeated San Antonio, 7 to 2. Meadows and Watson pitched midseason ball. Batteries—Meadows, Watson, and Snyder, and Gonzales for St. Louis; Schulte, Friday, and Cook for San Antonio.

BY LARRY ST. JOHN.

Yes, you are right, Miss Billy; the time to learn bait casting is in the winter or early spring, so when you go to the lakes you can devote your time to fishing instead of wrestling with the problems of learning to cast.

At first, Billy, your big trouble will be back lashes.

Back lashes are caused by the line running from the reel faster than the outgoing bait can carry it through the guides, which tangles the line "sumpin' awful." To avoid this trouble one must learn to thumb the reel so it will not overrun. It requires a gentle touch—the fair sex takes to bait casting like a bass takes to minnows.

Briefly, here is how it is "did":

Wind up the bait to about six or eight inches from the tip of the rod. Grasp the rod firmly with the right hand, with the thumb pressing on the spool of the reel. Point the rod at the spot you wish to hit. Then bring the rod straight back over the shoulder, bending the arm at the elbow so that the hand holding the rod will be about on a level with your right ear, and you are ready for the forward cast.

Imagine that your bait is an apple on the point of a sharp stick and that you want to throw it some distance—just as bad boys used a stick to throw mud balls at you when you were a little girl on your way to school. Move the arm straight forward with a vigorous sweep, keeping a slight pressure on the revolving reel spool to keep it from overrunning, and tilt the rod so that the handle of the reel is pointing almost straight up in the air, as the reel runs better in that position.

When the bait is over the spot you are aiming at, clamp the thumb down on the reel spool to stop it, give a slight twitch of the rod to one side to start the bait back quickly, and reel in.

All that it requires is a little practice. You should be able to cast reasonably well in an hour or two. Those horrid old back lashes are bred by unevenly wound lines and the temptation every beginner has to cast far.

When reeling in guide the line evenly on the reel. Using the thumb only is the artistic way, but folks with small hands will find more comfort by holding the rod in front of the reel with the last three fingers of the left hand and laying the line on the reel with the thumb and forefinger as the handle is being turned with the right hand.

Final warning: Don't attempt to cast far—forty or fifty feet is a good practical fishing distance. Practice accuracy; distance will come naturally.

We take it for granted, Billy, that you know that all of the Woods and Waters family wish you oodles and oodles of luck the coming fishing season.

HYDE PARK TEAM NOSES OUT SENN IN PREP GAMES

Table of Points

SENIORS.

Hyde Park	25 5-6	Waller	5
Senn	24 1-3	Lake View	4 1-3
Lane	14	McKinley	3
Harrison	13	Austin	2
Bowen	9	Englewood	1-2
Crane	6

JUNIORS.

Lake View	25 1-3	Hyde Park	3
Austin	25	Waller	2 1-2
Harrison	22	Senn	2
Crane	8 5-6	Tilden	1-3

Hyde Park won the annual indoor meet of the Chicago High School league in the Patten gymnasium last night with 25 5-6 points. Senn was a close second with a total of 24 1-3. The meet was not decided until the last events, the pole vault and three standing broad jumps, at midnight.

As bells rang the midnight hour the scorer announced Hyde Park the winner, but a recount may be asked by the Senn athletes who, thinking they had copped the honors, had given their rahrahs lustily before final tabulations showed Hyde Park in the lead.

Another close contest featured the junior meet, with Austin, Harrison, and Lake View tying for top score. Lake View finally landed victory with 25 1-3 points. Austin and Harrison followed with 25 and 22 points, respectively.

The outstanding feature of the junior affair was the work of Stresser of Austin and Oliver of Harrison. These athletes practically composed their respective teams. Stresser took 20 of his team's 25 points, while Oliver made 13 of Harrison's 22. Over 200 youthful athletes took part in the meet.

OAK PARK VICTOR OVER LA GRANGE

Junior athletes of Oak Park High school defeated La Grange youngsters in a dual meet at Oak Park, 36 to 32. Because of a scarlet fever scare at University high the meet between that school and Oak Park seniors was canceled. McKay was the whole team for La Grange, piling up 29 points by four firsts and three seconds. Oak Park won the relay. Summaries:

35 yard dash—Won by McKay, La Grange; Godfrey, Oak Park, second; Radke, Oak Park, third. Time, :04 2-5.

35 yard low hurdles—Won by Brount, Oak Park; McKay, La Grange, second; Radke, Oak Park, third. Time, :05 1-5.

Running high jump—Won by McKay, La Grange; Wilcoxen, Oak Park, and Joslyn, La Grange, tied for second. Height, 5 ft. 2 in.

3 standing jumps—Won by McKay, La Grange; R. Pentecost, Oak Park, second; Joslyn, Oak Park, third. Distance, 27 ft. 8 in.

FOR PLAYERS OF WHIST

By A. R. Metcalfe

The Mona Lisa of bridge, the masterpiece of play, the deal which by common consent surpasses all others, has not yet arrived.

Several years ago a prominent English writer published four deals as the best ever played, but many better ones have been published since.

The deal in this issue, in conception, fine management of detail, and artistic finish is at least equal to any ever played. It occurred at the Chicago Whist club:

THE HANDS.

S.—7, 5.
H.—A, Q, 9, 6, 5.
C.—Q, 8, 7, 4, 2.
D.—3.

S.—A, Q, J, 9, 6, 3.
H.—2.
C.—5, 3.
D.—K, 5, 4, 2.

S.—10, 8, 4.
H.—8, 7, 4.
C.—A, 10, 6.
D.—A, 10, 9, 7.

S.—K, 2.
H.—K, J, 10, 3.
C.—K, J, 9.
D.—Q, J, 8, 6.

Score: 0-0, rubber game. North dealt.

THE BIDDING

	1st r'nd.	2d r'nd.	3d r'nd.
North	1 heart	4 hearts	pass
East	pass	4 spades	pass
South	3 hearts	double
West	3 spades	pass

North had the opening lead.

THE PLAY.

11	Q C	D 9	D J	D 4
12	H Q	D 10	D 8	D 5
13	H A	D 7	D Q	D K

West scored ten tricks.

Trick 1—The trey of diamonds was certainly a singleton and west was at once confronted with the necessity of securing three tricks in the diamond suit, in spite of the combination held by south, apparently an impossible thing to do.

Trick 2—Notice that west unblocked with the six of spades, reserving the trey to throw the lead to dummy later if necessary.

Trick 4—This was perhaps the most important play in the deal. By deliberately losing a trick in the club suit, west prepared the way for exhausting all the clubs in the south hand later.

Tricks 5 and 6—The hearts were played by the opponents as west expected.

Tricks 7 and 8—West completed his plan in regard to the club suit, which was started at trick four.

Trick 9—West now began to close in. On the very pretty trump lead, south was obliged to discard a heart, as a diamond would have made the play much easier for the declarer.

Trick 10—West recklessly spent his last trump and had remaining the situation for which he had worked so hard. The play of the last three tricks was a double dummy proposition, and south was helpless.

Throughout the deal, west played south for a holding of four hearts, which the bidding of the latter clearly indicated.

The next deal is a study in placing cards:

THE HANDS.

S—10, 8, 5.
H—A, 7, 2.
C—Q, 8, 7, 2.
D—Q, J, 6.

S—A, Q, 7, 3.

S—6, 4, 2.
H—J, 10, 9, 4.
C—A, 5, 3.
D—9, 5, 2.

Score: 0—0. West dealt and bid one no trump, which closed the bidding. North had the initial lead.

THE PLAY.

11	7C	H6	D9	D3
12	D6	D7	H10	DA
13	DQ	D10	HJ	HQ

West secured nine tricks.

The east and west hands looked very good, but the cards did not lie favorably.

After the third trick there was serious danger that north and south might make one diamond, one heart, and the remaining clubs, or five tricks in all.

West saw a chance of scoring game by losing a diamond trick to south, provided that player held the ace of hearts.

The play of the jack of diamonds by north forced west to alter his plans, and he now saw a chance for game, provided the ace of hearts was held by north. The fall of the spades indicated Cavendish hands all around and the fine play of west in the heart suit gave him the necessary ninth trick.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Three Rivers, Mich.—[To the Editor.]—Please give me rules for scoring duplicate auction and also tell me what the rule is when all four players pass. In this case is dealer obliged to play no trump and adversary allowed to score no more than 50 honors?
F. W. S.

Answer—There are no games nor rubbers, but 125 points are given when 30 below the line is made in a single deal. When four players pass, the score is nothing.

FOUR SWIM RECORDS FALL AS MANY BOYS SEEK A. A. F. TITLES

Four Amateur Athletic federation swimming records were smashed last night in the third of a series of championship events at Division Street Y. M. C. A. In each instance the first three in each contest beat the former mark. The entry list of 138 contestants was the largest that ever competed in a meet in Chicago.

Raphael of Sinai broke the mark in the secondary 100 yard event when he covered the distance in 1:03 4-5, smashing the former mark of 1:09, held by Coverick, also of Sinai. In the 40 yard breast stroke of the secondary class Riley of Lane did the distance in :27, beating the mark of :29 held by Racine of Sinai.

Knibel, New Trier, took the 40 yard junior swim in :22 3-5, clipping 4-5 of a second off Blake's time. The junior relay race went to Froebel school of Gary, which covered the 160 yards in 1:37 4-5. The former record of 1:42 1-5 was made by Lane Tech. Summaries:

Secondary 100 yards—Won by Raphael, Sinai; Stifler, Evanston Y., second; Jacobs, Sinai, third. Time, 1:03 4-5.

Secondary 40 yard breast stroke—Won by Riley, Lane; Lyons, Sinai, second; Penfield, Evanston Y., third. Time, :27.

Junior 40 yard swim—Won by Knibel, New Trier; Robins, New Trier, second; Mills, Evanston Y., third. Time, :22 3-5.

Junior 160 yard relay—Won by Froebel, Gary; Sinai, second; Chicago Hebrew institute, third. Time, 1:37 4-5.

Fancy diving—Won by Stifler, Evanston Y., 52 points; Robins, New Trier, 43.8; Welsh, Sinai, 43.3, and Raphael, Sinai, 43.3, tied for third.

Grammar school relay—Won by Yates; Moose, second; Avondale, third. Time, 1:06 1-5.

BUDINGER BOYS, CHICAGO STARS, SET PIN RECORD

Brothers Break Two-Men Mark in A. B. C. Tourney with 1,312 Total.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 17.—Another world's record was set at the American Bowling congress this afternoon, when Nick and Ben Budinger of the American team of Chicago bowled 1,312 in the two men event. Nick rolled 224, 247, 226, and Ben scored 231, 191, 193. The previous record of [illegible] was made by Schoegler brothers of Madison, Wis., in 1909.

Chris Balz of Columbus rolled 670 for sixth place in the singles. Other big marks were by Joe Bauer of Chicago, who got 645, and Mike [illegible] of Youngstown with 627.

TACITURN BOSS DEMANDS CUBS WATCH DETAILS

Mitchell Eyes the Small Points—Acts Like Fielder Jones.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

San Francisco, Cal., March 17.—[Special.]—Managing a big league baseball team seems to be old stuff to Fred Mitchell, new leader of the Cubs, who is making his debut as a boss of players on the field. After watching him handle the Cubs for two weeks, one would judge that he must have done considerable managing while assisting George Stallings with the Boston Braves. There hasn't been a moment when the new Cub tutor seemed fussed on the job.

If Mitchell has any peculiarity in his work, it is in his strict and untiring attention to the details of the game. Perhaps he exerted the same efforts in his coaching job with the Braves, but not in fifteen years has there been a leader of a Chicago team who devoted as much time and effort to detail. Possibly no other Chicago manager ever was in charge of a bunch of athletes who needed such close attention, because no other leader ever went into camp with so many young and inexperienced men.

FRED MITCHELL

The Ubiquitous Mitchell.

One moment Mitchell will be showing Maurice Schick the exact spot on the handle of a bat to place his hands while delivering a bunt, and the next moment he will be telling young Harry Wolfe just how to place his feet in the batter's box, and then will follow by showing Hubert Scott Perry the proper way to cover up his grip on the ball so the batsman cannot tell whether he is about to throw a curve or a fast ball.

Next one may see "Mitch" at the first base corner instructing Cy Williams how to sneak a lead off the bag so as to be ready to steal with the pitcher's arm and still be able to slide back if the pitcher throws to first. Every day during the morning hours he will have the regular infielders in their places and instruct them in detail how to prevent the double steal and how to run down a man between bases using extra men as base runners in order to demonstrate the method.

Nothing but Baseball.

Of course all these tricks are practiced in all big league training camps, but it is doubtful if any one rehearses plays over and over with such untiring determination. Mitchell is as particular as a movie director rehearsing his company time after time on one scene before calling for the camera.

The Mitchell method of managing seems to be in operation in no other place than on the ball field. He is a leader who wants no interruption from things outside the game. He has shown no disposition to be a mixer with outsiders, and he has less to say for publication than any one who has preceded him. At the hotel in the evening he has no eyes for outside things. One is likely to find him sitting in a remote corner alone, apparently in deep thought on baseball. He talks little and saves most of his words for practical use on the practice lot.

Will Meet Test on Field.

One might compare Mitchell to Fielder Jones in the way he does things on the field and declines things on the outside. During a game of ball he coaches at third and flashes signs to the base runners and batter, and expects his orders to be carried out. On the bench he offers one suggestion after another, never missing an opportunity to lend advice to individual players. It makes no difference whether the advice is given to young Harry Wolfe, who never saw a big league game, or whether it is to Larry Doyle, who has been a big star for twelve years.

It will be some months before judgment can be passed on the managerial ability of Mitchell. If it means being a good fellow who can mix with big people and entertain with a flourish he will be an absolute failure.

Heckinger Will Manage Mohawk Baseball Club

Mike Heckinger, former Cub catcher, will represent the Mohawks at today's Chicago Baseball league meeting at the Mohawk A. C., 73 West Randolph street. Mike sold his holdings in the Logan Squares to manage the travelers. Jimmy Hutton is another prominent semi-pro who will look after new interests today. He now has an interest in the Rogers Parks. Jimmy bossed the Gunthers last season. Bill Harley, former Federal leaguer and brother of Ohio State's famous half back, "Chick" Harley, will succeed Hutton as leader of the Gunthers.

Tonti Will Clinch Title if It Beats Barry Today

Two games are scheduled at St. Alphonsus gym this afternoon in the north section of the K. C. Basketball league. Tonti council, with a record of six straight victories, can clinch the title by beating Barry. Marquette and De Soto meet in the first game. Four games are billed in the south division at Normal Arts gymnasium. Perez and [illegible], two of the contenders, will clash in a postponed match at 2 p. m. Then these three games will follow: McHale vs. Leo, St. Philip Neri vs. Parks, Englewood vs. Aquinas.

Ice Hockey Games Booked.

Manager Donnelley of the Calumet hockey club has completed arrangements for two games with the Dentals of Toronto at the White City rink March 22 and 23. The Dentals are now in Winnipeg competing in the finals for the world's championship.

NEW 'PROS' LOOM AT FOURTEEN OF CHICAGO'S CLUBS

BY JOE DAVIS.

Twenty-three local golf clubs will open shortly with their old professionals in charge. At the other fourteen there have been changes. Among the notable additions to the local forces are Jack Burke, last year with Rockford, who succeeds Arner Tollifson at Wheaton. Tollifson is located at French Lick Springs. Frank Adams, who has just returned from a southern trip, will assume his duties at Beverly, where he succeeds George O'Neil.

J. C. Hackbarth, formerly at Midlothian and Hinsdale, will be at Skokie in place of Walter Fovargue, now located at San Francisco. The new professional at the Chicago Golf club to succeed Dave Foulis has not been selected and Riverside has made no announcement of its selection.

Gatherum at Windsor.

Jim Foulis, who moves to Olympia Fields from Windsor, will be succeeded by John Gatherum, who has held several local positions, his last being with Wright & Ditson. The list of experts at the local clubs is as follows.

South Shore	James Herd
Windsor	John Gatherum
Calumet	Arthur Fovargue
Ravisloe	Alex. Taylor
Flossmoor	Harry Collis
Idlewild	Al Naylor
Olympia Fields	Jim Foulis
Midlothian	George Turnbull
Ridge	George Taylor
Beverly	Frank Adams
Riverside	......
La Grange	Robert McNulty
Edgewood	Arthur Sweet
Wheaton	Jack Burke

Fail to File Lists.

With the trifling exception of 150, all clubs in the Western Golf association have filed their handicap reports. As the handicap blanks were mailed Feb. 20, it looks as if the club secretaries had been working overtime to file the names of their ten leading players. The percentage of returns does not compare well with the outpouring of voters at the recent Chicago primary.

Last year forty clubs were omitted from the printed list, and it looks as if twice that number will be left out this year.

Speedway Course Ready in June.

As soon as the weather will permit work of completing the eighteen hole course at Speedway park will be started. It is planned to have it dedicated on June 9, the date of the third annual Chicago Derby. The course is 6,600 yards in length.

PARKS GOLFERS TO HOLD MEETING

The Public Parks Golf Association of America will hold its second annual meeting at 6 North Michigan avenue at 7:30 p. m. on March 22 for the election of officers and arrangement of schedules. Local golfers took the initiative in the formation of this association and the present officers all are members of Chicago clubs. Efforts are being made to secure the membership of every club in the country associated with a public course and to hold a national tournament.

Last year Jackson park, Garfield park, Austin, Marquette park, and Lincoln park clubs held interclub matches. It is planned this year to hold an Illinois state championship at Marquette park. This, with the Cook county open and amateur events and the city championship at Jackson park, will give the association four important events.

The officers are:

President, A. B. Cole, Jackson Park; first vice president, M. W. Moreau, Garfield park; second vice president, U. C. Windell; secretary, C. O. Smith, Marquette; corresponding secretary, P. M. McCann, Jackson park; treasurer, T. H. Henry, Lincoln.

FOOTBALL CODE CURBS PLAYERS ENTERING GAME

New York, March 17.—New regulations to curb the carrying of instructions from the side lines and the elimination of the field goal from a multiple kick formation are the outstanding features of the new rules adopted by the football rules committee for the 1917 season. The committee, at its annual session, which closed today, instructed the secretary to prepare corrections and additions to the code to cover the following changes:

A substitute player entering the game must not speak to any other player on the field until after the ball has been put into play; in case any change in the positions of the players is necessary, the incoming substitute must give information through the referee. In case the substitute takes the place of the player giving signals, he may give the signals for the next play, but cannot speak to any player until after the ball is put into play. The penalty for a violation of this rule is the loss of fifteen yards.

Seek to Avoid Handicap.

That the present rule may not work a hardship, considerable leeway has been given the referee in the matter of inflicting penalties for the failure of a substitute to report to the game officials before entering the play. The new addition to the code makes it discretionary with the referee whether or not the penalty shall be imposed when the incoming substitute fails to report, but does not interfere with the play or speak to the players prior to the ball being put into play.

It was further ruled that a goal from the field could only be scored by a place kick or a drop kick, and the fact was emphasized that a place kick was made with the ball resting upon the ground, which would appear to bar the use of multiple kick formation, as now in vogue, as the ball is held suspended a few inches above the ground when kicked. The use of artificial tees for a kickoff at the beginning of periods also was barred.

New Rule on Forward Pass.

Other changes include the giving of the ball to the offended side where there is illegal interference with the player receiving a forward pass, at the point where the foul is committed. In case the foul is committed behind the goal line the ball goes to the offended team on the one yard line. A penalty of five yards will be imposed in the future for running into the kicker, and fifteen yards and disqualification for roughing; the penalties to be imposed from the point where the ball was put into play.

The referee is also empowered to permit the substitution of a new ball in play on a wet field at the end of the second period at his discretion.

Local Fishermen to Hold Annual Banquet Saturday

The tenth annual dinner of the Fisherman's club of Chicago will be held at the Auditorium hotel on March 31. The organization is composed of 3,000 members, who brave the wilds to hook trout, bass, and other fish. They have their favorite spots in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, and they seldom come home without a good load of fish.

The club is composed of men who are accustomed to getting wet. There are few of them who cannot withstand the elements when fishing is good. They like the game, the same as a trapshooter likes to shoot at a live pigeon or a clay bird.

The majority of the members are already prepared to start their sport after getting fishing boxes ready and rods properly oiled. Some own homes in the wilderness, miles away from a railroad station, and on streams where fish can be caught early in the year. Plans for many excursions will be made at the dinner.

Millen Gets Best Score at Lincoln Park Traps

R. C. Millen was high gun in the sixth of the twelve championship shoots of the season at the Lincoln Park Gun club yesterday. Competition was at 25 targets from 16 yards, 25 from 18 yards, 25 from 20 yards, and 12 pairs. Millen's counts were 25, 21, 21, and 15. Scores:

25 targets, 16 yards—R. C. Millen, 25; Dr. J. L. Hooper, 22; Jay Graham, 22; E. E. Hall, 22; H. A. Rhodes, 22; L. B. Clarke, 20; G. A. Smith, 20.

18 yards—Jay Graham, 22; W. E. Phillips, 22; R. C. Millen, 21; M. Ballou, 21; Dr. Lewis, 20; G. A. Smith, 20.

MOORE BEATS COOLER IN CUE LEAGUE GAME BY STIRRING FINISH

In one of the toughest finishes ever seen on a local table, John Moore defeated Harry Cooler of Indianapolis, 50 to 49, in ninety innings, in their Interstate league match at Mussey's Monroe street room last night. At the sixtieth inning Cooler had a lead of 9 points, but Moore caught him at 41. Moore had high run of 5, Cooler getting a 3. Scores at each tenth inning:

Cooler	...8	13	17	25	30	37	40	43	49
Moore	...4	11	18	24	26	28	37	45	50

Three Cushion League.

Leaders in the Interstate Three Cushion league retained their relative standing last week, Maupome of Cleveland being at the top with half a game lead over Reiselt of Pittsburgh and Kieckhefer of Rockford. Games this week will be of special interest, as Reiselt and Champion McCourt will travel. The former has to play Jackson, Ellis, Capron, Cannefax, and Cooler, a formidable array of opponents, while McCourt meets Maupome, Heal, Maley, Hascall, Kieckhefer, and Moore. Standing:

	W	L	HR	LG
P. Maupome, Cleveland	18	4	9	51
O. Reiselt, Pittsburgh	17	4	9	52
A. Kieckhefer, Rockford	17	4	14	54

Team Gains on Leaders.

With the exception of Tredick, the four men who topped the Chicago Billiard league a week ago met with defeats, while the next four men scored victories. This tightened the race wonderfully, leaving the first six players closely bunched. Morin was forced into a tie for second place when White defeated him, 50 to 35, and Tredick, who is tied with Morin, pulled out of a tight place when he defeated Lundgren by four points. Standing:

Mat Honors to Cornell for Sixth Straight Time

Ithaca, N. Y., March 17.—For the sixth consecutive year under the tutelage of Coach Walter O'Connell, the Cornell university wrestling team won the intercollegiate championship from Pennsylvania, Lehigh, Princeton, and Columbia here today. Pennsylvania and Lehigh tied for second place. The score was: Cornell, 32; Pennsylvania, 15; Lehigh, 15; Princeton, 8; Columbia, 0. The Cornell wrestlers won four falls and three decisions in the finals and five firsts, one second, and one third in the seven bouts.

Evanston Gun Club to Hold Shoot Today

The Evanston Gun club will hold a shoot today, two events being carded, one at fifty targets and the other at twenty-five. The Evanston club has joined the Fellowship League of Gun Clubs, which includes the Lincoln Park Gun club, Evanston Gun club, Elgin Gun club, Highland Park Gun club, and Metropolitan Gun club.

PRESIDENT SELECTS AIDS FOR NATIONAL SKAT TOURNEY HERE

BY OSCAR E. SCHWEMER.
[Secretary North American Skat League.]

National officers of the North American Skat league have opened the campaign for the twentieth congress of the league, to be held in Chicago June 16 and 17.

The convention will be called to order in the banquet room of the new Morrison hotel at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by President L. J. Niehoff. The tourney will be held at the Coliseum.

The usual business of selecting the next convention city, election of officers, and other routine work will open the congress.

President Niehoff in picking his aids and assistants sought to appoint men of experience to map out a program for the congress that will reflect credit on the city.

Ald. Brennen on Finance List.

The finance committee is headed by Ald. N. T. Brennen of the Chicago council. With such men at the helm, the skat fraternity should take off their coats and hustle to make this the biggest event in the history of this game.

Next in order of committees is the arrangement committee, headed by one of the most experienced men in the skat community, A. R. Brandt of Chicago. He has been a national character for twenty years and his affiliation with the congress will be of great value in formulating and carrying out the official program.

J. B. Thielen, another skat player of national fame, will have charge of the reception committee.

Leaders of Other Bodies.

President Niehoff in his selections did not lose sight of the fact that the hall committee required a man of genial disposition. Those who have met National Director Fred L. Blanke of Chicago will agree that he is the best fitted man for the position.

A committee in which accuracy is the essential feature is the figuring and prize committee. The president showed excelent judgment in appointing National Director John M. Heaney of Chicago as chairman of that committee.

That skat players will be royally entertained at Chicago goes without saying. A. I. Lauer, ex-national director of the league, will have charge of the entertainment committee, and visitors can rest assured of one round of pleasure under the direction of Lauer and his committee.

Schanze Heads Hotel Committee.

The hotel committee is in charge of Henry Schanze, one of the best known hotel men of Chicago. He is ready to accommodate the visitors with a list of hotels and rates and will provide quarters upon application. Skat players should get in touch with him at an early date.

Peel Cup Games Billed for Soccer Fans Today

As the McDuff football field still is unfit for play, Secretary Fettes notified the Joliet Steel club the game in the National soccer cup series, carded for this afternoon, would have to be postponed. This leaves only the games scheduled in the Peel cup series for this afternoon. Pullman Professionals will meet the Rangers at Fifty-second and Cottage Grove, Swedish-Americans will meet the Bricklayers at Thirty-fifth and Wentworth, and Harvey will play Pullman at Pullman.

SPORTING NOTES

Polish-American A. C., indoor champion of the A. A. F., will play the Hamlin Blues at Hamlin park this afternoon.

Calumets and White City will battle for the ice hockey championship of Chicago at White City rink tonight. An all star aggregation to be picked from these teams will play the champion Ontario Dentals on Thursday and Friday nights.

At a recent meeting of the Lutheran Baseball league twenty-eight teams were represented. The next meeting will be held tomorrow evening in room 1221 Masonic temple. All Lutheran church team managers are invited.

Pence, the star goal tender from Indianapolis, is playing goal for the Newcastle, Ind., roller hockey team. He will be back in the lineup this afternoon when the teams battle at the Riverview rink. Today's game will be called at 4:30 o'clock.

Barry council nine can win the K. C. Indoor league pennant this afternoon by defeating Madonna in their battle at Central hall, Twenty-second street and Wabash avenue. A win for Madonna will keep that team in the running in the championship finals.

Central Turners, Seminoles, Raywins, and Gaerles are forming a baseball league of 18-22 year old teams. Managers are invited to attend a meeting Wednesday night at the Gaerle club, 1246 North Hoyne avenue, or communicate with Roy Gerber, 839 Paulina street, phone Haymarket 4495.

The South Side Odd Fellows Baseball league has been organized, with six clubs already enrolled. It is desired to increase the circuit to eight or twelve teams. South side lodges wishing to join should communicate with B. E. Keeley, 28 South Wabash avenue. The next meeting of the league is set for Friday night at the lodge headquarters at 6318 Yale avenue.

HURRY UP SPRING! M'GILL'S PRAYER TO FORECASTER

Hopes for Warm Days to Test the Purple Ball Players.

BY EVAN STONE.

Coach Wee Willie McGill has been eying the weather during the last week hoping for sunshine and dry warm days that will permit chasing his Purple baseball candidates about on the outdoor diamond. Wee has drilled his squad for two months in the cage of the Patten gymnasium and he thinks that he has the men well coached on "inside" stuff.

Northwestern will open the conference against Purdue at Lafayette. The first home game will be a battle with the Maroons on May 1. Athletic Director Omer is considering naming this occasion "Homecoming day" for the annual spring outing of Purple alumni.

Ten "Big Nine" Games.

Northwestern will play ten conference games, as follows:

April 20—Northwestern at Purdue.
April 21—Northwestern at Indiana.
April 25—Northwestern at Chicago.
May 1—Chicago at Northwestern.
May 4—Indiana at Northwestern.
May 11—Iowa at Northwestern.
May 18—Purdue at Northwestern.
May 19—Wisconsin at Northwestern.
May 22—Northwestern at Wisconsin.
May 25—Northwestern at Iowa.

Marshall Underhill is again to captain the basketball team. His election marks the second sport this year in which a captaincy has been given a man two successive years, the other being football, in which Capt. Driscoll was reelected. Capt. Underhill will have the entire squad of this next year and with the freshmen material a stronger quintet is expected.

Simonsen to Return Soon.

Lindgren Simonsen, star swimmer of Coach Robinson's team, whose operation for appendicitis ten days ago destroyed the Purple's chances for another aquatic pennant, is quickly recovering and is expected to leave the hospital tomorrow.

NEW NET LAURELS FOR MISS WAGNER

New York, March 17.—Miss Marie Wagner was a double winner of national indoor tennis championships today. In the final of the tournament in singles Miss Wagner of the Hamilton Grange Lawn Tennis club defeated Miss Eleanor Goss of the Heights Casino, Brooklyn, 6—3, 6—1. Paired with Miss Margaret Taylor of Heights Casino in the doubles final, Miss Wagner defeated Mrs. John Anderson and Miss Edith Howe of the Harlem Lawn Tennis club, 6—4, 6—4. By her victories Miss Wagner has a record of holding the singles honors six times and the doubles honors on four occasions.

Play Semi-Final Matches in Indoor Tourney Today

Semi-finals in the open indoor tennis doubles city championship will be played today at the municipal pier. McCaskey and Streb will oppose Kinsel and Holbrook at 10 o'clock this morning to qualify the winner for a semi-final contest against Morris and Conger. In the other semi-final Ketchum and Gifford will meet Wolff and Adams, a team of young park players whose unexpected form was the surprise of the meet. Ketchum and Gifford qualified yesterday by beating Baldwin and Crowley, 6—3, 6—1. Finals are scheduled next Sunday.

Juniors Meet Tomorrow.

The Chicago Junior Baseball league will hold its weekly meeting Tuesday night at headquarters in the Briggs house. The league officials have secured some prominent baseball men to attend, among them William Niesen of the Garden City club and Frank Ragen, county commissioner. Managers having teams between the ages of 16 and 20 years are invited. The election of officers will be held. Registration of ball clubs can be made with the secretary.

FANS OF MIDWAY CERTAIN OF TWO BIG NINE TITLES

Count on Track and Tank Teams to Land First in Tests This Week.

BY MAROON.

Nothing short of two Big Nine championships will satisfy the Maroons when the winter season comes to a close with the swimming and track meets at Patten gymnasium Friday and Saturday. If either Maroon team is beaten it will be a big upset of the dope, and the Midway will feel mighty blue during the spring vacation.

Coach Stagg of the Maroon trackmen figures his team should win on past performances, and is not as reticent as usual in doping out the meet. He figures the Maroons should score from forty-three to thirty-seven points, while neither Wisconsin nor Illinois should land more than thirty points, according to his figures. Purdue, Northwestern, Indiana, Ohio, and Minnesota are not considered in the running.

Half Mile Looks Like Feature.

The best race of the day should be in the half mile, with Clark of Chicago, Van Aiken of Purdue, and Spink of Illinois hitting around the 1:58 mark. Any one of this trio can cop the event. The mile will be another great battle between Tenney, one of Stagg's sophomore stars, and Schardt, the Badger veteran. The Maroon footed the mile in 4:19 in the First regiment games, and while the Cardinal miler has not approached that time, he has not been pushed in the Wisconsin dual meets.

Diamond of Chicago is out to establish a new record in the quarter. Smart of Northwestern, Field and Pendarvis of Illinois, Smith of Wisconsin, and Curtiss of Chicago will fight for the other places. The two mile is a tossup between Powers of Chicago, Burr and Golden of Northwestern, and De Swart of the Purple.

The Maroons lack only sprinters and hurdlers to have a perfectly rounded team. In both events there is not a Chicago man capable of qualifying.

Strong in Field Events.

The Maroons are strong in the field events. Capt. Fisher and Graham in the pole vault will have to go twelve feet to beat Lang of Illinois and Bros of Minnesota, but the Maroons are capable of winning first and second. Graham has cleared 12 feet 8 inches in Patten gym. Fisher of Chicago and Webster and Caldwell of Illinois are the best of the high jumpers. Higgins of the Maroons leads the shot putters and with Mucks out should have an easy win.

The Maroon mile relay team, which won the A. A. U. event and the Champaign race, is picked to land the final event.

In the tank meet Coach White's swimmers are expected to have almost as easy a victory as the track men. If Walter Earle can wiggle both fins, the Maroons need not worry. Carlson, Clark, Meine, Bowers, and Crawford will offer good support to defeat Northwestern, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Last year the Maroons and Purple tied for first place.

Krone Adds to His Stable; Gets Middleweight Lewis

Doc Krone is now manager of Kid Lewis, a middleweight. Lewis won the amateur championship of Wisconsin recently. Since turning pro he has won his four starts.

POSTPONE IT FOREVER.

A bulletin reports that the strike has been postponed forty-eight hours to permit of further negotiations.

It should be postponed forever.

To submit a nation of a hundred millions to the calamity of a general railroad strike cannot be justified.

Arbitration and mediation have been repeatedly offered and have been refused by the brotherhood leaders. The president has asked for peace in view of the nation's international situation. A strike in such circumstances would be inexcusable, and will not succeed. Both sides should accept some fair and peaceful mode of adjusting their differences. All that is wanted is a square deal, but this includes the public.

In any case congress should take cognizance of the danger to the country involved in the use of the strike to paralyze the arteries of the nation's life, and should pass drastic legislation to protect the public from any recurrence of the present situation. The strike on railways should be declared unlawful.

IRISH AND ENGLISH.

Great Britain has had two complete failures in handling overseas territory. One was in the case of the American colonies, and the result is the United States. The other is in the case of Ireland, and the sad result is still Ireland.

Elsewhere the British have shown the greatest colonial genius the world ever saw. Their American colonial mistake found a quick issue, circumstances favorable to revolt and favorable to the success of the revolt, and resulted in a new nation.

Their Irish mistake seems to have the eternity of an enduring malignancy. They seem unable to escape from the consequences of sin as much as the Irish seem unable to escape from the consequences of being sinned against.

A tradition of error, of bitterness, misjudgment, and miscalculation sits in control of English and Irish destinies. It makes the complexities more complex. It sets passion at work when level headedness might accomplish results. The English, willing to do justice to the Irish, cannot find a way to do it. The Irish, passionate for their independence, cannot find a way to accept what the blundering English offer them.

If the British had a genius for misgovernment rather than the highest genius for government, the consequences of misjudgment and misrule might be accepted as natural, but a great empire which finds its greatness in its ability to hold its components loosely and bind their affections tightly cannot find a way in which it can reconcile the Irish to their place in the federation.

Ulster is not a complete explanation of this failure. More difficult issues than the Ulster issue have been removed in the world's progress towards self-government. Religious toleration, equity in taxation, and individual rights can be maintained in a bill of rights which readily reconciles the people to a government conducted with respect for these rights.

Ireland is to the English a traditional error. It is to the Irish a traditional martyrdom. Neither the Irish nor the English seem able to break away from their inheritance.

Great Britain can make friends of the South Africans in ten years. It has not been able to do that with the Irish in centuries.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

More than three-fifths of the accidents on the grade crossings of one of Chicago's trunk lines were among automobilists. One-fifth of them occurred to pedestrians, the remainder to occupants of other vehicles.

The significance of these figures is that reasonable care is not taken among motorists. If any considerable proportion of grade crossing accidents were among school children we might raise a shout for immediate elimination of such crossings. But automobiles are supposed to be driven only by mature and sober persons willing to exercise caution.

It is desirable to eliminate grade crossings whenever possible, but it should be pointed out that careless automobile driving will cause accidents under railroad viaducts as well as on railroad tracks.

BOYS—OR MEN—OF NINETEEN.

At 19 young men are both boys and men, boys to their parents, "old man" to each other, "fellows" collectively, in the golden age of growing perceptiveness and resilient muscularity.

As boys, or men, they form, or should form, the first line of defense of their country. A wise nation regiments them, equips them, and trains them.

Physically they are the best soldier material in the nation. They have not come to the time when coördination of muscular movements is difficult or impossible. They are at the age when muscular endurance is greatest and when enthusiasm is most buoyant.

Economically they are at the time when dependence upon others is ceasing, and have not come to the time when the dependence of others upon them begins. This, for military purposes, is a most important consideration.

Military service is efficiently directed when it disturbs the civil life of the nation least. Under universal training there is the least disturbance of the economic life of the nation, and that helps to preserve its strength.

When the peaceful processes of the nation are thrown into disorder by the necessities of military service the nation is weakened. It is made less fit to meet its emergencies.

Under universal service the nation would have at all times a force sufficient for the needs of the country except in times of extraordinary peril. If the United States had universal service we would be quite certain that the extraordinary peril would not threaten, but, assuming that it was presented, the nation would draw upon its trained reserves, class by class, in ordered ways, and do little injury to the civil structure, at least avoid the most damaging injuries.

An army constructed of homogeneous units, of units containing men of the same age, is a mobile, efficient army. Its parts can move in unison. The components of these parts have uniformity in strength and endurance. A mixed assortment of men of various ages will be slowed down to the pace of the slowest age.

Boys of 19 are at the age when military training would not be irksome. They would like it. It would do them good. It would give them disciplined ways of action and thought.

The whole national life would be better, and the nation safe, if boys at 19 entered upon a year's military training.

THE NEW RUSSIA.

The Russian revolution finds its genius in a small body of intellectuals operating upon a great mass of discontent. These intellectuals are patient, just, and wise. The great mass of discontent may prove to be patient and just, but is not wise. There is another group which is composed of terrorists, of the most violent and desperate opponents of autocracy the world knows.

The instinct of the mind is to find a parallel, to discover something in experience which will be a guide to the future or an explanation of the present. That instinct naturally puts the French revolution alongside the Russian revolution as an interpreter. The method easily can be made unsound. It necessitates the assumption that human experience is developing in a precise similarity of conditions.

The French revolution had a benevolent beginning in the activities of a wise and humane group of intellectuals, broke out of their control, broke them, and went into the frantic ecstasy of terrorism and anarchy.

This thought obtrudes to disturb the idea of what a possible Russian republic might be, if it were possible to establish a republic in Russia. The French survived their cataclysm, tried ineffective plans of democracy, and were coördinated in power and order in a restored autocracy under Napoleon.

The Russians may have less capacity for frantic cruelty than the French had. They may have less verve and elan. Their imaginations may not get drunk so readily and their action be not so impetuous. They may submit to astonishing changes without insane excitement.

They must have more restraints than the French had if they are to come suddenly out of absolutism and take democracy without being intoxicated by it.

The difficulties of establishing a republic in Russia, even if the attempt were made through the government with moderation and consideration, might seem insurmountable. Vast areas of this Russian republic would contain peoples of diverse customs, of hopeless heterogeneity, ruled from ancient times by the world's great eastern monarchs and conquerors and accepting autocracy as the rule of life.

Russia reaches from the semi-developed life of the north to the semi-developed life of the tropics. It contains as many somnolent peoples as any empire in the world. A republic seems beyond realization where they are concerned.

To balance the account, the Russians have had long and successful operation in local self-government, under the zemstvo system, and their experiments in local communism have been effective and satisfactory. The habit of government thus indicated may not have prepared thoroughly for a vast system of representative government, but it has been a preparation.

Whatever form the New Russia takes it is a new Russia, one born, as many great nations have had rebirth, in the agonies of force, of re-creative force, and if it gives new expression to the people who now produce great artists the world may be just opening its eyes upon its vastest social phenomenon.

BOOZE AS WASTE OF TIME.

The stock horrible example stories of the prohibitionists are confined chiefly to a recital of what booze makes men do. It makes them commit crimes, beat children, desert wives. Of course these things happen, but it is impossible to convince drinking or nondrinking men that these are inevitable consequences of booze.

The really important effect of booze is not that it makes men do dangerous things but that it prevents them from doing useful things.

A couple of bottles of beer will, for instance, divert a student from reading William James to reading Nick Carter. They will divert a business man from studying reports to drowsing over the newspaper.

What seems to be harmless wine bibbing is harmless generally in its positive effects. It does not generally send men into bad company or inane company, physically. He is rarely found actually lying in the gutter. But in his mental activity he is too often found there. He spends his time out of business hours on trash because trash requires little mental alertness. He goes to a poor movie because he has not sufficient energy to read a good book.

Booze beguiles us into wasting time. That is the chief indictment against it.

GLOOM AMONG THE SPOILSMEN.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

Proponents of the merit system of appointment in the civil service rejoice that Postmaster General Burleson will make the appointment of postmasters of the first, second, and third classes competitive after April 1. There is corresponding depression among the politicians, who are thus deprived of the most important and numerous appointments in their control.

The fact that the progressive step should have been taken long ago makes it all the more welcome now that it has come among those who have bestowed unselfish effort for many years to end the pernicious practice of bestowing federal appointments for partisan activity. It has been urged by the politicians that the higher offices demanded such superior qualifications that no academic test, however practical and pertinent to the duties of the office, could get the right man.

Having depicted the eminent qualifications necessary, they have in many instances procured the nomination of men who had no qualifications of any ascertainable kind except that of unswerving fidelity to a feudal system that levied tribute on officeholders. To many congressmen the maintenance of a political machine in running order is the paramount interest. But to patriots the question of efficiency and economy in the public service comes first of all.

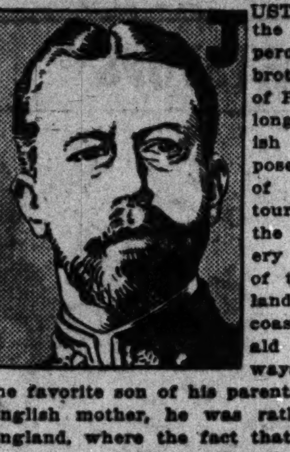
LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1917: By the Brentwood Co.]



JUST a years befor the war began Emperor William's only brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, paid a prolonged visit to the British isles, for the purpose, as he explained, of making a motor tour and of enjoying the picturesque scenery of rural England, of the Scottish Highlands, and of their wild coast, and of the Emerald Isle. Having always been regarded as the favorite son of his parents, especially of his English mother, he was rather a favorite in England, where the fact that he was a singularly frank looking sailor also prepossessed the British in his behalf.

Therefore every endeavor was made by the government and by the people to make his trip pleasant and instructive, and the tour consisted in motoring from one fine country seat to another, the great nobles and county magnates vying with one another in showing generous hospitality to him and his numerous suite.

It was only some time after the war had broken out that it was ascertained from Berlin that this motor tour had been undertaken for purposes of espionage, and that the members of the prince's party were some of the shrewdest and most wideawake officers of the general staff of the German army, who were thus enabled to acquaint themselves with points on the coast favorable for bombardment from the sea, places inland most easily distinguishable by the crews of the Zeppelins for the dropping of their bombs, and with localities suitable for hidden bases for submarines and secret stores of oil.

Intense resentment was caused when the news of the purport of the prince's tour became known in Great Britain, and those who had taken the trouble to entertain him and to help to show him everything of interest were particularly indignant. One of his victims seems to have been the Duke of Marlborough, who had gone out of his way to make the prince's visit agreeable, and who had had him staying at Blenheim palace while making excursions to many points within motoring distance.

At Blenheim, as in so many other of the great country seats, a visitors' book is kept, in which each guest of note is invited to inscribe his name, a custom which has keen kept up in many instances for hundreds of years, the books being of great historical value. The set at Blenheim palace goes back to the early portion of the eighteenth century, and many of the most illustrious and historic names of Europe are to be found in the pages.

But on the page that bears the signature of Prince Henry of Prussia the duke has written, clear across the royal signature, the following remark in red ink:

"I am ashamed before God that this man ever disgraced my house with his presence."

Drastic rules have just been inaugurated by the war department in England, with a view to restricting the gayeties of wounded and convalescent officers in the metropolis. All officers on leave of absence for purposes of convalescence are now obliged to wear blue bands on their arms, and are only allowed out of doors from 1 in the afternoon until 6 o'clock in the evening.

After that hour they must have retired to the public and private hospitals, to the convalescent homes, and to the private houses to which they have been assigned to reside for the period of their recovery. Those found at theaters, restaurants, or even at private entertainments, after 6 p. m., will be subjected to disciplinary penalties.

It has been found that the efforts on the part of the friends and acquaintances of the convalescent officers to give them a good time have had the result of seriously retarding their recovery. Hence the new rules, which are being applied in the most rigorous fashion.

Although the dukedom of De Maillé only dates from the latter half of the eighteenth century, yet the origin of the family is lost in the dawn of history, and its members are able to trace back their ancestry in an unbroken line to Baron Gausbert de Maillé, who lived in 1035. The announcement, therefore, of the engagement of Jacquelin de Maillé, eldest son and heir of the fourth Duke of Maillé, to Mlle. Allette de Rohan-Chabot, daughter of Gerard de Rohan-Chabot, Count of Chabot and Duke of Ravese, has excited a good deal of sympathetic interest in France, uniting as it does two of the most important families of that country. The young lieutenant, who is barely 26 years of age, is now serving at the front in France, and the marriage will have to take place during one of the rare intervals when he is able to obtain leave of absence to visit the metropolis.

The duke is a soldier by profession and on the outbreak of the war rejoined the army, from which he had retired with the rank of major, and was a particular favorite of the late Queen Victoria, whose cavalry escort he on several occasions commanded during her sojourns in France, at Chambery, and on the Riviera. He is married to Carmen de Wendel and has a mansion in Paris, in the Rue Paul Baudry, and an ancestral château known as Châteauneuf-sur-Cher.

Allette de Rohan-Chabot is a daughter of that Count de Chabot who, not content with this historic dignity, makes use, in addition thereto, of the title of Duke of Ravese. It was obtained by his father, the late Count Guy de Rohan-Chabot, on the occasion of his marriage to the widowed Countess Albert Louis Gallatin, and who was formerly Miss Zefita Hayward of New York.

Guy de Rohan-Chabot obtained the dukedom of Ravese from the vatican, and then endeavored to secure from Alfonso XIII. a Spanish title as Duke of Chabot. The king, however, did not see his way to use any historic French name for the creation of a brand new Spanish dukedom and contented himself with granting the applicant a patent authorizing him to make use of his papal title of Duke of Ravese in Spain.

THE NEW DRIVE ON CONSUMPTION.

DR. HEISER is director in the east of the work of the international health commission. Before undertaking that work he was in charge of public health work in the Philippine islands. Therefore, when he reported to the National Tuberculosis society that Victoria, Australia, had succeeded in stamping out consumption he was listened to.

The method employed in Victoria embraced the following details: Every person reporting a case of consumption not previously reported is paid $2. It is so necessary to have a report of all cases that it is made worth while for physicians to register their cases. A corps of visiting nurses search out suspicious cases.

Every case of consumption registered is supposed to be a hospital or sanitarium case. There is ample provision of hospital and sanitarium beds and of dispensaries, so that every case of consumption that needs care can have it, and without expense to the patient, if necessary. If, upon investigation, it be found that a person with consumption is so careful that he can stay at home without endangering anybody, if he wishes to stay at home and can afford to do so, he is left there. If he remains at home he is given all the medical care and nursing service he needs. Inspectors see to it that the rules of sanitation, hygiene, and right living are universally carried out.

When this success was brought to the attention of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company they voted to appropriate $100,000 for the purpose of trying an experiment somewhere in the United States. The experiment was to prove whether the plan could be adapted to American conditions and made to succeed here.

The National Tuberculosis society appointed a committee to have charge of the experiment. The chairman of the committee was Dr. Baldwin, who is connected with Saranac. Dr. D. B. Armstrong was selected to carry out the work. Framingham, Mass., was selected as the place. The experiment was inaugurated about the first of this year.

Framingham is a city of 16,000 inhabitants. Other places can gain much from a careful weighing of some statements made by Dr. Armstrong. Especially are they interested in this answer to the question, Why was Framingham selected?

[1] Because it was in a good state with a good department of health. (The experiment would not have a fair chance unless it had setting. The setting necessary is a good state with a good department of health.)

[2] Because it contained various types of industries and various kinds of people racially and was a separate, self-supporting community and not a suburb. In addition, Framingham is a well known town for its size and for that reason it will be easy for other places in this country and throughout the world to watch the experiment. (The effort is to be made in a typical community. The people are of about the same type as found in other communities. The difficulties expected are to be just the average difficulties. Whatever the results of the test, other places are expected to watch it closely and to profit by both the successes and the failures.)

[3] Because the town has a good board of health and a good health officer, wide-awake and progressive city officials, and good private educational and relief organizations. (It would not be possible to succeed—in fact, the experiment would not have a fair chance—if the local health agencies are not effective.)

[4] Because the town had a good hospital and well trained and progressive physicians. (A recognition of the need by a community of good hospitals and well trained private physicians.)

[5] Because of the promise of coöperation from private and official bodies, because the town was willing to meet its own obligations.

[6] Because health conditions were average and typical. Because there was the average amount of tuberculosis and the average activity in its attempted control.

[7] And, finally, because it was an average town with real problems but with a "forward look" boding a higher degree of success for the demonstration than seemed to be the case in the nine other towns visited in Massachusetts and New York. (By "forward look" I assume that Dr. Armstrong means that there was less indifference to consumption than prevails in most places; that the people were willing to admit their shortcomings and were more eager to correct them than was the case in other places.)

His answers to the question—What is the program?—supply information as to details.

[1] The establishment of an office, the appointment of a local committee, the introduction of the program to all the organizations and people in Framingham.

[2] The provision, with the help of local citizens and organizations, of complete care for known cases. (Note the statement—complete care.)

[3] The early discovery of unknown advanced cases with the help of Framingham doctors and nurses. (Note the development of the features of the Victoria experience.)

4. A thorough knowledge of the whole town, including sanitary conditions, school conditions, commercial and office conditions, and rural conditions. (The people of Framingham are willing to surrender some of their personal liberty to be freed from consumption.)

5. The establishment of a series of tuberculosis lectures and clinics by the country's most famous experts for local physicians, emphasizing uniform and efficient work and showing the way to the rest of the state and country for the use of the best methods of diagnosis and treatment. (The Vermont board of health realized that to control infantile paralysis they must provide free clinics on that disease for the physicians of the state. The Framingham demonstrators will apply the same method to consumption.)

6. The coördination of Framingham health activities, including the work of the demonstration committee, school health work, factory health work, the work of the board of health, infant health work, and charitable relief.

7. The coördination, and, if necessary, the expansion of Framingham medical facilities, including laboratory, dispensary, and hospital, with the establishment of necessary connections with outside medical agencies, such as the state and county sanitaria, the Boston medical schools, etc.

8. An educational campaign carried on through general channels, through school and factory, etc. This educational campaign will be aimed at the detection and prevention of early cases of tuberculosis, and will urge the prevention of infection and the creation of healthful conditions. It ought to result in a "spotless town" in which healthy persons may live. Incidentally, the educational campaign also will urge thorough annual medical examinations for every one.

9. Another important phase of the program is the thorough medical examination of all the Framingham citizens who are willing to go to their doctor or to the dispensary for this purpose. Every one will have the advantage of the best expert medical opinion on difficult or doubtful cases. This thorough medical examination ought to result in the detection not only of early and easily curable cases of tuberculosis but in many other things that can be treated successfully only when discovered early, such as cancer, Bright's disease, etc.

The demonstration will not be an entire success unless a substantial number of Framingham citizens acquire the habit of annual medical examinations. (To my mind it is clear that the by-results, such as lowering of general death rates, the better care of heart disease, improved habits and customs will be more marked than the direct results—the control of consumption.)

10. Home care with adequate nursing and medical facilities for tuberculosis cases will be urged. Hospital care in state or county institutions will be recommended and provided for in some way when necessary. Possibly one old school building will be used temporarily as a hospital. Possibly another old school building will be used as a preventorium for undernourished children who have been exposed to tuberculosis.

Such a scheme, with the coördination of medical, nursing and charitable facilities, ought to insure adequate provision for all types of tuberculosis, including the pre-tuberculous, the suspicious cases, the incipient cases, the advanced cases, the surgical cases and the arrested cases which have been under treatment at home or in a sanitarium.

Dr. Armstrong's answers to the question, What is Framingham's part in the demonstration? are: The demonstration must have the help and good will of every official and every individual in the city. The city must maintain a health department with a full time health officer and laboratory. It must maintain a tuberculosis dispensary with nurses. It must have school inspection, an infant welfare clinic, district visiting nurses and open-air rooms in the schools.

His answer to the question, What results can be expected? will interest many persons.

1. The discovery and adequate care of all cases of tuberculosis; the reduction of sickness and deaths to the minimum.

2. The general health and sanitary improvement of all Framingham and its population, the prevention of other diseases as well, resulting in a reduction of the general death rate from all causes.

3. The demonstration of the belief that disease prevention for any town is cheaper than disease, both to the town and to the sick person.

4. The making of Framingham the world's healthiest spot and hygienic Utopia.

5. The spending locally of $100,000 or more.

6. The transformation of Framingham into the healthiest and safest place to trade and the safest town from which to advertise manufactured products—a substantial asset.

7. Fame for Framingham. The eyes of the medical, health, scientific, and popular worlds are upon her.

8. The working out at the end of the experiment of the best health and disease prevention machinery for a town of Framingham's size.

9. The demonstration of the cheapest and most efficient method for the prevention of tuberculosis—a plan for other towns the world over to copy.

10. The answer to the questions: Are we spending our money wisely? What methods in disease prevention are worth while?

11. The successful demonstration of a worthy program for the conquest of tuberculosis and for the enthronement of health. (The demonstration will be worth all its costs in money and in the limitation of liberty if it demonstrates a program for the conquest of tuberculosis. The good repute which Dr. Armstrong promises that this demonstration will bring to Framingham will appeal strongly to the business men and property interests.)

FEED BABY COW'S MILK.

Mrs. B. B. C. writes: "I have been feeding my 4 months old baby boy cow's milk three times a day since he was 6 weeks old, as I have not had enough nourishment for him. But as spring is near and the milk is often bitter, caused by bitter weed, I want to ask if I should change his feed. The milk is clean and fresh from healthy cows, and what would you advise that I give him? His bowel movements often have clots of milk in them. How often should he be fed? He is growing, and gaining from eight to thirteen ounces per week."

REPLY.

Keep up the cow's milk. He is thriving and should continue to do so. You probably are feeding him too frequently or else giving him a mixture that is too rich. He should be fed every four hours from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m., but not at all between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. He can have orange juice or prune juice. Two months from now you can add oatmeal or barley water to his milk.

LIGHTING NORTH SHORE AVENUE.

Chicago, March 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What can be done to secure better street lighting on North Shore avenue, west of Clark street? While it is but a short street it is entirely without lights. There is an arc light at Clark street, but this is out of commission and has been for some time.

This lamp had been subject to some temporary trouble, but is now in service. Relative to the installation of a new lamp at North Shore avenue and Meadow lane, while the department recognizes the necessity for this lamp, there are no funds available for its installation this year.

OPENING INDIANA AVENUE.

Chicago, March 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Some time back proceedings were instituted to open Indiana avenue between One Hundred and Fifteenth and One Hundred and Sixteenth streets. The matter seems to have been dropped. What is the reason?

A. J. S.

A large meeting of property owners was held relative to this opening and a bitter complaint was made that the assessment was not properly spread; secondly, that the proposed opening would mean a diversion of Indiana avenue. This matter was held up pending adjustment of these objections. It will be again taken up and to it coupled the opening of Indiana avenue across the Blue Island branch of the Illinois Central railroad, which blocks this street at a point farther south. The two together will make this a thoroughfare and not a stub end and perhaps will remove some of the objections which were had in the previous case.

Alderman Ninth Ward.

PROPERTY OWNERSHIP AND BANKRUPTCY.

AN ADVANTAGE TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Chicago, March 11.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have received the bill on an assessment for the paving of Melrose street between Kimball and Drake avenues, with interest from Aug. 26, 1916. While paving was started on this street, as well as Kimball and Drake avenues, early last spring, the only street which was finished was Drake avenue. We have been subjected to a great deal of annoyance and trouble ever since spring on account of the slowness with which the work progressed. I wish to inquire if it is proper and just that we should be obliged to pay interest from last August?

RESIDENT.

The contract for paving a system of streets including Melrose street from Kimball avenue to Drake avenue was awarded July 1, 1916, and the contractor started work the following August. Owing to the fact that it was difficult to obtain sufficient labor to complete this work before the cold weather set in, it will be necessary to go on with the work as soon as the weather permits next spring. The board of local improvements elected to put the assessment into collection, however, in order to relieve the property owners of the necessity of paying interest for a year or more before the assessment would be paid. This would have been the case if the assessment was not put into collection until 1918, as the law requires that interest be charged from the date the first voucher is issued to the contractor for work done. This first voucher is issued just after the contractor starts work—in the case of the improvement in question, Aug. 26, 1916. These vouchers draw interest, and the interest must be taken from the assessment.

M. J. FAHERTY,
President Board of Local Improvements.

Chicago, March 13.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a note for $1,500. It is ten years since it was given, by a man who now lives in Canada. Is the note outlawed?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

HE'S OFF'N US.

Chicago, March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have just stopped my subscription to THE TRIBUNE as a protest against the attitude of that paper on municipal affairs, and particularly because of its stand concerning Ald. Merriam.

THE TRIBUNE is constantly making an appeal for men of ability and energy in the city council. Ald Merriam is recognized as such by thousands of people all over the city and by such unbiased bodies as the Municipal Voters' league.

Yet when he comes up for nomination or election THE TRIBUNE prints such weak and shifty editorials as the one of Feb. 25 and the one March 8 entitled "Merriam and the Women," and on primary day THE TRIBUNE was too cowardly to print any aldermanic recommendations, as is universally done by all decent newspapers. Such a course of trimming and truckling to the public utility corporations and city hall crowd I cannot and will not have presented to me each day.

The recent primary in this ward was conducted by the enemies of Ald Merriam as corruptly and as dishonestly as First ward politics in its worst days.

With such corruption and with 25,000 people not voting, an apparent majority of five votes in the primary is certainly not a repudiation of Ald. Merriam as THE TRIBUNE would have us believe.

The fight on corruption is not through in the Seventh ward, but I am through with THE TRIBUNE and its support of dirty politics.

SUFFRAGE AND THE CONSTITUTION.

Evanston, Ill., March 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—When you say of the new constitution, "The legislature in refusing to submit this question is without a particle of justification. It will deny, if it does again refuse, the right of the people to make their own decision in an essential matter of government. The people have the right to make this decision. The legislature is outside its proper powers when it prevents the people from exercising their right," you will, of course see that, notwithstanding the character of your recent editorials, all this applies precisely to the woman suffrage amendment.

EDNA M. KELLY,
1022 Hinman avenue.

AND THEY ARE SOME DEDUCTIONS.

Chicago, March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A careful study of the German and the Austro-Hungarian notes on the submarine question leads me to the following deductions: In case a state of war should eventuate between this government and the central powers (which, of course, we should deeply deplore, etc.), we would reannounce "the thesis that enemy merchantmen, apart from cases of attempted flight and resistance (which would be criminal, and as rank burglary as ever was committed), must not be destroyed without precautions being taken for the safety of the persons aboard," and that "when executing the right of destroying enemy merchantmen the loss of life should as far as possible be avoided," as in Izaak Walton's directions for putting a frog upon the hook, to "use him as though you loved him; that is, harm him as little as you may possibly, that he may live the longer."

Furthermore, I draw the teutological deductions that to preserve our women and children from the starvation policy inevitably adopted by an enemy in the prosecution of a war which they have forced upon us, and "to make those powers incline (their hearts) toward peace with honor and a guarantee to all nations of the freedom of the seas," it is necessary for us to declare all enemy submariner and supersubmarines, belligerent and nonbelligerent, armed or unarmed alike, to be pirates and outlaws (because if not such at the time it is manifestly their purpose to ultimately become such), to be shot, sunk, blown up or otherwise exterminated on sight. (Any other course, it is easy to see, would endanger our inexperienced attacking force.)

These measures might seem, to the unsophisticated observer, a bit harsh, but they are dictated by dire necessity, which knows no law and consequently is the maker of all law, and, moreover, they are actuated by the most cordial desire to bring about peace at the earliest possible moment through a merciful schrechlichkeit, in which is will be perceived we are in sincere accord with the expressions of the imperial and royal representatives.

Nota bene. In making these statements it is not to be understood that we are bound to restrict ourselves to the above humane policy. Whenever it shall seem to us necessary we shall arrest all able-bodied men and women over the age of 16, subjects of the central powers, residing within our lines, and dispose of them as seems proper (vide, new history of the Great War, under "Belgium), or we may find it imperative to order a "removal" of all subjects whose presence may become a burden to us, without further notice (ibid, under "Armenia").

These warnings, it is to be observed, are given in a spirit of the utmost good will and we trust they will be accepted accordingly. If any subjects of the central powers get in our way, it will be owing to their own folly or criminal intent, and the consequences will, of course, rest entirely with them. Whatever we do, we shall be entirely blameless.

JOHN BRAM.

JUDGE DOLAN ON MILITARY TRAINING.

Chicago, March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is my opinion that neither Chamberlain nor the staff bill goes far enough. Instead of limiting the military training of youths aged 19 to eleven months, as provided in the general staff bill, I would make the age limit between 19 and 21 and the training for an even year. I would make it obligatory that the year's training be followed by two months' training the second year and one month the third year.

It should also be provided that the men receive a fair compensation while in training, say $50 per month. Furthermore, I would have the young men instructed in the English branches and given vocational training in the engineering department.

Unfortunately, regard for law, order, and constituted authority among American boys of the poorer classes, particularly in the large cities, is almost negligible. As judge of the Boys' court, wherein between 8,000 and 10,000 boys between the ages of 18 and 21 are arraigned yearly, I have become deeply impressed with this fact. The remedy lies in compulsory military training, which would make a wholesome and lasting impress upon the minds of such as are inclined toward wildness or lawlessness.

HENRY M. HYDE'S article in last Wednesday's TRIBUNE about the conference which will be held on April 25 to start a campaign to "bring books to the people and people to the books" through national advertising is worth your looking up. The campaign will undoubtedly bring to us a clearer idea of what a real member of the community's powers that be the public library is and how infinitely more powerful it could be if we would only let it.

The library isn't merely a place where we may get books without buying them. It thinks for us, suggests wider fields of education and culture for us to explore, and, in time of need, marshals for us the forces of knowledge without which our community could not be efficient. Those who shun the library because they "get something there beside books," who complain because the halls are dirty, because the reading rooms are heavy with the odors of humankind are not seeing the forest for the trees.

A cold clear, blue sky behind the ruined seeming colonnade at Randolph street and the lake front is often splashed with cinders dying from red to black and cloaked in dirty gray smoke, but who shall say that its eternal loveliness is less pure for the human smoke and smudge? Some day there will be no smoke. The humanness will be there, but the smudge will be gone. Some day, perhaps, there will be no dirt on the floor in the library halls and there will be no rags nor dirt. But the library will be the same.

The public library can and should be the most important individual help to a greater civic humanness. Until the advertising campaign begins I shall tell you each week just what special help the library offers the city. Have you seen the "One Hundred Helps for Reducing the Cost of Living" that the library has compiled? There are cook books with recipes for leftovers and economical dishes government bulletins about food values, and package libraries of helps to economy—bundles of bulletins, magazine articles, and charts dealing with a special subject which are circulated just as though they were books.

"Susan Lenox: Her Fall and Rise" (Appleton) is finally bound, boxed, and ready for distribution. David Graham Phillips worked on the story for ten years, you remember, and had apparently made his last changes in it just before his death. Serial rights were sold by his publishers, and the magazine which bought them held the manuscript for three years before it began publication, which took two years. The book in its permanent form contains nearly 400,000 words and is printed in two volumes. It is published in its entirety, which includes more than 40,000 words which were not printed in the series.

Albert Bigelow Paine, whose "Boy's Life of Mark Twain" (Harper's) is a biographical joy for big boys, as well as little ones, says that he first heard the name of Mark Twain when he was 4 years old—and he remembers all about it. His father's hired man said before the future biographer, "I see that Mark Twain has written a new 'Pilgrim's Progress.'" Later his father brought the volume home, and he says he remembers what it looked like and that it was read aloud. He believed that it was a serious religious work and was shocked when his father laughed as he read it.

"The Wave" (Dutton) is Algernon Blackwood's latest bit of exquisite word fashioning of thoughts and things which are elusive and almost inexpressible. This novel is, unlike any of his other books, a tale of love, of reincarnated, deathless passion.

Vacancies at West Point.

By Capt. Robert C. Richardson Jr.

[Second Cavalry, U. S. A.]

THE agitation for preparedness has not been without some beneficial results, one of the greatest of which was the act of congress last spring increasing the United States corps of cadets.

The United States government maintains at West Point, N. Y., a national school for the training of young men to become officers of the army, and all information relative to the appointment and admission of cadets to the United States Military academy should be in the possession of every American who is interested in the defense of his country. Once a young man succeeds in being admitted to West Point, the entire expense of his four years' training is borne by the government.

In case we go to war, our greatest need will be trained officers to drill and instruct the large volunteer armies that the United States will be called upon to raise. Good officers cannot be trained in a short time, because in addition to instructing them in their complex duties it is important to mold their characters to a standard of honor and loyalty from which they will never swerve in the face of the greatest crises. Battles are won first with the brain and then with the sword. To intrust the lives of hundreds of our citizens who in danger will patriotically volunteer to untrained leaders is unintelligent and criminal.

West Point offers the best training for men to become officers, and the opportunity to enter the army is open to any American boy between the age of 17 and 22 years.

The recent act of congress declared, briefly, that the corps of cadets shall hereafter consist of two from each congressional district, two from each territory, four from the District of Columbia, two from natives of Porto Rico, four from each state at large, and eighty from the United States at large, twenty of whom shall be selected from among the honor graduates of educational institutions having officers of the army detailed as professors of military science and tactics, and 180 men selected equally from the regular army and the national guard. The act also provided that the authorized increase shall be divided into four annual increments as nearly equal as practicable.

The authorized strength of the corps for the year 1917 will be 1,000 cadets, plus some vacancies that remained unfilled from the previous year, and 157 caused by the graduation of the class of 1917. Since there are only 700 cadets at West Point at present, there will be approximately 590 vacancies for the class that enters in June, 1917.

I shall now explain how to obtain an appointment to fill a vacancy at West Point. If a boy desires an appointment he should apply either in writing or personally to the congressman of his district. The latter is allowed two cadets and is restricted in his recommendation to boys living within his district. He may appoint any boy whom he pleases, or may hold a competitive examination for all boys who desire to take it, a practice that is followed by many representatives. It may so happen that the representative of any particular district has no appointments for that year because his two appointees are still at West Point, but the congressman will tell the applicant when the vacancies will occur.

Should the young aspirant, however, not desire to wait for a congressional vacancy, or to fail to obtain one, other roads are open. Each United States senator can appoint two cadets, and, like the representative, he has the privilege of designating any individual, or of holding a state-wide competitive examination. An application, either in writing or in person, should be made to either or both of the United States senators from the state in which the boy lives. For each vacancy from a state at large there is a senatorial appointment, or from a congressional or territorial district three candidates are nominated, one principal, one first alternate, and one second alternate. The first alternate, if qualified, is admitted in the event of the failure of the principal, and the second alternate is admitted, if qualified, in the event of the failure of the principal and first alternate.

In the event that any particular senator's vacancies are filled, there still remain the presidential appointees. In recent years the practice has been to hold competitive examinations for these nominations. An application may be made to the adjutant general of the army, Washington D. C., requesting permission to compete. The president may designate any number of boys to stand the entrance examinations to West Point for the vacancies allotted him. The authorities at Washington then select, according to the vacancies, those boys making the highest grades.

Again, the educational institutions which have officers of the army detailed as professors of military tactics, and which have been designated by the war department as "honor schools," are allotted twenty cadets at West Point. Whenever a vacancy occurs by the graduation, resignation, or death or dismissal of a cadet originally appointed from one of these "honor schools," each school designates one candidate to compete for the vacancy.

The last act of congress opened a new road to West Point to many young men by offering cadetships to enlisted men of the regular army and national guard. To compete from these sources a man must be between the ages of 19 and 22 and have served as an enlisted man not less than one year. The number allowed the national guard for 1917 is twenty-three, to which must be added the unfilled vacancies for 1916, making thirty-four.

To compete for the general vacancies allotted any state, an enlisted man of the guard fulfilling all the requirements, should apply to the adjutant general of his state. He will be designated by the latter to appear for a preliminary examination similar to the regular entrance examinations to the United States Military academy. From the successful competitors of this examination the governor of the state designates the men for the vacancies.

In a similar manner candidates for the vacancies from the regular army are selected from the successful competitors in a preliminary examination held in the different territorial departments.

Briefly, therefore, the process of inducting a person into the military academy as a cadet is as follows: First, he is informed that he has been "selected for appointment as a cadet of the United States Military academy," and is authorized to appear at a designated place and time for examination; second, he is notified that he has "been found to be mentally and physically qualified for admission as a cadet" and is "directed to report in person to the superintendent of the military academy" at a designated time for admission.

Having received an appointment from any of the sources outlined above, admission to the academy may then be obtained either by examination or by certificate. The usual method is by examination. The candidate is directed by the war department to appear for mental and physical examinations before a board of officers of the army. As these boards are convened yearly in various parts of the country, the candidate is sent to the one most convenient to his home. He must then show by written examination that he is well versed in algebra to include quadratic equations and progressions, and in plane geometry, English grammar, composition and literature, descriptive and physical geography, and general and United States history.

The academic board at the military academy, however, will consider, and may accept, in lieu of the regular mental examination, properly attested certificates stating either that the candidate is a regularly enrolled student in good standing without condition in a university, college, or technical school, or that the candidate has graduated from a preparatory school or a public high school, provided that these educational institutions are accredited by the United States Military academy.

The academic board has prepared a list of subjects and the corresponding weights in units. Fourteen units are necessary for the acceptance of a certificate. All detailed information concerning the accredited schools and the certificate will be furnished any one who applies to the adjutant, U. S. M. A., West Point, New York.

Candidates who pass the examination or whose certificates are accepted are then directed to report to the superintendent of West Point before 10:30 a. m., the second day, Sunday, excepted, following the date of regular graduation in June. They are then admitted as cadets of the United States Military academy and at once are given warrants.

It is regrettable that every American boy cannot be given the training similar to that at West Point. With princely generosity our government has equipped the academy with every facility for the training of the youth's mind and body so that he leaves the institution with the solid foundation of a good education and a well developed physique. The most important benefit to the boy, however, has been the strengthening of his moral fiber, the molding of his character.

If all American boys could have brought to their attention the unparalleled advantages of West Point, all of which are without cost to the cadet, there would never be a vacancy in the academy. It would then be the ambition of every American youth to identify himself with an institution whose traditions form a bright page in his country's history, and whose motto, "Duty, honor, country," would ever inspire in him the highest ideals of young American manhood.

AFTER THE PEACE

by Robert Herrick

PARIS, Jan. 25.—We talked peace, as I said in my previous article, there in that house so near the enemy's lines, within sound of the guns which were exchanging hates over our heads. For none loathe the black misery of war and long more ardently for peace—a real peace—than those who know war best, like these French officers. Yet they could not see how soft words of excellent sentiment such as our president had been indulging in could bring the so much desired peace. "Can we make peace with them over there?" was the colonel's succinct argument, given with a twist of the head in the direction of the German guns. "Can we think of any peace until not only are they driven back to their own country but also are in no condition for a long time to repeat their performance?"

"But the question," I ventured, "is how best to put the German in a state of mind that will discourage him forever from predatory excursions?"

"Exactly!" was the retort. "But it will take more than words, than promises, to do that! Have we not had enough of German promises?"

So we fell into that endless discussion about the "new Europe" and "the mind of Europe," from which one cannot yet emerge with unanimity of agreement, because each will read the riddle according to the nature of his own soul. Each can find an armory of arguments in history, in the events of this war, in the basic principles of human nature. At present, it is safe to generalize, Europeans can see only a physical peace, made by the will of one party imposed upon the other by superior force. And there you stick!

To your objection that Europe has tried again and again to derive peace physically only to see the world aflame with fresh wars they will say with a hopeless shrug—"That is the curse under which we live. All we can hope for is a prolonged truce, the longest possible, before we or our children suffer again from the curse that is in our blood!" "That," I reply, "is pure pessimism: Americans do not believe in the necessity, the inevitability of war, and that is why our president is seeking, in his somewhat tactless words, for a means of preventing the catastrophe in order that some great permanent good may come from the awful sacrifices which you have made."

"It is impossible—it is Utopian!" is the invariable sad answer. "You do not understand. You cannot understand Europe." . . .

NOTWITHSTANDING such pessimism as to the lasting results of the present war, the conviction that peace is approaching, that it is not very far off, is in all men's minds. How it can come, whether by the sword or by ethical discourses such as our president's, whether by grim starvation or financial exhaustion, whether by military successes of the allies this coming spring or by imposition of the more powerful neutrals, is an open question as yet. But that tortured humanity cannot much longer endure the crucifixion it has imposed on itself becomes more and more evident to all men as the months of the third year of war draw to conclusion.

There are innumerable signs of the turning of men's thoughts to what must be done "afterward"—laws passed, measures taken, preparations under way for restoration, rebuilding, recovery. It is this instinctive turning of men in every country toward the new day that has convinced me more than all arguments that peace is on the way. For the mind in great numbers of men is preparing for it and coming events cast their shadow before them—at least spiritually.

WHEN we got onto the topic of what must be done immediately after peace had been made I found a ready response in the minds of these French officers, who for thirty months have witnessed the desecration of their country. "I should think," said the colonel with passionate intensity, "that everybody in the world—yes, even the Germans!—would want to see this wound disappear from off the earth as soon as possible!"

By "this wound" he did not mean the hatreds and sufferings engendered by Germany's crimes, which will take generations wholly to eradicate from the memory of men. He meant the physical devastation, the ugly scar that runs in a wavering line across Europe from Switzerland to the North sea—sometimes broader as to the north, sometimes narrower as where we were talking, but never less than a good twenty miles of terrible desolation. Ruined homes, ruined churches, obliterated little villages, ruined farmhouses, and always ruined land—a black band of waste which if it has been the scene of the greatest heroism and the noblest sacrifices that humanity has ever known is also a terrible indictment of human futility, the incriminating record of man's vilest passions and abasement. This is the immense, the world aspect of the great European battle ground, which every forward looking spirit must regard with shame and must desire with all the force in him to do what he can to erase from human sight, to restore as rapidly as possible to its rightful uses.

And there is the human, individual aspect of the immense battle ground of the world, which once was the home of tens of thousands of human beings, whose tortured soil and crumbling walls are all that they have to look forward to when war relinquishes its hold on what was once their property. As I walked through the little village of F. with my host the problems of that return (after peace had at length come) loomed large and pressing. Here was a little country community of 420 souls (before the war) now reduced to fourteen. Not six buildings of the village have escaped serious damage. More than half are utterly uninhabitable in their present condition: the stones of which they were made still lie nearby, when they have not been carted off for defense works or to wall in soldiers' graves! But stones without mortar, without labor to put them together, are of little use in rebuilding a home. And that is the condition in which most of the dwellers in these houses will be when they straggle back after the evacuation of the armies. Even where the semblance of a building still stands, it is usually nothing more than a hollow shell, roofless, windowless, gutted of its belongings, filled with melancholy debris of what was once a home; filthy and neglected in many cases after three years' occupation by troops.

The actual rebuilding, therefore, of these countless ruined homes must be a slow process in which some form of governmental assistance will be necessary, as it will be for the restoration of destroyed factories, mills, and warehouses, though just how the French state will be able to render any considerable help in such a vast area of devastation remains a dark question—state credit in Europe is not limitless.

BUT the men, women, and children who go back to what was once their homes must live somehow, must start their lives afresh. That will become the immediate, the pressing question the day peace arrives. How are they to begin? My friend, who is the mayor of his small village, estimates that of the four hundred odd inhabitants possibly three hundred will return from the corners of France where they have fled for refuge to their former homes. The other hundred odd will have died or relinquished their little property. Some of these three hundred wanderers will have a little money to live on the first hard months, to repair temporarily their damaged buildings, to buy furniture and tools—but the most of them will have nothing. All the younger men have been fighting for the last three years, with the pay of 5 cents a day!

F. is a little country village of small farmers and a few rentiers, or families that had retired from some small business and had bought with their savings a village home, with a garden or an orchard or a field. The neighboring village of A. is about three times as large as F. equally damaged so far as houses are concerned, with a population that included small shopkeepers, farm laborers, and a few factory hands employed in some small mills.

St. C., two miles farther down the valley, was, before the war, completely agricultural. Of its three hundred inhabitants but two or three remain, and the silence of death reigns in its empty streets, within the walls of its ruined houses. Some of the smaller hamlets in the valley have escaped destruction from shelling, but after the occupation of the country by three different armies very little remains but the buildings, and occasionally they are smashed by stray shells that have dropped into them by accident.

This is but one small canton of one department, a pinprick on the map of this immense battle ground. Other more terribly devastated localities, far greater in numbes and in amount of loss, might easily be found: I have taken purposelessly one of the least dramatic regions both because I happen to have examined it with some care under the guidance of a man who knew every building in the district and because its very insignificance paints the picture I wish to draw more truthfully and more poignantly than would the miles of desolation about the Somme, the acres of ruin in Soissons, Reims, or Arras.

It is just the insignificant average of a country district which in the total toll of misery bulks so large! Take the small canton that I have briefly described and multiply it by ten thousand and some idea of the total picture may be had.

I HAVE kept for the end the most serious aspect of the thing—the land itself. The country in which F. and St. C. and A. lie is of the richest farming land in France, whose plateaus and valley fields once produced great crops of sugar beets and wheat. The farms on the uplands and in the valley of the little river are large, but on the hillsides and about the villages the holdings are small, for fruit and garden.

What has happened to this land, to the soil itself? As I have said in a previous article, there are no longer any trench "lines"—instead there is one maze of defensive works, a large field of military operations. Within this advanced field, which may vary in width from a couple of miles to four or five, as the case may be, on both sides, the soil has been ruined for agricultural purposes, probably for years; it will require an immense amount of labor even to free it of rubbish and level it once more to a working condition. It is crisscrossed with deep trenches and pits and earth works. The surface soil has been turned under to such an extent that in many places it will be necessary to plant trees and allow the once fertile fields to relapse into primitive disuse until the healing processes of nature can make a soil capable of yielding a crop. For the large, rich cultivator that may not be an ultimate loss; for the small landowner it is immediate ruin.

Then there is the soil of the garden patches and little orchards about the houses themselves. In the case of such villages as A. and St. C., which have been devastated by long distance bombardment, these lands need merely cultivation to recover from their long neglect, but in the case of villages lying partly or wholly in the defense fields, like F., the soil now resembles that of a new city subdivision which is putting in sewers and gas and water mains—it is unworkable.

This is what confronts the exile when he or she returns to the former home in the Zone des Armees of France, and if anything the conditions must be worse beyond that "no man's land," which for thirty months has been under the Teuton military boot.

PREPARE!

by Edward Goldbeck

An open letter to the Members of The German-American National Alliance.

GENTLEMEN: Allow me to call your attention to the fact that there is an opportunity in store for you of doing a great service to this country. I know that none of you would want to miss it, supposing that he thinks my assertion justified. The German American National alliance has a million members or more. If an association of this kind would endorse an issue and exhort its members to make propaganda for it, the success would be bound to be very great. It is true that you deprecate all political aims, but the issue which I am thinking of is not political in the sense which we impart to this word in the United States; it has nothing to do with "Republican" or "Democratic" slogans; it is national and, as you call yourself a national alliance, it comes within your scope. Should you declare that it does not, then you had better dissolve your alliance. An association like yours must have definite national aims, otherwise it is not worth a nickel.

You have already guessed that I am hinting at the issue of universal military service. It has been discussed for about a year in all its bearings. So it is not too early to come out for it in plain, vigorous words. It is late, but not too late. It is time, but highest time. The nation, straggling in obsolete individualistic prejudices, is still wavering. You can give a tremendous impulse, an invincible power to the agitation. You can prove, although indeed no proof is needed, that the German Americans are willing to do for their adoptive country whatever can be done. We have been accused of being always "con" and never "pro": here is the opportunity to show that we are only too glad to take up any positive practical propositions as soon as we can convince ourselves that they are made for the good of this country and not in the interest of a European power.

MY request is that the German American National alliance shall endorse the idea of universal military training and service in an unambiguous resolution and set up for this idea a nation-wide energetic propaganda. It is hardly necessary to go into the merits of the matter itself once more, because it has been thoroughly threshed out during the last months, but I shall give a short summing up for those who pay little attention to newspaper debates of this kind.

Universal military training is a political and military necessity. We cannot expect to live in eternal peace. We know that a war with Germany, with Japan, with Mexico is within the limits of possibility and we do not know whether in the next twenty years we shall not have to fight another European power—for instance, England—as not even the wisest statesman can foresee all the international emergencies of the future. We may have to fight a single country; we may have to stand up against a combination of powers. We are not aggressive; we do not covet European territory; we want to live in peace with all nations, but our noblest sentiments, our kindest intentions cannot keep us out of war under all circumstances. They may, but just as well they may not, and it would be criminal to run the risk and remain unprepared.

We are unprepared as long as we confide in the volunteer system. This system would break down and baffle all attempts at reconstruction when confronted with a military power of Germany's or Japan's efficiency. If you buy a hat and you have money enough, you buy the best quality because you believe that you will get your money's worth. If you have to choose between two qualities of military preparedness, take the best one; of course it is expensive, but it will pay. All the experts are unanimous in the opinion that the volunteer system is doomed.

Modern war is a tremendous national effort. Not the army is fighting, as in olden days; the nation itself is fighting. Even England is endorsing universal military service, although all her traditions are against it. From England we have taken our aversion against this sort of "militarism," but the practical Englishman always understood the meaning of the word "necessity" and he will throw overboard his most favorite theories as soon as he sees that national safety demands it.

THERE is another political—international—reason which must not escape your attention. If we want to be protected we must either protect ourselves or be protected by others. If we resolve to protect ourselves we can keep up the proud and dignified isolation which George Washington recommended. We have the men, we have the money, and if we can create the spirit we can stand up for ourselves and no combination of powers will be able to overwhelm us. We shall not need any European alliances and shall be able to keep out of the European muddle. That seems the ideal to me. But it can only be attained if we adopt universal military service. Then, but then only, shall we be strong enough to protect ourselves.

If we prefer to be protected by others let us say so. But do not imagine this attitude of evasion would exempt us from military efforts: such a protection cannot be had; no money could buy it. Our alliance would not be of any value if we should pointblank refuse to do any fighting. But an arrangement with England, for instance, may rescue us from universal service. On the other hand, it will entangle us politically; we shall have to espouse the interests of our allies; we may be compelled to fight for those interests, feeling all the while that they are not ours, and we shall become a second class power, as to be a first class power means to be self-protecting—in other words, armed with the awe inspiring weapon of universal military service.

Universal service, once adopted, will have excellent results for the physical and moral development of the nation. It is natural that the physical results should be beneficial. Especially for the poorer classes; six months of military training are a blessing. The richer classes can indulge in sports of all kind—they have the money and the leisure—but the masses have not, and we have seen in Germany that the military service has a wonderful physical effect. It is not necessary to insist on facts like these, which have been thoroughly studied and verified on the other side. There is no danger in taking them for granted. But the moral effect will be just as good, and we need it even more than the physical results.

We need a little more obedience and discipline in our moral makeup; we need the feeling that we are not single units but integral parts of a great organism—that we are not indepedent but interdependent. It is good that a young man should be taken out of his business for unselfish, patriotic purposes. It is excellent that he should be subjected to some personal inconvenience. That will make him realize that he is a citizen, that the nation has claims upon him, that his ego is a negligible quantity compared to the welfare of the country, that there is something else in life beyond making money and having some fun.

We need nationalization, and universal service will contribute to this very necessary and urgent process. The immigrant will have to serve, and this will keep many undesirable people away. Undesirables are those who come to this country to take only but refuse to give anything in return. If there is any possibility of "Americanizing" the different races it is through universal service. This is not a pro-German or a pro-English issue; it is an American issue.

IT is a democratic idea. When universal military service was started in Germany in 1813 the king of Prussia was afraid of its democratic consequences, and from his dynastic point of view he was right. It was the political awakening of the nation. All the generals of that time believed in the people. Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, and Boyen considered universal service a thoroughly democratic institution. Afterwards, in those bleak years of stupid tyranny and reaction—which, by the way, was of Austrian, not of Prussian, invention—the army lost this character and the caste spirit ruled in it. This deterioration made itself felt after 1813-'15 and again after 1870-'71. But it could not happen in this country, as we have no court, no hierarchy, no coherent ruling classes with an inherited tradition and deep rooted social influence.

It is a demand of reason and logic that a country with universal education and taxation ought to have universal military service. It is demand of justice and fair play. Do you remember the conditions of the civil war? The market price of a substitute (a commodity for the provision of which a class of "substitute brokers" came into being) proved to be about $1,000. Business men who thought that they could not be spared from home but wished to act "patriotically" did buy substitutes; but they need not have done so, for the law contained a provision, intended, as Lincoln recorded, to safeguard poorer men against such a rise in prices. They could escape by paying $300 or even $60 dollars. It goes without saying that in a new country, with its scattered country population and its unorganized great towns, there were plenty of abuses. Substitute brokers provided the wrong articles; ingenious rascals invented the trade of "bounty jumping" and would enlist for a bounty, desert, enlist for another bounty, and so on indefinitely.

Enough of these disgusting and saddening reminiscences. What does democracy mean if not that all the citizens have equal rights and duties? The idea that we all have to pay with our money but that we can grudge our blood is preposterous and repulsive. A democracy without universal military service is incomplete, to say the least.

THE measure will not make for aggression; it will make for peace. If every able bodied man knows that he has to risk his health, his limbs, his life in case of war he will be much more prudent in the assertion of his patriotism than is the case now; but, on the other hand, we shall know that his patriotism is of the genuine kind. We shall be slow to go to war, because we realize the tremendous individual risks. We shall be able to find out what the will of the nation really is, and those people who are agitating for a referendum will agree that a referendum would be much more momentous if its vote came from a nation which has universal service than from a nation which is only partly responsible.

Considering the American character, universal military service is almost a pacifist measure. Those people who want an efficient, swift, and powerful foreign policy will say that universal service makes war impossible and; consequently, makes a successful foreign policy impossible. That is yet to be seen. It is of no use to lose ourselves in the labyrinth of psychological conjecture. Only this much can be safely asserted today: that a policy of expansion and aggression will be out of the question under the régime of universal service. The nation will not stand for it. If there is any possibility of eliminating "secret diplomacy" it is by adoption of universal service. There will hardly ever be "one man's war," because every step which might involve us in war will be jealously observed—much more jealously than is the case now.

A democracy is based on the idea that every citizen is intensely interested in the welfare of the whole. This interest, without which democracy is a fake, will be wonderfully enhanced by the adoption of universal service. It is an undeniable psychological experience that we are most deeply interested in those persons or ideas for whom or which we have made sacrifices. Demand patriotic sacrifices of the average man and he will feel that this country is his country and that it has claims on him which cannot be shirked. America ought to be more than an arena for the gladiators of individualism, the prizefighters of lucre.

IF you take up this issue and make it your own it will be sure to be victorious. Then you will have done something to be proud of for this country. The moment, the atmosphere is auspicious. People are still wavering, because the nation has no leader. But perhaps it is better that the impulse should come from below. If you try to give this impulse you are working for unity and democracy, for progress and peace. It is an opportunity which you cannot afford to miss. It is positive patriotic action, and that is what the entire nation is waiting for.

The wheat trade yesterday was again in a nervous, unsettled condition because of the pending railroad strike. Price movements were erratic and the May delivery again ruled relatively stronger than the deferred months. It closed 1⅛@1¼c higher, while new crop deliveries were unchanged to ¼c lower. There was active buying of May wheat by the J. Rosenbaum Grain company and by Thomson-McKinnon, which influenced demand from some of the other houses. Offerings of May were limited during most of the session, although near the finish there was considerable selling by longs.

The late trading was largely in the nature of evening up, due to the uncertainty regarding the rail situation. Washington advices saying that the president was determined that there be no cessation in traffic created considerable confidence, and the trade in general looked for an eleventh hour agreement of some sort.

No Large Export Demand.

Seaboard reports said there was no evidence of important foreign trading yesterday. A little export demand for wheat was claimed, but no figures were forthcoming. The local cash wheat situation continued to be badly upset and all business consummated was subject to many conditions relative to shipping. Sales reported were 5,000 bu. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour yesterday were 569,000 bu, compared with 1,145,000 bu a year ago.

Winter wheat advices were generally of a more favorable nature and fields are again showing life following the recent beneficial rains. Complaints of insufficient moisture came from Kansas, generally from western portions of the state. Primary receipts were 485,000 bu, against 1,393,000 bu a year ago.

Rail Situation Affects Corn.

Corn was also much affected by the railroad situation and it was a slow market, with no particular feature to the trade. Closing quotations were fractionally higher to ⅛c lower than previous resting spots. One of the larger local longs sold corn early, while another of the prominent local traders bought considerable. The trade in general was disposed to sit back and await developments in the railroad situation.

The cash corn market was again an irregular affair with buyers timid on account of the demoralized transportation conditions. Seaboard clearances of of corn for the day were only 34,000 bu. Primary receipts were 728,000 bu, against 981,000 bu a year ago. Local receipts of corn this week totaled 2,1[illegible],000 bu, while shipments were 1,158,000 bu.

Oats Show Declines.

Conditions in the oats market were similar to those prevailing in other pits. Prices at the finish showed declines of ⅛@⅜c. Trade was local in character and generally in the way of evening up and reducing risks. London oats were 1s 3d higher. Clearances for the day were 31,000 bu. Primary receipts totaled 644,000 bu, against 554,000 bu a year ago. Local receipts this week were 2,812,000 bu, while 1,847,000 bu were shipped.

Provisions closed higher, meeting with influential buying and no great pressure. Hogs started out firmer, but were weak at the finish. Reports that the Belgian relief ships have been assured safe conduct and that a number of them have sailed stimulated some buying. Hog receipts at western markets this week totaled 579,000 head, against 514,000 last week, and 616,000 a year ago. Local meat shipments for the week were 18,432,000 lbs, against 15,974,000 lbs a year ago, while lard shipments were 8,858,000 lbs, against 5,827,000 lbs last year.

Rye Quiet and Steady.

Rye was steady with No. 2 selling at $1.60. Receipts were 11 cars.

Barley ruled dull. Malting was quoted $1.12@1.32 and sold $1.12@1.21; feed and mixing quotable $1.03@1.12, and screenings, 50c@$1.05, with latter selling at 80c; skimmings were quoted 75@89c. Receipts, 25 cars.

Timothy seed was quiet with cash lots selling at $4.30. Clover seed was easy. Cash lots quoted $12.00@17.00 and spot prime $17.80 nominal.

Flaxseed closed unchanged. Cash quoted $2.86@2.95 nominal. Duluth was unchanged to ⅛c higher; Minneapolis steady and Winnipeg 1@1¼c higher.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE

J. P. Griffin, president of the board of trade, and the members of the transportation committee, who have been in Washington most of the week, returned yesterday. The unexpected strike developments interfered with the plans proposed for relieving the shipping situation. If it had not been for the calling of the strike it is likely the interstate commerce commission would have ordered the railroads to give relief to the shippers of Chicago and the middle west. "Under present conditions there will be nothing done to remedy existing conditions," said President Griffin yesterday. "The commission, however, fully realizes the serious character of the situation, and we believe will grant our request for immediate relief if there is no strike. However, the strike leaves all matters of this kind in suspense for the present. With the shortage of foodstuffs east, and the necessity for moving western supplies, a strike will be deplorable."

All business in cash grain was at a standstill yesterday. Practically all of the roads were refusing to take shipments, and shippers were unable to have grain moved. Local sales were 5,000 bu wheat and 15,000 bu corn. Seaboard reports indicated some business being done in Manitoba wheat, but otherwise there was little trade. No. 2 Manitoba wheat was offered for shipment ten days after opening of navigation at 10½c over Winnipeg c. i. f. Buffalo, and for all May shipment at 8½c over. No. 3 Manitoba was 4c over Winnipeg May for ten days after opening of navigation and 2c over for all May shipment.

"Canadian buyers continue to dominate the hog market," said W. L. Gregson. "Europe's necessities have not been lost sight of, and as futures of provisions are cheap compared to live hogs, there has been a good demand. The cash trade is slower than it has been for some time. Lower hogs during the spring months would make for temporary declines in futures."

A large number of boats operated by the Belgian relief are expected to arrive at Atlantic ports the next few weeks. It is understood seven vessels left the other side Friday with a safe conduct and that eight more are expected to leave English ports shortly. This will bring a large number of boats to load with grain and provisions the next few weeks. It is understood that Dutch flour purchases have been deferred owing to tonnage conditions.

T. W. Lewis of Minneapolis wired Clement-Curtis: "A well known German here says that he has had friends recently come over from Germany via Sweden, who say that America will have to feed all Europe for twelve months after the war ends. They said the report of a big Russian surplus was a myth, as much of the grain rotted owing to inadequate means to take care of it."

A central Illinois correspondent of W. P. Anderson & Co. said: "Copious rains over central Illinois changed the outlook for winter wheat. With a few warm, bright days the crop will begin to green up. The crop killers will not be heard much from now on. About 20 per cent of the oats have been sown. A big effort will be made to put in a big corn crop."

The Board of Trade Mutual Benefit association has recently been joined by nineteen young men. The total membership of the order is now 912 and the executive committee is making an active campaign for new members. It is expected the membership will be materially increased in the near future.

Charles Sincere & Co.'s advices from the corn belt are 90 per cent favorable to higher prices for corn, although intimating that a release of country elevator holdings might operate temporarily in a contrary direction.

Receipts inspected Saturday: Wheat, 34 cars; corn, 129 cars; oats, 107 cars; rye, 11 cars; barley, 15 cars. Hogs estimated for Monday, 8,000 head.

Hogs at Chicago yesterday had a dull and uneven market, starting steady to strong and closing weak. Receipts were posted at 14,000 head. Speculators started, bidding freely for first offerings, but as they found that big packers were not particularly anxious to amass droves, they gradually withdrew from the trade. Packers and butchers bought sparingly and several thousand hogs remained unsold at the finish. Top sales were at $15.05 and the bulk at $14.75@15.00.

Final prices made hogs 5@10c lower than a week ago, with the underweights, 140 to 150 lb lots, showing a decline of 25c. Pigs were mostly 50@75c lower than a week ago, suffering because of the shutting off of the shipping demand. The average price of hogs here this week was $14.75, a new high record, and compared with $14.65 last week.

CATTLE.

Beef steer market finished the week in an unsettled condition, with prices 35@60c higher than a week ago. Closing days found buyers outbidding one another for meager offerings in the fear that a rail strike would shut off future supplies. Receipts for the week were about as expected and slightly smaller than a year ago. Light arrivals are expected for the coming week, however, and there is not much reserve stock on hand to make up any deficit in daily contributions of live stock to meet requirements of the trade. Calves sold and closed 50@75c higher than a week ago, with prime vealers quotable up to $14.25. Beeves topped the week at $12.65, with the bulk of good killers at $9.75@11.85.

Cattle at seven western markets for the week 143,900, against 136,700 the preceding week, 151,200 a year ago, and 128,900 two years ago. Total for 1917 to date 1,849,000, against 1,620,000 the same period in 1916.

SHEEP.

Sheep finished the week at the highest prices on record, showing gains of 25c for the week. Lambs were up 25c, although showing a loss from the week's best figures. Receipts for the week showed a good increase, but expectations are that future supplies will be greatly curtailed by the unsettled rail situation, and buyers were anxious to accumulate surplus reserves. Lambs topped the week at $14.90, while sheep sold up to $12.65. The latter was paid for western wethers and established a new high record for sheep at this point.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, March 17.—There was an advance of over $1.50 per bale in the cotton market here this morning. May contracts, for instance, sold up to 17.97c or 32 points above last night's close, while October sold at 17.17c or 35 points net higher. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing, but the tone was very steady at a net advance of 19 to 33 points. New crop deliveries led the advance, being influenced by reports of further rains in the eastern belt and the forecast for frost in east Texas, extending nearly to the coast. Reports that further shipments of cotton were to be expected from the local stock and that one block of 5,000 bales would go to Savannah for export were one of the factors on the advance in the near months, and there certainly seemed to be a more optimistic feeling as to international conditions around the ring. The bulk of the buying, however, was attributed to the more hopeful view of the railroad situation and increasing anxiety over the new crop outlook. Large sales of print cloths were reported in Fall River for the week, and western dealers were quoted to the effect that fresh business was in excess of the corresponding time last year. Rather bearish features in the week end statistics were attributed to delayed distribution. Port receipts today were 10,793 bales, and 6,042,033 for the season; exports today, 20,135; for the season, 4,213,486. Stock, 1,218,428. Futures:

The V. A. SMITH COMPANY, successors to JOHN WESTWICK & SON COMPANY (established 1854), manufacturers of house heating boilers, warm air furnaces and general heating appliances, having recapitalized, offer a portion of their preferred stock, bearing 10% interest, for public subscription at $100 per share.

Capital Stock, $200,000

Preferred Stock, $100,000 ($50,000 on Sale)
Common Stock, $100,000 (None for Sale)

Subscription Books Close at Noon, Saturday, March 24, or Earlier

The V. A. SMITH COMPANY is incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois and have been in business continuously since 1909, at which time they succeeded to the business of John Westwick & Son Company, who were established in 1854.

The business of this concern has increased steadily, always showing a large margin of profit. Contracts assumed for 1917 assure a volume of business more than double that of ANY preceding year.

Purpose for Which This Stock Is Offered

To handle increasing business and to equip manufacturing plant, this sale of preferred stock was decided upon. Common stock cannot be secured by any means or at any price.

Why This Preferred Stock Bears 10% Interest

It was the original intention of this company to pay 7% interest on the preferred stock, allowing it to participate in the earnings up to 10%, but as this entailed useless bookkeeping and caused confusion, the Board of Directors voted to pay a straight 10% interest, as the company has always earned far in excess of that amount.

All Interest on the Preferred Stock Is Payable Prior to Common Stock Dividends

Inspection of the Plant Is Invited

The character of the officers (who have acted in their various capacities for the past eight years) and the Board of Directors assures purchasers safety and stability.

Bethlehem Steel's Year.

Net income of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and subsidiaries for 1916 aggregated $43,593,968, according to the annual statement issued yesterday. This represents an increase of $25,831,155, or 150 per cent, over net income of the previous year.

Total income of $61,717,309 compares with $24,821,406 in 1915, and surplus of $39,091,808, after payment of $4,458,600 in common dividends, compares with only $16,719,253 in the previous year, when no disbursements were made on the common shares.

Unfilled orders on hand Dec. 31 amounted to $199,873,249, an increase of $17,-; over the corresponding period of 1915. Depreciation charges of $14,350,-; were almost $10,000,000 greater than in 1915.

Chicago Curb List Heavy.

American Fork and Hoe common continues to be offered for sale at 126, with buyers at 121. The preferred remains unchanged at 125@131. Little interest was shown in American Hominy issues; the common at 40@45 and the preferred at 70@75. Bucyrus preferred has been comparatively quiet at 68@69 and the common at 13@14½. Butler Bros. sold at 276, closing 274 bid, offered at 277. Consumers preferred was rather active and was traded in at 80, but reacted at the close to 78 bid, offered at 79. The common was unchanged at 26@27.

Implements in Demand.

Stocks of the various farming implement concerns continue in good demand. Deere & Co. preferred was wanted at 98¼, with offerings at 98¾. Avery preferred was offered for sale at 100, with buyers at 98½. The common was slightly better at 90 bid, offered at 92. Emerson Brantingham preferred was unchanged at 41½@43½.

Motor securities have been inactive, noticeable declines taking place in several issues. Reo Motor Car closed at 34½@35. Paige-Detroit, 36@37½. W. K. Prudden, in spite of their excellent statement, was offered for sale at 46, with few buyers. Continental Motors was unchanged at 7⅞@8¼. Sugar stocks were neglected and there was little change in prices. Michigan Sugar was 100@106, Holland-St. Louis 11¾@12½, Utah Idaho 26½@27½. After selling up to 315 Kellogg Switchboard and Supply reacted to 310, closing with stock offered at that figure and 305 bid. Linde Air Products was in demand at 262@265. Inland Steel was inactive at 430@440.

Public Utilities Lower.

The public utilities group was generally lower with few exceptions. The demand for American Waterworks and Electric first preferred advanced the price of that issue from 75 to 80. The common was in good demand at 11½@12½. Northern States Power common declined to 100. American Gas and Electric common sold at 136; preferred, 50; American Light and Traction common, 30; American Public Utilities common, 37; preferred, 71½; Cities Service common, 291@294; preferred, 89@90; Commonwealth Power common, 57½; preferred, 82; Republic Railway and Light common, 41½; preferred, 72½; Standard Gas and Electric common, 13¼; preferred, 39¾; Tennessee Railway, Light and Power common, 7¾; Tri-City Railway and Light preferred, 94@95; Middle West Utilities preferred, 78½; United Light preferred, 77¾; United Light common, 40.

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

A New York banker of prominence says of the stock market in the event of war with Germany: "Financiers who have the interests of this country at heart and who realize the potential possibilities for all our industries, war or no war, are averse to an expansion of stock speculation at the present time, but they are ready to put 'shock absorbers' under the market in the form of big buying orders to sustain prices should such measures be necessary. Arrangements are now being made to take care of any unlooked for circumstances that might tend to bring about unnecessary liquidation."

The Journal of the American Bankers' Association says Carter Glass, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, is about to succeed W. G. McAdoo as secretary of the treasury. The paper says Secretary McAdoo feels that he has completed his program, now that the shipping bill, the rural credit bill, and the federal reserve act have been passed and are now in operation, and is ready to step down from his cabinet position.

It is declared that American Hide and Leather interests are getting more in harmony, and the stock seems to indicate a better prospect of a settlement of differences than heretofore.

One of the national banks of New York received a cable from its correspondent in Stockholm asking a quotation on United States government notes of short maturity. The inquiry relates, no doubt, to the proposed issue of certificates of indebtedness which the secretary of the treasury is about to offer for subscription. This inquiry is taken to mean that the distribution of the forthcoming issues of American bonds will not be restricted to individuals and banks in the United States, but will probably include investors in neutral countries.

The change of government at Petrograd is not disturbing New York banking institutions which hold Russian securities. It is probable that no new financing could be done until the government becomes definitely settled. But outstanding obligations are binding, and expected to be so regarded by the new Russian government.

According to Wall street gossip, the banks of Norway and Sweden are investing their American bank balances in bonds of Great Britain. By such investment they help to maintain the rate of exchange between the two countries.

It is gossip in the street that the Western Union will probably pay something in the way of extra dividends during 1917. The company has on hand $14,000,000 in investments.

Total sales of stocks, 380,000 shares.

Total sales of bonds (par value), $1,675,000.

SHIPPING SHARES LEAD.

New York, March 17.—Shipping shares were the prominent features of today's brief but broad market, their rise being stimulated by the recent renewal of dividend payments on Mercantile Marine preferred, as well as on the theory that coastwise lines may benefit by any tieup of the railroads.

Combined dealings in Marine preferred and common shares, the former rising 7¼ to 87¼, and the latter 2⅝ to 29¾, comprised almost 30 per cent of the day's operations. Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies rose 3 to 110⅝, United Fruit, 2½ to 144½, and Pacific Mail, 1⅝ to 24⅝.

United States Steel was again the leader of the industrials, at an extreme gain of 1⅛ to 112⅞, virtually all of which was retained. The further advance of 2⅛ to 123¼ in Bethlehem Steel new stock was explained by the publication of the company's statement for 1916, showing a net income of $43,593,968, as against $17,762,815 in 1915.

Steel and Iron Strong.

All the better known steel and iron stocks were firm to strong, with Industrial Alcohol, United States Rubber, General Electric, Westinghouse, American Smelting, and oils. There were moderate reactions in some utilities, chiefly gas issues.

Rails gave a good account of themselves, considering the acute uncertainty surrounding the labor controversy, but at best the movement in that quarter of the list was irregular.

Details of the new French loan of $100,000,000 were made public by the syndicate managers and confirmed preliminary statements as to interest rate, maturity, and general terms. Formal offering of the notes will take place next week.

Trading in bonds was trivial, with few changes of more than the smallest fraction. During the week government bonds were unchanged on call, but coupon and registered 4s were 1½ per cent higher on actual sales, the coupon 3s rising ¼ per cent.

In Foreign Stock Market.

PARIS, March 17.—Prices on the bourse today were firm. The curb market was agitated. Russian industrials were firm. French and Spanish rails and Russian bonds were well sustained. Rentes, 61f 10c. Exchange on London, 27f 82½c. Five per cent loan, 88f 15c.

LONDON, March 17.—The first installment on the war loan which was paid a fortnight ago, was transferred from the market to the Bank of England today without disturbance, and money supplies remained plentiful and cheap. Discount rates were quietly steady. The stock market passed a quiet session, with sustained strength in Russian securities and a number of dealings in the war loan. Colonial bonds and rubber shares at steady prices. Grand Trunk preferred was strong on the annual statement, but there was little activity elsewhere. American securities were dull. The new governing committee of the stock exchange to be elected next Tuesday, it is expected, will make an announcement regarding closing the exchange every Saturday. Bar silver, 35 15-16d per ounce; money, 3½ per cent; discount rates, short bills, 4⅝ per cent; three months, 4⅝ per cent.

BOMBAY, March 17.—The rate of discount of the Bank of Bombay was reduced from 7 to 6 per cent today.

DEMOCRATS OPEN COUNCIL BATTLE IN 3D AND 26TH

Seize Chance Offered by Factional Warfare of the Republicans.

A particularly vigorous fight is planned by the Democrats in two of the big Republican wards—the Third and Twenty-sixth. They are banking on the Republican factional fighting in these wards to win with George E. Iliff in the Third and Fred Dunham in the Twenty-sixth. The race question also is relied upon to aid them on the south side.

Under normal and peaceful conditions the Democrats would not have much faith in the two districts, but in the coming two weeks both wards are to be made hot battle grounds. The Democrats have won the Third ward before when the Republicans fell out.

Twenty-sixth 4,000 Republican.

The Twenty-sixth normally is 4,000 Republican, and until the city hall forces went after Ald. Lipps, whom they accused of using his council seat to play factional politics, talk of opposition to him was not taken seriously.

In making up the campaign issues mostly local affairs are enumerated by the Democrats, and all the prejudices that can be thought out are leveled at Ald. Lipps.

Ald. Lipps now is accused of being arrogant, autocratic, czarlike, and of having lost his high regard for the common voter.

Lipps is blamed for every ash heap in the whole ward. He is particularly put on the spit if the elevated and surface trains do not arrive on time. He is held up to opprobrium because there are not more schoolhouses in the ward and because more street lights are not to be seen nights, and lastly because he has been in the council "too long."

Formal Statement Made.

A formal statement issued by the managing committee of the party yesterday concludes thus with reference to the Twenty-sixth ward:

"In a vast majority of cases the great bond of sympathy which exists during the first term of office between the masses and the elected representatives of a people grows less and less as men are elected to succeed themselves term after term. They become arrogant because of the ease with which they are elected, and as their arrogance mounts higher with each success at the polls the once good, honest, and faithful representative, loved by party and respected by all, becomes a despised and hated individual, with every one waiting patiently to give him a solar plexus blow.

"And so rumblings of discontent are surely proclaiming a change in the personnel of the city council, and the unfaithful representative hears the knell of doom and feels the cold creep of defeat in the marrow of his bones."

In Third Ward.

The factional bitterness on the Republican side is more accentuated in the Third ward, where Ald. Werner, considered one of the high class men of the council, was defeated in the primary.

The Democrats put up a lawyer—George F. Iliff. They say both the Harrison and Sullivan forces in the ward are behind Iliff and that they expect to line up a sufficient number of the Werner followers to defeat Frederick W. Patterson, the regular Republican nominee.

The Third has been a battle ground since 1912, made so by factional differences of the Republicans. The Democrats elected Si Mayer in that year, and since then they have slipped through three of their men, while the Republicans slashed at one another—Thomas D. Nash, Jacob Lindheimer, and U. S. Schwartz.

In this ward the Democratic factions, asserting themselves solidly united, are raising the issue of "Thompsonism." The leaders who are making this the big idea of the campaign are Jacob Lindheimer, former alderman and present assistant county treasurer, and William L. O'Connell, former Gov. Dunne's campaign manager.

Statement by Democrats.

"Thompsonism is the issue upon which the Democrats are relying to carry the ward. The ward normally is 5,000 Republican, Hughes carrying it by that figure last fall, but at the aldermanic election a year ago Schwartz, the Democrat, carried it by 3,000. The victory of Schwartz is attributed to the fact that the Republicans of the ward are opposed to Thompson.

"Another issue that is being discussed in the ward is the race question. For four years there has been a steady increase in the Negro population, the Negroes moving in from the Second ward, which they already dominate. There are now about 5,000 Negro voters in the Third ward. The Negro vote was cast almost solidly for Patterson, the Republican, in the primary. On the white vote and on the total vote cast at the primaries before 4 o'clock Werner was an easy winner. Before 4 and 5, however, the Thompson managers began to get busy with the black vote, and got enough of it to the polls in that hour to put over their man. The white Republicans of the ward are resenting this domination by the blacks, and many of them are lining up with Iliff because of it."

Fund of $50,000 Sought for Chinese Y. M. C. A.

At a meeting at the Chinese Y. M. C. A., 225 West Twenty-second street, yesterday it was decided to erect a permanent home for the work. A fund of $50,000 will be subscribed from wealthy Chinese. The campaign will extend throughout the country, according to the plans.

It was decided to raise an immediate fund of $3,000 among the Chinese of Chicago to carry on the present work. Until the new building is ready the headquarters of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. will be at 250 West Twenty-second street.

Many Chinese merchants were present and $1,000 of the $3,000 fund for the maintenance of the work was raised.

The Rev John Webster Melody

WALINGER PHOTO

Father John Webster Melody, formerly of Washington university, will give a lecture on "Idealism vs. Realism" at St. Jarlath's parish hall, Jackson boulevard and Hermitage avenue, on March 29 for the benefit of the new Dominican College for Young Women which was recently moved here from Sinsinawa, Wis.

The college bore the name of St. Clara's college for many years.

The college is being transferred here at the invitation of Archbishop Mundelein and extensive buildings are to be erected. The lecture of Father Melody is given under the auspices of the St. Clara alumnæ.

MRS. M'CULLOCH AND AIDS RENEW SUFFRAGE FIGHT

At a "Suffrage Amendment Alliance" luncheon at the Chicago Woman's club yesterday Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch and her party pledged themselves to continue the fight for a suffrage amendment by referendum vote in spite of the constitutional amendment party's opposition. This was expressed in another room of the club, where Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout of the Political Equality league was lunching with friends previous to a meeting of her party at the Congress hotel.

Mrs. McCulloch and her associates expressed themselves as ready to work for suffrage along any and all lines. Mrs. Trout at the Congress hotel classed the suffrage amendment as a "tempting bait," which was being dangled before the eyes of the women for "sentimental reasons."

Morton D. Hull, who has recently joined the ranks of the suffragists, spoke at the Woman's club luncheon, as did Senators Roos and Barbour. Miss Grace Nichols, Miss Marian Drake, Dr. Clara Seipple, and Mrs. Mary Onahan Gallery also spoke.

WM. E. CHANDLER CRITICALLY ILL

Washington, D. C., March 17.—William E. Chandler, former United States senator from New Hampshire and former secretary of the navy, is critically ill at his home here. He caught cold inauguration day and soon after was placed under the care of a physician and a trained nurse. Because of his advanced age, his recovery is doubtful. Mr. Chandler is 80 years old.

Scarlet Fever Breaks Out Again on Midway Campus

Scarlet fever has broken out anew at the University of Chicago. Two more fraternity houses, the Delta Tau Delta and the Alpha Delta Phi, have been put under quarantine. This is the second time the Alpha Delta Phis have been affected. Leon Gendron, president of the Dramatic club and the principal character in the spring play, is the present victim of the disease.

Two members of Delta Tau Delta are affected, Samuel Sherer, who has been removed to the St. Francis hospital, and Harry Alexson, who also has been removed to a hospital.

Three Meetings Today to Urge Vote on Dry Issue

Three meetings in behalf of the bill for a referendum on prohibition will be held in Chicago today. A meeting at the Methodist church in Austin will be addressed by State Senator James J. Barbour, Clayton E. Crafts, John J. Miller, and Irwin Hazen. A second meeting in the Central Park Presbyterian church will be addressed by Scott McBride, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. At the third meeting in the Englewood Methodist Episcopal church, Sixty-fourth street and Stewart avenue, Judge F. D. Sadler and John H. Lyle will be the speakers.

MERRIAM TO STAY IN PUBLIC EYE; AS MAYOR, AIDS SAY

Alderman Declares He'll Keep Up the Fight for Nonpartisanship.

Ald. Charles E. Merriam issued a statement yesterday thanking his supporters in the Seventh ward for their loyalty and announcing that he would remain before the public despite his inability to remain in the council at this time.

While Mr. Merriam refused to comment on the proposition, his close friends already have begun talking of him as a candidate for mayor.

Out of Council Race.

After confirming the statement that there is no way in which he desires to attempt to succeed himself as alderman at this time, he said:

"The war for good government in Chicago is not to be settled by one or two skirmishes. It is a long campaign, with actions on many fronts, and I am going to stay in it until it is crowned with success. I am enlisted for the war.

"If I am not on the immediate firing line, I will be in the 'second wave.' I have been fighting for nonpartisan municipal elections for twenty years.

For Nonpartisanship.

"Citizens who want to avoid disastrous ambushes, such as the Seventh ward has just witnessed, can help the situation practically by pushing the nonpartisan elections bill approved by the city council and now pending in the legislature.

"The bill will put an end to national party primaries in local elections, where they never belonged, and where they create nothing but confusion. Monday morning will find me at the Hotel La Salle, where a hearing on the nonpartisan elections bill will be held before Representative Dahlberg's committee."

TOUHY ASSAILS GROGAN; CLAIMS ELECTION FRAUDS

John J. Touhy, defeated for the Democratic aldermanic nomination in the Eighteenth ward primary by B. J. Grogan, last night issued a statement attacking Grogan and declaring that his nomination was brought about by the fraudulent casting of 1,100 Republican votes for Grogan.

Touhy has filed an independent petition and has the backing of the faction in the ward headed by Assistant State's Attorney Michael Sullivan.

In his statement Touhy calls attention to the investigation by the grand jury and the recent indictment of election officials in the Sixth precinct of the ward.

Mother-in-Law Sues Her to Collect $2,500

Mrs. Ellen M. Ross filed suit for $2,500 against her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Isabelle E. Ross, yesterday. She says she spent this amount on her son, Alfred D. Ross, during his last illness. Mrs. Isabelle Ross promised to repay the sum, the complainant says, but did not.

MORRIS & CO. GET STOCKYARDS AT NEW ORLEANS

Taps South America and Ranges in Mexico.

Nelson Morris, chairman of the board of directors of Morris & Co., announced last night that Morris & Co. had taken over control of the New Orleans stockyards, the largest in the extreme south.

Mr. Morris completed the arrangements late yesterday after some negotiating with the interests which formerly operated the stockyards. The yards are considered to be in a strategic location in so far as the importation of cattle from South America and Mexico is concerned.

Near Ranges of South.

The primary value of the yards is its location near the better of the southern stock raising states now rapidly increasing their herds.

"The southern states will supply much of the live stock in the future," said Mr. Morris, "and we realize necessarily that we must have a continuous supply of live stock to keep our many mammoth plants in continuous operation so that we can maintain our present economical methods of handling.

Gives Good Market.

"Active operation of the stockyards will furnish a good market for live stock from those southern states now rapidly increasing their herds, and which appreciate the value of raising live stock both for their value in direct money return and in the enrichment of the soil.

"By taking over these large stockyards we give most concrete evidence of our interest in the southern states and express in real terms our belief that the southern states have come to a full appreciation of the value of live stock raising."

University of Chicago Will Confer 102 Degrees

One hundred and two degrees will be conferred at the 102d convocation at the University of Chicago on Tuesday. The occasion will also mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of Prof. Richard Green Moulton's appointment to the faculty of the university. He will give the convocation address. Prof Moulton is professor of literary theory and interpretation and head of the department of general literature. He is a graduate of Cambridge university. The preacher of convocation today is the Rev. Hugh Black of the Union Theological seminary, New York City.

Profits Tax Hits Small Investors.

The "excess" profits tax enacted by the last congress is not really a levy on the large earnings of rich corporations as it pretends to be. It is rather a burden on the already taxed incomes of small investors.

The lawmakers deliberately selected investors as the victims of the latest levy because, not being organized, they are in no position to defend themselves. Investors are more numerous than members of labor unions, but they are treated differently. The lawmakers not many months ago took orders from the unions as to what sort of a law they should adopt and when they should adopt it. Having promptly done the bidding of an organized body of citizens, they ignored remonstrances on behalf of a larger unorganized body.

It should be noted that this new tax on profits will fall exclusively on stockholders. It will diminish substantially the net earnings of every prosperous corporation, although those earnings were already subject to a cumulative income tax, and will of course correspondingly diminish the value of the stock.

Of course the plea is that the tax is not operative till a fair return has been allowed and then is levied only on "excess" profits. The fact is, however, that the average successful corporation earns much more than 8 per cent only in unusually good years. In poor years it may earn nothing at all, and an occasional very good year is needed to counterbalance the poor ones. The result of the tax will be a heavy burden on average earnings leading perhaps to a reduction of dividends.

Avery.

W. L. W., Grayville, Ill.—The Avery company's report for the eleven months ended Nov. 30 last showed net profits of $771,831, compared with $445,722 for the entire year 1915. Out of this profit $116,666, or 11¾ per cent, was paid on the preferred stock, clearing up all accrued dividends, and $20,000 of preferred stock was retired. Surplus earnings were equal to 26½ per cent on the $2,412,300 of common stock. The common stock has been placed on a 7 per cent dividend basis this year after having had no distribution since 1915.

Brief Answers.

W. B. H., Morris, Ill.—The Chicago Railway Equipment company manufactures brake beams. It is subject to wide fluctuations of earnings. Dividends have been paid on the $2,486,000 of stock at the rate of 7 per cent a year since 1902. In 1916 net earnings were $780,103, equal to 31 per cent on the stock compared with 10 per cent in 1915 and 3½ per cent in 1914.

L. B. H.: Street improvement bonds in the smaller Illinois cities have a good record. If a bond is approved by a good attorney and if it is in a district where the property is nearly all improved and occupied, it may be considered a safe investment.

G. A. C.—Calumet and Hecla pays large dividends when the price of copper is high and relatively small ones when it is low. In 1914 it paid $10; in 1915, $50; and in 1916, $75.

G. C. O.—A good bond is a safer investment than any stock. If you can find a good one yielding 6 per cent it will give more income than most of the stocks on your list.

WOMAN SEEKS $50,000 FROM GRAHAM & SONS

Praecipe in a suit for $50,000 against the Graham Safety Deposit company connected with the Graham & Sons bank in West Madison street was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Kittie Pope of 11 South Peoria street.

The alleged disappearance of $20,000 in cash and diamonds, said to be valued at $15,000, from her safety deposit box at the bank, is the basis of the suit, according to Myer S. Emrich, attorney for Mrs. Pope.

"Mrs. Pope, alias Kittie Raggio, is a well known character in the west side levee," said Frank Graham, president of the bank. "She deputized Tony Pope, who is supposed to be her husband, to open the box. This he did on Feb. 9. Thomas McGuire of McGuire & White, private detective agency, found out that the Popes have been having some troubles over property. As soon as these are settled I think she will find out what became of her valuables."

NO BIDS FOR CITY FIRE APPARATUS, COMPANY SAYS

Protesting against the alleged purchase by the fire marshal of certain apparatus without the formality of competitive bidding, the American-La France Fire Engine company has written a letter to each alderman and the mayor. It is declared that more than twenty units of apparatus are to be bought on the mere order of the fire marshal.

Thomas R. Johnstone, Chicago manager, recites in his general letter that his engines have exceeded the requirements for tests in previous instances and yet have failed of the approval of the master mechanic. He also points out that special wheels at a cost of $350 have been required of him, whereas smaller manufacturers have obtained the same price for plain wheels.

Mr. Johnstone further offers to enter any of his apparatus now in use against the apparatus of any other manufacturer. He asks that the purchase be held up until an investigation is made.

California Potash

I am familiar with a very large potash deposit in California. Located about 50 miles from Los Angeles and about 300 feet from R. R. Splendid facilities for shipping. Rock runs a trifle over 10%. Plenty of water, dumping ground, electric power within six miles. This is a splendid opportunity. This property can be bought at this time cheap. Will be glad to give further particulars on application.

CHICAGO & NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY

March 16, 1917.

This Company has been notified through the National Conference Committee, representing the railroads, that employes in yard and freight train service were ordered to strike at 6:00 P. M. Saturday, March 17, 1917.

The facts in the present controversy are as follows:

The Brotherhoods asked that the railroads accept their interpretation of the Adamson Law as a final settlement and put it into effect without waiting for the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States as to the constitutionality of that law. This was declined and the following offer made by the railroads:

1st. That if the Adamson Law is declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court and the railroads were unable to agree with the Brotherhoods as to the application of the law that the points of difference be referred to the Eight Hour Commission, consisting of:

Maj. Gen. George Goethals, U. S. A., Chairman,
Hon. E. E. Clark, Member of the Interstate Commerce Commission,
Hon. George Rublee, Member of the Federal Trade Commission.

2nd: If the Adamson Law is declared unconstitutional that the railroads and the Brotherhoods join in asking the Eight Hour Commission to determine the whole controversy.

3rd: Any settlement to be effective January 1, 1917.

This was declined by the Brotherhoods and they advised progressive strikes in freight, yard and hostler service was called beginning at 6:00 P. M. Saturday, March 17, 1917.

This Company will endeavor to operate its trains in accord with its charter requirements, with due consideration for the safety of the public and those loyal employes remaining in the service, and the assistance of State and Municipal Officers and loyal employes is requested in the protection of our efforts towards resumption of service.

Attention is directed to the fact that this Company's dealings with its employes through the long years of its existence have always been along liberal lines and that it never has been necessary to call strikes to bring about an adjustment of wages or working rules. Furthermore, this Company does not believe there is any justification for carrying out the present contemplated action. This is doubly true for the reason that this Company, in accord with its agreement with the attorneys representing the Government, will, if the Adamson Law is declared constitutional, pay immediately to the employes affected the amounts that would be due them from and after January 1, 1917, under that law, and if the Adamson Law is declared unconstitutional it has offered to submit the entire controversy to the Eight Hour Commission, of which General Goethals is Chairman, for adjustment, and to put into effect and to immediately pay the interested employes on the basis of that Commission's decision, beginning such payments with January 1, 1917.

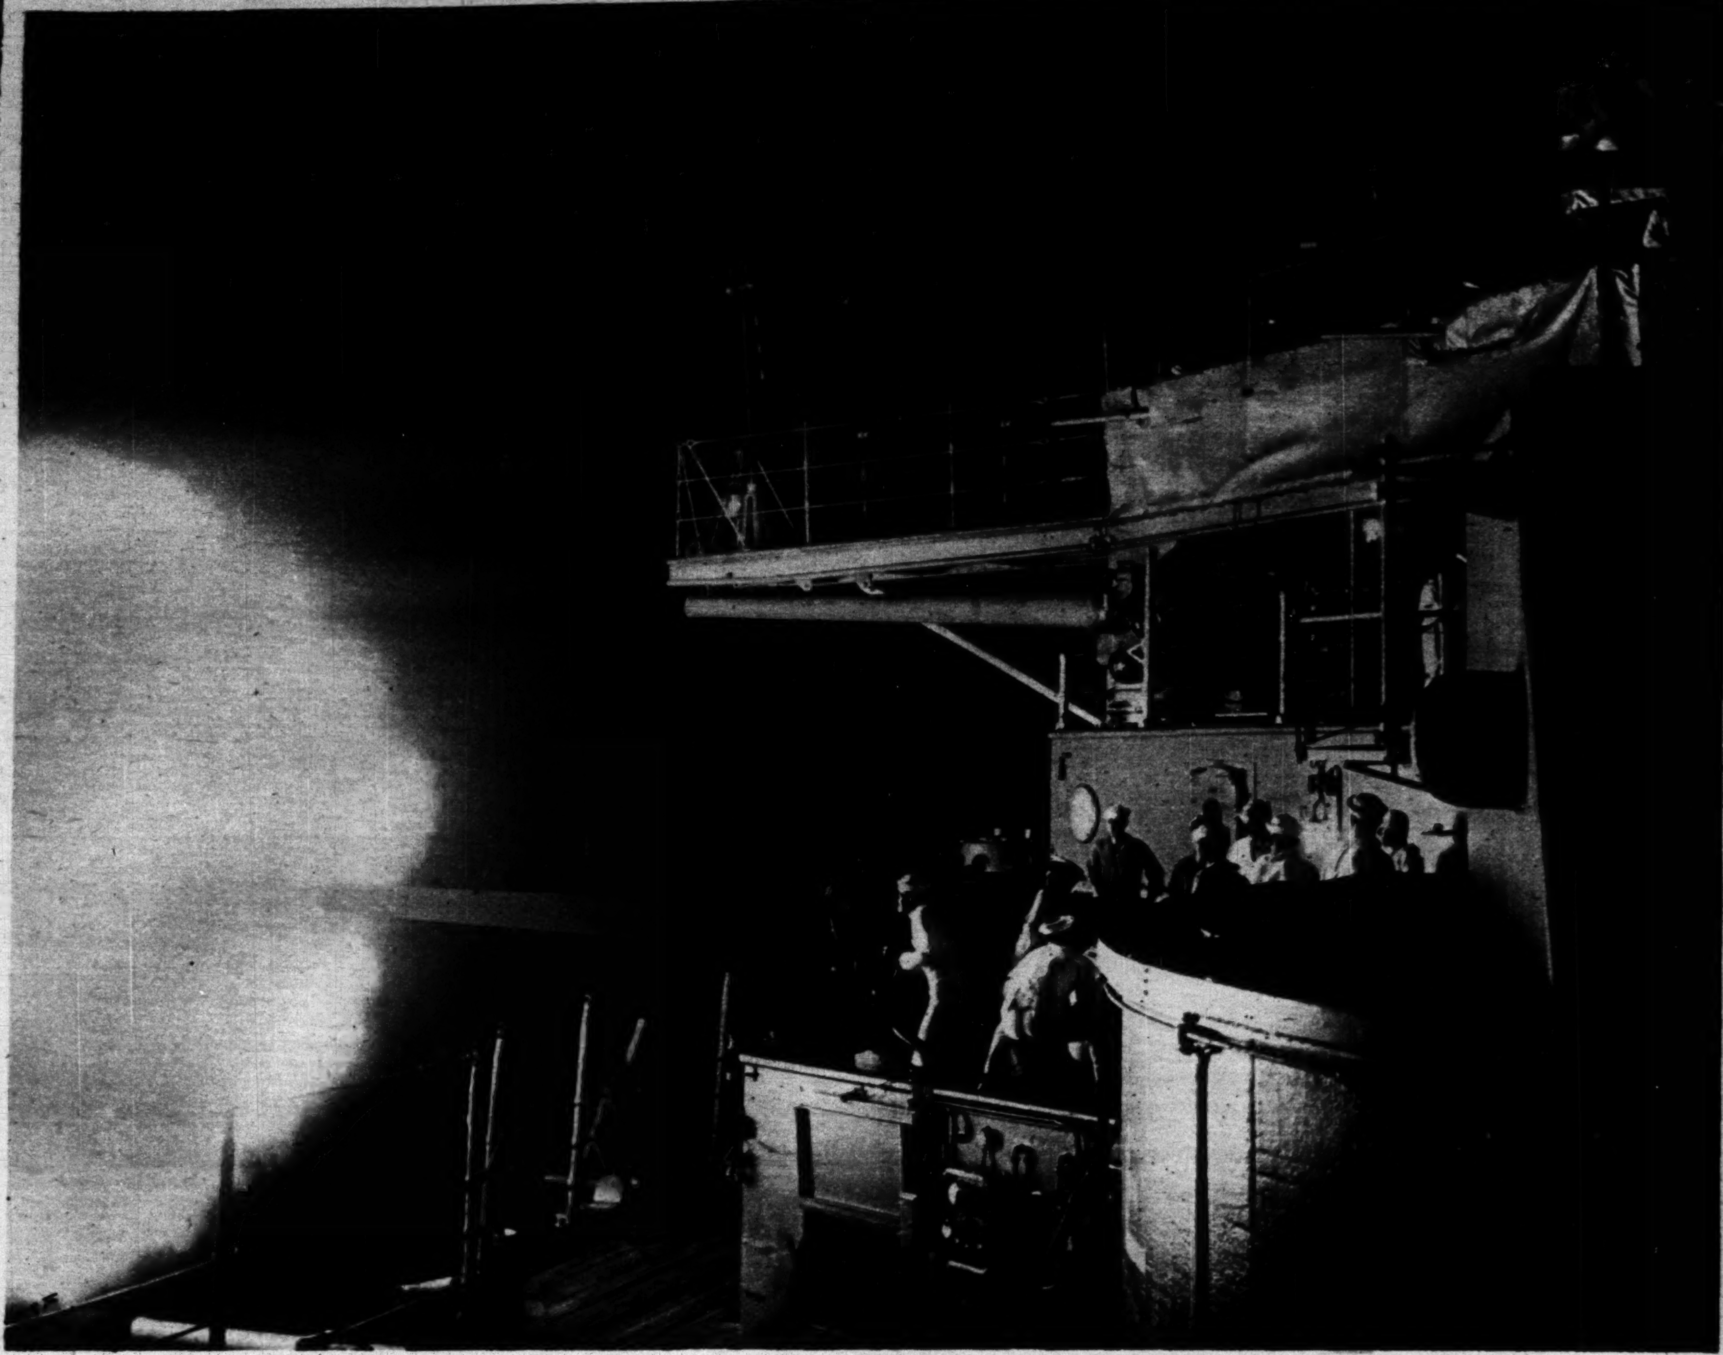
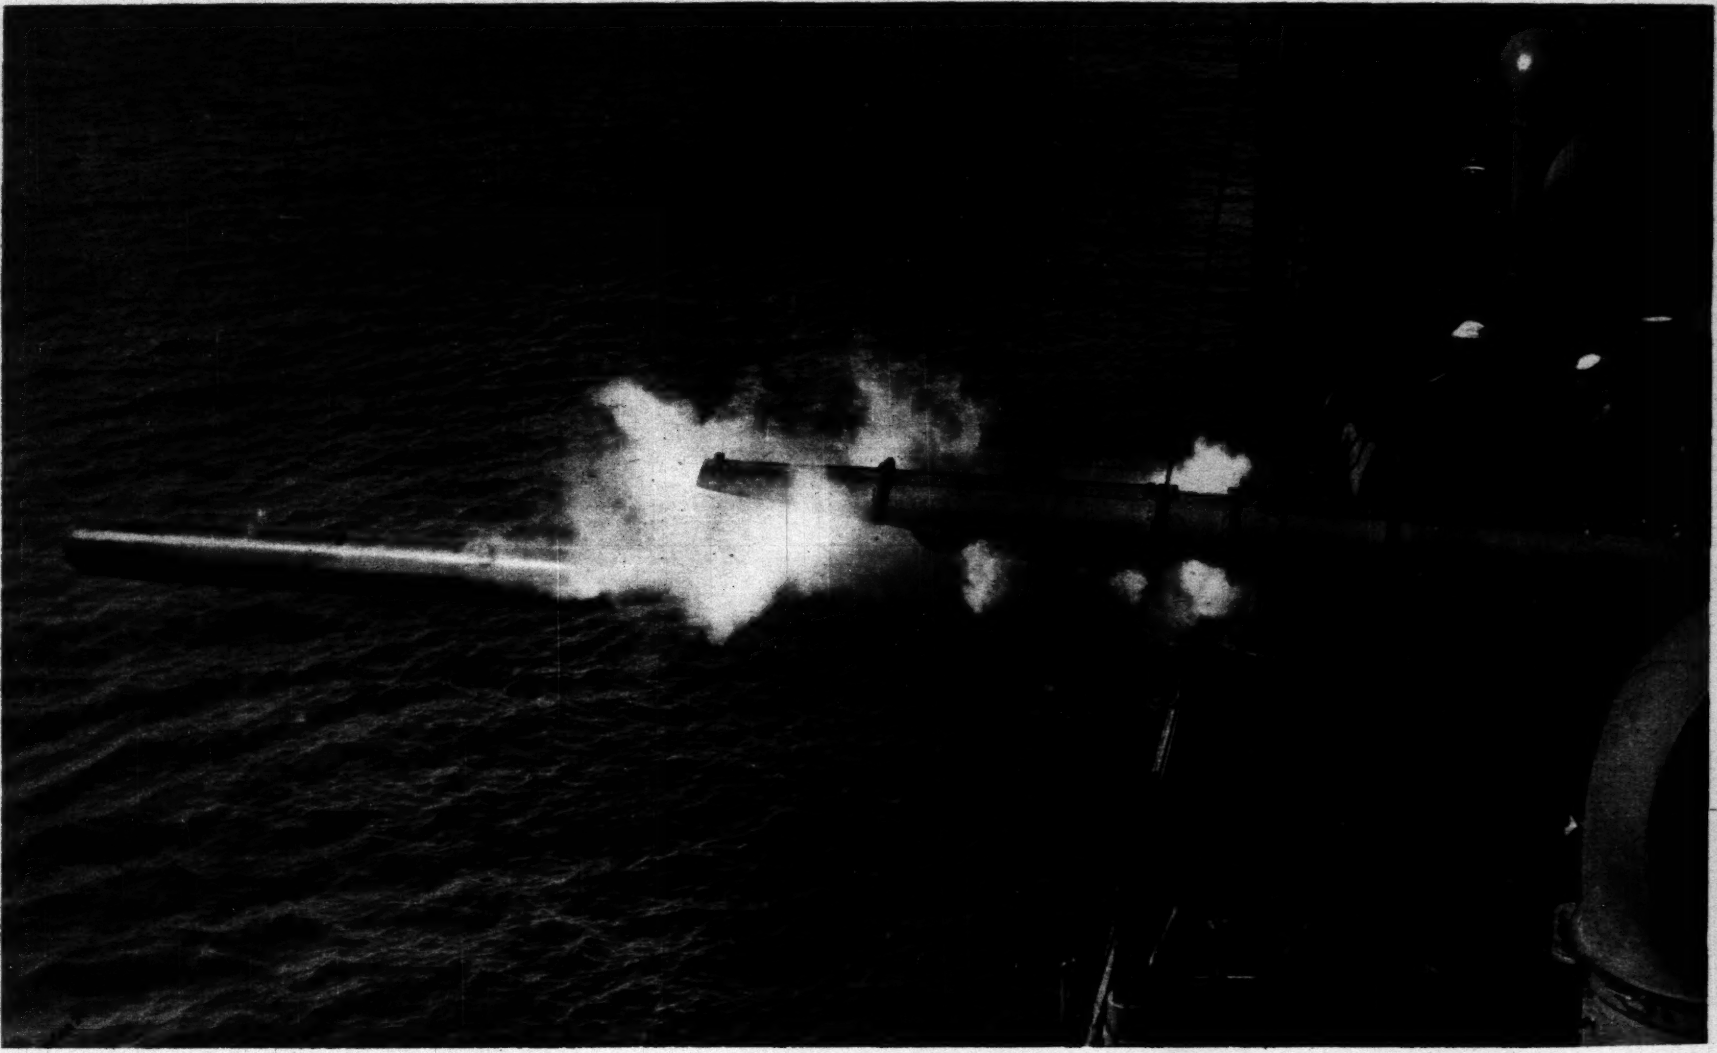
SPREADING A "SMOKE SCREEN" TO HIDE THE MOVEMENTS OF THE FLEET—Our latest 1,000 ton oil burning destroyers, led by the Cassin, emerging from a dense wall of smoke they have cast up to shield the movements of the fleet to which they are attached, and preparing to launch torpedoes against the "enemy" fleet at navy maneuvers. Behind the smoke screen the battleships draw up in the most advantageous position before beginning the attack. The destroyers, being light and fast vessels, scent out the enemy, protect the main fleet's operations with the smoke screen, operate against submarines, and inflict such damage as they can with torpedoes against the enemy vessels. The destroyer is the chief weapon against submarines—proportionately to our number of battleships we are "shy" in destroyers.

(Photograph copyright by E. Muller Jr., New York.)



NIGHT FIRING ON THE U. S. SUPERDREADNAUGHT WYOMING—The photograph was taken by the illumination caused by the discharge of the gun while a flotilla of destroyers was attacking the ship in a mock battle. The gunners are firing one of the twenty-one 5 inch guns that make up the secondary battery of the vessel. The first battery is made up of twelve 12 inch guns. A searchlight on the upper deck is trained on the "enemy."

(Photograph copyright by E. Muller Jr., New York.)



LAUNCHING A 10,000 YARD TORPEDO, BROADSIDE—This new and gigantic torpedo, when launched from the deck of a vessel, immediately sinks to a depth of from ten to fourteen feet below the surface of the water, and, maintaining that depth, is propelled by its own engines in an absolutely straight course toward the target. When fired from a submerged tube it rises, if necessary, to the same level. The torpedo reaches a target half a mile away in about forty-five seconds and explodes on impact with a charge of over 200 pounds of wet gun cotton.

THE NEW DUKE OF NORFOLK—Through the death of his father, the fifteenth Duke of Norfolk, this 9 year old boy has become premier peer of the British realm, hereditary chief butler to the king, hereditary earl marshal, president of the court of chivalry and of honor, and head of the royal college of arms. The late duke was also celebrated as the pope's unofficial representative and premier Roman Catholic layman in Great Britain, the Norfolks not having changed faith at the time of the reformation. The young duke during his minority will be under the guardianship of his mother, the widowed duchess, who is a peeress in her own right as well as by marriage. She is the owner of the Scotch baronies of Herries and of Maltravers, and of several country seats and castles, including Carlaveros castle, which figures in Scott's novels. The boy's full title is Sir Bernard Marmduke Howard, Earl of Arundel and Surrey and 16th Duke of Norfolk.

Your skin is changing every day!

Your skin, like the rest of your body, is continually changing. Every day, as old skin dies, new forms in its place. This is your opportunity. By using the following treatment regularly you can keep this new skin so active that it will gradually, but surely, take on the greater clearness, freshness and charm you want it to have.

Make this treatment a daily habit

Lather your washcloth well with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water. Apply it to your face and distribute the lather thoroughly. Now with the tips of your fingers work this cleansing, antiseptic lather into your skin, always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better. Finish by rubbing your face for a few minutes with a piece of ice. Always be particular to dry your skin well.

Every day this treatment frees your skin of the tiny, old, dead particles. Then, it cleanses the pores, brings the blood to the surface and stimulates the small muscular fibers.

It is very easy to use this treatment for a few days and neglect it. But this will never make your skin what you would love to have it. Use it persistently and before long your skin will begin to take on that greater loveliness which the daily use of Woodbury's always brings.

A 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap is sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment. Get a cake today. For sale everywhere throughout the United States and Canada.

Write today for a trial cake

For 4c we will send you a cake of Woodbury's large enough for a week of this famous skin treatment. For 10c we will send the trial cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and samples of Woodbury's Facial Cream and Powder. Write today! Address The Andrew Jergens Co., 5004 Spring Grove Av., Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you live in Canada, address The Andrew Jergens Co., Ltd., 5004 Sherbrooke Street, Perth, Ontario.

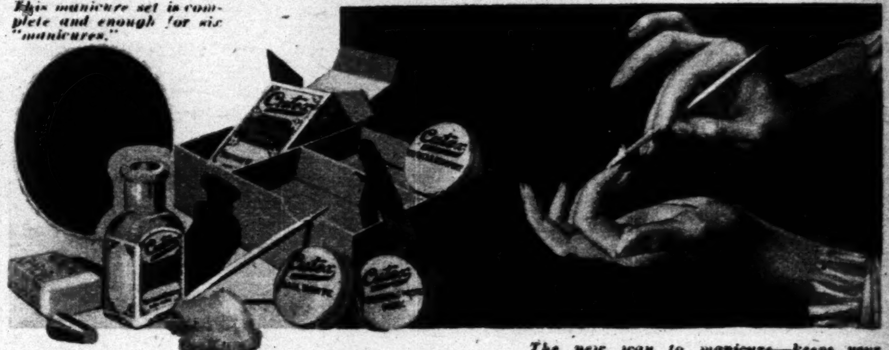
FACIAL SOAP

This manicure set is complete and enough for six "manicures."



The new way to manicure—keeps your cuticle smooth and firm, your nails shapely and attractive.

Send for this complete manicure set

Enough for six manicures for only 14c

Send for this complete manicure set and try a Cutex manicure.

When you see how easily you yourself can give your nails the most beautiful manicure you ever had, you will never go back to the old cuticle-cutting method of manicuring.

Cutting ruins the cuticle

Cutex completely does away with cuticle cutting or trimming. The very first time you use it, you realize that Cutex is the one quick, safe, efficient way to care for your cuticle. Cutex is absolutely harmless. Used two or three times a week, it will make your nails take on a dainty shapeliness you would not have believed possible.

How to use this manicure set

In the Cutex package, you will find orange stick and absorbent cotton. Wrap a little cotton around the end of the stick and dip it into the Cutex bottle.

Then work the stick around the base of the nail, gently pushing back the cuticle. Wipe off the dead surplus skin and carefully rinse the hands in clear water.

After rinsing the hands, a touch of Cutex Nail White underneath the nails removes any stains—gives them snowy-white tips.

Then a little Cutex Nail Cake rubbed on the palm of the hand and passed quickly over the nails gives them a delightful polish. To get an especially brilliant, long-lasting polish, use Cutex Polishing Paste first, then the Nail Cake.

Start to have lovely nails today

The first application makes a decided improvement. Send for your manicure set today. Use it and notice how quickly Cutex gives your nails the shapeliness that everyone admires.

Ask for the Cutex manicure specialties wherever toilet preparations are sold. Cutex, the cuticle remover, comes in 50c and $1.00 bottles, with an introductory size at 25c. Cutex Nail White, the cream which removes all discolorations from underneath the nails, is only 25c. Cutex Nail Polish, in cake, paste, powder or liquid form is 25c. Cutex Cuticle Comfort for sore or tender cuticle is also 25c. If your favorite store has not yet secured a stock, write direct.

Send today—get your set now

Fill in your name and address where indicated, tear out and send today with 14c—10c for the manicure set and 4c for postage and packing—and get your complete manicure set.

You couldn't bear to wash baby's woolens

At first you thought you could never have the heart to wash those wee little garments.

They were so delicate, so little and helpless. What would happen to them? What would those warm little woolens look like after a tubbing and a rubbing with common, every-day soap?

And then you found it

And then you found Lux. "Just made for baby clothes!" you cried.

Those white, transparent flakes; that bubbly, foamy lather! In went the wee little woolens—a few dippings up and down, a little squeezing, and out they came—white again—soft again—new again—not shrunk a bit.

Lux is an entirely different soap product—not a powder—not a cake, but pure essence of soap in flakes. The thick, foamy lather cleans without a bit of rubbing—dissolves the dirt instantly. Because the flakes dissolve so perfectly, there are no particles of solid soap to stick to the wool threads to turn them yellow or weaken them. Get a package of Lux at your grocer's or at any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

How to wash baby's woolens

Whisk the Lux flakes into a lather in boiling or very hot water. Put in your woolens and let them soak until the water is comfortable for the hands. Then work them about in the suds, but do not rub. Rinse in three waters the same temperature as that in which you washed them. Dissolve a little Lux in the last rinsing water; this leaves the woolens softer and fluffier. Dry in the sun (colored woolens in the shade).

LUX 10¢

Won't shrink woolens!

THE SONG OF THE LARK Painted by Jules Adolphe Breton

BY LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

"The Song of the Lark," by Jules Adolphe Breton. In the Henry Field memorial collection of modern oil paintings at the Art institute of Chicago. (1827-1906.)

ACROSS the fields the sun is setting, already half a gleaming red disk below the linee of the horizon. The toil of the peasant girl has ended with the day. She stands erect. Weariness has dropped from her shoulders like a disused garment. Against the clear sky, glow suffused, her sturdy figure is silhouetted. Her head is lifted high like a plant to the evening freshness as she listens to the shrilly sweet song of the skylark.

Breton was a painter of landscape and a painter of human nature as well. This combining of two distinct branches of art is an unusual gift and to Breton has been given the honor of one of the leading places in the contemporary French school. Both popular and artistic opinion has placed him in high esteem. He adored nature and symphathetically and richly interpreted it as he interpreted the spirit of the peasant soul and entered with the worker into the tasks of the day. For him the nutritive labors of man have their greatness and, indeed, something of sanctity; and this mood in which he painted accounts, perhaps, for the impressiveness and mystery his canvases convey.

His "Blessing the Harvest," which is his best known work abroad, hangs in the Luxembourg, Paris. It stands out among the pieces of modern art as one of the finest examples of an almost perfect sunlight.

In Baltimore is his "End of the Day," and the Art institute of Chicago has another painting, "By the Sea."

This type of peasant woman was a favorite with Breton. It reappears constantly through his pictures, an involuntary recurrence, which in its strength and beauty one does not tire of seeing.

Another famous painting will be reproduced next Sunday.

AT THE LONESOME CLUB by Oney Fred Sweet

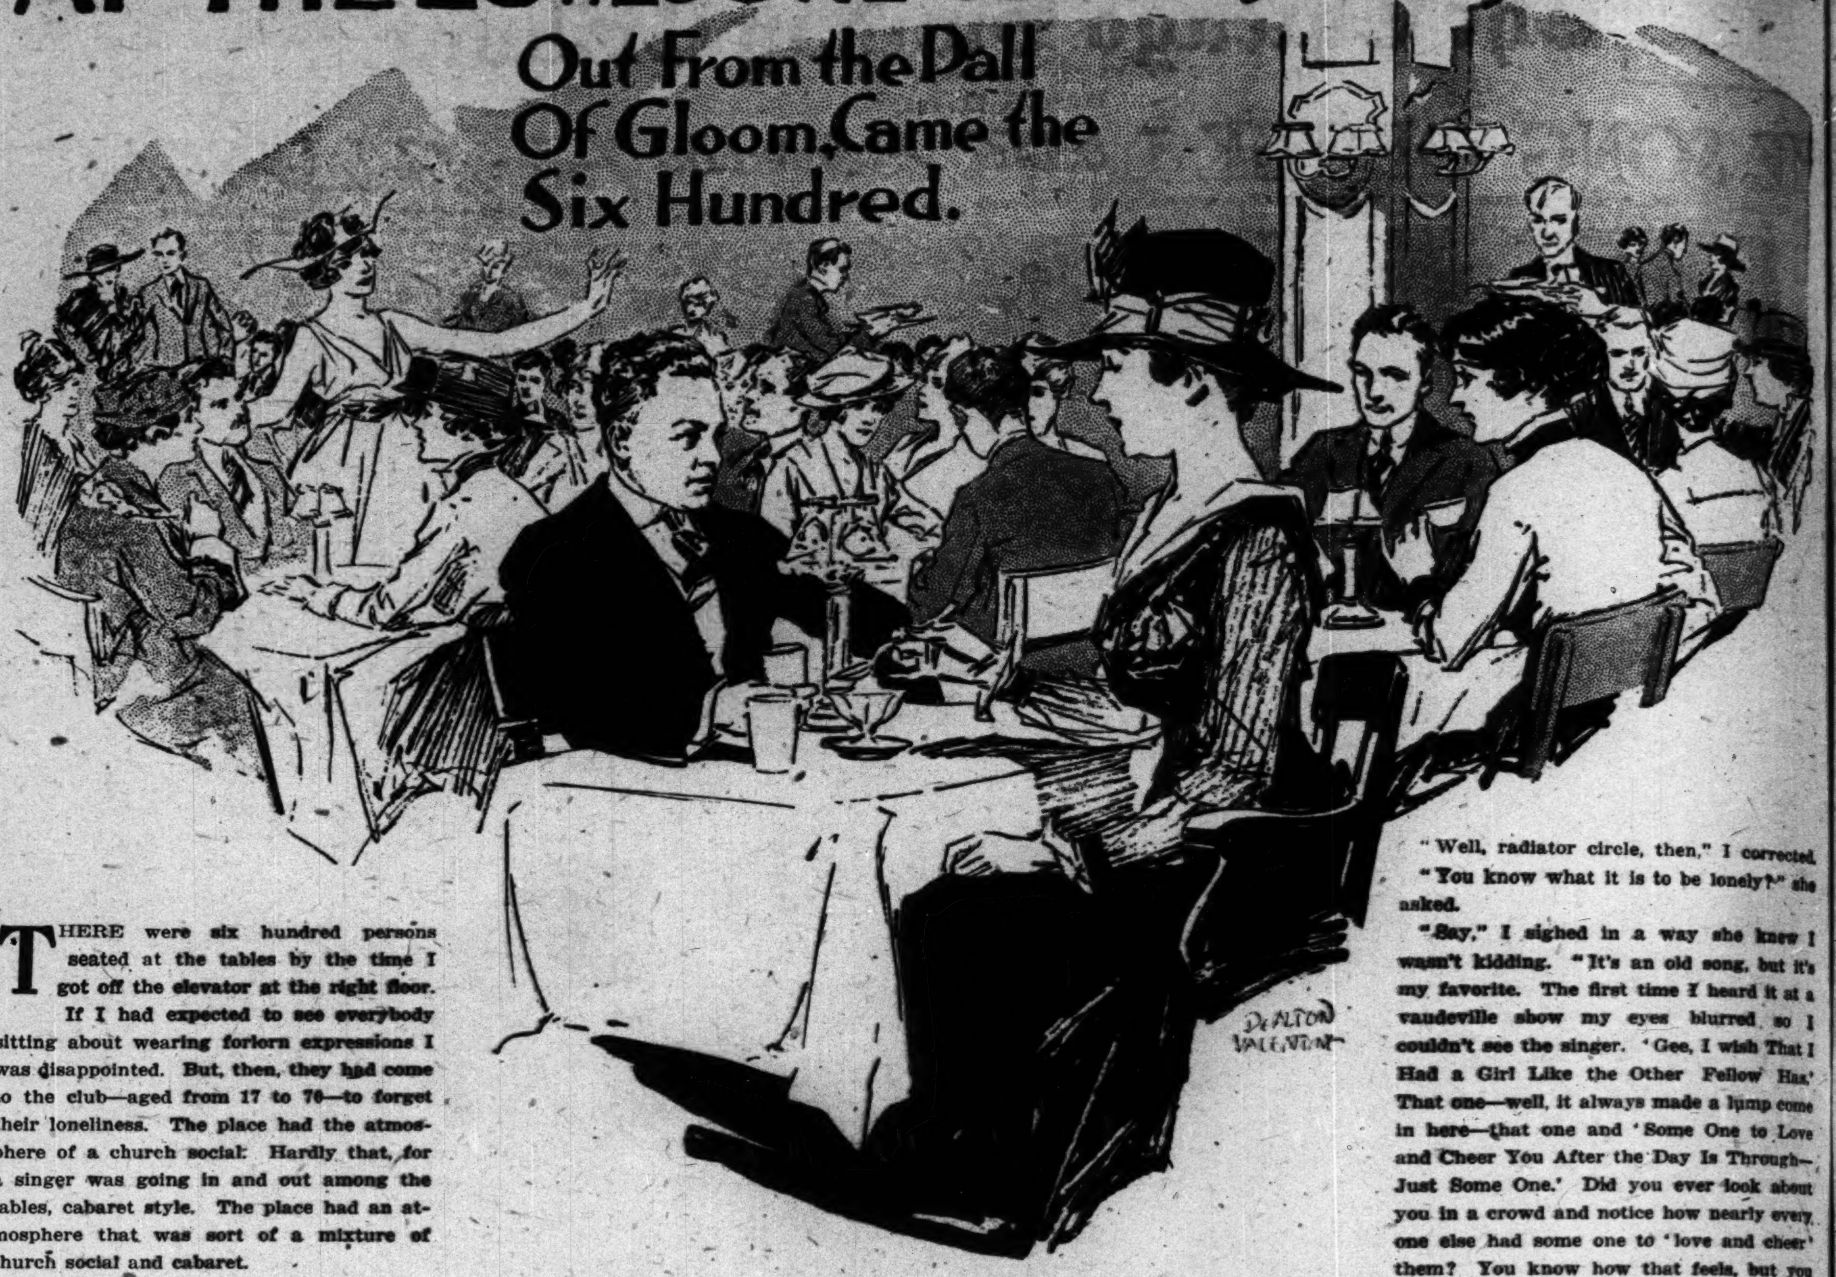
Out From the Pall Of Gloom, Came the Six Hundred.



THERE were six hundred persons seated at the tables by the time I got off the elevator at the right floor. If I had expected to see everybody sitting about wearing forlorn expressions I was disappointed. But, then, they had come to the club—aged from 17 to 70—to forget their loneliness. The place had the atmosphere of a church social. Hardly that, for a singer was going in and out among the tables, cabaret style. The place had an atmosphere that was sort of a mixture of church social and cabaret.

"I've got a nice place over here for you," smiled the man who was ushering me along.

"It don't make much difference where you sit me," I agreed, "except I don't want to have to do all the talking. I never can think of anything to say."

No sooner had the introductions been mumbled than I heard some one over by the orchestra start to make a speech. We all half turned in our chairs to listen. I learned later that the speaker was Dr. Pennington.

"People ask what this club stands for," began Dr. Pennington. "In answering I wish to state some of the things it does not stand for. It is not a melting pot into which social sets may be dumped, but it is a melting pot in which individuals—lonely and with no opportunity for entering social sets—may be dumped. Our members belong to that class who believe 'there's a whole lot of good in the worst of us and a whole lot of bad in the best of us, so that it hardly behooves any of us to talk about the rest of us.' It is our intention, as nearly as possible, to observe the theory of life as outlined in this quotation. Our society encourages familiarity, but discourages vulgarity. We want to chase old Dr. Gloom out of the back door and bring Happiness and Good Will in at the front door. The only way this can be done is to overcome selfishness. The folks who come to this club are folks who look upon selfishness as being the most contemptible, reprehensible, and repulsive human characteristic. It is the one thing which when indulged in makes for misery and unhappiness, for mental and physical torment. Every one should feel that it is perfectly proper to talk to everybody else. We want our club to be a potential factor in developing the higher social instincts of the young and middle-aged and offer an opportunity for those of mature years to spend a pleasant evening of social enjoyment. We have a record breaking attendance here tonight; let us all help to make this meeting a great success."

We all applauded and then we turned our chairs back toward the tables. For some time I kept my eyes on the plate before me. I never did have much fun at parties.

When I did look up I saw that there were just two of us at the table. She was—well, she was anyhow 45. Yet she didn't have a wrinkle and there weren't any apparent signs that her complexion had been artificially produced. Her voice was full and deep and beautiful when she asked me if I cared for salt for my oysters.

"It's too bad you couldn't have drawn some other table," I said. "I'm afraid I'm cheating you out of meeting some one worth while—some one whom you might learn to like very much."

"Don't be silly," she answered. "Besides, look at the tables and tables where there's four ladies to a table."

"And the price of their dinner thrown away," I added.

"They seem to be enjoying themselves," she remarked, "though it is too bad there aren't quite enough men to go around. Did you ever see a finer crowd of people together?"

"Have there been any—any weddings yet?" I asked.

"Three during the last year, I believe. But why do you lay so much stress on the matrimonial feature? That isn't the purpose of the club at all."

"I know," I says, "but there aren't many of these six hundred married, that stands to reason, and the possibilities—why aren't you married?"

She began spreading butter very slowly on a piece of cracker. She started to speak.

"It's not because you're not good looking," I answered for her, "because you are good looking, and anyhow, the homeliest kind of girls are getting married every day. And it's not because you're not sweet of disposition. Were you ever proposed to? Do you know why not? Because men are afraid. And year after year—winter and slushy spring and sultry summer and melancholy fall, over and over again—you've left that lonesome room of yours and taken the elevated down to where you have charge of the cloak and suit department and you've gone along and met only other women who've dragged their husbands along to watch them try on their cloaks and suits and stand for the bill. And back to the lonesome room you've gone at night, a little more fagged out each day and getting a little older all the time. I know how it is. And back home in the little town the younger brothers and sisters have been calling on you for help all the time that has taken your salary raises. And all these years you've been careful and proper. You wouldn't think of attending a public dance or going into a wineroom at the back of a saloon. You wouldn't think of flirting with a strange man you might meet on your way to and from work. And Sundays you've spent in that lonesome room, resting up for the coming week. That's the way the years have gone. At first you didn't mind. You had your ideal and you felt that some time he would come along. But he hasn't come. He's married the frivolous girl who flirted with him without his knowing it."

I paused, half out of breath. My dinner partner had lowered her head over her salad, her wide hat brim shutting from me the expression on her face.

"They talk about the loneliness of the country," I went on before she had a chance to interrupt, "but in the country one can at least commune with nature. The great silences soothe; they do not crush against one as do the noises of the loop. They talk about the lack of opportunity in the small town, but in the small town you know every one you meet and every one knows you. It is this being lonely among three million other human beings that is the loneliest loneliness of all. It is this constant mingling with people who keep their faces grimly set and their smiles to themselves and their 'how do you dos' unsaid that makes for real tragedy. And what makes it more tragic is that all over this big city there are hundreds of men who would be congenial—probably true soul mates—who are just as lonely as you are. How many times, during the long years that will never come back, have you sat beside such men in cafeterias or opposite them on street cars, the bluebird of happiness hovering near and finally fluttering away! No, you couldn't go over and speak to the possessor of that face you liked. And he knew by your every touch of refinement that you would not tolerate an unconventional effort on his part to become acquainted. And so you went your separate ways and the fireside circle never culminated."

"Fireside circle?" she echoed, buttering a piece of bread.

"Well, radiator circle, then," I corrected.

"You know what it is to be lonely?" she asked.

"Say," I sighed in a way she knew I wasn't kidding. "It's an old song, but it's my favorite. The first time I heard it at a vaudeville show my eyes blurred so I couldn't see the singer. 'Gee, I wish That I Had a Girl Like the Other Fellow Has.' That one—well, it always made a lump come in here—that one and 'Some One to Love and Cheer You After the Day Is Through—Just Some One.' Did you ever look about you in a crowd and notice how nearly every one else had some one to 'love and cheer' them? You know how that feels, but you don't know how it feels to pick out a girl at a dance—your particular type of girl—and have her say to you, 'I'm sorry, but all my numbers are taken.' We come into this world alone and we go out of it alone, and if our souls don't wander all through our life here alone—in spite of the big crowd we're mixed with— we're lucky."

The waitress interrupted to bring us our ice cream. My companion tasted it and reached for a piece of cake.

"I think I know what you are about to say," I hastened. "You're going to ask me if I don't believe in such a thing, perhaps, as one finding an affinity in the next world. Perhaps I do, but there's nothing to hinder your finding an affinity here, too—perhaps not a true affinity, but a compromise affinity. Don't keep on looking for a moving picture hero type. And don't you care a bit what the folks back home may say when they see what you've copped. But whatever you do, get busy. You've got a few years yet before the silver threads begin to twine among the gold."

She was rising from her chair. The whole six hundred were pushing back their chairs at some command I had been too engrossed to hear. They had begun to clear the floor of tables and chairs for dancing. She excused herself and it was not until some minutes later that I saw her again. She was standing amid an interested group over by the orchestra.

"Well, how are you enjoying the evening," a voice asked at my side. It was one of the men who had been sitting at an adjoining table. "I'll venture you've had the glooms chased away by this time. She certainly knows how to make people feel at home."

"You mean the lady I ate dinner with?" I inquired. "You know her?"

"Know her, of course," he smiled. "I don't think she's missed a meeting since the club began. She's been active right from the start—seems to have just the right qualifications for a patroness. We've got to have a few like her to plan things and to make reports and that sort of thing, you know. And her husband and two daughters—why, they're just as much interested and active in the work as she is. Who you looking around for?"

"Nobody," I insisted, "except an elevator that's 'going down!'"

RECOVERED, ONE SMILE

by Berton Braley

Sometimes, Where a Woman Is Concerned, a Man Is So Stupid He Can't See What Is Perfectly Plain to Everybody Else.

WHEN I bought out James MacDonald's little chophouse on Jackson street about the first thing I did was to brighten it up. Not white enamel and bath tile walls or anything like that, but the sort of paint and varnish and leather that would make it cheerful and warm in the winter time without being stuffy in the summer.

I succeeded pretty well, too, in achieving the effect I wanted, but the place wasn't really complete until Wanda Dixan smiled her way into the cashier's desk—and stayed there. Inasmuch as the restaurant was a man's sort of place, I'd rather planned on a man cashier and attendant for the cigar counter, but Wanda had decided to look for work about the time I was making these plans, and came in and asked for a job the day I was going to hire a cashier. It was her smile that did it. When she turned it on me I felt that the one thing in this world I wanted most was a woman cashier—with Wanda as the woman—and I hired her.

It's somewhat difficult to give an idea of the smile of that girl. It wasn't one of the fixed and perpetual sort that never will come off. It wasn't flashed on every occasion, and it didn't seem to be something extra in the way of face decoration when she did put it across. I guess the best way I can tell you about it is to say that it seemed to grow right out of her. When her face crinkled up into a smile you knew it was because she had a nice warm, sweet, smiling soul and a smiling mind and a smiling heart, and that her flashing teeth and sparkling eyes were simply delivering a message to you—telling you that Wanda was happy and healthy and thought this was a bully world and most everybody in it bully—with particular reference to yourself.

The commercial smile and the polite smile and all that kind of stuff have been preached in business papers until the word "smile" makes most of us want to jump up and down hard on all the Pollyannas in existence. Which is one reason that when I tell you about Wanda I'm going into a lot of explanation. Because I don't want you to think she was one of these Cheshire cat people.

Only if you blew into the restaurant some morning feeling mean and grouchy and sour and disgusted, as so many folks do before breakfast, and you happened to catch just a little of the radiance of her smile or the soft ripply chuckle of her laugh over some little joke another customer made as he paid his check—you'd unbuckle some of your face in unconscious response, and maybe you'd be affected enough to nod "good morning" to her. And if you did that you'd get such a joyous, sunshiny, Peter Pan-ish kind of response in Wanda's face that you'd go to your table ready to shake hands with the waiter instead of barking at him.

All sorts and conditions of men—and quite a few women—patronized my restaurant, many more than ever patronized old MacDonald, who was a good buyer but a bad seller, a grand success at the back of the house but a handicap in front. He was a good old soul, but lacked personality.

Well, while I laid a great deal of the increased patronage to the fact that my place was much more attractive than before, and more comfortable, too, it didn't take me long to realize that Wanda was one of the features. A lot of people came because the food was good and the restaurant kind of homelike, but there are quite a few places like that, and what kept folks coming back was Wanda.

The funny part of it was that she wasn't ever familiar with anybody, for all the apparent sincerity and warmth of her smile and her whole manner. And though actors, and artists, and traveling men, and lawyers, and business men and gamblers, and chauffeurs, and a thousand other kinds came in there and spoke to Wanda and talked to her quite often, nobody ever got fresh. There were ten waiters and half a dozen bus boys and a dozen kitchen helpers who would have given any flip party the bum's rush if they started anything like that—but there wasn't ever any need of it.

Now you can figure for yourself what it was worth to have a girl like Wanda there at the cash counter. And you can also figure what kind of a gloom settled over the place when, after she'd been there about two months, Wanda's smile grew a little forced and artificial, and we watched it day by day grow less and less frequent and more and more like a sort of wintry sunshine instead of a spring radiance.

"What's the matter, Wanda?" I said to her one day after about two weeks of this. "Anything gone wrong?"

"Not a thing, Mr. Alford," she said, trying to look bright and cheerful and making a pathetic failure out of it, "not a single thing."

"You look sort of tired and there's just a tiny little bit of a circle under your eyes," I insisted, "and you can't tell me everything's all right. Are you well?"

"Perfectly well," she insisted. "You're just imagining things."

"I think," I said, "that maybe you're working too hard here. Suppose you take a day or two or a week off and rest up. I'll pay your salary right along. And listen, my dear girl, if I'm not paying you enough salary so you can live right—if there's a mother or a lame sister or somebody you're helping and it's worrying you—speak up. The restaurant's doing pretty well and I reckon I can squeeze out a little more money for you."

"It isn't that," Wanda shook her head; "you're paying me well enough to keep me and mother nicely. And nobody could treat me better. In fact, it isn't anything—I tell you I'm all right.'

I wasn't satisfied, but I didn't talk any more to her about it. Only the next day I asked Mike, who had been with MacDonald for ten years and who was a wise old Irishman with a heart as big as a house: "Mike, have you noticed Miss Wanda doesn't seem the same?"

"Shure and I have, son," he said, for he called me "son" in spite of the fact I was his employer; "shure I have. The gurrl isn't herself at all, at all. And you should do something about it, sorr. 'First because she's a nice little kid and should not be anything but happy, and second because that smile of hers is worth money to the house. I suppose you appreciate that, sorr."

"Well, I've offered her a vacation or more money, or both," I answered, "but she says there's nothing the matter and no need for it. She said she didn't want to take any time off—she wanted to be here on the job."

"Shure, as ye know, sorr, worrk is a great panacea," said Mike, "and I'm thinkin' a vacation would be little good to the gurrl. I'm thinkin' she's in love, sorr. And I guess she ain't very happy in it. And if ye're afther wantin' yer cashier to be herself again ye'd better be seein' if ye can't fix up her love affair some way. It's heartache that ails her, nothin' else."

And the old man went about his duties leaving me with a lot of thoughts. Among them was the thought that I was in a hole, no matter what happened. For if Wanda didn't get over this affair, whatever it was—and she didn't seem likely to—most of her worth to the restaurant would be gone, and if I or some one else fixed it up and got her heart's desire for her she'd go and get married and I'd lose her anyhow. That was the business aspect of the case. There was also a personal phase of it—I liked the girl, liked her immensely, and I hated to see her unhappy and hated also to think of her going. So there I was.

"If I was you, sorr," said Mike, later in the day, "I'd take a little personal interest in the case. I'd ask her if she was liable to be home this night and I'd go down and see her and take her to a movie or something and I'd hint and inquire around until I found how things was and what was the matther. Then maybe ye could bring the felly and her together.'

"And lose my cashier," I said.

"Ye never can tell," said Mike, "maybe ye wouldn't. Nowadays, what wid all this indipindence of women, there's a-plenty that marries and keeps on workin'. Anyhow, you might at least find out how the land lays."

I decided to take his advice. As a matter of fact, I'd often wanted to see Wanda out of working hours, but I never had. I've always felt that the employer who forces his attention on a working girl is a cad, and I didn't want to get in that class. So while our relations had been friendly and cordial, I'd never gone to see her.

At first I thought I'd ask Wanda if I might come, and then I decided since I had her address anyhow I'd just take a chance on finding her. And that's the way I worked it.

I chugged up in my flivver to the neat little apartment house she lived in, and when I ran up the steps and rang the bell it was Wanda who answered. She gave a little "O!" when she saw me, and I got a ghost of her old smile, too. And even that ghost warmed the corners of my heart a lot.

"Is—is there something wrong at the restaurant," she asked. "Didn't I get the cash right—or what?"

"Nothing wrong," I said; "not a thing. Only I thought I'd come down and see where you lived and meet you as one human being to another. Not just as a boss and an employé. Do you mind?'

"Mind?" she said, and the smile was a little less like a ghost. "Of course I don't mind. I'm awfully glad to see you."

"Maybe I'm intruding," I said; "maybe there's another man here that——"

"No," she said, in a funny way, "there isn't any other man."

"If that's the case," I said, "and if the stories in the magazines don't make you afraid to go out in a long, low car with a gentleman you have only known three months, maybe you—and your mother—would like to take a little spin in my car. It really isn't very long—and low only in price, but it goes."

"Mother's out," she said, "but I don't think she'd mind—and I'd love to go with you."

Somehow or other I'd never known the little flivver to hum along so happily as it did after she got into it. And we hadn't gone but a few miles when I discovered that one reason my evenings had seemed so empty—except when I was working like a nailer in the restaurant—was because this was what I'd really wanted to do with them. I don't mean necessarily just riding around with Wanda—but being around with her. And after we swung into one of the parks where the trees hung somewhat low and there was some of the feel of real spring in the air I found that my right arm was behaving in the strangest manner. It kept creeping over toward Wanda, and I had to jerk it back by main force time after time.

I'd taken a number of girls out in the little car, and I'd put my arm around several of them, too; but it was largely because it seemed to be the thing to do. I'd never had that arm develop a will of its own before.

We didn't talk much, but after awhile I couldn't hold in any longer, and forgetting all of Mike's advice about circumlocution I said:

"I think the reason you've looked and acted so unlike yourself lately is that you're in love. Are you?"

Even in the semi-darkness I could see her face change a little and hear a little catch in her throat as she said:

"O—in love? No!"

"Yes, you are," I said, "and I want you to feel that you can tell me all about it. Just as you would your big brother, and if there is anything I can do to help——"

Then she did the most amazing thing. She burst out crying. I didn't see why she should start to cry with no more warrant than that, but she did. And every little sob sort of twanged inside me as if some one had plucked at a heart string, and I wanted to put my arms around her and pet her and say, "There, there, little girl; there, there"—and all of a sudden I couldn't control that right arm at all; it went out and gathered her in, and before I realized it I was patting her arm and whispering crazy things to her, and just as I was realizing that she didn't mind them—that, in fact, she was snuggling closer and drying her tears—I hit a stone on the road and went through the fence into the sheep pasture. The engine stalled and two tires blew up, but all I did was to use my left arm to bring Wanda closer, while I kissed her.

And when the park cop came around I told him I was too busy to talk to him or be arrested and to go away. Being young and with a sense of humor, he went.

"You see," Wanda said, somewhat later, "after I'd been there in the restaurant just a few days I knew I liked you heaps, and found I didn't want to go home when it was quitting time because I had to leave you. And I thought you liked me, too, you were sc nice and considerate and everything. But the weeks went on and you never asked to take me home, and you never came to see me—and you were just as nice to the waiters or the bus boys as you were to me. And by that time I knew that just liking you wasn't all the trouble with me—it was more. And every day I looked for you to act as though I wasn't just a cashier, but—but a nice girl you liked a little more than you liked everybody else. And sometimes—sometimes I tried to see if I couldn't make you look as if you wanted to kiss me, but I couldn't—"

"I'll remedy that now," I said.

"And—and you wouldn't be anything but just my nice, considerate boss, and it was perfectly terrible. I got to worrying and fretting about it, and I made up my mind I couldn't stand it, and that I'd quit; and then I thought that I wouldn't see you if I did, and so——"

When Wanda came in the next morning, Mike, the old waiter, looked up, nodded, and his face broke into a broad grin as his eyes met Wanda's old smile—with something added to it.

"And shure," said he, with a wink at me, "some of that smile ye've been catchin' yerself." He poked me in the ribs, which is no way for a waiter to treat his employer.

"Arrah, Mr. Alford," said he, "I knew ye could fix it. Shure I was right when I said ye might bring the felly and her together. And ye'll not be losin' the cashier, either, I'm thinkin'. Onless ye object to yer wife wurrkin', sorr."

I don't. The chop house is growing every year and we hope by the time Wanda II.—who has her mother's smile now, at the age of 4—is ready to earn a living, as everybody ought, she'll be worth as much to the place as her mother is. And that's a lot.

CAPTIVATING MARY CARSTA

SYNOPSIS.

Elbert Carstairs, capitalist, estranged from his wife in his old age, longs for the companionship of his daughter Mary, who lives with Mrs. Carstairs at Hunston-on-the-Hudson. The child refuses to come and visit him. Mrs. Carstairs refuses to force her to do so, and hence old Carstairs engages Larry Varney to take the Carstairs yacht up the Hudson and kidnap Mary, who Varney believes is but 12. Varney gets the help of Peter Maginnis in the venture. Three days after the start is made. On the way up the river the name of the yacht, Cypriani, is erased to throw reporters off the track. Arriving at Hunston, the two ally themselves with Hare, a campaigner for reform against the dictatorship of Boss Ryan. Ryan so completely dominates the town that the reform people are denied the use of public halls. Varney is accused by Coligny Smith, owner of the Gazette, which is under Ryan's thumb, of being Ferris Stanhope, author of pink tea literature, and is advised to leave town unless he wants trouble. The same evening Varney, fleeing from a heavy rainstorm, takes shelter in a cottage—and finds a strange young woman there. She proves to be Mary Carstairs. Further, she accuses him of being Stanhope. Varney learns through a magazine article the reason why he is accused of being Stanhope. It seems from the article that Stanhope is about to return to Hunston, from which he had fled months before after escapades with several girls. Maginnis has also found adventure plotting to "steal" Boss Ryan's big political meeting and turn it to one for Hare and reform.

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT.

A Galling Rebuff.

THERE was a considerable silence. Peter pulled frowningly at his cigar; it had gone out, but he was too absorbed to notice it, and mechanically pulled on. Presently he raised his head and looked at Varney.

"Well? This ends it, I suppose? You'll go back to New York this afternoon?"

"No," said Varney, "I'm going to stay and carry it through just as I expected."

Peter tapped the chair arm with his heavy fingers. "Why?"

"Because—well, I promised to, and on the strength of my promise Uncle Elbert has gone to trouble and expense, for one thing, and has pinned high hopes on me, for another. I had my chance to ask questions and make terms and stipulations—and I didn't do it. That was my fault. I am not even sure that he meant to deceive me. I have no right to break a contract because I find that my part in it is going to be harder than I thought."

"This business about her age changes everything. Carstairs has no legal rights over a 19 year old daughter."

"Legal rights! My dear Peter, you never supposed I thought I was doing anything legal, did you? No, no; the moral part of it has been my prop and stay all along, and that still holds. I promised without conditions, and I'll go ahead on the same terms."

"Give me a match," said Peter thoughtfully. "Maybe you are right, Larry," he added presently. "I only wanted to point out another way of looking at it. I stand absolutely by your decision. You think that this girl is wrong headed and obstinate, and that her father has a moral right to have her, over age or not. This—discovery makes it a pretty serious business, but of course you've thought of all that. But—will it be possible now?'

"I have invited her," said Varney with a light laugh, "to lunch on the Cypriani on Thursday with two or three other Hunston friends."

"Well?"

"She accepted with every mark of pleasure. Great men like Stanhope, it seems, require no introduction: it beats me. The point now is to find the other Hunston friends."

"Hare and his sister, Mrs. Marne—the very thing!—chaperon and all! I'll invite them tonight. Then the whole thing's done!" Peter sat silent a moment, looking at Varney. "I've been awfully rushed today," he resumed, "because if I was going to help Hare at all I didn't dare lose this one big opportunity. But, remember, anything that has to be done from now on—I'm your man."

"There'll be nothing more now until Thursday. The thing's practically done."

Peter was still looking at him steadily. "It's going to be dirt easy, provided we don't weaken. You can't do things to your friends, but you can emphatically do them to your enemies. We have got to remember always that this girl, who has been so heartless to her old fool of a father, is our enemy."

"Yes, that is what we have got to remember."

"Good Lord!" cried Peter, looking at his watch. "Twenty minutes past 4, and I must be at the hall at 4:30 sharp. I'll have to sneak right away. You're going to sit tight on the yacht, of course?"

"Never! I like to have a little of the fun myself. I must certainly take in this meeting tonight, and watch you put your heel on their necks, and all that."

"Don't! With what you've got to do, you can't afford to expose yourself. What's the use of running risks, even little ones, when there is nothing to gain?"

"Satan reproving sin! Fudge! Free yourself once for all, my dear sir, that I'm starring in 'The Prisoner on the Yacht' for the next three days, or anything of that sort."

"Well, if you will go," said Peter reluctantly, "here's a reserved seat ticket—a peacherine, right up at the front."

"Great! Count on me to lead the applause."

Peter rose. His engrossed brow advertised the fact that his thought had already flown back to his own private maelstrom of new concerns.

"If Hare gets his chance tonight," he meditated out loud, "you can rely on him to make the most of it. He'll make good; he's a man, sound in wind and limb, head and heart. I do wish, though, he wasn't so—somehow innocent—so easy—so confoundedly affable and handshaking with everybody that comes along. There's a sneaky looking stranger at the hotel—rubber heeled fellow named Higginson, with one of these black felt hats pulled down over his eyes like a stage villain—that Hare never laid eyes on till today. For all he knows the man may be an agent of Ryan's, a hired spy, imported to—— By Jove! That's just what he is, I'll bet!" he cried suddenly; and after a frowning pause hurried warmly on: "Don't you remember last night, just after we hit the town, I said there was a man following us—sneaked up the alley when he saw me looking at him?"

"I believe I do, Peter. But the fact is that I met so many exciting people last night——"

"It's the same man—it was Higginson!" said Peter positively. "I'm sure of it! I didn't get a look at his face last night, but it's the same hat, same figure—everything. I'll bet anything he's on Ryan's pay roll; and there's little Hare hobnobbing with him as friendly as though they'd been classmates at college! That kind of free for all geniality doesn't go, you know! A reformer in a rotten town like this," said Peter vehemently, "would do well to cultivate a profound distrust of strangers."

Varney burst out laughing.

"You yourself have known Hare from the cradle, I believe?"

"I'm different," said Peter without a smile. "Well! I must move. Now, let's see—that lunch. What time shall I ask Hare and Mrs. Marne for?"

"Two o'clock, Thursday. I didn't have the nerve," Varney explained, "to ask Miss Carstairs for today—rather lucky I didn't—and she was engaged for Thursday."

"Right. I'll arrange it all. Well, for the Lord's sake, take care of yourself tonight, Larry, and trust me to keep out of trouble. So long."

Varney looked after Peter's disappearing back, and envied him all the fun he was having. His own lot was certainly far less entertaining. However, it was his own; and here he resembled his friend in one respect at least. His thoughts, like Peter's, had a way just now of reverting at short notice to the matters in which he himself was most closely concerned.

He lay back idly among the cushions and let his mind once more run over the unexpected problems of his situation.

The new graveness of what he was pledged to do had, of course, been strongly present in his mind from the first moment of revelation. Kidnaping a 19 year old girl was certainly, as Peter had pointed out, a pretty serious business. He perceived that it would not look well in the papers in the least. Also, if she cared to raise a row afterward, there might be an aftermath which would not be wholly a laughing matter.

Nevertheless, this side of the question seemed remote and of minor interest to him just now. The problem appeared to be a personal one, not a question of statutes and judges. In his talk with Miss Carstairs before he knew her by name he had failed to notice anything that suggested the spoiled and willful child he had come to find. He could remember nothing she had said or done that helped him at all to think of her as his enemy. The fact was that it was all quite the other way. And this helped him to understand now, as he had not understood before, why Uncle Elbert had begged a solemn oath from him with such a piteous look on his handsome, haggard old face.

Peter's pronounced views as to Mr. Stanhope were not, it appeared, purely of the stuff that dreams are made of. Testimony to the author's lack of popularity in his native town came to Varney with unexpected promptness.

In the corner of the square, as he swung along toward the Academy theater that evening, he found himself suddenly confronted by a man who, lounging against the fence of a shabby dwelling, straightened dramatically at his approach and bent a sharp gaze upon him. He was a tall, shambling fellow with a white cloth swathed about the top of his head; and Varney, in the act of passing, suddenly recognized him as the dog man, whom Peter had knocked out the night before. His gaze was a wanton challenge for the young man to stop, and Varney cheerfully accepted it.

"Why, it's—Mr.—er—Hackley, isn't it?"

The man's bandage left only one eye free to operate, and he kept this upon Varney with a curious unwinking stare.

"Yes," said he slowly, "I'm Hackley."

"How'd the dog come out?" asked Varney.

"Dead," said Hackley, as quiet in mien as the Hackley of last night was bellicose. "Dead an' buried."

"I'm sorry," said Varney, his glance on the headcloth. "The man who did the kicking was a friend of mine and he wouldn't want you to lose your dog without some compensation. Er—please accept this with his compliments and regrets."

Hackley, his single washed out eye starting with pleasure, accepted the proffered note with a gesture resembling a clutch, investigated its size in the dim light with hardly concealed delight, and pinned it into his waistcoat pocket with a large brass safety pin. Then he raised his head slowly and looked at Varney.

"Whyn't you leave town tonight, Stanhope?" he inquired casually.

Varney started. Almost to the very language this was exactly what Editor Smith had suggested to him the night before.

"Why do you call me Stanhope, Hackley? My name happens to be Laurence Varney."

Mr. Hackley's gaze never relaxed. "Chuck it," he said without emotion. "A sensible and eddicated man," he added impersonally, "never lies when a lie couldn't do him no good. If I was you, Stanhope, I wouldn't lose a minute in cuttin' loose from this town."

"If I were Stanhope, I dare say I wouldn't either. But suppose I were," he added, "why shouldn't I stay here if I wanted to?"

"For one reason," said Mr. Hackley deliberately, "there's me. When I'm a-feelin' myself there ain't a cammer, a more genteel nor lor abidin' citizen in Hunston. As for fussin' and fightin', I'd no more think of it than a dyin' inverlid in the orspital. But only throw a few drinks under my belt like last night and I'm a altogether different creetur. And I'm mighty afraid that the next time I overdrink myself and don't rightly know what I'm doin' I'll go out after you with a club. And then there'll be trouble."

"But why should you want to go after Stanhope with a club? What did he ever do to you?"

"Don't you know? I married Mamie Orrick's little sister!"

"Most interesting," said Varney, "as a bit of genealogy, but what's it got to do with Stanhope and the club?"

But Mr. Hackley said again, cryptically: "Chuck it." Then, softened by the young man's pleasant ways and by the windfall of a fortune pinned into his vest: "Be sensible, Stanhope," he added amiably. "I ain't the only one. Old Orrick's heard that you've hit the town and is totin' a gun and talkin' wild. And, of course, there's others. Don't jump off no tall buildin's, I say, expectin' Providence to land you soft. There's a train to Noo York at eight-ten. Cut while you can!"

"Why, thanks," said Varney, laughing and starting on. "If I should see Mr. Stanhope at any time I won't fail to pass him the friendly tip."

"And if you should see that friend of yourn," called Hackley after him, "him that gimme the paste in the jor—you c'n just tell him that Jim Hackley is goin' to fix you both good!"

"At your convenience, Hackley."

The young man passed on, undisturbed by the dog man's quaint menaces. He did not exactly see himself and Peter getting into trouble at the hands of a crack brained village humorist.

Streams of people, converging from all directions, guided him easily to the theater. Pushing his way in, he found the stage empty and the proceedings not yet begun and he stood for a minute at the inner door, glancing over the house. It was crowded. Oratory is a real inducement to societies seldom blessed with that attraction. Even lemonade is a magnet if you get it seldom and never to surfeit. Already men were sitting in the long low windows which ran down either side of the building, and a score of ushers, singularly alert looking men, were hurriedly distributing camp chairs to accommodate the overflow. Certainly, Peter could have desired no better setting for his daring adventure for reform.

Thanks to the reserved seat which his friend's reluctant liberality had furnished him, Varney was in no hurry to join the throng inside. Presently, to get clear of the rush at the doors, he strolled into the lobby and idly stood at one side, watching the people streaming by.

Thus, by sheer luck, he became witness to the crucial episode of the evening. An oily Teutonic voice spoke just at his elbow.

"Id't 8 o'clock, I zee. We'd better go back und give Taylor his speech, I guess."

The young man turned. He happened to be standing just in front of the little cubby of a box office. In it stood two men, one large and fat and blonde, the other short and stocky and dark. This latter, looking up from a typewritten manuscript, spoke briefly:

"No hurry. Find Smith if you can and send him here."

The fat, oily person departed obediently. Immediately there stepped through the door of the box office a rough looking man in a slouch hat, with three days' stubble stippling a grimy chin. He shut the door carefully and came near. Varney, from where he stood, could see and hear everything.

"Mr. Ryan?"

The stocky, dark man nodded. Aha! thought Varney.

"Then step outside a minute, will yer? There's a genaman wants to speak to you right away on a matter as concerns you close."

Ryan coldly looked the man over: "Then

The stranger never moved a muscle. "There's a reason w'y he can't come in here—you'll see when you come outside, all right!" Then bringing his dark face sharply a foot nearer, he went on in a hasty undertone: "Hey, you! Ever hear of a man named Maginnis?"

Ryan had: Peter's fame had traveled far in Hunston that day.

"Well, listen! There's a game on to bust this meetin' tonight and put the hook into you good and hard. Maginnis has spent a thousand to do it. D'yer savvy? Now will yer step lively?"

The boss considered a moment and then stepped lively. Varney, falling in behind, stepped lively too, his curiosity strongly stirred. But outside, before the theater, there was no sign of a gentleman awaiting an audience: only the people pouring on into the academy.

"Around the corner," whispered the dark man hoarsely. "He dassen't wait here. Quick!"

Around the corner the pair hurried, Varney close in their wake. In the silent alley, half hidden in the shadows of the building, stood a large carriage with a pair of strapping bays tugging at their traces. They halted before it, and the stranger, who had considerately taken Ryan's arm, flung open the door.

"Here he is, Jim—Mr. Ryan. Now you c'n tell him—"

The sentence died unended. At the same moment the sound of a violent scuffle smote the nocturnal air. It appeared that Jim, presumably laboring under an unfortunate misapprehension, had not received his visitor with that refined hospitality due from one gentleman to another. Even more inexplicable, it looked in the deceitful darkness, remarkably as though the boss' guide, suddenly dropping that gentleman's arm, had laid forcible hold upon his outraged and madly protesting legs.

It was all over in a minute. There was a faint yell, quickly and violently muffled. Then the carriage door banged, leaving nobody on the sidewalk, and the horses, responding to an acutely painful lash from the strong arm on the box, sprang forward at the gallop.

Varney stood in the dark alley, looking after the vanishing carriage with mingled admiration and amazement. Swift footsteps sounded near him; and the next moment a strong hand seized him and pulled him back into the shadow of the wall.

"Sh-h! It's me! Anybody see it?"

"Hello! Not a soul but me."

Peter leaned against the wall and drew a deep breath.

"He can never prove it on me—not to save his soul!—and I hold his meeting in the hollow of my hand. Do you see that lighted window at the back there? That's my last bridge. Waiting in there are the chairman of the meeting and the mayor, who's the orator of the evening. I'm going in and make 'em take me on as one of the platform speakers. I'll pass out a few remarks and call on Hare—"

"But how will you make them—"

"They daren't refuse me anything," said Peter swiftly and tapped his breast pocket. "I've papers here that mean stripes for them both. Mind your eye, Larry, and be good!"

He disappeared through the little gate toward the dressing room, where the officials of the meeting waited vainly for last instructions from their lord. Varney looked after him with a sigh. In Hunston only twenty-four hours and already to be running the town!

He emerged from the alley feeling rather gloomy, and halted on the sidewalk in front of the theater, idly watching the people as they poured in. The spectacle of this steady stream made a fitting background for his meditations; for he was thinking, absently, of the extreme boldness of Peter's course. Certainly, there was little here to suggest the quiet onlooker. But all at once something happened which checked the current of his thought as effectually as a slap upon the cheek.

In that shifting waste of strange faces his vagrant eye suddenly fell upon a familiar one—two, three familiar ones—and his flagging interest sprang to life. There approached, side by side, J. Pinkney Hare, who, though few knew it, might prove the brilliant hero of the night's proceedings; the child, little Jenny Something, who had spent yesterday at the Carstairs house, leading strangers to think that she was somebody else, and Miss Carstairs herself, a fair flower in that moving tangle of weeds.

Hare saw Varney and bowed in his stiff affected way. But Varney's eyes had already gone on to Miss Carstairs, and he did not return that greeting. Seeing the little candidate lift his hat, her look followed his, and so her eye met Varney's.

When this happened her expression did not change, except that, so he thought, she faintly colored. Varney awaited her bow; he half bowed himself: a stiff smile was ready on his lips. But he never gave it. Her eyes rested full upon him for a second, moved away; and the next moment she swept past him into the theater.

There was no shadow of doubt about it. She who only last night had treated him with such marked kindness had unmistakably cut him. It hardly seemed possible. Why, they had parted like friends!

But he understood instantly what had happened. To her he was Ferris Stanhope; he himself had given her the right to think that. Since they had parted, some of that unpleasant gossip about Stanhope—of which she had known nothing last night—had made its way to her; and she had believed it as to him, Laurence Varney. Yes, she had believed it as to him. Peter was right, after all. A self-respecting girl owed it to herself, it seemed, not to recognize him. Curiously, so strong was his sense of the personal meaning of the insult that its more practical aspects for the moment altogether escaped him.

But that was only for the moment. In the next breath it rushed over him that with that cool glance the luncheon engagement upon which his whole mission depended stood canceled; and with that thought he felt his will hardening into iron. What she thought of him, personally, was of course nothing, but no power should keep him from carrying through his plans precisely as he had arranged them. He elbowed his way into the lobby to find Uncle Elbert's daughter and make her retract that look.

But it gradually became evident that Uncle Elbert's daughter was not in the lobby: the most systematic exploration failed to reveal any trace of her. In fact, it was certain that she had passed straight on to her seat within the hall; whence a loud roar presently gave warning to stragglers that the oratory had begun.

A Perfectly Good Donkey

by Francis William Sullivan

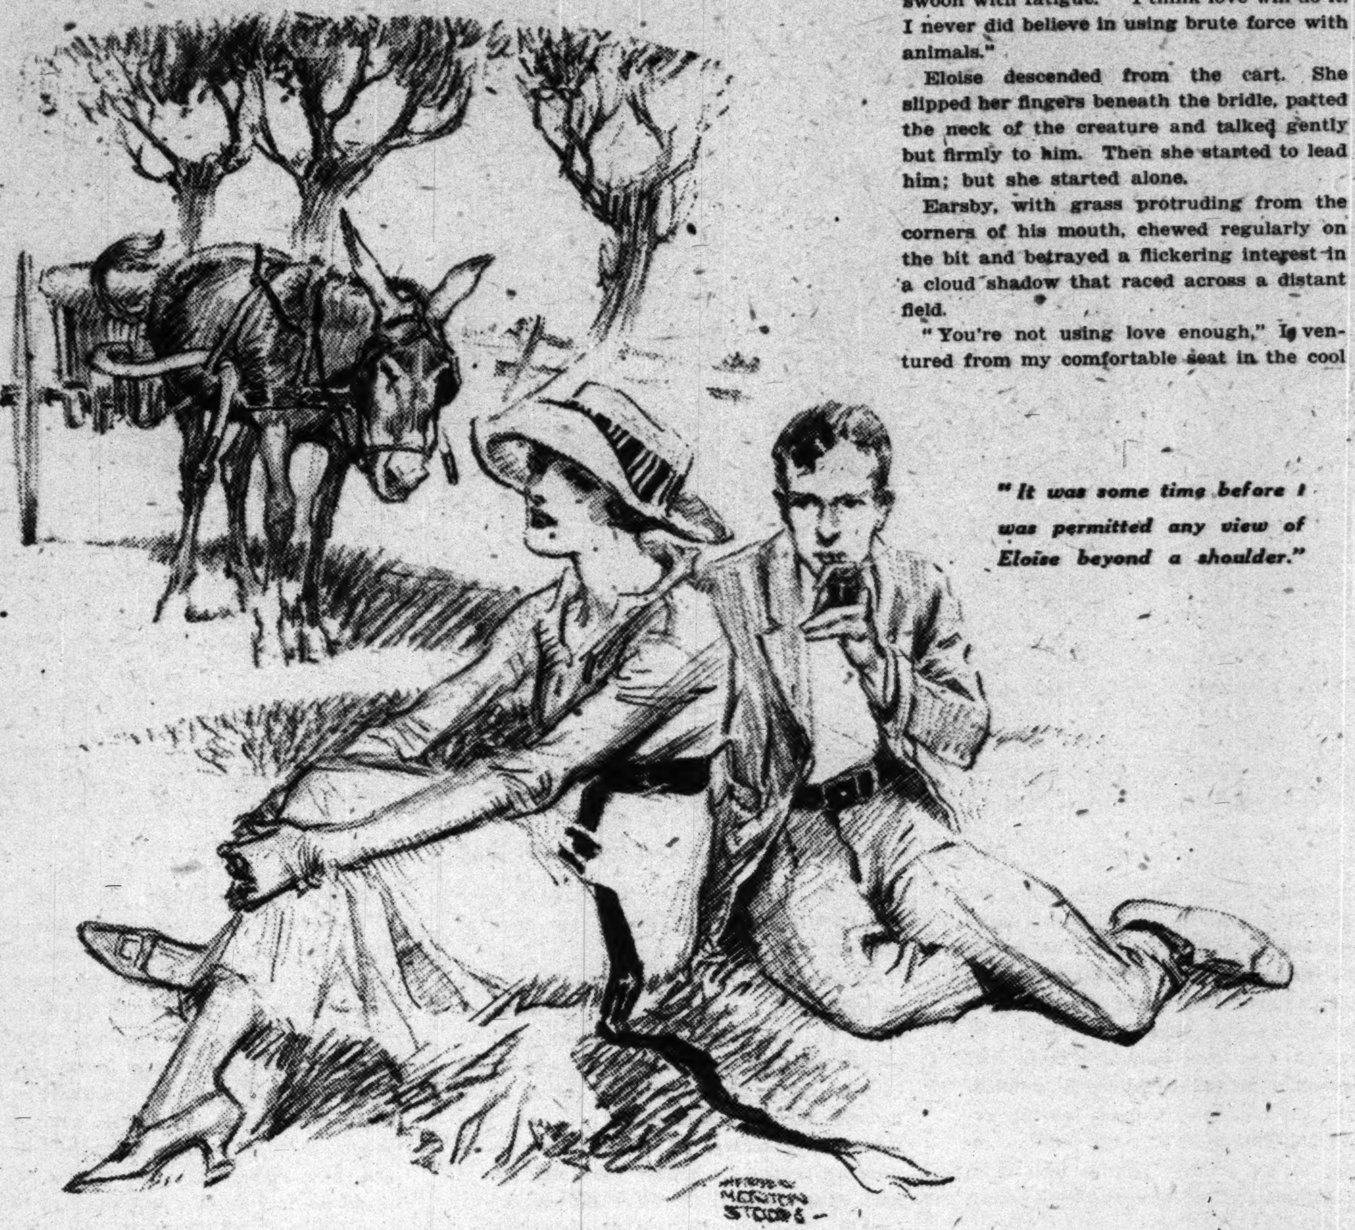
There Was Also a Perfectly Stupid One, Who Was Awful Slow About Making Hay While the Sun Shone.

"NOW, Dick, isn't this simply adorable?" demanded Eloise, tightening the reins over the unkempt back of Earsby.

"The situation has its merits, I'll admit," I replied, glancing happily at the radiant girl.

We were seated side by side in the little two wheeled donkey cart, that instrument of conclusive conveyance that jogs up and down with every step taken by the animal between the shafts. I tried earnestly to disentangle the leaping landscape to discover our whereabouts.

"And you have tried to convince me an automobile is the only means of seeing the country," she remarked scornfully.



"It was some time before I was permitted any view of Eloise beyond a shoulder."

"It's the only means of seeing it in one place," I jerked out. "If those trees would only stay put for a minute I might enjoy it more."

"O, it's all in getting used to it, Dick," was the patronizing reply.

"Same as a broncho," I hazarded.

Eloise did not deign to answer this flippancy.

We had left Northampton shortly after luncheon to drive along the road that circles the bay on the south shore of Long island. After two weeks of pleading interspersed with glorious rides in my humble roadster, I had finally agreed to become Eloise's guest for the afternoon behind Earsby, on one condition—that the duke should be left behind.

This in itself was regarded by conservative observers as a triumph, seeing that the duke—a real one, at that—had been the girl's constant companion of late during most of the hours between sunrise and midnight. There was some reason for this fact, too, from his viewpoint, because Miss Hubbell was the only real heiress in the vicinity that summer.

His grace of Twizdale was not a half bad sort, in his way, but, I often asked myself, how could he love Our Lady of Joys as I did, who had been to school with her in pinafores and hoped vainly for so long?

"Where are we now?" I asked.

"On our way home," replied Eloise a trifle icily. "I suppose you are glad."

"Only because you have an engagement with the duke at half past 3," I replied, "and ought to be on time. You reminded me of the fact yourself before we started out."

Eloise colored a trifle and I cursed my bluntness, for in reality I treasured every minute with her, although such empty treasure was the only one I could offer her along with my surname, which is common enough.

"The duke will keep," she said dryly.

"He wasn't pickled when we left," I suggested, "but you can't tell what he's been doing since."

"Please confine your witty observations to the landscape, Richard," warned Eloise stiffly.

"Slow down your mule and I will," I retorted with an equal amount of spirit.

The conversation languished after this, and the afternoon appeared about to become a failure. We were traveling a good macadam road that led between green trees and little squares of field.

We approached a little grove and I surreptitiously looked at my watch. It was just 3 o'clock, and I judged we would not disappoint the duke.

As we entered the cool greenness of the little arbor Earsby dropped from his racking canter to a walk, and in the center of the shade stopped short, pulling at the reins to loosen their tension.

"Get up!" commanded Eloise sharply.

The brute twitched his ears and turned his head so as to observe us with a kind of asinine insolence. His expression was so far from complimentary that I took it as a personal affront.

"Here, let me have the reins," I commanded, and took them from Eloise.

Knotting the ends, I belabored the animal with considerable energy and precision. Earsby turned his head to the front, whisked his tail and slew a fly that was resting on his seventh rib.

"Perhaps a switch will do the business better," suggested Eloise, and I immediately got out and cut one from the nearest tree. Again I attacked the stubborn animal, but only succeeded in raising a cloud of dust.

"Better get a vacuum cleaner," I suggested sarcastically. "It does the work more thoroughly and in half the time."

"O, dear," said Eloise nervously, "what shall I do? We will be terribly late as it is, and Twizdale will be furious. What kind of a switch is that, Dick?"

"Maple."

"Well, you had better try hardwood. There's an oak tree on the other side of the road."

"Great aches from little acorns grow," I panted five minutes later, having taken off my coat, the better to give free range to my enthusiasm.

Earsby yielded a great sigh of comfort and commenced to nibble the grass at the side of the road. My herculean blows might as well have been rain drops.

"Stop!" cried Eloise when I was about to swoon with fatigue. "I think love will do it. I never did believe in using brute force with animals."

Eloise descended from the cart. She slipped her fingers beneath the bridle, patted the neck of the creature and talked gently but firmly to him. Then she started to lead him; but she started alone.

Earsby, with grass protruding from the corners of his mouth, chewed regularly on the bit and betrayed a flickering interest in a cloud shadow that raced across a distant field.

"You're not using love enough," I ventured from my comfortable seat in the cool grass. "Get really affectionate, Eloise. You can't fool a donkey with that half way business."

"Richard Parsons," she flamed, her cheeks flushed with her exertions, "come here and help me. I don't believe you care whether I ever get back to town or not."

"Sure, I don't," I said easily, filling my pipe. "But calm yourself; maybe the duke will come and rescue you."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, it's this way, Eloise. I have heard Twizdale call enough people 'blithering ahsses' to gather he knows how they act. With that knowledge he probably will come and rescue you from this one."

"Which one?" she gasped, exhausted with pulling.

"Both," I said. "Don't be partial. Come on, sit down beside me, and we'll cool off."

With a final exasperated tug Eloise gave up the ghost of a chance she had with Earsby and followed my suggestion.

It was really a divine little nook for a tête-à-tête. There were comfortable big green trees with mossy bases, long lush grass that had somehow escaped the sun and white dust, checkers of gold that moved across the emerald floor as the branches above swayed in the sea breeze, and that glad, indefinable odor of green things that penetrates the nostrils and brings at once rest and refreshment.

It was some time before I was permitted any view of Eloise beyond a shoulder, the curve of a cheek, the glint of hair, and the sagging brim of a large leghorn hat. Reclining at ease on one elbow, and enjoying tobacco and repose after labor, I was at peace with the world. It was 4 o'clock.

Suddenly Eloise laughed.

"As long as we're here, let's have a jolly picnic all by ourselves," she said. "Isn't it delicious in this green grotto? Isn't the blue beyond the green lovely? And over there in the field, see the men haying in the sun?"

I grunted responses indifferently, as though I owned the place and had brought her along to see it. I couldn't trust myself to say anything else. She was so sweet and alluring, and I had wanted her so long without daring to tell her, that the irony of these precious moments that must remain speechless entered my soul.

Eloise knew that I loved her, but she also knew and recognized that wealth and social position were indispensable requisites in the man she married. I heartily wished we were back at Northampton with the duke, who had all the necessary tags attached. It would have spared me.

"What's the matter, Dick?" she cried. "You're not yourself at all."

I made a gallant attempt to flounder through a few of my well known witticisms, but the only smile I could raise was a pitying one. Eloise told me I was going off horribly, and I admitted it with a groan. Then I cursed myself for an imbecile and trembled for fear she would divine what the matter was.

I knew I should soon make a fool of myself, and in desperation heaved rocks at Earsby in a last flickering endeavor to get him on the move.

But he, adamant animal, proceeded according to the numerical strength of grass tufts, and no faster. For a considerable time there was silence while Eloise hummed.

"I certainly do admire those men over there," she said at last, warmly.

"Yes? Why?" I inquired affably, to keep up the conversation.

"O, I don't know," she replied, half yawning. "I just do."

Now, anything that Eloise admires comes at once under my personal scrutiny. Consequently, with feelings compounded of the emotions of Gaboriau and Doyle, I proceeded to discover why she admired those men.

The first clew was this: They were making hay. Their pitchforks glinted dazzlingly in the sunlight, which fact brought me to my second postulate—namely: that the sun was shining. Proceeding logically, I achieved the following:

That the men were making hay while the sun shone.

With a sudden feeling that I had left part of me floating around in the air somewhere I looked at Eloise. She was smiling at me divinely, and her eyes were sweeter with love than a honeysuckle is with honey.

Then I made a fool of myself, as I had feared all the time I would; but never was a fool more wonderfully confirmed in his folly!

"By Jove! It's 5 o'clock!" I exclaimed after a few seconds, pulling out my watch. "If we can't get your celestial creature to ambulate we will have to walk."

At this Eloise gave a little scream and, springing to her feet, ran down to the dusty roadway.

"He's gone!" she cried in a despairing voice. "O, why didn't I think?"

"Think what?" I demanded ferociously of my future wife.

"About darling Earsby. He always leaves here at a quarter to 5 sharp. You see—O, dear, what have I done?—early in the summer, when I rarely saw any one, I used to drive out here with him and read in this little grove for a couple of hours. He nibbled the grass, and I read and thought about you and——"

"Then you expected him to stop when we reached here this afternoon?" I cried, insane with joy.

"Why, Richard Parsons!" she exclaimed reprovingly. "The idea of such a thing."

And we let it go at that, since I was in no condition to distinguish ideas from ibexes.

And after a while we started to walk home in a leisurely manner.

The WISDOM of the TRAIL

by JACK LONDON

They Broke the Law of the Trail and Were Content with the Penalty; but if They Could Have Known——

SITKA CHARLEY had achieved the impossible. Other Indians might have known as much of the wisdom of the trail as he did; but he alone knew the white man's wisdom, the honor of the trail, and the law. But these things had not come to him in a day. The aboriginal mind is slow to generalize, and many facts, repeated often, are required to compass an understanding.

Sitka Charley, from boyhood, had been thrown continually with white men, and as a man he had elected to cast his fortunes with them, expatriating himself, once and for all, from his own people. Even then, respecting, almost venerating their power, and pondering over it, he had yet to divine its secret essence—the honor and the law. And it was only by the cumulative evidence of years that he had finally come to understand. Being an alien, when he did know he knew it better than the white man himself; being an Indian, he had achieved the impossible.

And of these things had been bred a certain contempt for his own people, a contempt which he had made it a custom to conceal, but which now burst forth in a polyglot whirlwind of curses upon the heads of Kah-Chucte and Gowhee. They cringed before him like a brace of snarling wolf dogs, too cowardly to spring, too wolfish to cover their fangs.

They were not handsome creatures. Neither was Sitka Charley. All there were frightful looking. There was no flesh to their faces; their cheek bones were massed with hideous scabs which had cracked and frozen alternately under the intense frost; while their eyes burned luridly with the light which is born of desperation and hunger. Men so situated, beyond the pale of the honor and the law, are not to be trusted. Sitka Charley knew this; and this was why he had forced them to abandon their rifles with the rest of the camp outfit ten days before. His rifle and Capt. Eppingwell's were the only ones that remained.

"Come, get a fire started," he commanded, drawing out the precious match box with its attendant strips of dry birch bark.

The two Indians fell sullenly to the task of gathering branches and underwood. They were weak, and paused often, catching themselves, in the act of stooping, with giddy motions, or staggering to the center of operations with their knees shaking like castanets. After each trip they rested for a moment, as though sick and deadly weary. At times their eyes took on the patient stoicism of dumb suffering; and again the ego seemed almost bursting forth with its wild cry, "I, I, I want to exist!"—the dominant note of the whole living universe.

Leaving the two to the drying of their footgear, Sitka Charley turned back over the course he had come. He, too, had a mighty longing to sit by the fire and tend his complaining flesh, but the honor and the law forbade. He toiled painfully over the frozen field, each step a protest, every muscle in revolt. Several times, where the open water between the jams had recently crusted, he was forced to miserably accelerate his movements as the fragile footing swayed and threatened beneath him. In such places death was quick and easy, but it was not his desire to endure no more.

His deepening anxiety vanished as two Indians dragged into view round a bend in the river. They staggered and panted like men under heavy burdens, yet the packs on their backs were a matter of but few pounds. He questioned them eagerly, and their replies seemed to relieve him. He hurried on. Next came two white men, supporting between them a woman. They also behaved as though drunken, and their limbs shook with weakness. But the woman leaned lightly upon them, choosing to carry herself forward with her own strength.

At sight of her a flash of joy cast its fleeting light across Sitka Charley's face. He cherished a very great regard for Mrs. Eppingwell. He had seen many white women, but this was the first to travel the trail with him. When Capt. Eppingwell proposed the hazardous undertaking and made him an offer for his services he had shaken his head gravely, for it was an unknown journey through the dismal vastnesses of the northland, and he knew it to be of the kind that try to the uttermost the souls of men. But when he learned that the captain's wife was to accompany them he had refused flatly to have anything further to do with it. Had it been a woman of his own race he would have harbored no objections, but these women of the southland—no, no, they were too soft, too tender, for such enterprises.

Sitka Charley did not know this kind of woman. Five minutes before he did not even dream of taking charge of the expedition, but when she came to him with her wonderful smile and her straight, clean English, and talked to the point, without pleading or persuading, he had incontinently yielded. Had there been a softness and appeal to mercy in the eyes, a tremble to the voice, a taking advantage of sex, he would have stiffened to steel; instead her clear searching eyes and clear ringing voice, her utter frankness and tacit assumption of equality, had robbed him of his reason. He felt, then, that this was a new breed of woman; and ere they had been trail mates for many days he knew why the sons of such women mastered the land and the sea and why the sons of his own womankind could not prevail against them.

Tender and soft! Day after day he watched her, muscle weary, exhausted, indomitable, and the words beat in upon him in a perennial refrain. Tender and soft! He knew her feet had been born to easy paths and sunny lands, strangers to the moccasined pain of the north, unkissed by the chill lips of the frost, and he watched and marveled at them twinkling ever through the weary day.

Sitka Charley was proud to know this woman. A new richness, a greater breadth, had come into his life with her presence. Hitherto he had been his own mentor, had turned to right or left at no man's beck; he had molded himself according to his own dictates, nourished his manhood regardless of all save his own opinion. For the first time he had felt a call from without for the best that was in him. Just a glance of appreciation from the clear searching eyes, a word of thanks from the clear ringing voice, just a slight wreathing of the lips in the wonderful smile, and he walked with the gods for hours to come. It was a new stimulant to his manhood; for the first time he thrilled with a conscious pride in his wisdom of the trail, and between the twain they ever lifted the sinking hearts of their comrades.

The faces of the two men and the woman brightened as they saw him, for after all he was the staff they leaned upon. But Sitka Charley, rigid as was his wont, concealing pain and pleasure impartially beneath an iron exterior, asked them the welfare of the rest, told the distance to the fire, and continued on the back trip.

Next he met a single Indian, unburdened, limping, lips compressed, and eyes set with the pain of a foot in which the quick fought a losing battle with the dead. All possible care had been taken of him, but in the last extremity the weak and unfortunate must perish, and Sitka Charley deemed his days to be few. The man could not keep up for long, so he gave him rough cheering words.

After that came two more Indians, to whom he had allotted the task of helping along Joe, the third white man of the party. They had deserted him. Sitka Charley saw at a glance the lurking spring in their bodies and knew they had at last cast off his mastery. So he was not taken unawares when he ordered them back in quest of their abandoned charge and saw the gleam of the hunting knives that they drew from the sheaths. A pitiful spectacle, three weak men lifting their puny strength in the face of the mighty vastness, but the two recoiled under the fierce rifle blows of the one and returned like beaten dogs to the leash. Two hours later, with Joe reeling between them and Sitka Charley bringing up the rear, they came to the fire, where the remainder of the expedition crouched in the shelter of the fly.

"A few words, my comrades, before we sleep," Sitka Charley said after they had devoured their slim rations of unleavened bread. He was speaking to the Indians in their own tongue, having already given the import to the whites. "A few words, my comrades, for your own good, that ye may yet perchance live. I shall give you the law; on his own head be the death of him that breaks it. We have passed the hills of silence, and we now travel the head reaches of the Stuart. It may be one sleep, it may be several, it may be many sleeps, but in time we shall come among the men of the Yukon, who have much grub. It were well that we look to the law. Today Kah-Chucte and Gowhee, whom I commanded to break trail, forgot they were men and, like frightened children, ran away. True, they forgot; so let us forget. But hereafter let them remember. If it should happen they do not"— He touched his rifle carelessly, grimly. "Tomorrow they shall carry the flour and see that the white man Joe lies not down by the trail. The cups of flour are counted; should so much as an ounce be wanting at nightfall— Do ye understand? Today there were others that forgot. Moose Head and Three Salmon left the white man Joe to lie in the snow. Let them forget no more. With the light of day shall they go forth and break trail. Ye have heard the law. Look well, lest ye break it."

Sitka Charley found it beyond him to keep the line close up. From Moose Head and Three Salmon, who broke trail in advance, to Kah-Chucte, Gowhee, and Joe, it straggled over a mile. Each staggered, fell, or rested as he saw fit. The line of march was a progression through a chain of irregular halts. Each drew upon the last remnant of his strength and stumbled onward till it was expended, but in some miraculous way there was always another last remnant. Each time a man fell it was with the firm belief that he would rise no more; yet he did rise, and again and again. The flesh yielded, the will conquered, but each triumph was a tragedy. The Indian with the frozen foot, no longer erect, crawled forward on hand and knee. He rarely rested, for he knew the penalty exacted by the frost. Even Mrs. Eppingwell's lips were at last set in a stony smile, and her eyes, seeing, saw not. Often she stopped, pressing a mittened hand to her heart, gasping and dizzy.

Joe, the white man, had passed beyond the stage of suffering. He no longer begged to be let alone, prayed to die, but was soothed and content under the anodyne of delirium. Kah-Chucte and Gowhee dragged him on roughly, venting upon him many a savage glance or blow. To them it was the acme of injustice. Their hearts were bitter with hate, heavy with fear. Why should they cumber their strength with his weakness? To do so meant death, not to do so—and they remembered the law of Sitka Charley and the rifle.

They had fallen by the side of a great timber jam where a thousand cords of firewood waited the match. Near by was an air hole through the ice. Kah-Chucte looked on the wood and the water, as did Gowhee; then they looked on each other. Never a word was spoken. Gowhee struck a fire; Kah-Chucte filled a tin cup with water and heated it; Joe babbled of things in another land, in a tongue they did not understand. They mixed flour with the warm water till it was a thin paste, and of this they drank many cups. They did not offer any to Joe, but he did not mind.

A crystal mist of snow fell about them softly, caressingly, wrapping them in clinging robes of white. And their feet would have yet trod many trails had not destiny brushed the clouds aside and cleared the air. Nay, ten minutes' delay would have been salvation. Sitka Charley, looking back, saw the pillared smoke of their fire and guessed. And he looked ahead at those who were faithful and at Mrs. Eppingwell.

"So, my good comrades, ye have again forgotten that you were men? Good. Very good. There will be fewer bellies to feed."

Sitka Charley retied the flour as he spoke, strapping the pack to the one on his own back. He kicked Joe till the pain broke through the poor devil's bliss and brought him doddering to his feet. Then he shoved him out upon the trail and started him on his way. The two Indians attempted to slip off.

"Hold, Gowhee! And thou, too, Kah-Chucte! Hath the flour given such strength to thy legs that they may outrun the swift winged lead? Think not to cheat the law. Be men for the last time, and be content that ye die full stomached.— Come, step up, back to the timber, shoulder to shoulder. Come!"

The two men obeyed quietly, without fear; for it is the future which presses upon the man, not the present.

"Thou, Gowhee, hast a wife and children and a deer skin lodge in the Chippeywan. What is thy will in the matter?"

"Give thou her of the goods which are mine by the word of the captain—the blankets, the beads, the tobacco, the box which makes strange sounds after the manner of the white men. Say that I did die on the trail, but say not how."

"And thou, Kah-Chucte, who hast nor wife nor child?"

"Mine is a sister, the wife of the factor at Koshim. He beats her, and she is not happy. Give thou her the goods which are mine by the contract and tell her it were well she go back to her own people. Shouldst thou meet the man, and be so minded, it were a good deed that he should die. He beats her and she is afraid."

"Are ye content to die by the law?"

"We are."

"Then good-by, my good comrades. May ye sit by the well filled pot, in warm lodges, ere the day is done."

As he spoke he raised his rifle and many echoes broke the silence. Hardly had they died away when other rifles spoke in the distance. Sitka Charley started. There had been more than one shot, and there was but one other rifle in the party. He gave a fleeting glance at the men who lay so quietly, smiled viciously at the wisdom of the trail, and hurried on to meet the men of the Yukon.

THE TEENIE WEENIES

GO AFTER PASTE AND THE CLOWN DOES AN ACROBATIC TURN.

By WM. DONAHEY.

ONE afternoon as I sat at my desk working I heard a tiny voice, and looking down at the floor I saw a group of giggling Teenie Weenies.

"Well! I'm glad to see you all!" I said, bending over and spreading my hand out on the floor. "All those wishing to take the elevator to the top of my table will please get on."

The little people needed but one invitation, for they dearly loved to stroll about among the pens and pencils on my desk. Half of the little crowd climbed onto my hand and held tightly to my thumb and fingers while I lifted them carefully up to the desk top. I quickly brought up the rest and then leaned back in my chair to watch their movements.

"We'd like to get some paste," shouted the General as he walked to the edge of the table.

"Paste?" I said, leaning forward so I could hear his tiny voice.

"Yes; we'd like to get some paste so we can paper the Lady of Fashion's room, and we would like to get a tube of paint, too, for we want to paint the shoe house."

"You shall have a tube of paint and all the paste you want," I said, and I unscrewed the top of the paste jar so the little folks could help themselves.

The Turk quickly climbed onto the jar and reaching down through the opening he scooped up the paste and passed it down to the Cook, who put it into a pecan shell bucket which they had brought with them.

I had been so interested in what the Turk was doing that I had paid no attention to the rest until I heard a loud laugh, and turning my eyes to the little crowd nearby I too laughed at the funny sight I saw. The Teenie Weenies were gathered about my rubber eraser on which the Clown was bouncing up and down in a most amusing way. The little fellow would jump up and down on the rubber until it bounced him high into the air, and then he would turn the funniest somersaults and flip-flops, while the Teenie Weenies laughed until they were forced to hold their fat little sides.

"Are you going to put in the paper about the Clown tumbling on the eraser?" asked the Dunce as I set the little people on the floor with the paste and the tube of paint which I had given them.

"I certainly will, and I'm going to draw your picture just as you sat on the bowl of my pipe, too," I said as the little people hurried across the floor towards the door, through which they soon disappeared.

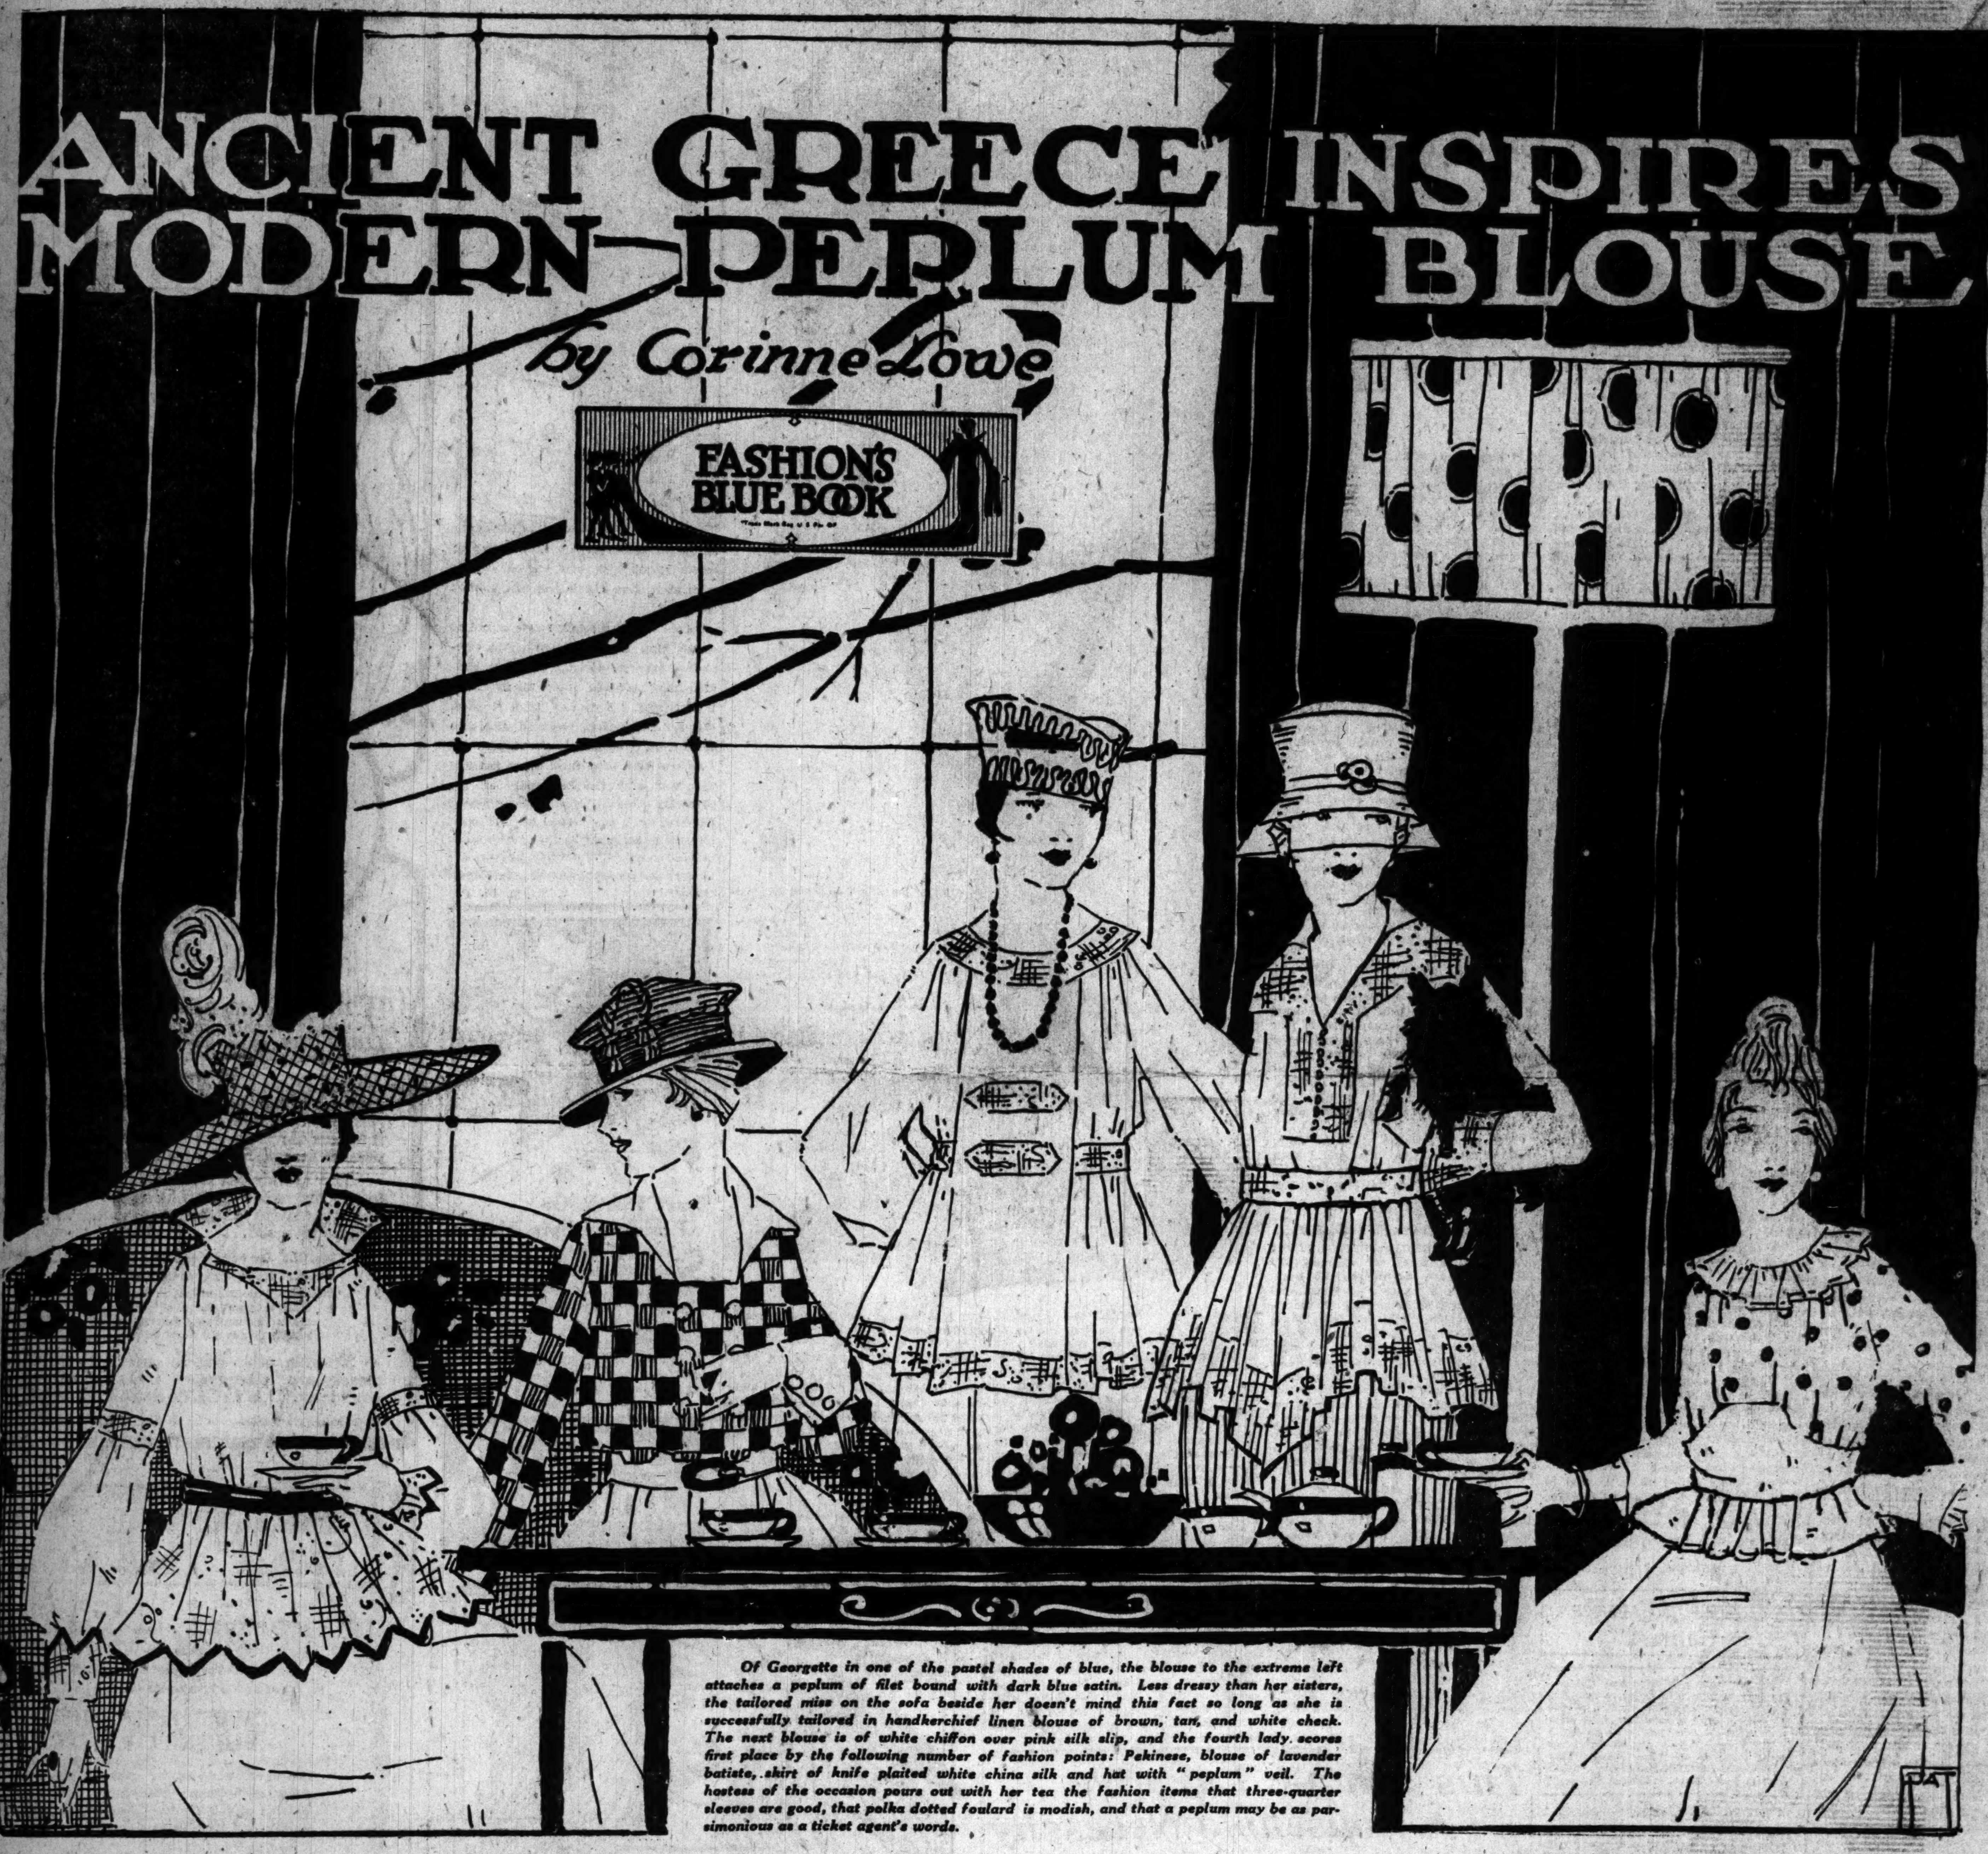
ANCIENT GREECE INSPIRES MODERN PEPLUM BLOUSE

by Corinne Lowe



Of Georgette in one of the pastel shades of blue, the blouse to the extreme left attaches a peplum of filet bound with dark blue satin. Less dressy than her sisters, the tailored miss on the sofa beside her doesn't mind this fact so long as she is successfully tailored in handkerchief linen blouse of brown, tan, and white check. The next blouse is of white chiffon over pink silk slip, and the fourth lady scores first place by the following number of fashion points: Pekinese, blouse of lavender batiste, skirt of knife plaited white china silk and hat with "peplum" veil. The hostess of the occasion pours out with her tea the fashion items that three-quarter sleeves are good, that polka dotted foulard is modish, and that a peplum may be as parsimonious as a ticket agent's words.

NEW YORK.—(Special correspondence.)—Back in ancient Greece the ready to wear business could not have been a thriving one. And as to the special fashion correspondent from Athens, we can imagine no duller life for a young and active nature. There never were any style "features." No haggard leafing over the pages of the Dressmaker's Friend furrowed the serene brows of those wives and daughters of a perfect civilization. Why? Simply because from the time when Homer was composing his best pieces on to the age of Pericles—and that, as we recall, was hundreds of years later—the Grecian woman never changed her mode of dressing.

Look at her "photograph" as we have it in the Attic friezes and here is always the same thing. A marvelous draped under garment—never has any draping been like it—and over this a hip length garment known as the peplum. Here was the one recipe over which every wardrobe was baked. And since that time designers have never been able to get over the influence of that strongly defined hip line. It cropped up strongly in the majestic frocks of the mediaeval lady, and it is responsible for many of the style tendencies of the last year. Certainly the peplum blouse of this spring is a lineal descendant of that peplum which Miss Minerva wore when she came down from Mt. Olympus to join the week end parties of mere mortals.

The peplum of this over-blouse is an elastic thing. It may be a mere frill below the belt, or it may extend to the knees. But in whatever form we find it, the over-blouse is a nice friendly object which fills out all sorts of chinks in our wardrobes. Pourquoi? Simply because a few of these elaborate over-blouses will take the place of so many frocks. Given the skirt of her suit and a charming peplum blouse, and the woman who goes to a restaurant or to a the dansant may feel equal to meeting her worst enemy.

The over-blouse comes in a wide range of fabrics and designs and it affords opportunities for all sorts of elaboration. Many of the newest ones button down the back—perhaps because in that form they are better adapted to whims and oddities of trimming. Any number show a strong oriental note of color and ornamentation and a few late models are made entirely of chantilly. One of these last named is set off with a stunning girdle of blue matrix and silver. Indeed, all of these blouses of Georgette and lace and silk owe much of their beauty to the girdles of metallic embroidery of Chinese design and of jeweled setting.

Undoubtedly the most insistent note in the new spring blouse is the combination of Georgette and filet lace. This alliance is noted in the first drawing to the left, where an exquisite shade of light blue Georgette takes to itself a peplum of filet bound, as are the cuffs and collar, with bands of darker blue. This waist buttons down the back, inset from collar to waist with bands of filet. Paris has decreed big flat hats for the early summer, and this precocious lady has anticipated the mode by wearing a restaurant hat of black hair, trimmed with a swirl of ostrich.

Handkerchief linen in squares and coin designs is much to the fore at present, and this severely tailored person who comes next is seen in a blouse of checkered brown, tan, and white set off with pique collars and cuffs. With this she is wearing one of the new sailors of brown hemp with facing of brown satin and a trimming which confines itself to bands and ornament of quilled cerise ribbon. Speaking of handkerchief linen blouses, one notes a perfect harvest of maize and pumpkin colored models. Nice, too, for the woman who has just the right complexion! She whose natural tones approach, however, the key of the Mexican yam had best forego this shade as she would green itself.

"Thank you, but I have the next and the next and the next," is the expression conveyed by Lady Disdain, the third figure from the left. Certainly no one should approach a the dansant more hopefully, for this young woman wears one of the lovely new chiffon blouses of white over a slip of pink silk. And, of course, the lace is of filet!

It need hardly be said that the peplum blouse necessitates a plain skirt. It is to laugh to see a barrel skirt with one of these elaborate hip or knee length blouses. Realizing the proper balance of clothes, the next woman assumes with her filet trimmed batiste blouse of delicate lavender a knife plaited skirt of white china silk. A tremendous vogue is predicted for these plaited white silk skirts in conjunction with the elaborate colored blouse and certainly nothing could be more attractive than the alliance.

We whose arms are mere twigs—fate has long been kind to us! We have swathed the defective members in long mediaeval sleeves, we have pretended behind the billowing folds of the bishop model. Now, however, the day of reckoning is at hand. Short sleeves and three-quarter sleeves are upon us and already many of the new blouses lay bare the thorns of our fashion destiny.

The last blouse shown proves three fashionable things: first, the three-quarter sleeve; next, the fact that a peplum may be as frugal as it pleases; and, third, the popularity of foulard. Of blue dotted foulard, this last model has neck frill, cuffs, tiny peplum and front empiecement of plain blue silk with a cord of red.

PRUNING ORNAMENTAL SHRUBS

TOO often "ornamental" is really a misnomer for the flowering shrubs of this vicinity. Most of us have a vague idea that pruning is needed, but with no conception of neither the means or the end. There are three objects: improvement of the general form, development of wood and foliage, and development of flower buds.

Not all shrubs require the same treatment, nor can pruning be undertaken at the same season for all. Those shrubs—get this clearly—those shrubs which flower on new shoots of the same growing season must be pruned while dormant; that is, before the buds break open in spring. Those which expand their flowers directly from the branches of the preceding or earlier years, are "summer pruned" as soon as the flowering period ends. We are not concerned with these now.

The main cause of failure with ornamental shrubs is that the branches are permitted to grow too densely, excluding both sun and air. The result is that every disease and every form of scale and fungus growth finds a fertile field for destruction. The flowers grow scantier and the foliage less dense. The branches are misshapen and the entire plant becomes a disfiguring emblem of neglect.

It is necessary then to rejuvenate the shrubbery by eliminating old, sterile, worn out stems and making room for the more vigorous shoots; thin the branches that grow too densely and let in the sunlight and the air; finally, clear away those with scaly or mossy bark, and remove all dead wood and branches which cross at awkward angles.

After removing the dead, decaying, or useless and disfiguring parts, the branches retained are pruned longer or shorter, according to their vigor or according to the end desired to be attained. If more abundant blooming is desired "long pruning" is practiced, leaving from three to six eyes and more. If larger flowers or flower spikes are aimed at, "short pruning" is adopted, pruning to one or two well developed buds. Examples for which the latter kind of pruning is desirable are hybrid roses, the hydrangea, and hibiscus or rose of Sharon.

The following should now be thinned out lightly, merely opening for light and air, removing awkward projections and parts out of balance: Bladder senna, buckthorn, California privet, Carolina alspice, dogwood, lilac, St. John's wort, snowball, and wild cranberry.

Now is the time to prune the following severely for flowers, cutting back last year's growth to five eyes and removing all weak or spindly growth: Hydrangea, rose acacia, and rose of Sharon.

Rejuvenate now by cutting out the oldest or unsightly wood, by removing suckers at the root, and by trimming the tips of young wood: Boxthorn, climbing roses, elder, false indigo, flowering raspberry, honeysuckle, Japanese rose, mock orange, sweet pepper bush, trumpet vine, and the two spiraeas, Anthony Waterer and salicifolia; but the bridal wreath should now have only the dead wood removed.

The tamarix, besides being treated like those in the preceding paragraph, should, for increased foliage, have the young wood cut down to half its length. Hybrid perpetual roses should be similarly treated, while the hybrid tea roses should have the young wood pruned to seven eyes after the process of rejuvenation.

The currant, sweet briar, and symphoricarpus should be only moderately rejuvenated.

There are others which must now be severely rejuvenated, leaving only the strongest of last year's growth. They are the clematis jackmanni and the clematis paniculata, or virgin bower.

Finally, the sumach must now receive a corrective for its straggling, unhandsome spread. If only the disfiguring branches are pruned back, the sap will go entirely into the others to disfigure these as well, while the pruned branches will probably die off. The only corrective, when any of the branches are overhanging and straggling, is to cut back all branches alike, both good and bad, to a shapely form.

Thus we have correct pruning methods for the thirty-three ornamental shrubs of this vicinity which must have attention now.

Unless a plant has grossly run to gnarled, heavy trunks, no tool but a small one-hand pruning shear of the best tool steel is needed. It will cost about $1.40 now. If a saw is required, probably any small household saw can be used.

The pruning over, all litter must be carefully raked up immediately and completely destroyed by fire, to avoid possible infection of healthy wood by the diseased or scaly branches cut away. If the condition of the soil permits, the ground is then loosened to the depth of three inches in the circle covered by overhanging branches.

Varied Activities of Women.

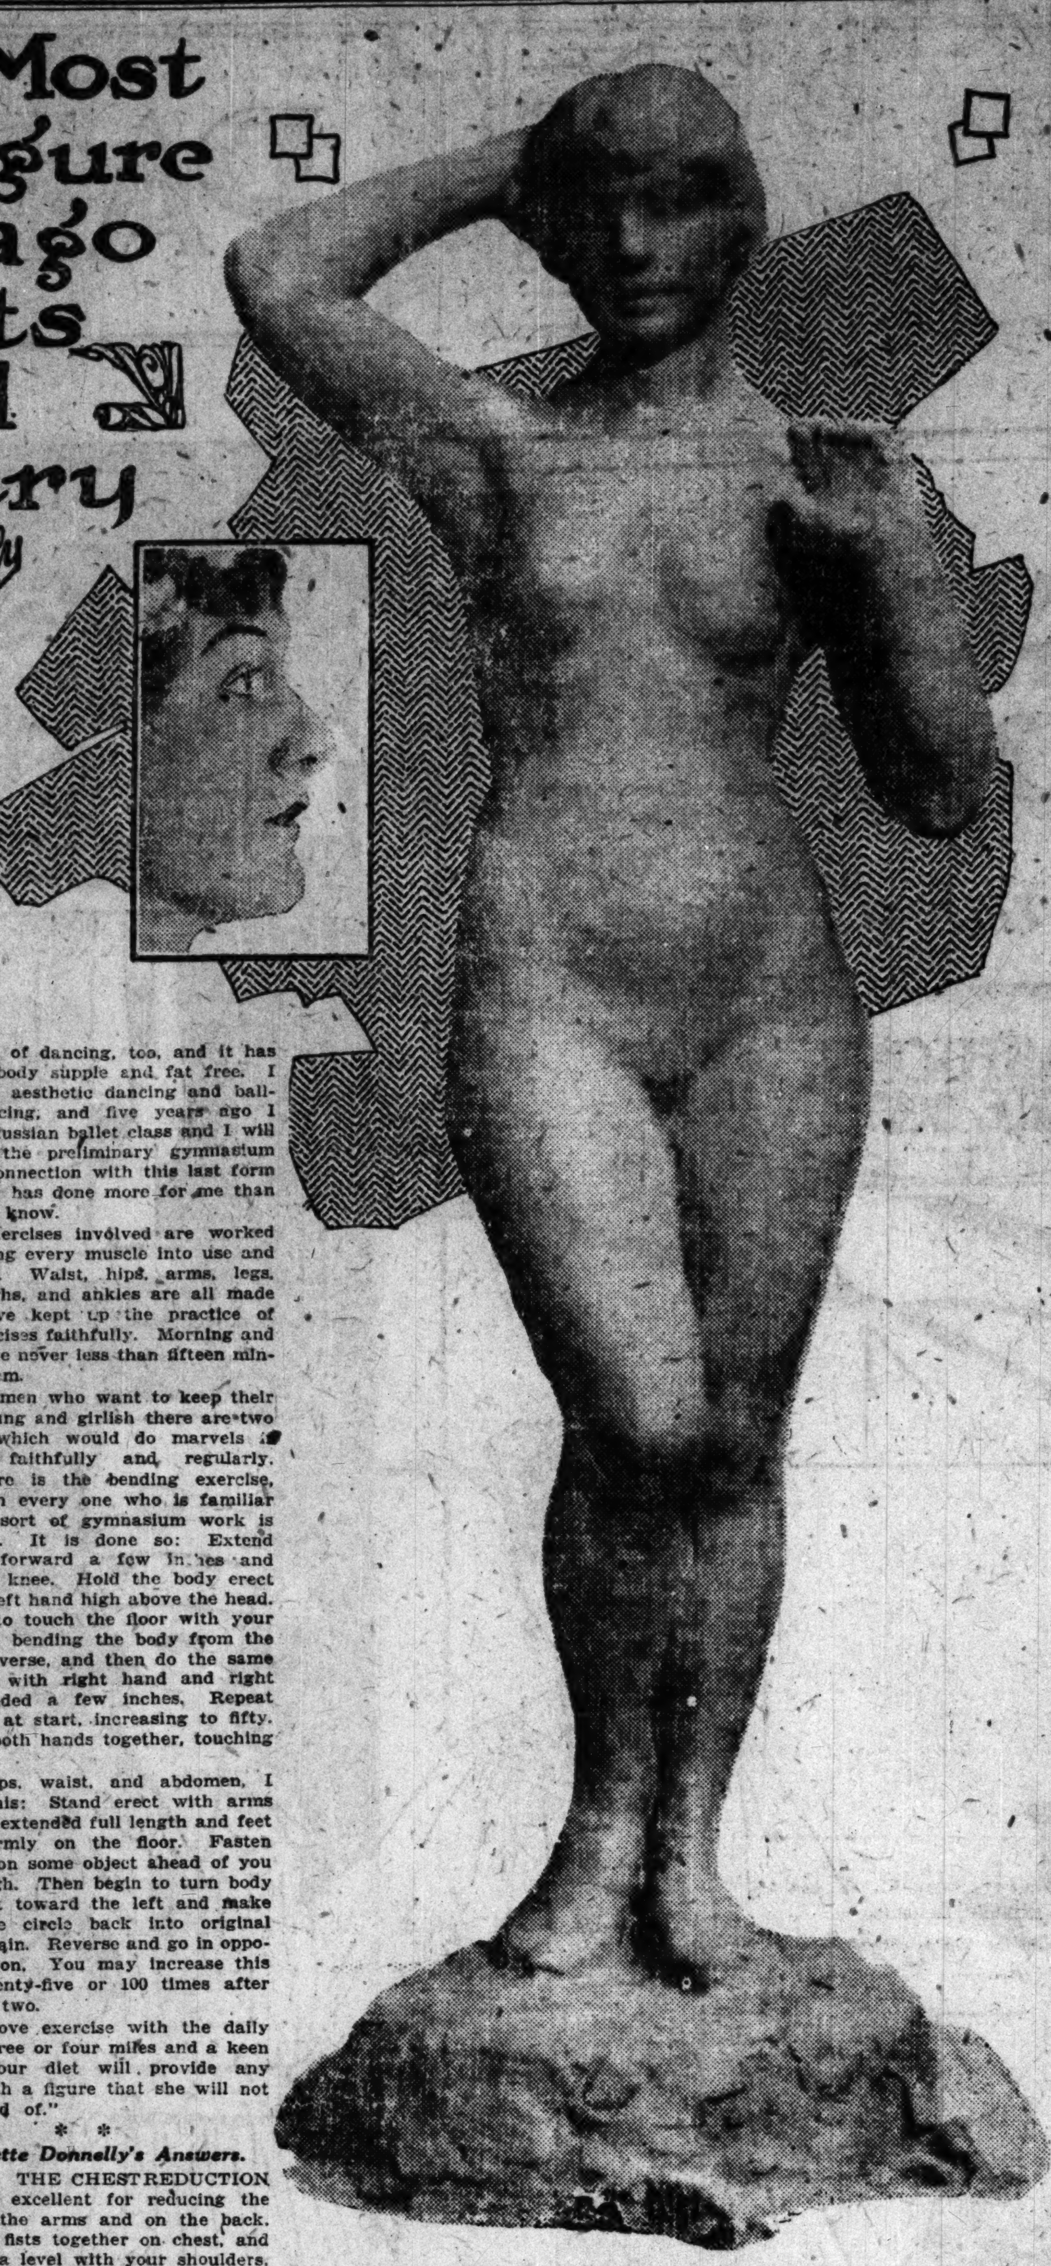
Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield has succeeded her father in the management of the 500 acre Kingston Stud farm, near Lexington, Ky., where many of the fastest horses in the world are bred. She is being assisted in her work by her younger sister.

Miss Frances Nash, daughter of the late E. W. Nash, president of the American Smelting company and who has $[illegible]000,000 in her own right, is working for a living in one sense of the word, for she is now appearing as a professional musician.

On the average, American women are heavier than their foreign sisters.

How The Most Perfect Figure In Chicago Keeps Its Youthful Symmetry

By Antoinette Donnelly



This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

PERHAPS, my heavily burdened sisters, you think you have to weigh 200 before you begin to worry about your figure. Can you believe that Mrs. Helen Lucas' figure, which has been pronounced by Albin Polasek, the famous sculptor, to be the most beautiful he has ever seen, gives her a worry, too?

Mrs. Lucas is a model whom Polasek uses in his private work and in his work of instruction in the life modeling classes of the Art Institute. Worrying about how to reduce is not the ill that besets this modern Venus de Medici, but worrying about how to keep from ever having to reduce.

Although married eight years, Mrs. Lucas' figure has that exquisite youthfulness that made September Morn a thing of beauty and a joy to look upon. "A perfectly modeled figure," says Polasek of her. "Sculpture come to life."

Springing, supple lines, with not an ounce "too much." Of her some one said she was "limned by nature in a gracious mood and unspoiled by her own or others' artifices."

Artists claim that it is intensely difficult to get a perfect woman model over 25. Because few women there are whose bodies do not bear evidence of neglected waist and abdominal muscles with the consequent sagging figure. They may not be fat in the reducing sense of the word, but there is generally an accumulation of adipose where muscles have gone neglected for any length of time. Because, too, woman from 16 on relies upon her corset to do the work of muscle supporting and muscle hardening that exercise should do for her.

Mrs. Lucas has never worn a corset. The muscles of her waist and abdomen are as hard and firm as hickory. Flat and slender further describe these important perfect figure points. Not a single indication of a fleshly tendency mars any part of her exquisite form.

But, being the possessor of gray matter and a goodly share of common sense, this clever model knows that a sufficient amount of fat is necessary to give a pleasing rotundity of outline, but that a sufficient amount is enough—more than that is too much—and that to retain just that sufficiency you must live on a selected diet and regular exercise.

No candy, no white bread, and no potatoes, are the three big noes of Mrs. Lucas' diet.

"I have to be as particular in my diet as a woman bent on getting rid of a certain number of excess pounds within a given time," says Mrs. Lucas. "If through careless diet I were to acquire ten pounds [which isn't such a difficult thing to do, you know] my resemblance to the old Greek sculpture would be just a something artists had once told me about instead of a desirable fact. I have to work to keep myself at par, and I'm as particular in my exercises as in my meals.

"Four miles a day I walk, rain or shine," she added. "There's nothing like that good old fashioned remedy and preventive. No one seems ever to have discovered a substitute for walking.

"Then, you know, I have done a great deal of dancing, too, and it has kept my body supple and fat free. I have done aesthetic dancing and ballroom dancing, and five years ago I joined a Russian ballet class and I will say that the preliminary gymnasium work in connection with this last form of dancing has done more for me than anything I know.

"The exercises involved are worked out to bring every muscle into use and suppleness. Waist, hips, arms, legs, chest, thighs, and ankles are all made fit. I have kept up the practice of these exercises faithfully. Morning and night I give never less than fifteen minutes to them.

"For women who want to keep their figures young and girlish there are two exercises which would do marvels if practiced faithfully and regularly. First, there is the bending exercise, with which every one who is familiar with any sort of gymnasium work is acquainted. It is done so: Extend left foot forward a few inches and stiffen the knee. Hold the body erect and raise left hand high above the head. Then try to touch the floor with your finger tips, bending the body from the waist. Reverse, and then do the same movement with right hand and right foot extended a few inches. Repeat five times at start, increasing to fifty. Then try both hands together, touching the floor.

"For hips, waist, and abdomen, I practice this: Stand erect with arms and hands extended full length and feet planted firmly on the floor. Fasten your eyes on some object ahead of you and up high. Then begin to turn body from waist toward the left and make a complete circle back into original position again. Reverse and go in opposite direction. You may increase this up to seventy-five or 100 times after a week or two.

"The above exercise with the daily walk of three or four miles and a keen eye on your diet will provide any woman with a figure that she will not be ashamed of."

Antoinette Donnelly's Answers.

JENNIE: THE CHEST REDUCTION exercise is excellent for reducing the fat under the arms and on the back. With your fists together on chest, and elbows on a level with your shoulders, make a complete circle with the elbows, inhaling deep breaths as you bring the arms in and exhale as you move them in the outside of the circle. Practice the exercise for about twenty minutes night and morning. This is one of the exercises I gave Mrs. Eva Lane in my work of reducing her thirty-six pounds in six weeks. If you would like the article on reducing I shall be glad to mail it to you if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

WORRIED STILL: THE LEG RAISING exercise will develop the lower part of your body. Stand with your back up to a chair and hands clasping chair, back bent slightly backward; then raise right knee as high as possible; repeat movement five times with right knee, then alternate with left five times, increasing to twenty or thirty times. I shall be glad to send you my dietary for gaining flesh if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

EDITH: MOST OF THE WATER one drinks passes into the blood stream to dilute and hasten the removal of waste from the cells. You see how important it is to drink the required amount of from one to two quarts of water a day. Probably the best time for drinking water is upon arising, retiring, and in the middle of the morning and afternoon. If you take it at stated intervals for a few days, you will find yourself just as ready for it as you are for your meals when the time arrives. At first the water taken in the morning may create a feeling of nausea, but after the third or fourth morning that feeling will have disappeared.

I. E. K.: THE ONLY WAY TO OVERCOME dandruff is to take treatment to remove it. I am printing my formula for dandruff for you: Resorcin, two drams; grain alcohol, three drams; glycerin, one-half ounce, and of rose water a sufficient quantity to make four ounces. Resorcin sometimes undergoes a change of color that gives to light gray or white hair a dingy or yellowish cast. This may be obviated by the addition of ten grains of salicylic acid to the solution. Apply this to the scalp every night just before massaging. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you full instructions for the treatment of dandruff.

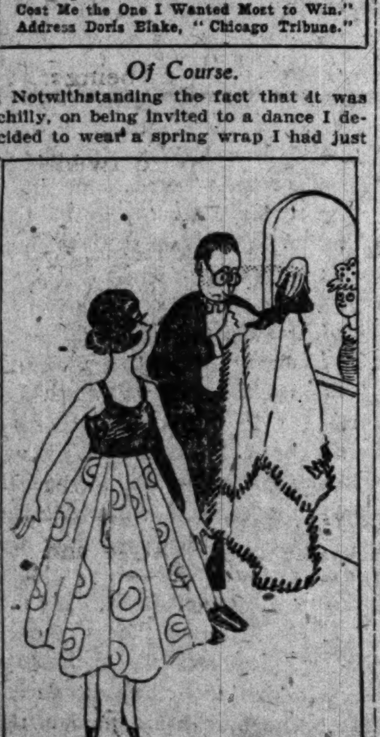
JENNIE: MASSAGE WITH A GOOD skin food or cocoa butter, combined with deep breathing, will fill up the hollows in your cheek. I have instructions for both, which I shall be glad to send to you if you wish them. If you want to gain flesh give up your late hours. Go to bed early and sleep nine or ten hours every night. Eat nourishing, fat producing foods, get plenty of fresh air, drink lots of water, and guard against constipation. My instructions for gaining flesh are yours if you will send me a stamped addressed envelope.

Suitors' Mistakes Contest.

Did you make a mistake that cost you the one you wanted to win more than any other? Was it an unkind remark, a selfish deed, a mean or careless one, an error or tendency of your past come to light? "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Mistake That Cost Me the One I Wanted Most to Win." Address Doris Blake, "Chicago Tribune."

Of Course.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was chilly, on being invited to a dance I decided to wear a spring wrap I had just finished making. When we arrived I complained of being cold as my escort was helping me off with it.



He said, "No wonder; it isn't even lined," whereupon he examined it and exclaimed, "Ye gods, raw seams—not even overcast!"

I canned the sissy. Wouldn't you?

This Simple Laxative A Household Necessity

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Should Have a Place in Every Home.

Constipation, or inaction of the bowels, a condition that nearly everyone experiences with more or less frequency, is the direct cause of much disease. When the bowels become clogged with refuse from the stomach, sour gases and poisons are generated, and unless the congestion is quickly relieved the system becomes weakened and most susceptible to attack.

Various remedies to relieve constipation are prescribed, but many of these contain cathartic or purgative agents that are harsh and violent in their action and shock the system. The most effective remedy is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

The Hon. John D. Keister of Brandywine, W. Va., who has represented his district in the State Legislature for six years writes that he uses Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and finds it a splendid laxative, easy to take and mild, yet positive in its action, and that it should be in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists in all parts of the United States and costs only fifty cents a bottle. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, does not gripe, and is recommended as a family laxative, mild enough for the tiniest babe, yet sufficiently powerful to act easily on the strongest constitution.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for whom this advertisement is published.

Before and After Marriage.

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on marriage disillusions. Address Doris Blake, "Chicago Sunday Tribune." Write on only one side of the paper.

Things Taste Better Now.

My lover often praised the little lunches I spread before him, and his praise of my cooking was unstinted when he was invited to our home for a Sunday dinner. After our marriage nothing I could prepare in the way of meals suited him, and his complaints were as loud as his praises had been in the past.

Driven to desperation, I determined to outwit him. One day at dinner he complained severely about a chocolate pudding I had prepared, one of his favorites. I exclaimed, "I do not think it good, either," and hurled the dish and contents from the dining room window.

As we lived in a third story flat and this was only the beginning of my throwing out feat, after I had repeated the hurling a few times, he was most effusive in his remarks that "The steak is done to a turn," or "The biscuits are as delicious as though mother had made them."

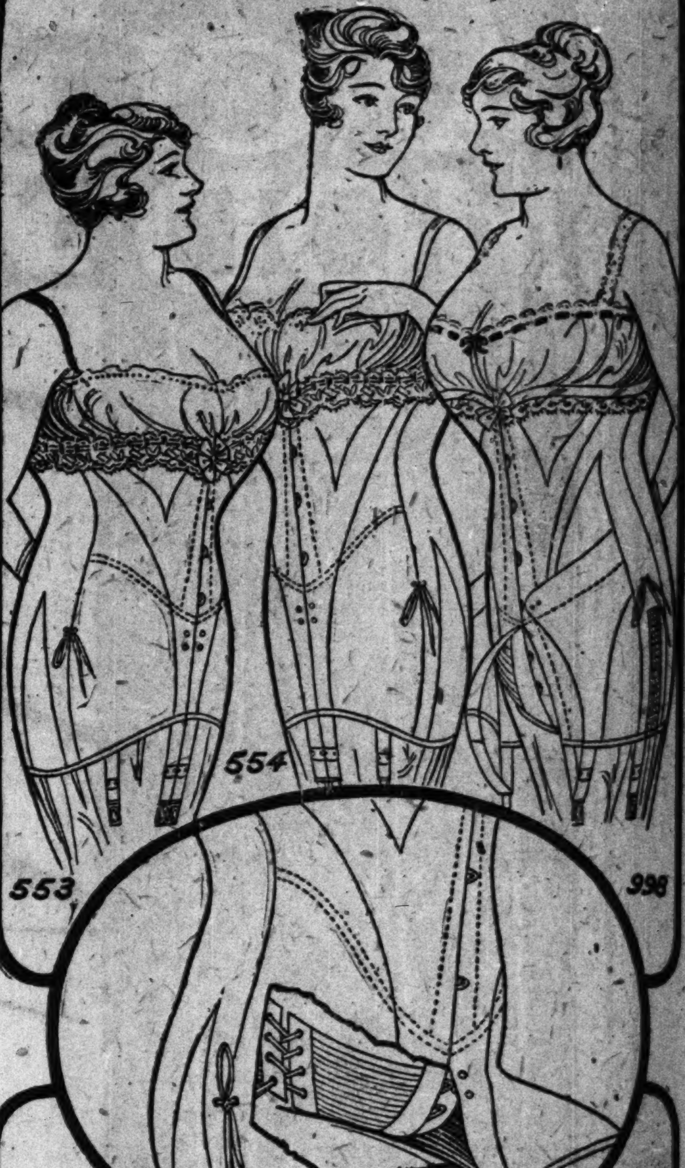
Nemo STANDARD OF CORSETS —AND— SERVICE

From these weekly advertisements you may learn of the many ways in which the Nemo Standard of Corsets and Service promotes health and fashion in a degree impossible to any and all other corsets. BE A WISE WOMAN!

"WONDERLIFT"



THE Wonderlift Bandlet, an original Nemo invention, is the only supporting device in existence that LIFTS UP sagging flesh and automatically adjusts itself to the INDIVIDUAL needs of each wearer.

It provides a set of artificial muscles which do the necessary health-fashion work that weakened and relaxed abdominal muscles no longer can do. Thus it makes the figure smaller and neater at once; and (by passive massage) eventually lighter.

The Wonderlift Bandlet is made in various forms to suit the needs of various types of figure, from lean and scrawny to extra-super-stout. The models pictured above are:

No. 553, for very short stout women $5.00
No. 454, for full figures of medium height $5.00
No. 998, a combination of Wonderlift and Self-Reducing, and the most wonderful corset ever made for very large women, tall or of medium height (sizes 30 to 44 only) $10.00

Women who neglect to study the Wonderlift closely are "sleeping on their rights"—as a lawyer would say. Don't YOU do that—BE A WISE WOMAN!

How to Order Your Clotilde Patterns.

In ordering a waist the size should be determined by the bust measure. Give the bust measure. In ordering a skirt the size of the hip is more important than the size of the waist, but give both the hip and the waist measure. Ten cents for each waist, coat, or skirt.

In ordering misses' patterns the age should be stated—12, 14, 16, or 18 years. Ten cents for each waist, coat, skirt, or dress.

In ordering children's regular patterns order them by the age of the child. Ten cents each.

Clotilde's patterns are made in New York exclusively for "The Chicago Sunday Tribune" and may be obtained through no other service. A Chicago distribution office has been opened, and following this announcement orders will be filled on the day of receipt. An extra 2 cent stamp will allow for letter postage and will thereby hasten delivery. Patrons are requested to send stamps instead of dimes, as money is frequently lost in the mails.

For and By BUSINESS GIRLS

Mary King.

Miss King will be glad to help business girls solve their problems. If you want a personal answer send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Miss Mary King, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

WHEN THE INNOCENT SUFFER.

EVERY well managed shop, store, and office which employs a great number of workers regulates the conduct, diligence, and working hours of employés by well defined rules. These are necessary to promote order and efficiency in a large plant.

Many an employer in a small office, out of a spirit of fairness, or perhaps from sheer good nature, is inclined to be lax about office rules and even connive at special privileges taken by his employés. Even the most indulgent of employers, however, have been compelled to turn tyrant because some one or more persons took advantage of his good nature.

The aggrieved writer of the following letter has a protest to enter against all those who infringe on office rules and regulations:

"Dear Miss King: I am representing all the girls in our office. We are up in arms against one who has been responsible for having our privileges eliminated. We realize that there are other lazy and unappreciative girls in our stores and offices whose selfishness and lack of a sense of honor have been responsible for limiting the freedom and privileges of their fellow employés. Hence this letter, which we hope might awaken a fraternal feeling of consideration in these thoughtless girls.

"The girls number five, and besides our employer, Mr. Marshall, the head bookkeeper is the only man in the office. Three of us have been with the firm for five years, and up to a short while ago none of us has known our employer to refuse a reasonable request for some privilege or favor. Our hours are from 9 to 5:30, with Saturday half holiday. We have an hour for luncheon and could on request get extra time off occasionally to shop.

"Last year when I was in the hospital for four weeks Mr. Marshall, besides paying me my salary for that time, advanced me enough money to pay all my bills, which I paid back in small installments. You may be sure I appreciated my position and my employer, as in my first job I had to work from 8 until 6 on Saturday, as well as every other day, and was docked for being five minutes late in the morning.

"Miss Smith worked with us about a year. After her first month in the office she started taking liberties with her job that none of us older girls would dare to take. She would stay out an hour and a half and two hours for luncheon, and when Mr. Marshall was out of town would take an afternoon off for a matinée or bridge party. Hardly a week passed that she did not stay home one day, and the last time the boss was out of town for a week, Miss Smith put in an appearance at the office only twice during that time.

"One day last week Mr. Marshall, on leaving the office at noon, called out to the bookkeeper that he would not be back. This was a signal for Miss Smith to call up a friend and make an engagement for the afternoon. It happened that Mr. Marshall returned to the office at 4 o'clock and on inquiring for Miss Smith found that she had taken French leave for the afternoon. In the five years that I have worked for Mr. Marshall that was the first time I had seen him angry. The bookkeeper stayed after we left that night, and I suspect told Mr. Marshall just how often and to what extent Miss Smith took advantage of his absence from the office.

"The next morning she was given two weeks in which to look for another position. From that day the bookkeeper was placed in charge of the office with instructions to report any breach of discipline on our part, make a record of all tardiness, and allow none of us time off except for lunch during the day.

"Miss Smith was the only one of us who seemed to have no conscience where her job was concerned, and although she was dismissed from the office force the rest of us, who appreciated and rarely if ever abused the confidence our employer had always placed in us, now have to submit to a surveillance that is little less than galling. V. R."

How I Won My Mate.

How did you win the love of your mate? What measures, if any, did you adopt? "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published on "How I Won My Mate." Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

Carl Needed the Pennies.

I won my hubby by saving pennies. Every penny I got I put into a little bank. This bank bore the motto, "It's the little things in life that count." When the bank was full I opened it, took the pennies to the city bank, and exchanged them for a bill.

Carl had seemed interested in me for a year, but as yet had never proposed. One evening I opened my bank he unexpectedly dropped in and helped me count the pennies.

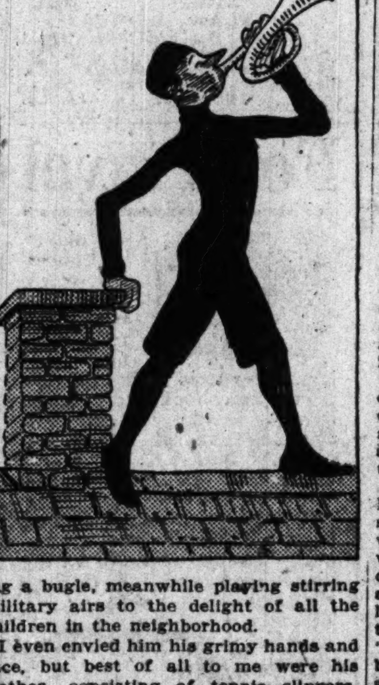
Before he left he had proposed and was accepted. His salary was small and I had been a little afraid it would not keep two, but when he saw my little savings he was no longer doubtful. E. C.

Childhood Ambition Contest.

Did you ever have a childhood ambition—a humorous one? Of course you did. And what you did wasn't anything like what you dreamed. Tell us what your great ambition was—and then tell us how far short you fell. Do it in 250 words, on one side of the paper, and address manuscripts to Childhood Ambition Editor, Chicago Sunday Tribune. For each story printed $1 will be paid. No manuscripts returned.

Height of All Ambitions.

When I was a youngster of about 10 I saw a chimney sweeper. It semed to me then the height of all ambitions to stand on the top of a house, one hand resting on the chimney, the other grasping a bugle, meanwhile playing stirring military airs to the delight of all the children in the neighborhood.



I even envied him his grimy hands and face, but best of all to me were his clothes, consisting of tennis slippers, skull cap, tight fitting jersey, and a pair of knee trousers.

My lofty ambition never was realized, as I landed in the employ of a bank, but the notes of a bugle always bring back my boyhood ambition. G. H.

CHILD GETS SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver and bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious, "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

Millinery and Dressmaking.

"I WONDER if some one has a book on dressmaking or a book that tells how to trim hats, that she doesn't care for any more. I should like so much to have one or both of such books, and would gladly pay postage on them. All my children's outgrown clothes I give away to poor people close at hand, so I can't aid the Corner in that way. I am sorry. I want to thank you for the help the Corner has been to me. I always turn to that first. Mrs. D. E. H."

I have never seen a book on either of these topics, but it is quite possible that there are many volumes on both subjects. If any of the Cornerites can comply with the above request I hope she will write to me for the correspondent's address. Even if Mrs. D. E. H. has no clothes to give away, it is likely that by keeping watch on the Corner she can find other ways in which she can be of help. I thank her for her praise of the Corner.

Letters for Invalid Girl.

"I am much interested in the Corner and have received many helpful suggestions from it. Now that I really want and need information I hope you may be able to give it to me. I wish to know where I can buy block toe dancing slippers. I can get the ballet slippers in this town, but not the blocked ones. If you can give me information as to where I can send for such slippers and tell me what it is necessary to ask for in ordering them, in order to get the correct size, and let me know the price also I shall be greatly indebted to you. I should be glad to correspond with an invalid girl of about my own age—15. I also have a few magazines to give away. V. T. M."

I regret I cannot give the desired information, but I must pass the request on to some better versed person. I suppose that in a large city there are shops for the special sale of all theatrical requirements and that ballet shoes would be found there. Or it may be that big shoe shops include them in their stock. But of this I know nothing positively, any more than I do of sizes, styles, and prices. Is there some one who can reply to this question? I shall be glad to put such in touch with this correspondent. I shall be happy to perform the same act for the invalid correspondent she seeks or for any one who wishes to receive the magazines she is kind enough to offer.

Amuses the Sick and Old.

"I make all kinds of scrap books from papers and magazines, and if there is a sick child or old person who cannot be amused, I shall be glad to cheer either of them by a letter and a scrap book of any kind. Children and old people are the ones in whom I am interested in every way. I am a married woman, 30 years of age, and weigh 106 pounds. I am not tall. I have a little boy 9 years old. My family say I have never grown up, as I am always playing with children, especially poor children, and going to see old people. "Mrs. A. E. T."

It might be a good thing if more of us kept the child spirit if it is going to lead the possessor to make things happy for others and to seek out need and loneliness. I am sure the mother of some little shut-in child, or the companion of some one who is old and listless, will be glad to avail herself of this generous offer. I shall be happy to send the address of Mrs. A. E. T. on request.

Substitute for Coal.

"Here is a hint that may help some Cornerite: Soak old newspapers in water till soft, then squeeze them with the hand into balls and lay in the sun to dry. Use them for fuel instead of coal. "L. M. T."

This ought to be a good suggestion and I should like to know something of its workings from those who have followed it. Does the paper give a heat at all approaching that of coal or wood and how long does it burn? I should fear that it was too inflammable, even after the soaking, to last for more than a little while. I suppose the squeezing must be sufficiently severe to make the paper into rather hard and solid lumps, but is not this beyond the strength of the ordinary hand? Will some one who has tried this economy please report?

"TIZ" FOR TIRED AND SORE FEET

Use "Tiz" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns.

"Happy! Happy! Use 'TIZ'"

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot troubles.—Adv.

The davenport at ....64.50 Chair or rocker at 34.50

Solid mahogany two piece suite, upholstered in the very highest quality of Lancaster velour, in either blue and gold or mulberry and gold, sunburst pillows and roll; the suite priced at 244.50

IT IS impossible in this limited space to give the complete specifications of the various pieces that will be on sale. A few words must suffice, to-wit:

Davenports at 64.50 and chairs at 34.50, although being the lowest priced items in this sale, are made in the following unusual manner:—

Frame is well constructed and finished; has crotch mahogany panel in center of back of each piece.

Full webbing bottom and full spring edge front.

40 steel springs in the davenport and 9 steel springs in the chair and rocker.

A generous hair top over a good foundation.

Davenport priced at 79.50 has loose cushions, contains 50 springs in each cushion of the davenport and 36 springs in the cushion of each chair or rocker.

Covering is of good velour.

Every piece in this sale is made with skill—every piece in this sale is handsomely finished—every piece in this sale is dependable.

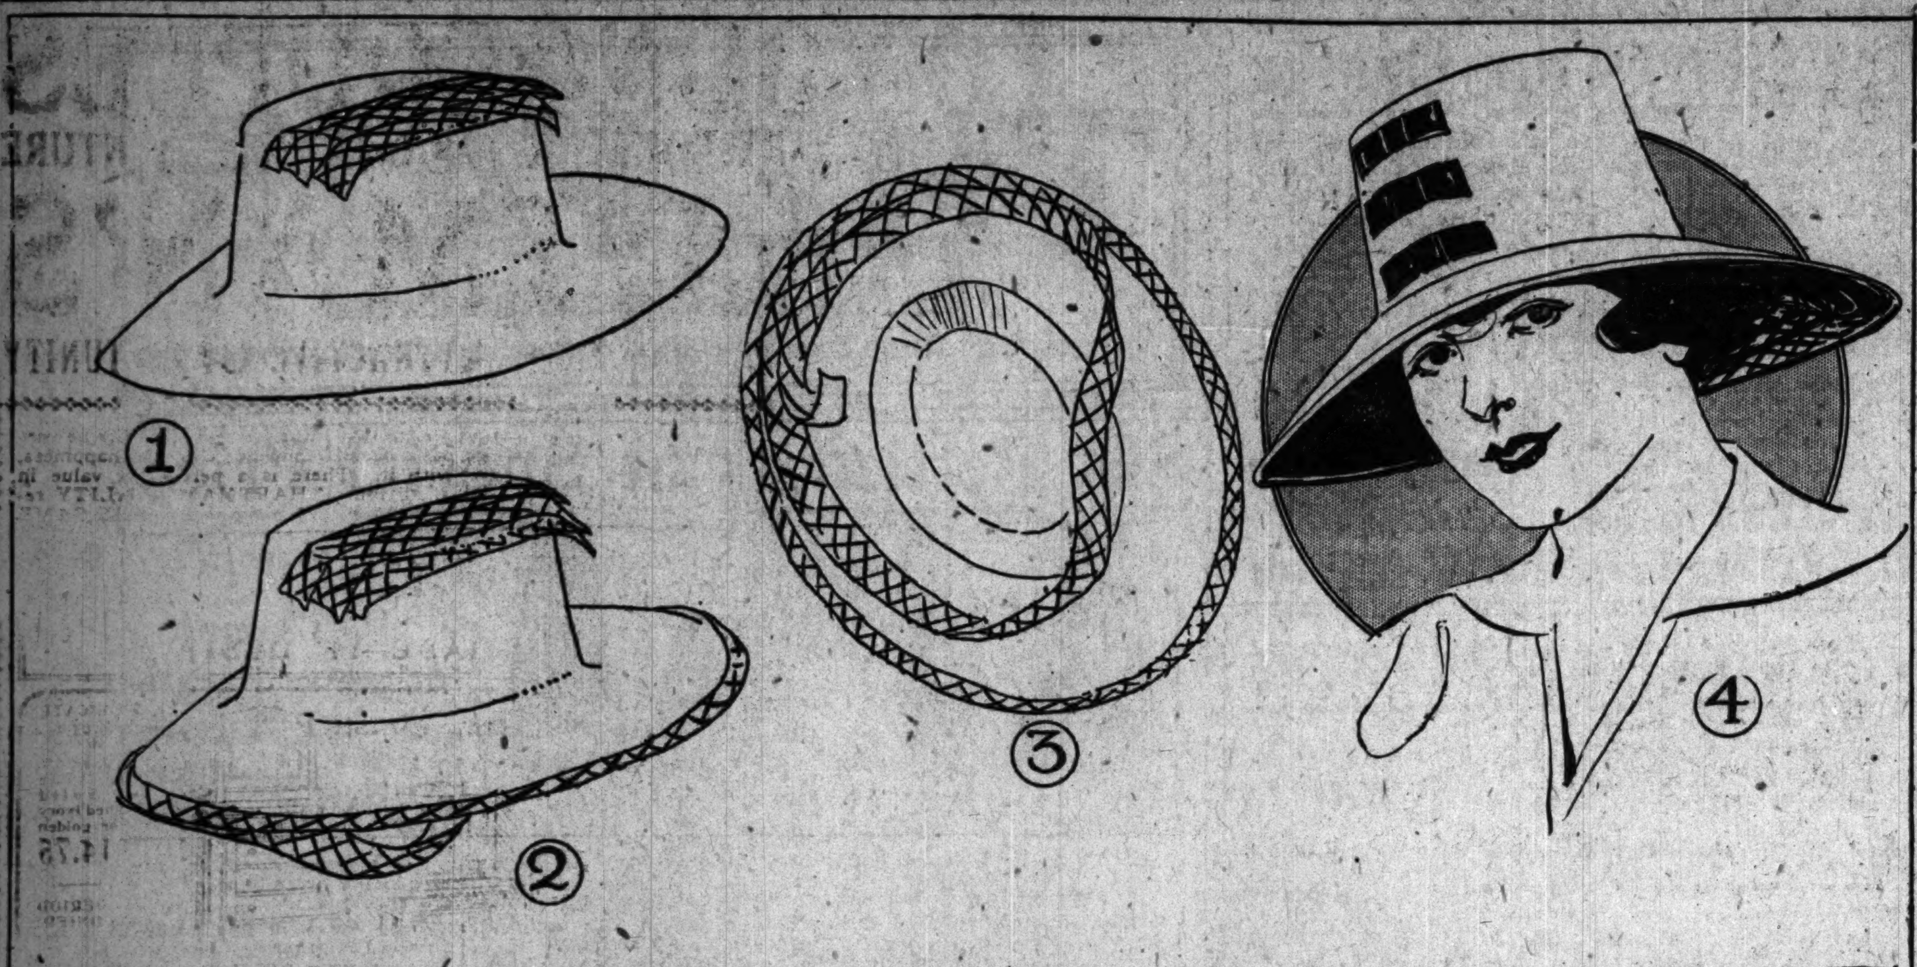
NEWEST HATS AND HOW TO MAKE THEM.



1. Braid laid on top of crown.
2. Binding on edge of brim.

3. Circles of braid sloping gradually to form new rows.

4. The finished hat with small tailored bows of trimming.

MATERIALS required: Frame—Crown, 4½ inches high; brim, 2½ inches wide, slightly mushroom (crown and brim in one piece); ten yards of braid one inch wide; collar or sewing silk to match.

If the hat frame is white and the braid open meshed and dark, so that the frame shows through, the frame must be given a coat of prepared dye the shade of straw to darken it.

Two general rules for sewing braid are that sewing must be invisible and secure. Narrow or medium width braid is much easier to sew than wide, because more easily adjusted to the curves and irregularities of the hat. A cord in one or both edges of most kinds of braid makes it possible to draw the braid up to fit the curves in the frame.

Cover the tip or top of the crown first with strips of braid running from front to back in straight lines, with one edge of each row overlapping slightly the row preceding it.

Begin with strip of braid on extreme right side of crown, allowing end to extend down side crown at the back three-quarters of an inch, as you begin to sew, and the right edge of braid one-quarter of an inch over edge of crown at widest part. Sew along right edge of braid with uneven basting stitches one-eighth of an inch long on top and one-half of an inch underneath. When you reach the front of tip cut braid and fasten end securely down on front side crown three-quarters of an inch.

The next row is put on parallel to the first and overlapping it one-quarter of an inch, and is sewed about one-eighth of an inch from the edge, thus holding the left edge of first row, which it overlaps. Continue applying rows in this way until entire tip is covered.

The underbrim is done next. Beginning at the midde of the brim edge at the back, fold the edges of a strip of braid over the brim edge, using it as a binding. Sew it in place from right to left, using the stab stitch about one-half of an inch in length. Hold braid smoothly to shape, stretching slightly if necessary. When this binding has been sewed entirely around brim edge it is not cut, but is gradually sloped off toward the head size on the underbrim until the outer edge is exactly even with bound edge of brim.

Hold braid smoothly, stretching it slightly at outer edge and drawing it to fit with the pull cord on inner edge, sewing one-eighth inch from edge. Thrust the needle through from upper to under brim and back, slanting it in the brim, as in sewing binding.

When this row is sewed in place until it entirely circles the brim it, too, is gradually sloped in toward head size until it becomes a second row, overlapping the first three-sixteenths or one-quarter inch. Continue until entire underbrim is covered, finally turning end of braid up inside crown, and fastening securely so it won't ravel.

Now we are ready for top of brim and side crown. In sewing braid to top of brim care must now be taken that stitches don't show through on under side. Stitches one-eighth inch long, with needle slanting as it goes through from top to bottom and back, are used.

Beginning at the back, placing cut end of braid in from the edge, so it will be covered by next row, proceed to sew as you did the first row on underbrim, holding outer edge of braid exactly even, with bound edge, sewing from right to left one-eighth inch from edge. Continue as on underbrim, sloping braid gradually as you complete one circle and start next.

Do not cut braid when you reach the base of the side crown, but continue to circle braid around side crown until you reach the top. When near the top you reache the top. When near the top edge arrange your braid so that last row shall go straight around top of crown and finish the end in middle of front by turning under and hemming down neatly.

Trimming of this little hat may be a simple ornament applied flat in front at top of side crown, or a band of three-quarters inch picot edged ribbon brought around top of crown and tied in a stiff little tailored bow exactly in front.

Make bow with two loops one inch long, and four or six three inch ends hanging straight down.

Doris Blake Says

If you were born this week you are

A REASONER.

Have you a perplexing love affair in which you need the counsel of a friend? Write Doris Blake, care "The Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply send stamped and addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

IF your birthday falls during the week beginning today you are nearing the end of Pisces' influence and approaching that of Aries, which begins on the 22d. You're still the "question box," an attitude so typical of all your zodiacal neighbors in Pisces, always wanting to know the reason why for everything.

Like the "fishes," you are always nosing around in a mild way, learning what you can gather of interest. You are especially anxious to learn about scientific and mechanical matters, and though logical and positive in your own opinions, yet apparently you are exceedingly submissive and yielding.

Being so logical, you always exact a reason from others for what they do, and can give the same in return for yourself. On account of this dominant trait you are skeptical in accepting religious beliefs.

The close proximity of Aries gives you much keenness of perception and some temper, if occasion demands. You are masterful, dictatorial, and sometimes impatient, but withal so happy-go-lucky you seem to be able to win and hold the respect of your acquaintances. You prefer obedience that springs from love in the case of your children, for whom you have much affection and pride.

The quality of laziness is not to be found in your makeup. In fact, you are thoroughly unhappy on an enforced vacation, and although you sometimes do "throw up" a job without good cause, yet you will at once go on a search for another. You're not the sort who grabs at his share, and if nothing is left for you no tears will be shed. But the fact you are never a glutton makes nearly every one careful that you get your share, and as a child you are quite sure to be the household pet.

When others are most excited you will remain calm and immovable. The faculty you have of taking in everything at a glance tends to make you oversevere as a critic, though all admit that the perfection of your method is admirable.

Nature is your constant source of delight, and if you ever get into a highly worried, nervous state a long walk in the great outdoors is the best medicine for you. And 'tis to be said also that, whether outdoors or in, the paths you choose are the straight, clean ones; so it is that you are often found in positions of responsibility, which you fill faithfully and acceptably.

Your profession primarily is art, as expressed in sculpture, mechanics, interior decorating, poetry, science, carving, etc. You might also succeed as a physician, as a clergyman, or as a clerk in a responsible position.

You will find Cancer, June 23-July 22, or Virgo, Aug. 24-Sept. 23, or Capricorn, Dec. 23-Jan. 20, congenial life partners. You should think long and well before marrying any one in Sagittarius or Libra, Nov. 23-Dec. 22 and Sept. 24-Oct. 23, as those of these signs do not give reasons for their actions, which you expect and exact.

"The Pisces born will find
Sincerity and peace of mind,
Freedom from passion and from care
If they the blue sapphire wear."

Other authorities say, "The Pisces person will be wise to wear a bloodstone all their lives."

So it will be seen there is a choice of jewels. Your lucky days are those beginning Nov. 12 and Aug. 5. Your colors are gray, emerald, green, pink, white, and black.

Wants Her Picture.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a boy of 18 and while attending evening school became acquainted with a girl one year younger than I, and think quite a bit of her. I would like to have her picture, but do not know whether to ask her or wait and let her give it to me. Is it probable she would? J. M."

If she is the girl I think she is, you will wait a long time before she offers you her picture—make it a fifty-fifty arrangement; tell her you'd like to exchange pictures; that's the only proper way to go about this matter.

Weight Reducing Contest.

From a Tub to a Perfect 36.

Did you try my method for reducing as outlined for Mrs. Eva Lane, who lost thirty-six pounds in six weeks? How much did you lose? Did you stick to it or not? I want to hear your experience, whether you were successful or not in reducing. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Your chance for earning the dollar will be as good if you slumped on the reducing job as if you stuck until you got rid of pounds of flesh. Your name will not be printed. Address Antoinette Donnelly, "The Chicago Tribune."

I am 5 feet 2 inches high and have always been plump, but not until past 25 did it dawn upon me that I was taking on a superabundance of avoirdupois. The knowledge came to me rather rudely last April when looking around for spring clothes. The short skirts and fitted [illegible] made me look like a tub; the flat hats perched on top of a face as round as it was long caused me to shed many bitter tears in secret. No more did my mirror hold charms for me, and that is a serious state for a woman to be in.

I took stock of my shortcomings from a sensible viewpoint and summed up the following: Much of the day I spent sitting down and many of my evenings were given over to social affairs. I ate what I pleased, cake, ice cream, and candy being my special delight. When I ascended the stairs or walked a little fast I panted because I was carrying around with me 177 pounds.

I sent for the Eva Lane dietary, knowing that what one woman had done another could do. I plunged into it regardless of its rigidity. I faithfully performed all the exercises and stunts laid down in the rules and regulations, and also joined a gymnasium club and swimming class, devoting one hour a week to each. I never would have been brave or energetic enough to enter these had I not started with the above exercises and learned to use my body to hammer away the unwieldiness that was enveloping me.

In four months I took off forty pounds and have become once again a perfect 36. Once more my step is light and swift, my nerves strong, and, best of all, my mirror gives back a welcome response when I pause for a glance and incidentally to congratulate myself on the success of the undertaking.

I still continue the diet and exercises, not because I need more reducing but because I enjoy them and am so much better and happier in doing for myself something so worth while. S. B. M.

Real Love Stories

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

Do you know a real love story—one that is stranger than fiction? It is the idea that is wanted. No attention will be paid to literary style. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every story published. Manuscripts will not be returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Tribune," Chicago.

A GREAT LITTLE MATCH-MAKER.

SEVERAL years ago, as I wanted to earn some money at home, my husband started a little mail order business for me. The plan was to sell a newly invented office specialty by mail, and all of the business was conducted in my own name, which, for the sake of the story, we'll say was Grace M. Smith. There was no "Mrs." of course, and no clew to the fact that I was married. Besides, a youthful looking picture of me appeared on the letterhead.

I sent out several thousand of these letters, and in my correspondence with customers, addressed them in the personal, heart to heart fashion so much used in mail order business.

One day I received quite an interesting little note from a Pennsylvania school superintendent, inclosing money and an order for my goods. I noticed the personal tone to his letter and was tempted to let it go unanswered. However, business demanded that I acknowledge receipt of the money and the order, but I made my letter brief and to the point.

In just two weeks after that I received a long letter from him in which the symptoms were unmistakable. He was plainly interested in me in other than a business way, having been attracted by my picture on the letterhead. He was just as plainly the "lone widower" seeking a mate.

My husband and I laughed over the letter, and Hubs was about to throw it into the waste basket. "No, you don't," said I. "He's too good a chance to throw away. One doesn't run across an educated gentleman of position and standing every day in the matrimonial market. I'm going to get a match out of this yet." "Horrors!" said hubby. "You'll be arrested for bigamy." "I have no such intention," I replied. "Just you watch me."

It happened that next door to where we lived there was a young women's club where twenty-five business women lived. They were a bright, jolly bunch, but every one of them—as Nora Bayes says—absolutely husbandless. I had several good friends among the women at the club and was often there.

Like a general preparing for a master stroke, I laid my plans. Here was I, one of the few living specimens of a happily wedded wife, with a lone widower setting his cap at me. And there in the other house were twenty-five capable, self-supporting business women, almost any one of whom would have given a year's salary for a chance at that same widower. I must scheme out some way to bring supply and demand together.

With care I selected the woman in the case. I picked out a milliner—a cheery, big hearted soul with every instinct of the ideal homemaker. I told her I wanted her to answer that letter, and I managed to persuade her to do it—by being a real diplomat.

To have the first letter go exactly as I wanted it, I wrote it myself and made her sign it. The letter ran something like this:

"Dear Mr. ——: Lest you wonder at the unfamiliar name at the close of this letter, let me explain. You see, Grace M. Smith, being a busy woman, with mountains of correspondence before her, has asked me to answer some of her business letters. Among the ones she gave me I find this one from you. You may not like it, but I am going to take the liberty of answering it. And, after all, I believe you'll like my letter better than you would hers. You see, with Grace Smith letter writing is a business, while with me it is a pleasure, etc., etc."

The letter was dispatched, and when the reply came it was addressed to my friend, instead of to me. Fine! Things were going just right.

In due time my friend wrote again, and soon letters were flying thick and fast between the Pennsylvania town and the house next door. The widower became more and more interested, and before many months passed had planned a trip to Chicago. He came, met the milliner, and they liked each other from the start. During his stay in Chicago he met me, too, and learned for the first time that I was married. Then he saw a great light, and understood why everything had happened just as it did. But in the meantime Cupid had done his work and there were no regrets. Before he left for his home town he said to me: "You're a great little matchmaker, but I'm glad you did it."

They are married now and happy. They often invite us to go east to visit them, and hubby and I expect to go some day. G. M. S.

My Most Embarrassing Moment.

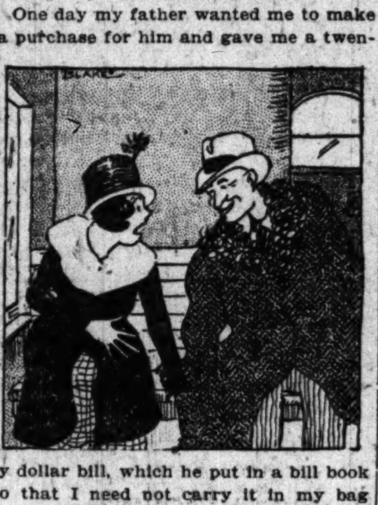
The Protecting Hand.

When I was 16 I lived in a small town and used to go once a week to a neighboring city to take music lessons.

One day my father wanted me to make a purchase for him and gave me a twenty dollar bill, which he put in a bill book so that I need not carry it in my bag with my other money. It was the largest amount I had ever had at one time, and when I got on the train I became quite nervous, looking upon every other passenger as a possible pickpocket.



I had a seat to myself at first, and had put the bill book in the pocket of my heavy winter coat. But before my journey was half over the train had filled up and I was obliged to share my seat with a good looking young man who, I was afraid, might be after my twenty dollar bill, which, to my chagrin, was in the pocket next to him instead of the one next the window.

Suddenly the train shot into a tunnel. "Now," thought I, "is his chance," and I quickly thrust my hand into my pocket and grasped my billbook, which, to my terror, I discovered that my companion was also clutching. I was too scared to speak, but I held on tight, and in just a few seconds we were out of the tunnel. I turned tearful, accusing eyes upon my seat mate, but instead of looking like a bandit he was smiling at me as though I were a huge joke.

"I wonder," said he, "if you haven't made a mistake."

I looked down and to my horror discovered that I had my hand in his overcoat pocket and was holding like grim death to his pocketbook. My bill book was safe where it belonged. E. W. S.

ETIQUETTE.

BREACH OF GOOD BREEDING.

PROBABLY every one realizes the value of sincere, honest criticism, whether adverse or favorable, but no one will grant that "backbiting" is good form or beneficial. A man or woman who maliciously slanders another person or talks about that person unfavorably behind his (or her) unconscious back is guilty of the worst breaches of good breeding. Let us who desire to be really carefully bred, courteous women make sure, before passing an opinion or remarking about some one, that what we are about to say is "wise, polite, and kind."

MRS. J. B. F.: It is not the custom for the host and hostess to sit beside each other at a dinner. Etiquette decrees that they sit at the opposite ends or side of the table. If the hostess is to serve she may have the small serving table at her right.

B. G.: Custom has decreed that a knife be used only for cutting food, not as a utensil for carrying the food to one's mouth. A fork is the correct thing with which to eat a juicy berry pie, and although the method you suggest might be a simple one, it is not so correct as the one already in use.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

By JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

FOR spring meals, from breakfast to unholy midnight repasts, the radish is a joy forever. Yes, even for breakfast the radish is enjoyed. Look in the seed catalogue and you will find under the subject of radishes "Improved breakfast," "French breakfast," and other sorts.

These breakfast radishes have, like the early, long summer, and winter radishes, not a few varieties. During March and April radishes, especially the early and forced, should interest us with our new impetus for the growing of things. The early are advertised to be ready in twenty-five days, seed planted every ten days to secure a constant supply. Then there is the earliest, which is ready in twenty-one days. The extra early is ready in twenty days, and the "earliest of all" ready in from fifteen to eighteen days.

Plain bread and butter and radishes, at either the beginning or end [English fashion] of the meal, are simple, wholesome, and gratifying. Nice sandwiches and radishes are delicious. To crunch radishes now and then while we eat a thick soup is pleasant. A radish garnish for a cabbage salad raises that to elegance.

For a luncheon menu let us have radishes and bread and butter, an omelet or soufflé and a salad or some fruit. For a heartier looking menu we might have some sort of a smoked fish relish with bread and butter, a dish of macaroni, and then radishes. A main dish of chicken, especially chicken à la King, is a popular center dish for menus that begin simply with something as refreshing as radishes or a fruit cocktail. And let us, as we value health, keep vinegar off our grapefruit so used.

A midnight supper with radishes and sandwiches, cold fried chicken, coffee, and tangerine oranges may be either light or substantial, according to the amount eaten, rather than from the quality of the dishes. This gives sensible people a chance to exercise discretion without subjecting them to the criticism of being over careful, or fussy, or faddy. With suitable care and attention meals like this can always be so served as to give the overeater his chance and the sensible eater his privilege. By the way, the coffee for such a menu should be served with whipped cream. It makes even poor coffee passable, and the cream is a good insurance policy for the next day's energy.

When people are dancing beyond midnight some refreshment may have a true life saving character, if it contains enough nonalcoholic thirst quenchers, like fruits and radishes or even ices. The radish is far and away better than the popular ripe olive in this respect, although it has almost no food units and the olive has many. The pickle is the last thing in the world that the foresighted eater will take at such a time.

Requests to this column too often show that the desire is for a menu that shall be according to the passing mode. Fortunately, those who set the mode at present have been listening to the new health propaganda. Young debutantes this winter have sometimes had for their midnight refreshment, between dances, something so simple as a glass of milk and a sandwich. Everywhere there has been an extraordinary simplification of meals on tables that formerly groaned with displays when guests were entertained, whether at noon, evening, or midnight. The so-called breakfast, at near noon, is coming in with morning dancing. Certainly for such a meal there should be no hectic viands.

The Fluffy Omelet.

There are a great number of so-called good cooks who will not try an omelet, because they are not willing to follow directions so minutely as one must to succeed. To begin with, the pan must be clean, smooth, dry, and hot. It is better to butter it then as one butters a baking tin rather than to melt butter in it. In this latter fashion it takes too much to grease the entire bottom. If the omelet is cooked too slowly it is leathery and tasteless. If cooked too long it is not delicate and soft. If burned it is about spoiled.

Beat up yolks and whites separately, the whites till stiff and the yolks but slightly. Add to the latter a tablespoon of cream or milk to each egg yolk, and the seasonings of salt and whatever else used. Mix well and pour over the whites and then with a folding motion so that the two completely blend. Pour into omelet pan and with a fork stir and prick until the upper part ceases to be liquidlike or is ready to set. The pricking lets the uncooked part come next the pan, and so the process is hastened, and the whole made lighter than it would be otherwise. Using spatula or teller knife, fold directly away from the handle and then turn on to hot platter.

Jelly or jam or finely chopped vegetables or meat may be folded into the omelet. Of course the vegetables and meat should be previously heated up and moistened.

Chicken a la King.

There are many requests for this recipe, of which there have been quite endless variations, in the twenty years or more since it came into popularity as the finest of chafing dish preparations, not excepting the Welsh rarebit. The first recipe I ever got for this dish read as follows: Sliced white meat of chicken, sliced mushrooms, preferably fresh, sliced green peppers, sautéed together in butter. To this add strips of pimentos, season with salt and paprika, and while at simmering point add a liason (binding element) of cream and egg yolks. When at creamy consistency serve in a chafing dish. Some people like a little sherry wine added to the liason. If served without chafing dish, surround with a border of duchesse potatoes.

This is also served with rice and sometimes a white sauce is used when large quantities are made, instead of cream, but flour is not at all in the spirit of this dish. Two cups of chicken to two cups of sauce or one cup of thin cream and one cup of chicken stock thickened with two egg yolks, extended with a cup of sliced mushrooms and pimentos alone, without green pepper, make a satisfactory dish if daintily prepared.

Egg Sandwiches.

Plain boiled eggs which have been cooked by simmering twenty minutes, starting with the water at boiling point, chopped while hot, and buttered and lightly salted, served as a thick filling for sandwiches of fine bread are ideally palatable. If the eggs are allowed to cool they must be treated differently for sandwich filling. To prevent a dark ring around the yolk, when allowed to cool in shell, they should be immediately dropepd into cold water after they are cooked.

Few Drops When Corns Hurt, Pain Stops! Corns Lift Out

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers—Here's magic!

No humbug! Any corn, whether hard, soft or between the toes, will loosen right up and lift out, without any pain.

This drug is called freezone and is a compound of ether discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus.

Put a few drops directly upon any tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callus will loosen and can be lifted off with the fingers.

Freezone doesn't eat out the corns or calluses but shrivels them without any irritation.

Just think! No pain at all; no soreness or smarting when applying it or afterwards.

Women! Keep freezone on your dresser and apply a few drops whenever a corn begins aching. Pain stops, corn goes!

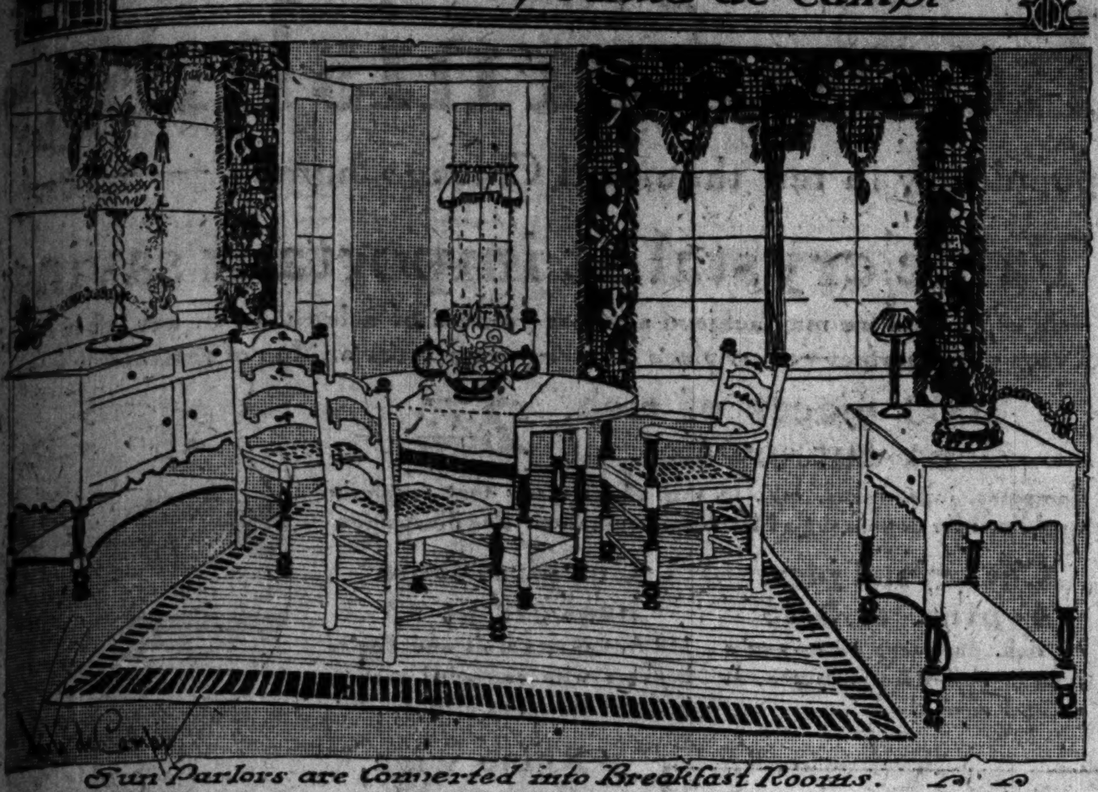
The HOME HARMONIOUS

by Anita de Campi



Sun Parlors are Converted into Breakfast Rooms.

Miss de Campi will be glad to assist the home maker in any problems pertaining to interior decorations. Address your letter to Miss Anita de Campi, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago. Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope if you wish a personal reply.

It is a great fad at present to have a breakfast room in the home, and when the apartment is small and entirely unpretentious, the dining room is sacrificed in favor of a dainty little room furnished in light colored, brightly ornamented furniture, and this is called the breakfast room. But more often the breakfast room is installed in what was formerly the sun parlor, and this is quite delightful. The windows in this case are entirely covered with thin glass curtains to insure privacy, and the daintiest of house dresses worn by the young housewife seem actually a part of the decorative scheme.

Where, unhappily, the so-called sun room has not sunlight enough in it, the lack of actual sunlight is made up for by an abundant use of yellow. It has been discovered that transparent yellow material gathered close against the glass gives an excellent illusion, especially when used with blue and lilac furniture.

Sun room furniture is sunnier than ever. The lightest, brightest, gayest colors have been introduced—they are fairly prismatic in their brilliancy.

The most noticeable feature about this is the floral decoration. This is not only brilliantly colored in a gay little arch at the back of the serving table and sideboard, but the flowers are sunningly carved as well, so that the raised petals of the conventional flowers catch the light and break it into many tones. The tables are flatly painted or enameled in light neutral tints combined with trimmings as indicated, of strongly contrasting color. One set is in oyster green, with royal blue touches in the bulb legs and chair knobs. Another is in turquoise gray, with deep amethyst trimming; another in sand color is combined with peacock blue. Pale putty and Burgundy is the combination used in one instance. The colors in the rug repeat the combination, as do those in the draperies.

Everybody likes to know new ways of fashioning inside draperies, and so special attention is called to the smart handling of the lambrequin effect shown here. The lower edge of the lambrequin part is really cut in up and down squared edges—"battlements" is the technical word. The squared tabs hanging down have simply been gathered tight at their lower edges. I have left the tab in the middle ungathered to show how it looked before it was puckered up and trimmed with fringe and tassels.

The cretonne used here is printed in rambling pattern fruit and leaves on a Burgundy ground, and the fringe and tassels are of leaf green and putty color. The narrow side pieces may, if so desired, be cut short and terminated by drawing the lower edges together and tipping with a tassel to match the upper tabs, or they may be weighted and left hanging straight and long.

The windows may have net, tarlatan, or cream madras shirred to double rods against them. The French doors are treated to match the windows. On the door that is closed I have shown a new finish. It is made by lapping the lower edge of the madras over at the top. The top rod is run through under a French heading and the piece that hangs over is shaped as shown in the picture, and trimmed with cream white fringe. The curtain is gathered upon two rods, but the lower rod, instead of being put at the bottom of the glass, as is customary, is run through a casing in the madras, at the height of the lowest pain of glass. Below this casing and shirring rod the madras hangs down in a loose ruffle, covering the glass. The arrangement of rods is one that is well balanced, the top rod being set down; the lower rod is set up.

Interesting among breakfast room accessories is the exaggeratedly long stemmed fruit bowl, with its quota of gayly colored artificial fruit. Glass bowls give a desired touch of color; they come in deep vibrant tones, royal blue, topaz, and mulberry.

Among the new drapery fabrics are cretonnes that are linenized by some special treatment of the yarn before the printing of the pattern. The new process gives to the cotton cloth a pliable, flax-like feeling that makes it closely similar to the imported blocked linens which are so much in demand in spite of their prohibitive price. The linenized cottons are among the good new, inexpensive materials. They are made in this country and they are done in good color. Their introduction is something of a surprise, coming as it does in the face of alarming dye problems.

Sun fasts are varied this year; they no longer represent one sort of material, but many sorts. It may be a fine, silky grenadine overshot or changeable in color, and quite transparent, to be used as glass curtains, or it may be a substantial quality of damask in brocade pattern, suitable for coverlets, inside draperies, cushions, and upholstery.

In spite of all talk about the scarcity of dyes this year, flax rugs for sunrooms present an unusual and varied assortment of exquisite colors. So lovely are they that many a one may serve as the basis of a color scheme around which a whole room may be successfully worked out. Some that are laid in Roman stripes are amazingly attractive. The colors are, of course, subdued, but, indeed, they are "all there."

Would you like to vary the whole color scheme of your sunroom at little expense and have something extreme for a change? Well, this can be done without the risk involved in painting the surfaces all over. Get a lot of plain black oilcloth, cut it exactly to fit the tops of tables and sideboards, and then paint lines of brilliant colors at the edges of the shaped pieces. This makes a strikingly effective decoration. It has much the effect of black enamel and can be whisked off when a lighter scheme is desired. With this chair pads of black satin can be used, trimmed with silk cords and tassels in bright colors. The chair pads can be made light colored on one side and black on the other and turned at will.

Dennis and Doris went to the theater for the first time. The play was a serious drama and they didn't enjoy it much. Just as the heroine of the play was getting seriously ill Doris, who was sleepy, dozed off to sleep. Presently awaking with a start, she punched Dennis and said in a loud whisper: "Den, is she dead yet?" "No," was the angry reply, "but I wish she was." And the rest of the audience wondered why that section laughed at the most tearful part.

My small son usually came out second best in his many encounters with our neighbors' boy; but he wasn't easily discouraged and was willing to try, try again. One afternoon he came into the house looking quite disheveled. "Mother," he said, coming to my side and going straight to the point, "if I had a brother the two of us could lick Tommy."

My son Clifford was entertaining some little friends on his sixth birthday. One little girl, whose birthday follows his one week later, had made him a present, which he accepted with the following: "Thank you, Dorothy, and when your birthday comes I'll give you something lots nicer than this."

McCutcheons to Return Soon from Honeymoon Trip

By Mme. X.

THERE are doubtless thousands of happy newly weds basking in honeymoons at the present moment, but for a good sized local group the term honeymoon couple immediately suggests only the John McCutcheons, who have been exploring the countries, islands, and waters of the West Indies and Central America.

They visited Panama and the canal, they sojourned in Jamaica, and they got into the outskirts of the Gomez revolt in Cuba. Was there any tugging at the leash on the bridegroom's part at finding himself so near a fuss and not in it, he being the world's greatest war fan?

Finally, ten days ago they arrived at Nassau, where at the dock were a welcoming group of friends, a mass of flowers, and their motor yacht with John McCutcheon's flag at the peak. This flag is of the owner's design and bears a sea horse rampant on one side and a palm and parrot on the other (doubtless a symbol of the talks 'neath the shade of a sheltering palm which will be a feature of Treasure Island life).

The yacht "sleeps" four passengers, as the term is, and is both a sail and motor run craft. It can take extended cruises through those tropical seas. It is just possible that its first real cruise will be with guns mounted fore and aft to nip U-boats in the bud.

The McCutcheons are enchanted with their island and their house there, with which they made their first acquaintance on this auspicious arrival. The kitchens and servants quarters are in two wings separated from the main house, but connected with it by trellised passageways much on the same plan as Mount Vernon is built. Everything was in exquisite, apple-pie order, with a waiting band of dusky native servitors to give them a smiling greeting. The sun shone on rippling wavelets, while the friendly cocoanuts nodded in the breeze.

It will take a very big and very bloody war to make John McCutcheon willingly leave this idyllic spot before his vacation is up, which luckless date is set for early April, when he and his bride are expected to return to their apartment on East Schiller street. From the eastern windows of their Chicago abode they can look over the trees in Mrs. Potter Palmer's grounds and get an extended view of good old Lake Michigan. With a little strain on the imagination they can fancy they are looking over southern seas, but the Palmer elms can hardly be turned into cocoanut palms by even the liveliest mental gymnastics.

Poole's New Home.

Speaking of abodes, Abram Poole's new house in Lake View avenue is a delightful creation with a distinct air of its own. It would be the height of folly for an unenlightened mortal like the writer to attempt to describe this latest comer among notable houses in technical terms or to assign it to a period.

The impression it makes is one of austere charm; it doesn't—at least not yet—invite familiarity. Its lofty ceilings, fine proportions, imposing doorways, beautiful cornices, the few rich and ancient looking paintings which hang here and there on the large paneled wall spaces, the excellent but as yet, sparse furnishings, give one the same feeling that one has on being introduced to a bland, urbane European diplomat or man of the world. You are interested, "intrigué," as the French say, and at the same time are conscious of an ineradicable provincialism on your part. Mr. Poole's house is simple and yet sophisticated, and is altogether most attractive.

Directly opposite the front door as you enter a rather steep flight of wall inclosed, white stone carpeted stairs rises from the marble paved entrance hall to the main salon or reception hall above. This is one of the most effective bits of house architecture in Chicago. Of fine proportions, it is lighted only from above. A beautiful Adam doorway and a stately fireplace of the same period are the chief features of the room.

The dining room opens out of this room at one corner, while opposite a small anteroom leads into the drawing room, which is also, I should say, of the Adam epoch in interior decoration. It has a captivating outlook over the park. At present Mr. Poole is using it as a studio and is getting down to the serious business of painting.

Joins Weekly Drills.

He's a good citizen, as well as a clever painter, and every Wednesday evening has an early dinner and goes over to the Second Regiment armory on the far west side to drill with a fine crowd of Plattsburg, Fort Sheridan, and other summer camp men, who are making these drills part of a nationwide effort to arouse patriotism and the sentiment of the country in favor of universal military service.

Red Cross Nurse from Chicago Who's Expected Home Today.

Miss Ermina Carry

"Lucky dogs!" is what a Chicago youth exclaimed on viewing this picture of his friend, Miss Ermina Carry, who was one of the most popular of the season's debutantes before she gave up all that and went in for serious things. Ermina, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Carry of 1100 Lake Shore drive, is expected home today or tomorrow after about three months' work in and near London as a Red Cross nurse with Miss Violette Selfridge, whose guest she was. At the threatened danger of war between her own country and Germany Miss Carry immediately determined to start for home, in spite of the perils of ocean travel at the present time.

Maj. Paul B. Mallone has been appointed by the commander of the central military department, Gen. Barry, to drill these Chicago men. Pierce Anderson is one of the chief moving spirits of the undertaking, being chairman of the committee of organization, other members being Charles B. Pike, Arthur L. Farwell, Ralph Poole, Frederic McLaughlin, George Porter, Max Rutter, Everts Wrenn, and Wharton Clay. The last named is executive secretary and devotes his whole time to the work. An advisory committee is composed of Dr. Billings, Cyrus H. McCormick, Stanley Field, J. W. O'Leary, Julius Rosenwald, Harry Wheeler, George M. Reynolds, and the Rev. Dr. Timothy Stone.

This Chicago group expects to get 20,000 men and boys into the six training camps which will be founded in the central department this coming summer. The three men's camps will be at Forts Sheridan, Snelling, and Riley; those for boys from 15 to 18 years of age will be at Des Moines, Ia., at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana, and at Fort D. A. Russell in Wyoming.

Starting four years ago with 300 volunteers for this summer drill, the movement has grown so that last year 16,000 men took the drill and this year over 100,000 are expected to volunteer to do so.

Large employers of labor all over the country have responded enthusiastically to the call from this military training camps committee, which has asked these employers to grant a four weeks' summer vacation, with full pay to those of their employés who will go in for this training at one of these summer camps. Last summer seventy-two firms in Illinois alone allowed this four weeks to their men for military drill without loss of salary. Heading this list were the Illinois Steel company, Montgomery Ward & Co., and the First Trust and Savings bank.

Demonstration of Patriotism.

The Military Training Camps association is part of the great movement for national service which is spreading north, south, east, and west among men and women of this wide country. The only wonder is that any young man or woman can resist the call. And yet there are a lot of our foremost youth, men of family, of standing in the community, of inherited wealth, men who are most vehement in their denunciations of our government and of our lack of defense preparation, who refuse to join their friends in this practical demonstration of patriotism. The basic idea of these summer camps is to instruct every man so fully as to what military training really means that he goes home a convert to the idea of universal military service and helps spread the gospel of this essentially democratic idea.

If, as the men interested in this work maintain, it is the wives of our young, rich, influential men who are deterring their husbands from going in for this preliminary drill work, which only requires one evening a week away from home, then it is evident that there is an opportunity for some propaganda work among these wives for such an organization as the woman's committee of the Navy league. Let it never be said that Chicago women kept their husbands from the service of their country! It is a stigma from which it would be hard to recover.

The sailor lads from the Great Lakes naval training station will come in four or five times this coming week to take part in the entertainment of movies and music being gotten up by the committees interested in the Chicago committee of American ambulance and the French war shop committee. Merl Le Voy, and the movies representing "Heroic France" will be the "piece de resistance," of course, but with Mme. Beriza singing tomorrow night, with other music other nights, and the naval cadets drilling and standing on sentry guard there will be many frills on this war benefit at the Strand this week. Tomorrow evening promises to be a great society event at the opening of this entertainment.

The Meekers Give a Musical.

Tuesday evening, March 27, the Arthur Meekers give a musical with the music provided by "La Société des Instruments Anciens," a delightful French enterprise, which has had an enormous success in the east. The ancient instruments are interesting and the music fascinating—so at least say John Carpenter and even less erudite authorities.

The following morning at the Blackstone hotel the same company of performers will give a concert, the proceeds of which will go to the Association of Day Nurseries—an organization which comprises forty day nurseries. Mrs. Russell Tyson is largely interested both in the day nurseries and the concert.

And the next day at the home of Mrs. George Isham the members of the Parents' league are invited with their friends to a lecture by Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale on two representatives of American character, Jonathan Edwards and Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Phelps occupies what is called the Lamson chair of English literature at Yale and is a famous lecturer and man of letters, so all the parents of the league will probably turn up that evening at Mrs. Isham's. Mrs. James Keeley gives a dinner in his honor preceding the lecture.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

News of Chicago Society

Good old St. Patrick was toasted last evening in many of our most fashionable clubs. At the University club they celebrated his birthday with songs and good cheer. He would have raised his bushy old eyebrows could he have been a spectator of the fashion show with which the South Shore Country club commemorated him and all his works.

At the Saddle and Cycle club dinner and dance were the form of the Irish saint's festival, while at the Casino the dining and dance hall was hung with Irish banners, green predominated among the table decorations, and after dinner and before dancing the company listened to a most interesting talk by a young American ambulance driver with the Hibernian name of Luke Doyle.

Mr. Doyle told of what young America was doing in France—and a grand record it is! Fine movies accompanied and illustrated his discouse. He speaks this afternoon in Winnetka at the Community house, this evening at Highland Park, tomorrow evening at the Lake Forest Winter club, and Tuesday evening at the Hoyburn theater in Evanston.

His expenses are paid by the Boston committee of the American Field Ambulance association, and the hope is that here in Chicago we will catch up with the east in this form of war relief work by getting more volunteers for the service and more ambulances to send to France.

Chicagoans Equip Ambulances.

George Higginson Jr., Mitchell Follansbee, George Ingalls, William Boyden, and Charles Schweppe are getting a fund to buy and equip a "Chicago Harvard" ambulance, while Bruce Smith, Morse Ely, William McCormick Blair, and William E. Clow for Yale and John Stewart for Princeton are trying to collect money for ambulances to represent Chicago men from those universities. It costs $1,600 to buy and maintain an ambulance for one year.

The training our men are getting over in Europe may come in handy if we go to war. Over sixty American ambulance men have received the "Croix de Guerre" and two the even more coveted "Medaille Militaire," which means especial gallantry under fire. The quick transportation of wounded is one of the chief life saving factors. Over 200 American ambulances are in service on the French front transporting the wounded from the trenches to the first aid stations and thence to the base hospitals, and most of the volunteers are graduates of American universities. This whole ambulance service costs about $11,000 a month. Charles L. Hutchinson is treasurer of the Chicago field ambulance.

Ronald Tree, son of the late Arthur Tree and grandson of the late Marshall Field, has been driving an English ambulance. He is a strikingly good looking youth, remarkably resembling his maternal grandfather. He is now on his way to this country.

Chicago has also an interest in two young English warriors, Dudley Northcote and Gerard Wallop. The former is a son of the Amyas Northcotes and a grandson of Lord Iddlesleigh, who was in one of the ministries under Queen Victoria. Dudley Northcote's mother was Miss Helen Dudley of Chicago, a sister of Peter Dudley and a cousin of Bertram Winston. Young Northcote has been on the fighting line for a year, was wounded in battle, invalided home, and now, cured, is returning to the front.

Gerard Wallop's mother was Miss Marguerite Walker of Chicago, a sister of Judge Charles M. Walker, Dr. Samuel J. Walker, and Ernst Walker. His father, the Hon. Oliver Henry Wallop, is a son of the late Earl of Portsmouth, and Gerard is the heir presumptive to the title. He's a lad of barely 18, but he's been in training for a year and now is ordered to the front. His parents passed through here six weeks ago on a hurried trip to England to see him before he left for France. His mother writes that until she saw him in his new uniform she didn't realize that he was really going. It takes courage and stoicism to be a mother of sons these days.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Mrs. Morrill Dunn have turned the bare, bleak, battle scarred shop at 1450 North Clark street into cheerful, friendly looking headquarters for the Robert H. McCormick Woman's Nonpartisan league. Wherever the walls presented a too disreputable blemish, or a broken window admitted too much March wind, they pasted up a likeness of the candidate's pleasant, open countenance or draped a gay United States flag.

WEDDINGS

An interesting but quiet wedding of this week will be that of Miss Doris Rinehart, daughter of A. Newton Rinehart of Bloomington, Ill., and Samuel Newton Holliday of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Holliday of St. Louis, Mo., which will take place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Halleck Taylor of 59 East Division street, and will be followed by a reception. The bride's only attendant will be her cousin, Miss Mildred Rinehart of Carthage, Mo., and the bridegroom's brother, Joseph H. Holliday of New York, will be the best man. Sidney Phelan of St. Louis and Frank A. Rinehart of Chicago will serve as ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Holliday will be at home after May 1 at 156 East Seventy-ninth street, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham L. Goldman of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Chicago, announce the marriage of their daughter, Belle, to Lionel P. Rothschild of Los Angeles last Sunday.

The wedding of Miss Lucile Felsenthal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Felsenthal of 5161 Michigan avenue, will take place on Tuesday at the Congress hotel.

Mrs. Marshall F. Holmes of 360 Normal parkway, with her daughter, Dorothy, has gone to California to remain until after the marriage of her son, Frederick, to Miss Gertrude Brintnall of Los Angeles. The wedding will take place in May and Miss Holmes will be Miss Brintnall's maid of honor.

Miss Hilda Grunsfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivna Grunsfeld of the Chicago Beach hotel, and Dr. Alfred A. Strauss will be married on March 27 at the Blackstone hotel.

Miss Rhoda Hecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hecht of Charles City, Ia., and Lawrence E. Rubel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon L. Rubel of 4337 Michigan avenue, were married last evening at the home of the bride's uncle, Lewis Hecht, of 4805 Grand boulevard.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hirsh of 5444 Woodlawn avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Daisy Lucille, to Albert Rothchild of 5202 Ingleside avenue.

Mrs. Bessie Sigale of 1755 Washburne avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen, to Alfred L. Rothman of 4856 Prairie avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bernstein of 1352 North Hoyne avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Ritter, to Bernard Lamm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lamm.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Teuton of Glencoe announce the engagement of their daughter, Genevieve, to Frank J. King of Glencoe.

Anouncement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Eloise S. Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Augustus Ostrom of 5039 Blackstone avenue, to A. Wilder Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Brown of New York.

Mrs. Alma T. Calkins of 832 Lafayette parkway announces the engagement of her daughter, Marguerite, to Ashton Bayard Taylor of New Orleans. The wedding will take place early in June.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Eschenburg of 4646 North Lincoln street announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita May, to Wendel S. Loomis. The wedding is set for early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William John Walsh of 1013 Foster avenue, Edgewater, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marguerite Marie, to Frank Milton Sturtevant of 5016 Sheridan road.

The engagement is announced of Miss Katherine Evelyn Schmidt, daughter of Mrs. A. Schmidt of 668 Roscoe street, to Harold J. Ziegler of 3720 Osgood street.

FUTURE EVENTS

The Amherst College Glee clubs will give a concert in Chicago on Monday evening, April 2, which is to be followed by a dance at the Hotel La Salle given by the Amherst club of Chicago. During the clubs' visit to town there will be two other programs given, one at the Nicholas Senn High school, the other in Oak Park. Among those who have consented to act as patronesses are Mrs. John S. Runnells, Mrs. John Timothy Stone, Mrs. Nathaniel C. Sears, Mrs. Percy H. Boynton, Mrs. Eugene S. Wilson, Mrs. John H. Stevens, Mrs. Paul Blatchford, Mrs. Edwin F. Bayley, Mrs. John Ott, Mrs. N. H. Blatchford Jr., Mrs. W. A. Nitze, Mrs Warren J. Burke, Mrs Royal Firman, and Mrs. George H. Lounsbury.

NEWS OF THE CHICAGO WOMEN'S CLUBS

Chrysolite Club Shows Long and Unique Record

By Hazel Whitaker.

HAVING worked over twenty years for charity and meeting every club week to do real labor in this cause—that's the unique record of the Chrysolite club, a south side organization, whose name is explained by this verse:

They say 'tis a gem that has power to make
The hearts of the people glad;
That under its influence hearts never break,
Nor eyes, indeed, are sad.

To lighten man's care and lessen his woe
And gladden his heart is our aim,
So in order that men our mission may know,
From this gem we have borrowed our name.

The annual election of the club will be held at the regular meeting place, [illegible] hall, Fifty-fifth street and [illegible] avenue, on Tuesday, and the club year closes with the annual luncheon and card party on March 27. Following this, the only functions, unless the club is needed for Red Cross work, will be local card parties and a midsummer benefit card party.

Like many other big things, this club had a small beginning. The story is that one winter day a woman invalid sat looking out of her window at the Del Prado hotel. In the street below two poorly clad urchins, whose hands were blue with cold, were snow balling each other. Another woman joined the watcher, who expressed the desire to make mittens for the boys; soon the necessary yarn was supplied, and the invalid completed the task in no time. Then the two women decided to make plans for a sewing circle to meet once a week in the invalid's room, each member to pay 5 cents when present and 10 cents if absent. This money was to be used in buying material for garments to be sent to the Visiting Nurses' association.

The group grew until in 1899 it formed a chartered club, of which Mrs. James [illegible], the organizer, was president. The object set forth in the charter was charity and the rendering of assistance to any one who may need a helping hand.

The organization has at present practically reached the limited membership, [illegible] and the field of its efforts has accordingly increased. In the years intervening it has covered all kinds of local charity work, furnished clothing for babies, provided coal and food for the needy, taken care of deserted wives, endowed and maintained a room in Jackson Park sanitarium, has furnished and keeps in repair the living room of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson lodging house, has furnished and now maintains the [illegible] in the Illinois cottage at Park Ridge, contributes toward the vocational training of a young girl now in school, has given numerous toys to day nurseries and charity wards in hospitals, and last, and most remarkable of all this, in just this last year alone, given 2,200 garments to organizations and individuals.

In addition, the club has made money donations to the Jackson Park sanitarium, Hyde Park center, Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial lodging house, Frederick Douglas center, Visiting Nurses' association, Provident hospital, Fellowship house, Infant Welfare station, [illegible] house, Chicago Women's shelter, Miss Florence Pronty's Home for Crippled Children, Convalescent Home for Women and Children, endowment fund of the Illinois cottage at Park Ridge, exhibition committee of the Municipal Art league, Travelers' Aid society, and the Civic Music association.

But the somber side is not the only one that the members see, for they have socials, luncheons, and many splendid speakers to address the club on civic and economic problems. There have been excursions to Armour & Co., Sears-Roebuck, Sprague-Warner, the telephone exchanges, and the underground tunnel system.

The officers are: Miss Kathleen Alford, president; Mrs. John F. McKeon, first vice president; Mrs. J. J. Ellsworth, second vice president; Mrs. Howard [illegible], recording secretary; Mrs. W. H. [illegible], corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edwin D. Weary, treasurer, and Mrs. W. [illegible] Crumbacker, auditor.

Making a Drive on Infantile Paralysis

TWO massmeetings, to be held at the Cort theater on Friday noon this week and next, have been announced as the first steps which the Association for the Prevention of Infantile Paralysis is taking in the campaign recently inaugurated against that disease by the city health department in cooperation with representatives from prominent women's clubs. Miss Mary McDowell will preside at the first meeting and Dr. Robertson will give the introductory speech. Short talks on "Back Yards and Alleys," "Fight the Flies," and "A Constructive Plan of Action," will be given by Charles B. Ball, Dr. Caroline Hedger, and Miss Katherine A. Jones, speaking for Mrs. G. Plummer. All these will be illustrated with moving pictures.

On March 30 Mrs. Harlan W. Cooley will preside and Dr. E. W. Ryerson will give the introductory talk. Dr. W. A. Evans of THE TRIBUNE talks on "Milk Supply," Miss Mary McDowell on "Disposal of Garbage," illustrated with her own slides, and Mrs. George Plummer will present a constructive plan in the form of resolutions.

Moving pictures of the audience and the speakers will be taken afterwards. The slogan for the campaign is "A fight-[illegible]! Enroll for the battle against infantile paralysis." Others along this line are soon to appear in the street cars, on bill boards, everywhere, so that the public may be made to realize the necessity of a general clean up and of an individual fight against this plague, which the city fears may reach here this summer if effective steps are not taken beforehand to prevent it.

Inasmuch as the city appropriations are [illegible] per cent lower than a year ago, there are fewer inspectors and street cleaners. Add to this the fact that the city population is increasing at the rate of [illegible] a year and the situation grows [illegible].

Under these circumstances, the women of Chicago feel that it is their duty to [illegible] with the departments in trying [illegible] Chicago clean and [illegible] For example, the amount of garbage that is disposed of each day by the housewife determines the amount that must be hauled to the reduction plant, so let her dispose of as much as she can at home. As the vice chairman, Mrs. Cooley, states, "We women feel that there should be an organization in every ward, precinct, and block of Chicago, so that we can know that the housewife is doing her share of this work, for one person can do more littering up than two or three can clean up afterward."

The association organized for the prevention of infantile paralysis has fifteen committees, and the women are cooperating on all of them. Dr. John Dill Robertson is the chairman, Mrs. H. W. Cooley vice chairman, Ald. John A. Richert treasurer, and Ald. Willis O. Nance secretary.

The committees are: Coöperation of women's clubs, chairman, Miss Mary McDowell; clean up and paint up, Angus S. Hibbard; clean milk, Dr. W. A. Evans; housing conditions, Mrs. Edward T. Lee; public schools, John D. Shoop; gardens, Perry G. Holden; after care, Dr. E. W. Ryerson; standardizing, Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, Chicago Medical society, Dr. A. A. O'Neill; hospitalization, Dr. W. D. Noble; medical research, Dr. Maximilian Herzog; fire insurance, T. R. Weddell; life insurance, P. J. Kraus; neighboring suburban, Dr. C. T. Roome; church committee, the Rev. James P. Rogers.

These compose the woman's committee that is working in co-operation with the Association for the Prevention of Infantile Paralysis. Two mass-meetings are to be held at the Cort theater, one on Friday noon of this week and the other the following Friday for the purpose of educating the public on what to do to prevent the paralysis plague from getting a start in Chicago.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

The regular literary program of the Chicago Woman's club will be given in Recital hall on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Miss Edith Wyatt and Miss Clara Laughlin will speak on James Whitcomb Riley. The home department will hold a business meeting on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the board room. Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurses' association, will speak on "Recent Advances in Preventive Measures." At the same hour on Wednesday the philanthropy department will have a business meeting in the middle parlor and the reform department will meet in the northeast parlor. Mrs. George M. Shirk, chairman of the committee on dancing at civic centers, will speak on "The Supervision of Dancing in Civic Centers." The finance committee of the art and literature department will meet in room 925 at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The philosophy and science department will hold a business meeting in the library on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. On Friday morning at 11 o'clock the German study class will meet in the club parlors. There will be talks by Dr. Walter J. Briggs, Mrs. C. I. Hollander, and Miss Gertrude Henken. On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock the efficiency committee will meet in the northeast parlor. Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Jeanette Rankin will speak at Orchestra hall under the auspices of the club on "Let the People Know." This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Sunday open door program will be given by De Witt Durgin Lash.

From Shermerville to Glenview will be the walk of the Prairie club on Saturday, leaving at 2:05 p. m. from the Union station on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway and returning at 6:15 o'clock. Miss Harriet Mertsky and Frank X. Thale are the leaders.

The Rev. John Webster Melody will give the fifth of the Lenten lecture series under the auspices of the Catholic Woman's league in the Congress hotel at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Mrs. John P. Marsh and Mrs. Harry L. Clapp will pour at the Friday afternoon tea at the College club. On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Glee club will give its annual spring musical.

The League of Cook County Clubs will hold its next meeting on Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Masonic temple. Mrs. Ella S Stewart will speak on "The Next Step."

The New Hampshire Colony club is to have a musical at its fort meeting on Thursday afternoon at the Auditorium hotel. Miss Jessie Glendenning, Miss Helen Collier, Miss Dorothy Betts, and Miss Mabel Bert of the "Turn to the Right" company, and Miss Nora Bayes will be the guests of honor.

SYLVIA CORSETS DESIGNED AND MADE BY Sylvia Newman
CORSET SPECIALIST
Suite 727-729 Marshall Field & Co. Annex Bldg.
(MEN'S BUILDING)

Corsets Do Not Reduce

Any Physician Will Tell You That One Can Reduce Only By a System of Dieting or Physical Exercises

THE OBJECT OF THE SYLVIA CORSET is to so evenly distribute all superfluous flesh as to create the proper poise and balance to the figure so that it can be carried gracefully and with perfect comfort. It was with this end in view that I have produced the model illustrated; for women with small or medium busts, large hips, large thighs and large in back below the waist.

THIS MODEL CREATES THE LONG WAIST EFFECT so necessary for this type of figure. The thighs are completely encased by means of a wide surgical elastic band attached to the under side of the corset, preventing the material from creasing when the wearer is seated. It also prevents the garment from "riding up," and gives the "FLAT-BACK" effect.

Sylvia Newman

Wear Gossard CORSETS They Lace In Front

Stenographers

Increase Their Speed and Salaries

SOME do 40 letters a day and get $50.00 a month. Others do 80 to 100 letters and get $80.00 to $125.00 a month. Speed in stenography eliminates mistakes and results in neater letters and better salaries.

Many stenographers can keep up their speed until three o'clock. Then they slow down. Why? Because often they are not correctly corseted. The back grows tired—the corset rides up on the body—they get nervous, and then their one thought is "quitting time."

It is the stenographer who can maintain her morning working average after 3 o'clock who gets the larger salary. Armies of business women now wear Gossards and prefer them to any other corset, because of their comfort, long wearing service, ease of adjustment and exceptional style.

Ideal Curved Back Figure

Curved back figures should use the utmost care in their corseting, for improper corseting is generally the cause of this type.

The corset must be corrective, reducing the lower back perceptibly, yet must accomplish this without any undue pressure and restraint.

On the right is sketched a Gossard particularly adapted to the business woman, priced at $5.00.

There is a Gossard for every figure type. Whether you are tall or short, heavy or slender, there are many models specially designed for your figure. There are other models as low as $2.00 and as high as $25.00.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY.

Things social are beginning to look ahead to the gayety of Easter week. Diamond jubilee year of the University of Notre Dame will be celebrated with a concert given by the university glee club at Orchestra hall on Easter Monday evening, which will be one of the large social events of the post-Lenten season. The program will be followed by a supper dance to be given in the gold ballroom of the Congress hotel, at which the students, graduates, and friends of the university will be guests. The dance will be under the direction of St. Mary's Notre Dame College club of Chicago. Among those who are acting as patronesses of the concert and dance are Mrs. Roger C. Sullivan, Mrs. Marcus Kavanagh, Mrs. Edward F. Dunne, Mrs. Robert M. Sweitzer, Mrs. Harry J. Powers, Mrs. Daniel J. Boyle, Mrs. John McMahon, Mrs. Andrew J. Graham, Mrs. John B. Murphy, Mrs. William A. Tilden, Mrs. Bryan G. Tighe, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, Mrs. William Connery, Mrs. M. J. Corboy, and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley.

Mrs Laura Willoughby Greene
MATZENE PHOTO

Mrs. Laura Willoughby Green is chief of the New Hampshire Colony club and Illini village which is to have a musical at the fort meeting on Thursday at the Auditorium hotel.

Mrs. Bertha C. Petersen

Mrs. Bertha C. Petersen is president of the Francis Squire Potter circle which celebrates reciprocity day on Thursday evening in Independence Park fieldhouse, at which time Wallace Bruce Amsbury will lecture on "O. Henry."

Great preparations are being made for this week of war moving pictures at the Strand theater. Mrs. Russell Tyson is in general charge, and the pictures are sponsored by the American fund for French wounded, the American ambulance field service, the children of the frontier of France and Belgium, and the American relief clearing house. A private showing of the pictures will be given this evening at the Strand, and tomorrow afternoon there will be a special matinée at 4 o'clock, the pictures running in general from 11 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock in the evening. It is hoped that they will be shown a second week at the same place. Capt. William A. Moffett of the United States naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., will send detachments of his cadets to be present at the picture showings on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday. He has highly commended these pictures as showing the need of preparation for war and of universal military training. The pictures were taken by Merl La Voy, the only civilian photographer allowed to take pictures at the French front after the first two months of the war. They are entitled "Heroic France," and in the spirit of the scenes to be shown will be the songs to be sung by Mme. Beriza of the Chicago Opera company, who will appear at the theater at certain times.

The Affiliated Jewish Congress association of Chicago will give a banquet and dance next Sunday evening at the Auditorium hotel, under the direction of Mrs. J. G. Grossberg, vice president of the organization. Among those who will act as hostesses are Miss Evelyn Hattis, Miss Rose Hollobow, Miss Sadye Berwald, Miss Leah Danits, Miss Gertrude Goodman, Miss Birdie Hattis, Miss Esther Kramer, Miss Lillian Levisohn, Miss Clara Pines, Miss Freda Sommera, Miss Rose Sachs, Miss Gertrude Wolk, and Miss Dorothy Wolfe.

The Society of Ancient Instruments will give a concert on Wednesday morning, March 28, at 11 o'clock in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel for the benefit of the Chicago Day nursery. The concert is under the direction of Miss Martha Maynard of New York and will include numbers played on the ancient viela d'amour, the viola de gamba, and the clavecin. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Russell Tyson, Mrs. Archibald E. Freer, and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roth of 1526 North Washtenaw avenue will celebrate their fortieth wedding anniversary next Sunday afternoon at the winter garden at 214 South State street, with their immediate families present.

Mrs. John Crerar will be hostess to the Illinois Society of Colonial Dames at the meeting and luncheon to be held by the society on Friday, March 30, at the Blackstone hotel.

Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, president of the Chicago Woman's club, and the board of managers of the club will give a luncheon tomorrow for Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana, the first woman to be elected to congress, who is on her way to Washington, D. C. Among those receiving will be Mrs. E. L. Lobdell, Mrs. Charles H. Betts, Miss Mary S. West, Mrs. Agnes E. Metcalf, Miss Katherine Jones, and Mrs. Payson Wild.

The Chicago Automobile club will hold its annual frolic on Monday evening, April 9, at the Strand theater, the entertainment to consist of the production of a fantasy entitled "Carnival Night at the C. A. C." and a concert given by the musical clubs of Brown university. Among the members who will take leading parts in the play are Egbert Van Alstyne, Thomas J. Quigley, Fred Herenden, and W. Cary Lewis.

The "Junior League Revel," the title by which the annual entertainment of the group of young society women is to be known this year, will be given on Tuesday evening, April 10, in the Auditorium theater, the proceeds to go to the charities of the league. Rehearsals are to be held frequently beforehand, beginning on Tuesday, in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Miss Isabella Holt is president of the league, Miss Katharine McFadon in charge of the arrangement committee, and Miss Marian Strobel is chairman of the publicity department. Other committee heads are Miss Doris Russell on the music committee, Miss Elizabeth Goodrich, in charge of tickets, Miss Anita Blair and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner of boxes, and Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding Jr. of programs and advertising.

A card party will be given on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Edgewater Beach hotel for the benefit of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, under the management of Mrs. Helen Adelaide Goldsmith. Among the prizes will be a graphophone, a pair of electric light standards, groups of theater tickets, edibles, and silver and glass objects. A large number of women's organizations of Chicago and the north shore have taken tickets for the event.

A children's musical matinee will be given this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Mary Jane Bowen of 3326 Prairie avenue. Among those on the program will be Elizabeth Goodman, John Wilson, Laurine Kinne, Violette Farsky, Shirley Wilson, Melville Rosenbach, Beulah Travis, Maud Puder, and Ruth Busch.

Former students of St. Mary's college of Notre Dame will give a reception on Tuesday afternoon at the Congress hotel, when Anthony Maitre will be guest of honor and will give an illustrated lecture on Rome.

De Paul university auxiliary announces an illustrated lecture, "Stories from Dante," by Miss Mary E. Vaughn, to be given in the University building, corner of Webster avenue and Osgood street, on Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The annual Purim ball of the Temple Sholom alliance will be given this evening at the Huntinghouse auditorium, corner of North Clark street and Wilson avenue.

The Arts club will have a tea tomorrow afternoon in its rooms, the exhibition now on view being that of work of the professional members of the club.

The benefit lectures for this week include that by Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus on "Persian Pottery," for the Henry Booth house extension fund, to be given on Tuesday at 11 o'clock in the rooms of the Fortnightly club in the Fine Arts building; the Rev. Charles F. Wishart's lecture on "De Profundis," to be given Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Holt of 60 East Cedar street for the parish house of the Second Presbyterian church; Prof. Ernst Freund's lecture in "The Awakening World" series, to be given Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the assembly room of the Fine Arts building for the University of Chicago settlement, and the lecture by Wilfred S. Reynolds, superintendent of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, to be given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift of 1551 Astor street, for the benefit of the social service department of the Children's Memorial hospital.

Mrs. William H. Titus of Hubbard Woods will entertain at luncheon at the Blackstone hotel on Thursday following the last of Miss Maud A. Miner's series of four readings given during Lent in the Fine Arts building. A number of other luncheons will be given. Mrs. Charles H. Besly and Mrs. Charles A. Stevens are among the patronesses for the readings which will conclude with one from "The Melting Pot."

A domino party will be given at the Kenwood club Friday evening.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster of 1220 Lake Shore drive will open her home on Wednesday, March 28, at 2 o'clock, for a benefit card party to be given for the clothing committee of the United Charities. Mrs. William Prescott Hunt is chairman of the arrangement committee for the party.

A request program will be given by the Blackstone orchestra this afternoon at the South Shore Country club. The feature event of the week will be the mid-Lenten ball to be given on Thursday evening. There will also be a dance with special entertainment numbers on Saturday evening. The Red Cross classes and bridge tournaments are to continue.

Summer Homes Put in Order for Coming Season

Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—You know the signs of spring—some of them. Returning robins, the hand organ, moths getting into your best furs, the cream souring over night. There is another one, however, with which those of the central states are probably not so familiar. Newporters know it well. They have looked for it for years, and now that it has arrived housewives are turning their thoughts toward spring house cleaning.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, head of the vast house of Vanderbilt, mother of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the Countess Szechenyi, and of Alfred Vanderbilt, the dead victim of the Lusitania, is preparing her summer home, the Breakers, for occupancy this summer. She herself has gone up to supervise the vast work. It is like cleaning an institution. Indeed, if you place a picture of the Breakers beside the picture of some institutions of measurable size, the residence still looks far from small.

They say that Mrs. Vanderbilt is planning to try to shake herself free from the deep depression which has engulfed her since her son's death, and toward that end will give some parties this summer. She wishes Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt to spend the hot months with her. But her daughter-in-law rather likes to be in her own home. She has one, you know, of vast extent—her house and her mother-in-law's, indeed, are among the biggest private residences in the country. She was careful to select one with fine grounds for her little sons to play on. If she does not spend the entire summer with her mother-in-law, undoubtedly she and the little Alfred, with his younger brother, will visit them for a time.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. is also at Newport. She is at one of the hotels, casting about for a spot for the summer.

Southern Season Nears End.

Meantime there are those who seem not to have got it yet that spring is in the air. Apparently they think winter is in full blast. Mrs. Oliver Harriman is one of these. She will start for her winter sojourn in the south next month. Perhaps the news now coming up from the southern resorts is what has misled her.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr. has given a party at the Beach club of Palm Beach, which they say was a wonder for beauty and delightfulness. Mrs. Lydig Hoyt was one of the guests, and my correspondent says that she looked stunning. She had on a gown of gold brocade that gave the effect of vast richness and at the same time grace—a rare combination. With it she wore diamonds for ornaments and carried a great white ostrich fan.

Otto Kahn is also one of the hosts of these last days of the southern season. He took a party moonlight sailing the other evening, and he landed them at his houseboat for dinner. Small wonder that all those who can make for the south and use their influence to prolong winter, if it brings such delight as this.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills are expected home from Florida this week.

Two Mid-Lenten Parties.

The smart set was divided against itself on Thursday night. It was Mi-Careme, and let me assure you that the people of fashion celebrated it. They were like small children let out from Sunday school, where they had been obliged to keep long faces. On this evening in mid-Lent they decked themselves out in gay clothes—fancy costumes principally—and played. A bright splotch of color they made in a dreary New York. Not much to describe, I fear, since they made the town seem merely like the town of the weeks previous and not like New York in Lent.

The reason that I was saying they were divided against themselves was that there were two big entertainments, one at Sherry's and one at the Waldorf, and they divided smart patronage, although there were a few clever ones, to be sure, who weint to both. The one at the Waldorf was a dramatic entertainment and dance for the benefit of the American aviation corps and the ambulance Francais de Pierrefond. In connection with it there was a carnival and dance in the Waldorf grill room. Mrs. Edward Breitung was in charge. The rival entertainment was a carnival given for the benefit of the West Side Juvenile club. Pictures were shown of Squadron A at the border, and—prize card of the mid-Lenten celebrations—an orchestra played which was composed of young girls of the Junior league—fifteen of them. All were talented and all were beautiful. Truly mid-Lent took on a worldly and earthly tone in its celebration.

Many Spring Weddings Planned.

Even a larger crop of weddings than usual is announced to follow Lent.

On Saturday of Easter week the attention of a large group in this city will be turned toward old South church, in Boston, where Miss Mary Stoddard Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Johnson of that city, will become the bride of James Talcott Jr. of this city, son of the Rev. James Frederick Talcott, also of New York, who himself also was married recently. James Talcott Jr. was named for his grandfather, the late James Talcott, merchant and philanthropist, who helped to make Barnard college what it is. He is a nephew of Mrs. Warner M. Van Norden.

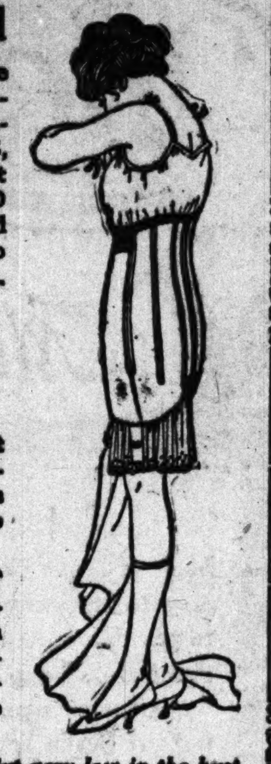
Two young women in whom society has an interest will not wait for the Easter season to be married because of the international situation.

On Wednesday of this week Miss Penelope Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamblen Sears, will be married to Sherman Phelps Platt, son of Henry Barstow Platt. Mr. Platt is a member of Squadron A and returned recently from the Mexican border. As he at any time may be summoned for military duty again the wedding, which was to have taken place at Easter, has been hastened.

On Saturday Miss Frances Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethelbert Watts of Philadelphia, will be married in that city to Theodosius Fowler Stevens of New York and Castle Point, Hoboken, N. J. It was found best to advance this wedding also, as Mr. Watts is American consul at Brussels, Belgium. He is here on leave of absence, which may be terminated at any moment.

Others giving signs of spring along with Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Roosevelt are Mr. and Mrs. Anger B. Duke, who have taken a villa at Newport. Meantime returns have just this minute come in from Palm Beach that a majority of the cottage holders will keep their places open until late in April. The word is followed up with this imposing list of names of those who are going to do so: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie II., Mr. and Mrs. John C. King, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Croker, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, as well as many others of high standing and beautiful cottages whose names are not so well known.

The Superiority of "La Camille" Front Lace Corsets Is Easily Demonstrated



You can not help but see it—the CLASSIC BACK, HYGIENIC ABDOMINAL SUPPORT, DURABILITY, REASONABLE PRICES, FINE WORKMANSHIP, and last and most important, the VENTILO FEATURES, which are patented and are in the back and front of no other corset. They will appeal to you.

Ventilo
Reg. Trade Mark, U. S. Pat. Office.

The VENTILO BACK is a soft lattice work which permits ventilation, prevents staining of the corsets by perspiration and greatly adds to the comfort of the wearer.

The VENTILO FRONT SHIELD performs a fourfold purpose: It prevents the flesh from protruding between the lacers, insures ventilation, permits more perfect adjustment, and prevents the clasps from marking the flesh.

ILLUSTRATED IS MODEL 2416. Cut very low in the bust and is lightly boned. Has strip of elastic inserted under bust and in back. Made of fine Batiste. 9½ inch clasp. White or pink. Sizes 19 to 28................. $3.50

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Call for Workers Who Will Help Make Chicago Dry

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

AN appeal for 10,000 workers will be made today in the pulpits of Chicago who will pledge to cooperate in the campaign for a dry Chicago at the election one year from next April. The day has been designated Dry Chicago day. The request has been sent to 700 pastors. It is believed that most of them will present the subject, more than 100 having promised to make it the subject of the sermon or principal address.

Addresses will also be given in the Sunday schools and young people's societies. The students of the McCormick Theological seminary are among those who have volunteered to present the matter to the Sunday schools.

The opportunity afforded by the subject of presenting the benefit already resulting from the closing of the saloons on Sunday will be presented and sentiment will also be created in favor of the bill giving a state-wide referendum on the saloon question.

In the appeal for 10,000 workers a chance will be given to those who sign cards to designate the kind of work they choose to do. One of the largest groups will be needed to secure signatures to the petition to put the dry question on the ballot.

The League of Religious Fellowship will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock at Unity church, 656 Barry avenue. Dr. Gerson B. Levi will speak on the subject, "The Religion Society Needs."

A new community building, costing $50,000, will be dedicated today at 2:30 o'clock by Temple Judea at 1227-1237 Independence boulevard. Dr. A. J. Messing will preach the dedicatory sermon. The music will be under the direction of Dr. Armin Baur, with Abe Sopkin, violinist. A supper will be served, at which the speakers will be Judge Hugo Pam, Judge Henry Horner, and others. An informal dance will follow.

The Rev. Frederick E. Black will preach today his farewell sermon as pastor of the Irving Park Immanuel Congregational church, Troy and Berteau avenues. He presented his resignation last February.

The archdiocesan union of the Holy Name societies will meet today at 2:30 in the parish hall of the Holy Angels' church, 607 Oakwood boulevard. The Rt. Rev. A. J. McGavick will be one of the speakers. The election of officers will take place.

The Rt. Rev. Francis A. Rempe

The Rt. Rev. Mons. Francis A. Rempe, V. G., pastor of St. Clement's Roman Catholic church, Wrightwood avenue and Orchard street, will be invested today by Archbishop G. W. Mundelein with the purple of the prelacy, indicating his selection by Pope Benedict as one worthy to be called monsignor in token of distinguished service in behalf of the church. The investiture will take place at 10:30 o'clock.

Mons. Rempe is vicar general for the women religious of the archdiocese. His native town was Aurora, Ill., where he was born May 8, 1874. His academic education was obtained at the Franciscan college at Teutopolis, Ill.; in theology and philosophy at the seminary of St. Francis de Sales, Milwaukee. He was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Feehan March 18, 1897, his investiture, therefore, occurring on the twentieth anniversary of his ordination. He was the founder of the parish of St. Clement's in 1905. His previous service was in the churches of St. Boniface, St. Paul, and St. Benedict's, Blue Island.

Bishop S. M. Griswold, suffragan bishop, will preach in the morning at Glencoe and in the evening in Wilmette.

The cornerstone of St. Benedict's Roman Catholic church, Irving Park boulevard and North Leavitt street, will be laid next Wednesday afternoon by Archbishop Mundelein. The building will cost $170,000 and will seat 930. The dimensions will be 80 feet by 172 feet and the tower will rise to a height of 165 feet. The pastor is the Rev. Joseph Zimmermann, who founded the parish in 1902. A parish hall, rectory, parochial school, and convent are already built and in use.

The north division of the Illinois Woman's Home Missionary society will meet next Thursday at 10 o'clock in the assembly hall of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church, Wellington avenue, near Broadway. Three ministers and seven women will be the speakers.

The Rev. Frederick H. Luhman of the Lombard Avenue Baptist church, Oak Park, requires his congregation to furnish him with topics for his evening sermons. A question box is arranged and he answers the questions from the pulpit. Favorite hymns selected by members of the congregation are sung.

Preparations are now being made for the twenty-fourth annual May festival concert in the Auditorium under the auspices of the Cook County Sunday School association. A chorus of 1,000 under H. W. Fairbank will be drilled for the concert.

The Sunday evening service at the Emmanuel Swedish Evangelical Lutheran church, Sedgwick and Hobbie streets, beginning at 7:30, will be conducted in English. The Rev. Peter Peterson is pastor.

Col. Sidney Gauntlett, territorial secretary of the Salvation army, will describe the work of the Salvation army in the war zone today in the Community church, Elmhurst, Ill. There are 100,000 members of the Salvation army in the contending armies. They operate thirty-six ambulance corps, numerous hospitals, shelters, and nurseries and furnish many chaplains and bandsmen.

Four prize winning temperance contest stories will be read by their authors today in the Auburn Park Baptist church in recognition of the Dry Chicago Federation day.

The Rev. W. Russell Bowie, D. D., rector of St. Paul's church, Richmond, Va., will be the speaker every day this week, from 12:10 to 12:20, at the Majestic theater at the Lenten services under the auspices of the Protestant Episcopal church.

A brass band will play this evening at the opening of the Olivet institute church service at 7:30 at 1440 Sedgwick street.

The Rev. Hugh Black will be the speaker tonight at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. Dr. Black has been for ten years professor in the Union Theological seminary, New York, but is more widely known because of his books on "Friendship," "Work," "Happiness," "Comfort and Restraint," and for his ministry in St. George's church, Edinburg, Scotland. He received the degrees of D. D. and Litt. D. from American universities. He declined a call to return to England as the pastor of the City temple when the Rev. R. J. Campbell resigned. Henry Henschen, cashier of the State Bank of Chicago, will read the scriptures. The organ recital will be by Mrs. Katherine Howard Ward.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson will be the speaker and the Rev. W. R. Wedderspoon, pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal church, the toastmaster at the All-Chicago Epworth league banquet at the Auditorium hotel next Tuesday night. The Epworth league is the young people's society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Bishop Charles P. Anderson of the Protestant Episcopal church will preach today at 11 o'clock in Trinity church, Twenty-sixth street and Michigan avenue, and at 8 p. m. in the Church of St. John the Evangelist.

The Paulist choristers, under the leadership of Father William J. Finn, the organizer and director of the choir, will give a sacred concert at 7:45 tonight in Our Lady of Lourdes church, North Ashland and Leland avenues. The soloists will be Frank M. Dunford, Thomas McGranahan, boy soloists; Le Roy Kurtzeborn and McGrath.

The Salvation army corps No. 1 will celebrate its thirty-second anniversary this afternoon and evening at the Citadel, 1512 West Madison street.

J. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, Toronto, Canada, will speak tomorrow night at the banquet of the Congregational club at the Hotel La Salle. Marion Lawrance, president of the club, in his announcement describes Dr. Macdonald as one of the greatest public speakers on the American continent.

The third annual Illinois Baptist assembly will be held at Quiver Lake Chautauqua park, Havana, Ill., July 15-22. The Rev. T. Harley Marsh of Decatur is president and the Rev. E. K. Masterson of Normal is business manager.

The Church Advertising club will be addressed tomorrow evening on the subject of "The Psychology of Advertising," by J. H. Pickens, formerly associate editor of System. The meeting will be held at the rooms of the Chicago Advertising association, 123 West Madison street.

The new First Congregational church of Oak Park, of which the Rev. W. E. Barton is pastor, will seat 1,400, which is 350 more than the church destroyed last summer by fire had capacity for.

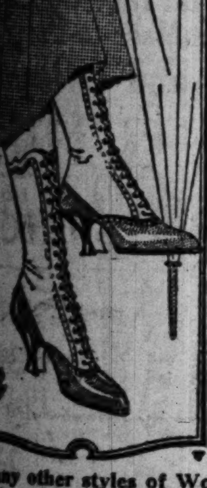
Madam's Shoes for Easter Morn

Fourth Floor—Center

Will no doubt be chosen with discriminating care—and if so, from this unusual display of the famous

Red Cross Shoes



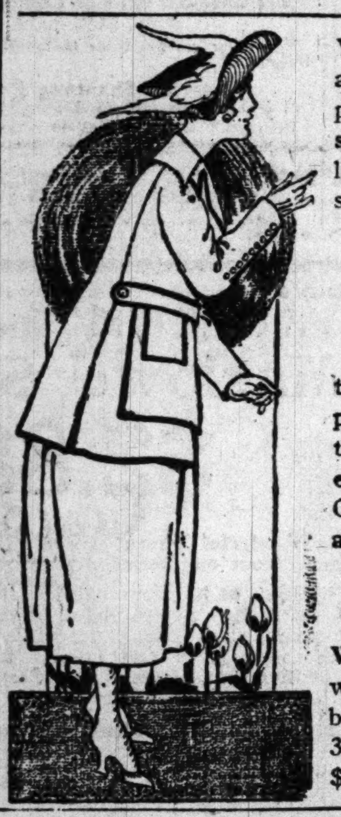
Famous because they are the one woman's shoe that has solved the problem of combining both absolute style and absolute comfort.

For tomorrow we feature one of the season's most fashionable Red Cross shoes for women, made of specially selected black kidskin with a pearl gray kid top—correct new height—a very snug fitting last full of charm and grace that makes one's foot appear smaller and still retaining all the Red Cross comfort features, at $7

Many other styles of Women's Red Cross shoes to choose from at 4.50 to 8.00.

The Rare Charm of These New Easter Suits Will Delight You

Second Floor



You'll be eager indeed to see these women's new spring suits, just the styles most appropriate for Easter time, an extensive collection whose tendency is toward simplicity and the fashionable straight lines. This effect is decidedly youthful, therefore a style certain of a hearty welcome with women folks in general. Not merely are the lines suggestive of youth, but the colors this season are so desirable that choosing a suit is really more of a pleasure than in many seasons past.

The coats are belted, semi-belted and box back styles, many trimmed with silk braid, rows of buttons are used profusely on front, back or sleeves, large collars, many with overcollars of white or rich contrasting shades, peau de cygne and fancy silk lined—the skirts full and shirred in back, with pockets. They're made of all wool serges, poplins, tricotines and gabardines, in black, gray, tan, navy blue and the smart mustard shades, strictly man tailored in every detail, perfect lines in every way. Only three of the many models are illustrated here. Come and see for yourself just how charming a group of suits we are offering for Monday at................................... 22.50

If You Like Everything About Pearl Handle Knives & Forks but Their Price

Eighth Floor—State Street

here is the opportunity you have been awaiting for a decade or more, for it is a rare event to find them just a little underpriced, much less a full third under price—another of those extraordinary purchases for which we are famous. Each piece bears the Landers, Frary & Clark Trade Mark—the standard of quality—the Mother of Pearl shells from which the handles are made are from Manila, chosen particularly because their rare beauty, fire and color, is far superior to any to be had—a sale such as may not be repeated in years—a hint for whoever has Easter or wedding gifts to provide.

Landers, Frary & Clark's highest grade 2⅓ in. extra heavy pearl handle dinner knives and forks, 16 dwt. silver plated steel blades, sterling silver ferrules in lined box, always $18 the set, 6 of each, as illustrated 11.95

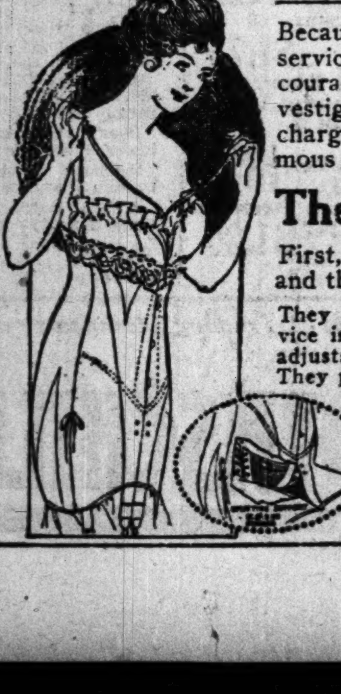
'Tis Well That There Are So Many Stores in Chicago That Fit Corsets

Third Floor—Center



Because comparisons never fail to prove to women the unusual superiority of our Scientific Fitting Service, a fitting service that has been developed with the greatest care for years—a fitting service that has the endorsement and encouragement of the foremost physicians in Chicago, the fullest approval of the hundreds of modistes who have investigated it, the hearty support of every woman who has been fitted here. Still for this fitting service no extra charge is made. It has won its greatest laurels in the task others find most difficult—the correct fitting of the Famous Nemo Corsets. For tomorrow we ask particular attention to

The Invaluable Features and Functions of Nemo Wonderlift Corsets

First, they render remarkable aid to women whose physical condition requires a corset that gives special support and then they bring lines that follow faithfully the latest dictates of Dame Fashion to the smallest detail.

They are an original Nemo invention, the only supporting device in existence that lifts up sagging flesh and automatically adjusts itself to the individual needs of each wearer.

They provide a set of artificial muscles which do the necessary health-fashion work that weakened and relaxed abdominal muscles no longer can do, thereby making the figure smaller and neater at once; and (by passive massage) eventually lighter.

The Nemo Wonderlift Bandlet is made in various forms to suit the needs of various types of figure, from the lean and scrawny to the extra-super-stout.

For the slender "dragged-down" woman a dainty Nemo Wonderlift model, light in weight, which gives the grateful support that tired muscles can no longer supply, at......... $5

At the other extreme is a Nemo model designed for the very short, very stout woman, who finds it so hard to get a corset to fit, at....................... $5

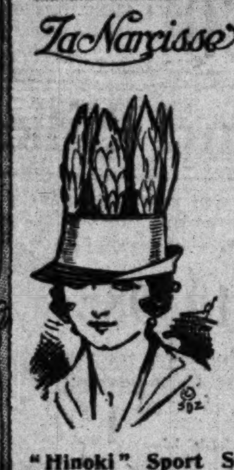
Rothschilds' for Different, Better Hats

La Narcisse Millinery has exquisite style—$5



Promoting the style so as to bring to you at five dollars the very best that can possibly be put into millinery at this price is the big thing that "La Narcisse" stands for. The instantaneous hit these clever hats made with the women of Chicago, who know style, is a wonderful recommendation for them. The ever changing fashion features are always in evidence in this vast collection. To incorporate the style and the atmosphere of Paris inspiration in hats at five dollars is a great commercial and Millinery achievement, which we believe we are accomplishing in building up the demand for "La Narcisse" hats. Tomorrow and every day, five hundred hats to choose from.

"Hinoki" Sport Straw Hats, $2.45 Fully tailored and lined.

"Hinoki" is a straw made in a one piece body, very light and durable and comes from Japan. Four large shapes finished on edges with Milan hemp and tailored with exquisite silk or velvet ribbons. Can be had in all of the best color tones. A millinery value of a high order, $2.45.

Street Hats With Cushion Brims, $3.95 to $6.75

Wonderful are the assortments in these beautiful hats. Plain and combination color tones with trimmings tailored in very new designs. Milan and Liseré braids are the chief straws used. The new cushion brim, a double brim of extreme pliability but is still rigid when on the head.

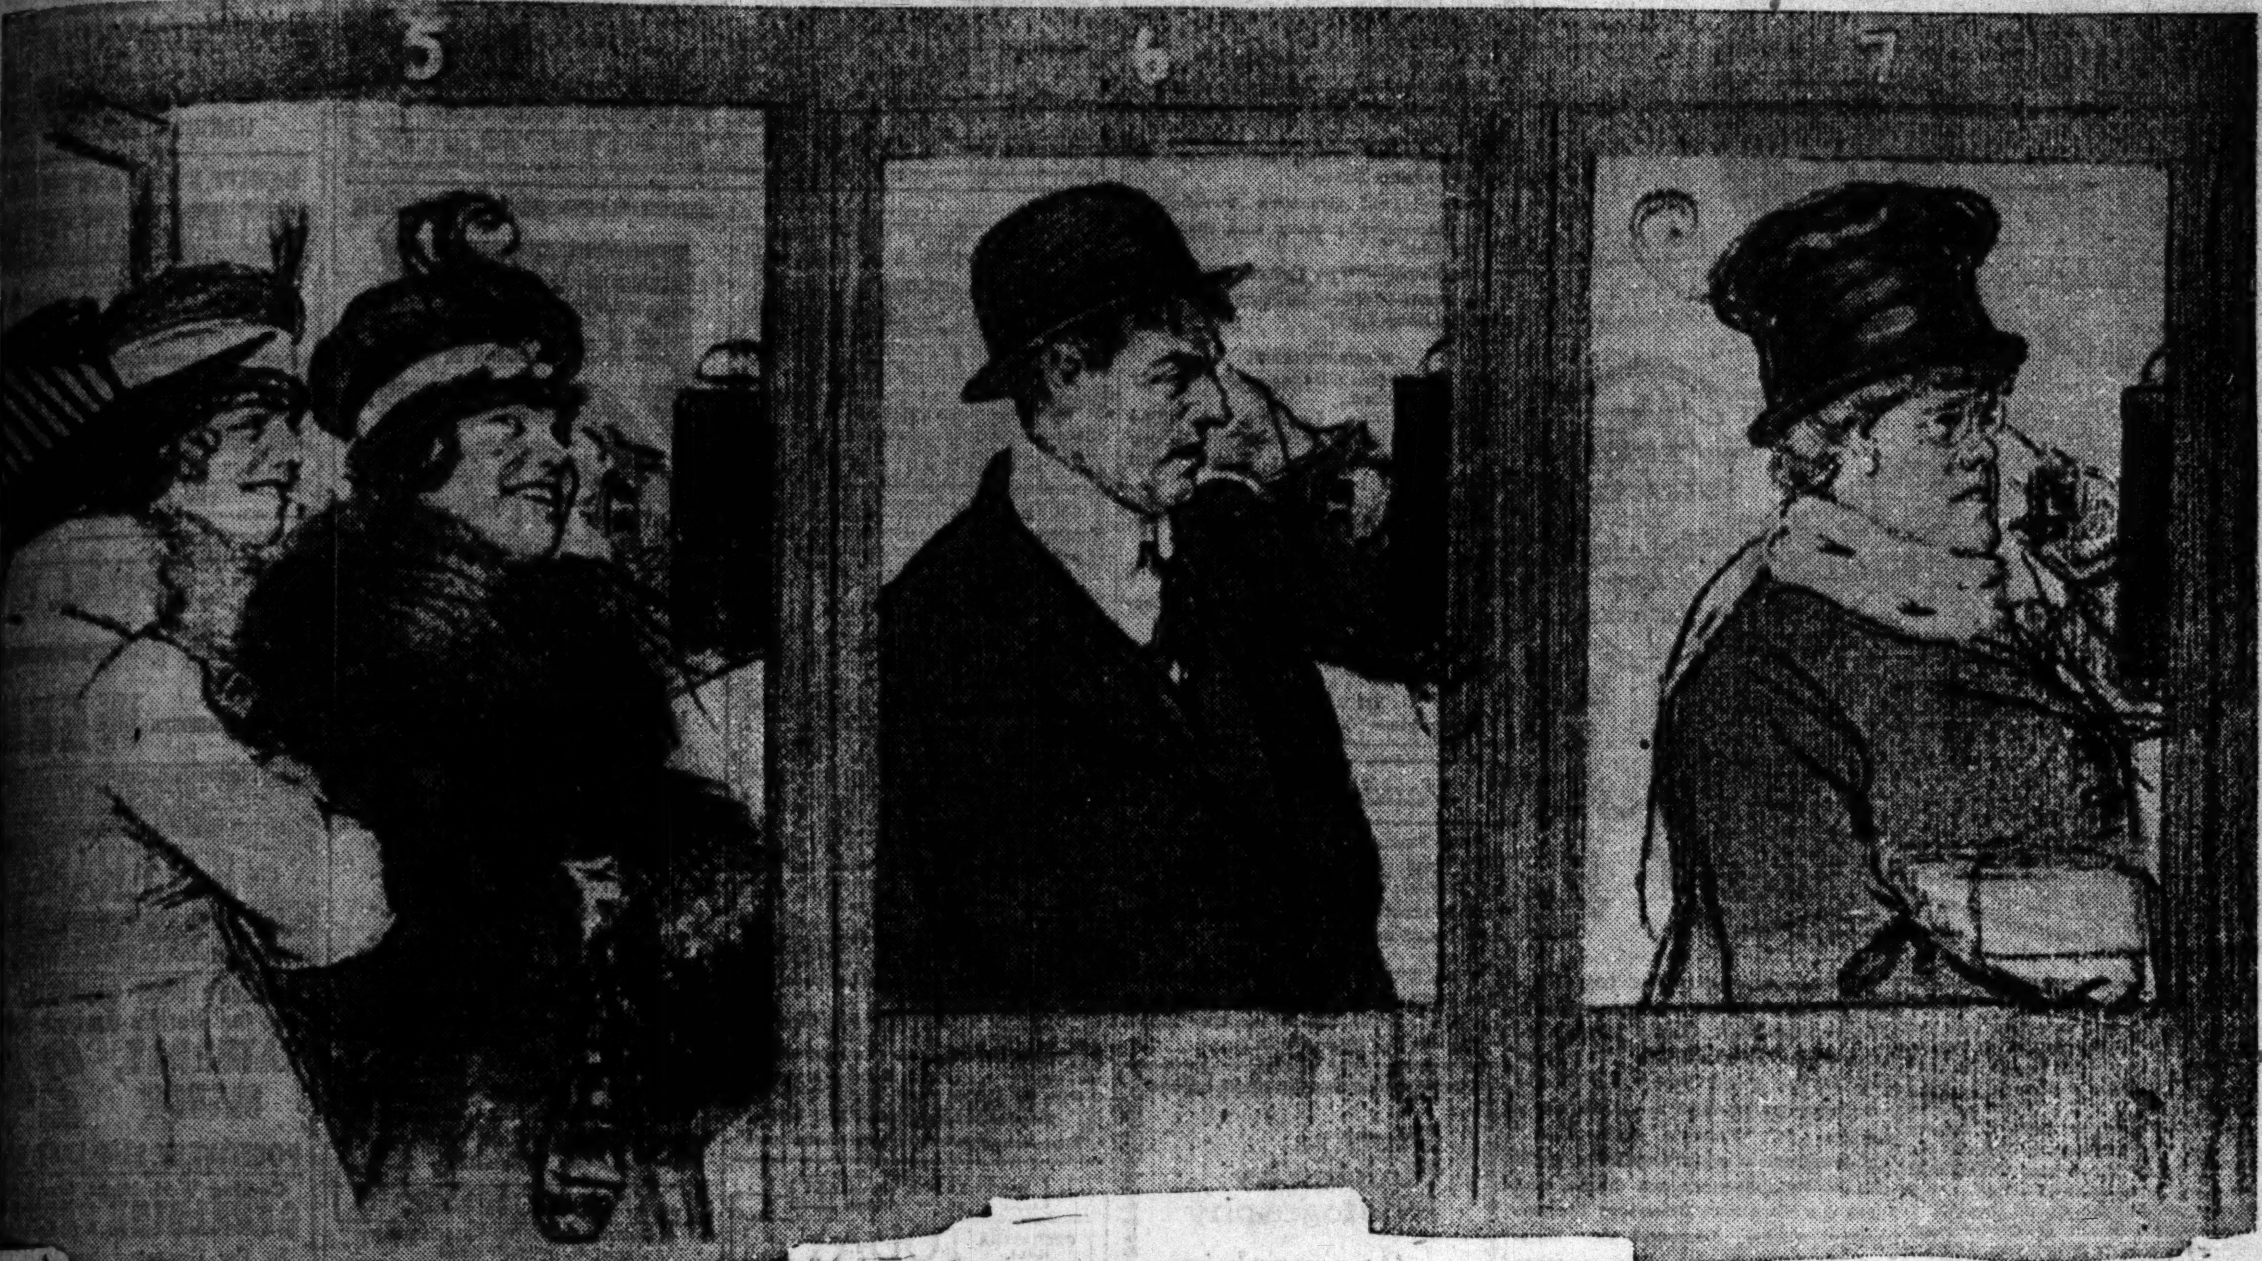
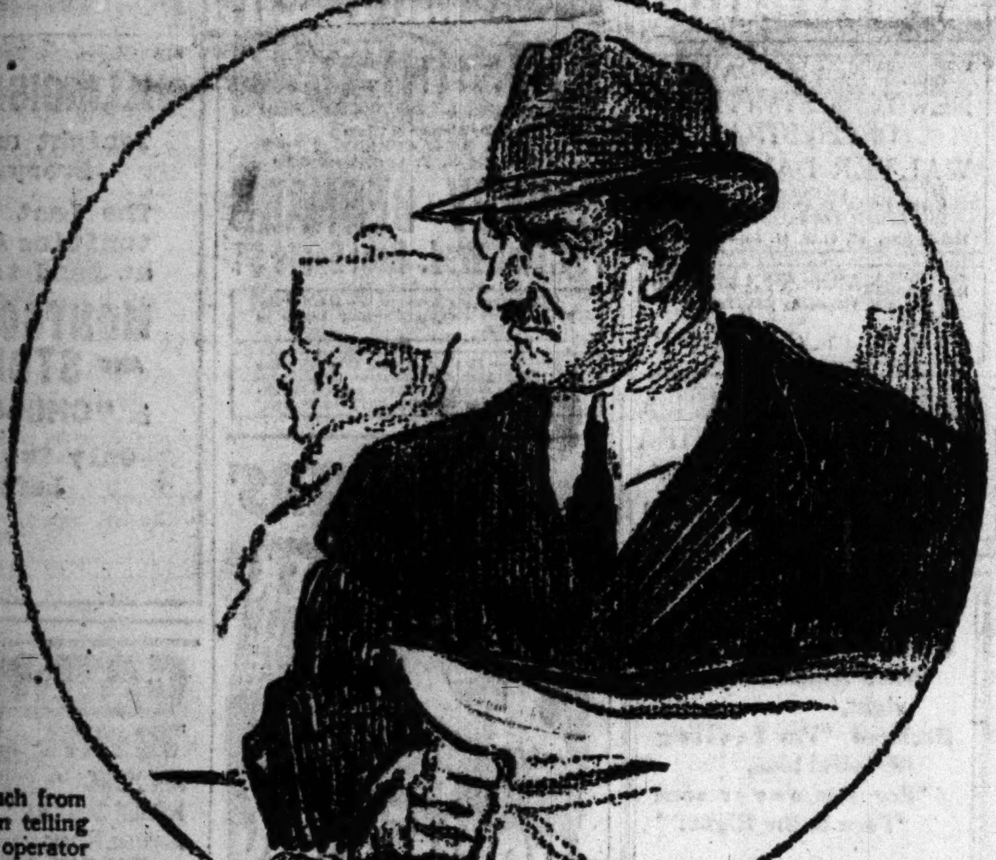
In and About a Telephone Booth—Drawn by W. E. Hill



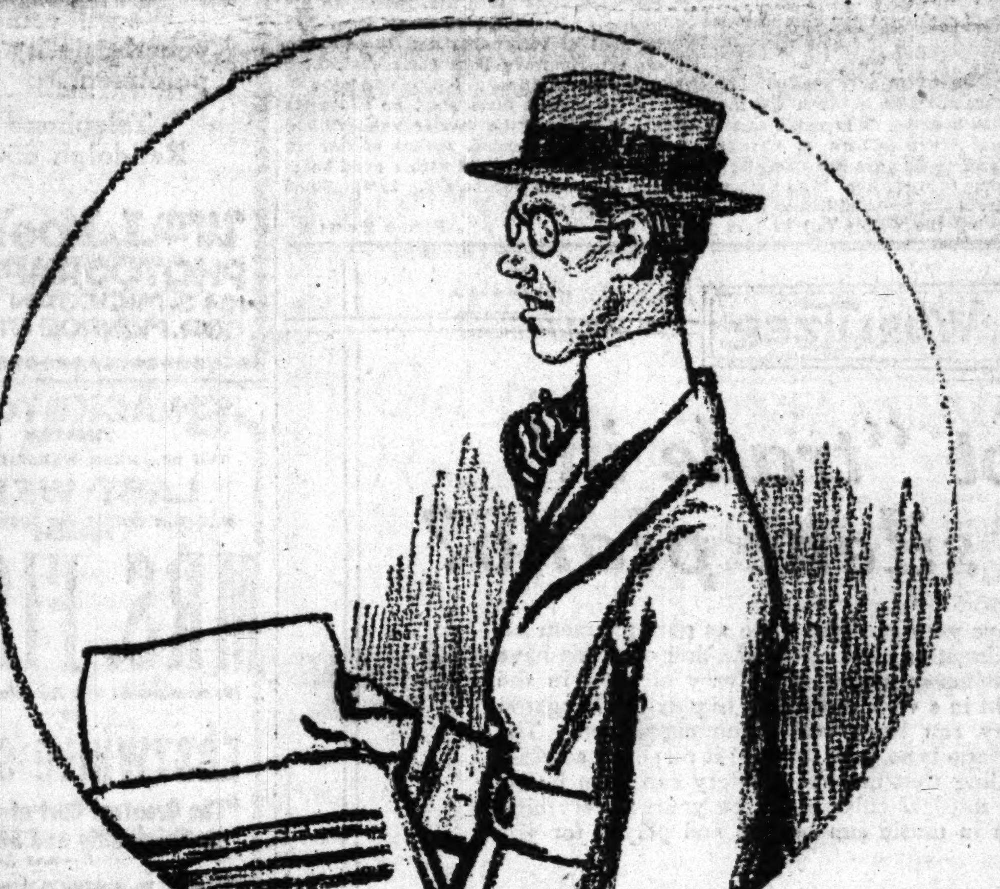
"Listen, Joe, Edna says tell Ed not to take any wooden nickels!"

"Aw, I have not been drinkin'——"

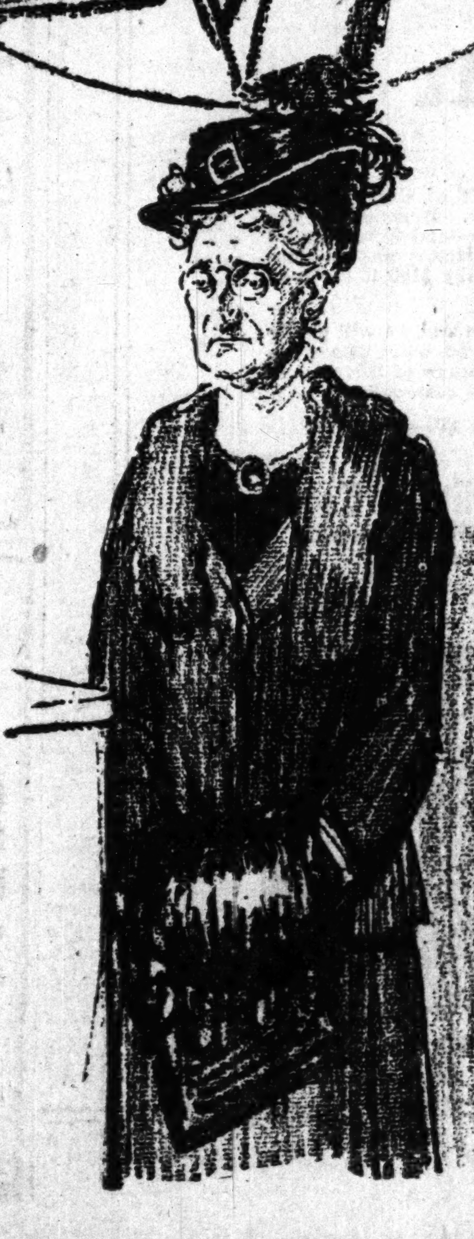
"My dear, it's a lovely suburb, but we can't get a cook to stay out there more than a week!"



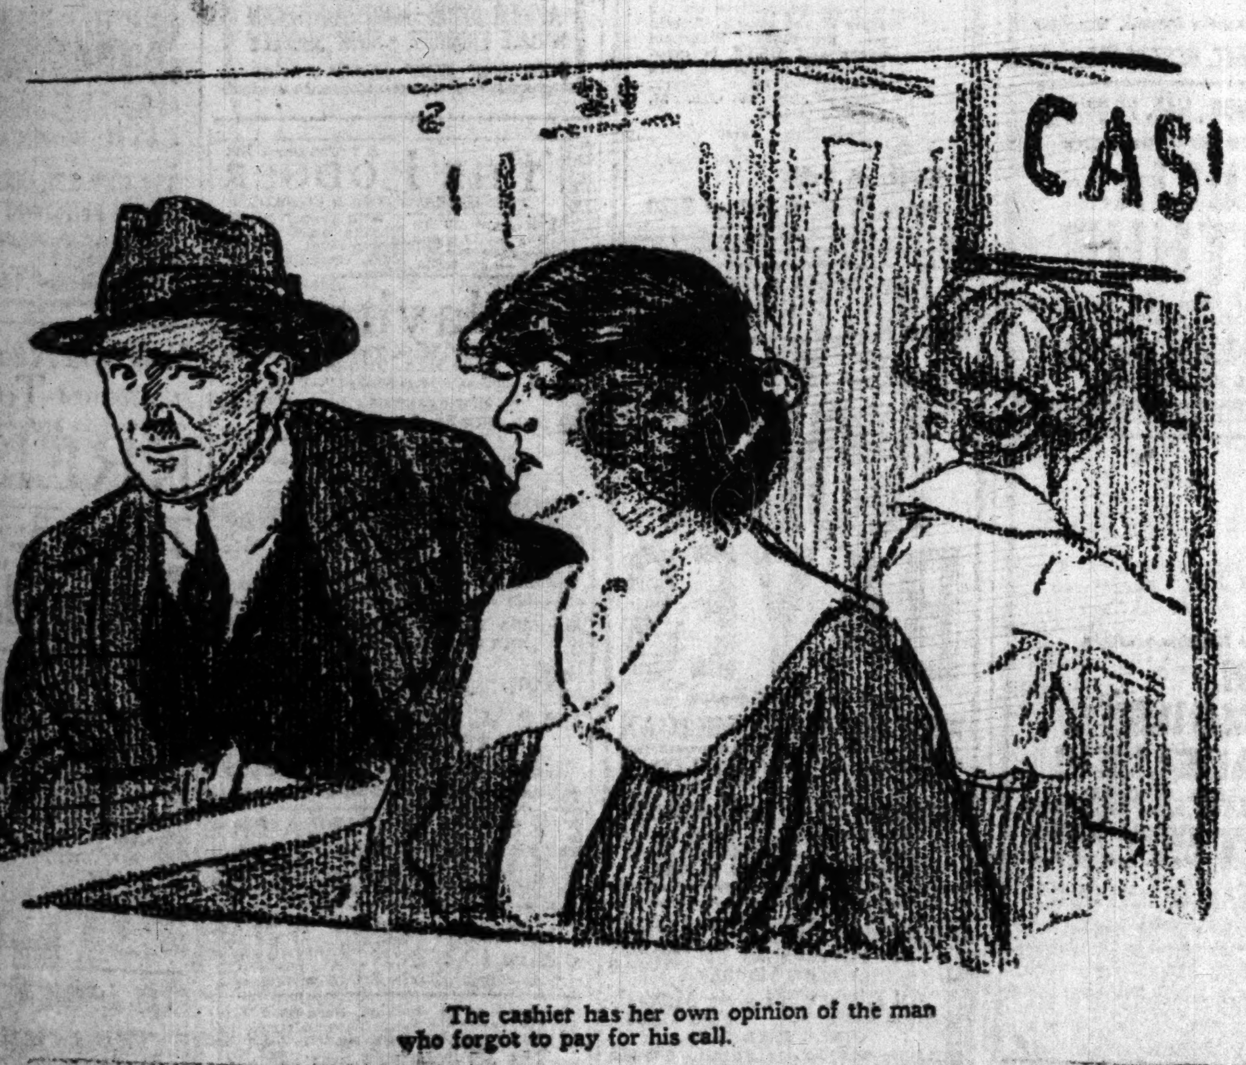
The grouch from out of town telling the busy operator about the splendid service they get in Millers Falls.



Young blood in a 13½ collar who is going to make the girl he calls up guess who it is.



The woman who knows perfectly well that the operator could get the call for her if she wanted to.



The cashier has her own opinion of the man who forgot to pay for his call.

News and Views of the Theater

By Percy Hammond.

MADAME BERNHARDT has summoned the varieties to aid her in her endless errand of abashing the odious and calumniating Kronos. In her entourage when she comes to the Auditorium theater, March 25, she will have Claire Rochester, the girl with two voices; Harry Breen, a monologist; Lucille and her learned cockatoos; Albert Donnelly, the shadowgraphic wonder; Rome Fenton, the young American tenor; and Hubert Kinney and Rhea Lusby, dancers who are up to date. The incomparable one will appear twice daily, save Sunday, at 3 and 9, in short French plays.

Miss Bly Browne, one of the ardent patriots of "The Passing Show," writes in protest against the practice of jeering at our alleged indifference to national defenses. She sends this list of evidences that we are awake to impending perils:

The singing in vaudeville theaters of the new anthem, "America Needs You Like a Mother; Would You Throw Your Mother Down?"

Pictures in newspapers of debutantes at Pinehurst preparing for war.

Pictures of fashionable Chicago women oiling automobiles, preparing for war.

Pictures of the White Sox at Mineral Springs, preparing for war.

The singing in vaudeville theaters of "America, Honolulu Loves You."

Miss Browne herself is no slacker. She has been pictured in the newspapers learning to operate a railway locomotive in preparation for her country's call. Her dad was an engineer.

While it may not be said of "The Cinderella Man" that it is entertainment for those who swear and chew tobacco, it is indubitably a source of refreshment for what Miss Lola Fisher terms the Meliphagidæ, or honey-eaters of the theater. They at least are sustained by its benign drippings. One of them writes to say that the play deviates not an atom from pleasant plausibility, in composition or performance, and that it should be considered seriously as an accurate idyll of New York life, harmless and cheery. No doubt it is a callous soul who cannot view with credulity and affection a proud poet, compounding his odelets and versicles in a cold attic; and visited clandestinely by a pretty heiress, bearing food. It all depends, perhaps, on the personality of the poet.

When "Bosom Friends" is produced in New York by Lew Fields on April 9 it will not be with the original Chicago cast. John Mason, recently released from "Common Clay," will play one of the bosom friends and Miss Irene Fenwick, movie expert, will have one of the leading woman's rôles. The New York venture will be made without the direction of the Messrs. Shubert, from whose auspices Mr. Fields umbrageously has withdrawn.

The dramatic department of Vanity Fair, an organ of the elite, contains a witty pun this month. "Pshaw" for "Shaw." It is by Robert J. Binckley, the dramatic critic.

The announcement that David Belasco is to star Arnold Daly is accompanied by the perturbing detail that once he considered engaging Mr. Daly to play the young physician in "The Boomerang."

Julian L'Estrange has enlisted in a British aviation corps and is in Canada rehearsing for war.

IN the charm and discernment of Miss Lola Fisher's acting as "Good Gracious, Annabelle" you may neglect to consider the many trifles which contribute so much to the effectiveness of the performance. The actor of a "bit" has an ungrateful job, no matter how proficient he is; the thoughtless spectator views him with vague approval but seldom is interested enough to identify him in the play-bill.

I had, therefore, to telephone the Cort theater last night to learn the name of the actor who plays the hotel clerk in "Good Gracious, Annabelle." A scrupulous impersonation, this, requiring no particular talent, perhaps, but demanding a sense of reality and the skill and intelligence to produce it. Here is a hotel clerk, with the dress, the movement, the demeanor, the voice, and the thoughts of a hotel clerk. He is suave, well-groomed, sophisticated, defferential yet dignified, rich in past experiences, and rather indifferent to present ones. He means more to illusion than much scenery. I have forgotten his name again and the Cort doesn't answer the telephone.

Miss Clare Kummer, author of "Good Gracious, Annabelle," says that she wrote it when in need of funds and that it was intended to be a musical comedy libretto with Miss Marie Cahill in the name part. Pilgrims returned from the seaboard tell that her other play, William Gillette's "A Successful Calamity," is the most popular comedy in New York City.

Mme. Bernhardt's schedule for next week is changed from previous announcement. On Monday, instead of "Camille" she will present "From the Stage to the Field of Honor," which is, we are told, "an episode of the world-war in which she has created a sensation, and brought great audiences to their feet, cheering enthusiastically"; Tuesday she will be both Portia and Camille.

Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire" has been made into a musical comedy for production in London. The music is by Gilbert Miller and the libretto by Frederic Lonsdale and Adrian Ross. The play was successful when it was produced in London in 1902.

James Lackaye, who was eminent in the days when plays and theaters were more plentiful, is to come back to the stage in a drama by Mark Price called "Uncle Bob."

In consonance with the great patriotic upheaval in the show business the managers of the Century in New York have discontinued the large, electric lighted star spangled banners on the outside walls of the theater.

A. H. Woods has brought the tour of "Common Clay" to an end, after discovering that the less populous communities are more particular about their Harvard dramas than are the metropolises and near-metropolises.

Joseph Byron Totten, the smiling pickpocket in "Turn to the Right," is a composer of dramas as well as an actor in them. Among the plays which bear his name are "Alibi Bill," "The House of Bondage," "The Call," "The Cowboy and the Squaw," and "The First Lady in the Land," all of them works more or less unfamiliar to loop theaters. Mr. Totten is also an ex-director in the movies.

J. M. Kerrigan, recently a part of Miss Anglin's late venture, "The Lioness," has been engaged to play with Miss Laurette Taylor in "Out There."

Mr. Sothern's effort at play writing, "Stranger than Fiction," has been found wanting in New York City, and it was withdrawn last evening.

JAMES K. HACKETT is to produce Eugene Walters' new play, "The Assassin," next month if he can find a theater in New York to house it. Chicago was first selected for the première, but the flasco of "The Knife" is said to have put this city on Mr. Walters' list of undesirables. It is for similar reasons that there are to be no more first performances of plays by the Hattons in Chicago.

Herman Lieb, who is still playing "Dope" in the vaudeville theaters, will have a dramatic stock company this summer at the Wilson Avenue theater.

"Hit-the-Trail Holliday" and Fred Niblo returned Home last evening after a tour of the smaller cities.

The current New York Winter Garden spectacle, "The Show of Wonders," will be transferred to the Palace Music hall in Chicago May 15.

Miss Christie MacDonald will return to the theater in a musical play by A. E. Thomas called "The Little Missis." Her husband, H. L. Gillespie, is the impresario.

The newest Shubert playhouse in New York will be called the Intimate theater. The production of small musical comedies will be its policy.

"O, Mary, Be Careful," a tale by George Weston, is being dramatized for footlighting by the Messrs. Selwyn & Co.

The Players' Workshop will present four plays this week at the theater in East Fifty-seventh street. They are "Rumor" by Frederick Bruegger; "No Sabe" by Elisha Cook; "Out of the Dark" by Donavan Yeuell, and "Tonsils" by Marie L. Marsh.

THE TRIBUNE was in error when in its account of the Actors' fund benefit it said that "Somewhere in Mexico" was presented by Donald Brian and members of the "Turn to the Right" cast. Mr. Spottswood, who played the craven airman, and Mr. Morrell, who impersonated Villa, are among the actors of "Potash and Perlmutter in Society." It may be repeated that their acting was the best at the benefit.

Miss Josephine Huddleston, famed hereabouts as a model for artists, has joined the cast of "Potash and Perlmutter in Society" at the Olympic, taking the rôle of Mrs. Andrief, née Potash.

Julian Eltinge was so popular in Los Angeles last week that three extra matinées were necessary to satisfy the public. All records for attendance were exceeded.

Four Mortons will be available again next season, when the redoubtable Sam and Kitty will be joined by two younger children now at college.

"The Colleens," a singing and dancing act headed by Lady Louise Agnese, will soon be seen in vaudeville. It will be under the patronage of Lord and Lady Aberdeen, and its profits will go to Irish charities.

Burns Mantle's New York Letter

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—There may be something wrong with E. H. Sothern's sense of humor, judging it from American standards, but his sense of observation is exceedingly acute.

At the Garrick theater the other night Mr. Sothern appeared as the author of a new comedy-farce entitled "Stranger Than Fiction." He had seated himself with Mrs. Sothern in the rear of a balcony box and very few knew that he was in the theater.

A the conclusion of the second act, however, there were the customary calls for the author, backed by the usual Broadway determination to have him out, dead or alive, and after a decent interval Mr. Sothern responded. Speaking from the box, he thanked the audience for its kindness in thus honoring his modest effort. It might appear a bit presumptuous for him, he admitted, to attempt to entertain an audience with a comedy, when he might have devoted his talents to a five act tragedy, but the comedy form had appealed to him and he had followed it.

The point of this illustration lies in the fact that during the first two acts of "Stranger Than Fiction" the audience had accepted it much as though it were, if not a tragedy, at least a very sad affair. Which, in truth, it was. And the sensitive Sothern, expecting a succession of howls of laughter, sank deeper and deeper into his place, and doubtless wished he had, indeed, written a tragedy.

Do you recall reading anything about a play entitled "The Big Idea," written by Clayton Hamilton and A. E. Thomas two or three years ago? It lived but a fortnight, or maybe a month, in New York, but has since been played considerably by stock companies throughout the country. The idea of that comedy was the novel one of having a play develop before the very eyes of the audience. A youth, much in need of money to save his family from a calamitous crash, is induced at the end of the first act to put his current experiences into play form, and in the concluding act to offer the very play which the audience has been enjoying to a theatrical manager for production.

"I like the idea so far as you've gone," objects the manager, "but what is your conclusion to be? Is this going to be a comedy or a tragedy?"

"It'll be a comedy if you buy it," truthfully though mysteriously answers the youth, "and a tragedy if you don't."

Mr. Sothern's play is builded on basicly the same foundation, but in cleverness his treatment of the idea does not compare with that of the Messrs. Hamilton and Thomas. "Stranger Than Fiction" becomes rather a dramatization of William Archer's book, "Playmaking," and makes both sport and caiptal of that technical tome.

The protagonist here, contending that drama is all about us and that the greatest plays might easily spring from the most unexpected of sources, proceeds to demonstrate. He is just home from the theater, and because there is a practically impenetrable fog outside, the locale being London, he has asked two strangers to step into his rooms until the fog lifts. It transpires that they are a couple of crooks seeking to escape from the police. A few moments later there is an accident outside the writer's door, and from a smashed cab an excited dowager, her son, who is unconscious from shock, and her companion are carried in. Here, then, are the dramatis personae to illustrate the amateur playwright's point, and he proceeds to observe and build them into a play according to Mr. Archer's rules. There is much talk of exposition, development, peripetia, denouement, climax, foreshadowing, etc. All of which is dull stuff and vastly mysterious to the crowd.

Some little interest attaches to the adroitness with which Mr. Sothern moves his puppets to keep them out of each other's way and to the plot itself. The dowager's son, for instance, turns out to be a girl who has been brought up a boy to fool the courts and inherit the family estates; the crooks seek to kidnap the girl; the mother to prevent her child's sex from becoming known; a doctor person to expose the fraud, and the playwright to bend all angles of the adventure to his uses.

An unfortunate lack of preparedness associated with the first performance of "The Willow Tree" at the Cohan & Harris theater this week is all that prevented it from registering immediately one of the really big successes of the season. Because there had been no out of town performances, and because it proved impossible to estimate the value of certain episodes at rehearsals, the first performance ran until midnight. With a play of adventure this lapse of time would not have mattered, but it happens that "The Willow Tree" is a dainty Japanese fantasy, as fragile as the paper pagoda which is a feature of its setting, and to try to stretch a fantasy over three hours and a half is to kill it, with a restless audience, at least.

There is so much charm in this little idyl, however, so much beauty in its pictures, and so much that is fine in its acting, that we are inclined to believe the initial handicap will be promptly overcome. The day following the opening George Cohan left his picture job long enough to take his little blue steel ax and chop away much of the obstructing foliage and the second night practically an hour was cut from the performance.

"The Willow Tree" is a second adventure in oriental atmosphere by the J. Harry Benrimo, who worked with George Hazleton on "The Yellow Jacket." It is an application of the Galatea legend to modern Japan, and Harrison Rhodes is this time Mr. Benrimo's collaborator. The heroine is a life-size image carved out of the heart of a willow and bought by an idling Englishman to keep him company in the hermit's garden he has established in Japan. He is ill of a love-sickness, having been jilted by an English girl, and he purposes keeping himself out of the world for years and years.

There is a legend surrounding the princess of the willow tree. In the long, long ago she had lived to make a mortal lover happy, but when she learned that his country needed him while he idled his time away in her garden she bade the servants cut down the willow tree that was her life, took her place again upon her pedestal, and thus sent her lover back to work. This legend the old wood carver repeats to the English lad, and adds to it the superstition of the orientals that if a mirror, being the soul of a woman, were placed next the heart of an image very often the image would come to life.

Of course the Englishman tries it, and of course it happens. She is very like the English girl in many ways, this princess of the willow tree, and so the love story the two weave is a fascinating tale of sentimental charm. And in the end, even as it had happened in the legend, the Englishman hears that England needs him. He, too, refuses at first to leave his princess, and so she makes the sacrifice that will send him back to his "George King" to do his bit.

Fay Bainter, the little western stock actress who, after four trials, found herself last fall on Broadway and the center of a personal hit in "Arms and the Girl," has clinched that first impression by an alluring performance as the princess. Momentarily she appears also as the English girl and there is a little obvious hokus-pokus in doubling the rôles. She is a wise choice for the part, the wisest we can at the moment think of, and her future hereabout is aglow with promise. Shelley Hull, continuing his progress as the most engaging of young leading men, plays opposite Miss Bainter, and old George Wilson, years and years with E. H. Sothern, is the wood carver.

Nearly every one has written, or thought of writing, a successor to "Peg o' My Heart," including Maude Fulton, who used to dance in vaudeville with William Rock. Miss Fulton finished her play and called it "The Brat," and because Oliver Morosco made a fortune with "Peg," he produced it for her. For some weeks now it has been flirting with a Broadway opening, and a week ago it was brought into the Harris theater.

"The Brat" is not another "Peg," though as a play it is quite as well put together. But it is rather a good entertainment in the writing of which Miss Fulton has shown a commendable desire to be reasonable, and in which she has demonstrated a better than average ability in writing dialogue and creating characters.

"The Brat" is a Hippodrome chorus girl who, down on her luck and hungry, takes to begging, is arrested and haled to night court. There a novelist in search of types pays her fine and takes her home to study her. Miss Fulton does not strain the probabilities to the extent of having the writer fall in love with the waif. She gives her, rather, to his younger brother, a wild youth somewhat in need of reforming, and the two go west to improve both their characters and opportunities.

It is a good little play, as soubrette plays go, and the former vaudevillian, playing the heroine, makes of her an engaging sort of child with a good heart and a slangy vocabulary. Lewis Stone is the novelist.

Miss Relph, who is Mrs. Lionel Atwill, appeared first in London with Mrs. Patrick Campbell. Later she played with Forbes-Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," and was leading woman in the London production of "Fanny's First Play." Other experiences were with Granville Barker in Shakespearean drama, and with the Horniman Repertory theater, acting Claire Desmond in Galsworthy's "The Fugitive" among other rôles.

WITH A WOMAN'S WEAPON.

MARY MILES MINTER was stabbed recently! No, not by any jealous admirer, not by an irate director, but by herself. She was in her dressing room, talking with a friend and putting on her hat at the same time. While gesticulating animatedly she stabbed herself in the eye with a hatpin and had to be taken immediately to the doctors. The wound was not serious. Thanks be!

Gladys Brockwell of Fox has a new alarm clock. The commodity is a parrot that starts yelling "Get up!" at 6 o'clock in the morning.

In a coming production planned by Yorke for Harold Lockwood and May Allison they will be called upon to take aerial fights in a real biplane. Needless to say, they are busily and anxiously studying aviation at the present time.

George Fischer and Edward Peil have been reengaged as leading men in American Film company productions.

Marguerite Clark will be soon seen in the Famous Players' adaptation of the "Sub Debutantes" stories written by Mary Roberts Rinehart. "A sub deb," Mrs. Rinehart explains, "is a girl who has not yet made her debut in society but is dangling on the edge of this momentous event."

Howard Davies and Genevieve Hamper are recent additions to the Fox group of players.

Miss Susie May Squoggs, tattle tale, who was Mary Pickford's opposite in a notable fight in "A Poor Little Rich Girl," is having her troubles with the New York Juvenile court. In private life Miss Squoggs is Maxine Elliott Hicks and she lives with her mother in New York. The board of education, seeing that for some time she had not been going to school, haled her before the magistrate. Though her mother claimed that Maxine's absence for twenty-nine days from the halls of learning had been due to her work, for which she was getting $75 a week, her explanation fell on barren soil. It was only when she promised to engage a tutor that the case was continued until March 30.

Helen Holmes, daring Mutual railroad girl, is afraid of mice.

Samuel Goldfish, president of the Goldwyn Pictures corporation, is recovering from a recent injury to his ankle sustained while playing handball. How do you play handball, Mr. Goldfish?

"The Badge of Shame" is the last picture to be released by the Clara Kimball Young service.

The admirers of Creighton Hale will be delighted to know that he has signed another long contract with Pathé. His last appearance was in "The Iron Claw," in which he played the reo.

The Edison company is thinking of adapting the daylight saving plan by moving the clock ahead one hour.

William Desmond performed one of the most hazardous stunts of his moving picture career this week while working on location. It was his duty to escape from a burning building. The window from which he was to make his escape was at one end of the building and at the other a balcony with a narrow ledge across. Mr. Desmond is said to have made his exit from the window and, by hanging by his hands with a drop of about forty feet between him and the lawn, worked his way the entire length of the ledge and then—"Retake!" shrieked his director. "Some of that business was all wrong!" O, it's great to be a movie actor.

It is said that J. Van Cortland, who is playing in "The Great Secret," Metro serial, is the only blind man appearing in motion pictures. He was blackjacked and beaten by robbers and his eyesight was permanently affected. Mr. Van Cortland is just able to distinguish between light and darkness and has to be led about the streets. It is a source of wonder to all who watch his work that he is able to so intelligently play his rôle as he does.

Edward Elkas has returned to the Vitagraph studio in Brooklyn.

Says Cleo Madison: "Conscientious artists like criticism. It always hurts my feeling to be adversely criticized, but I know such criticism is good for me. Compliments are apt to make an artist careless."

Vivian Martin and Jack Pickford have completed their production under the direction of Marshall Neilan at the Lasky studio. This is a good stellar combination, I should say.

At the General Federation of Woman's Clubs in New York last spring a Chicago teacher declared that she considered "Silas Marner" "not only an unforgettable motion picture but an actual blessing to the teachers of English literature." This picture was produced by Mutual for release a year ago.

"The fewer clothes you wear," says Miss Annette Kellermann, "when you are in swimming the better. No woman could hope to go through the water like a fish with a dry goods store on her back."

Carlyle Blackewll has signed a new and long time contract with World Pictures, Brady made.

Clara Kimball Young, it is said, has abandoned all attempts to even so much as open her correspondence. Her publicity manager informs us that the day after the opening in New York of "The Price She Paid" Miss Young received 783 letters.

Writes an admirer to Miss Mabel Normand: "You may be out of sight, but you're never out of mind."

Overshadowing Causes That Lead Up to Matrimonial Difficulties, Presented in Intensely Interesting Pictures—

Is Marriage Sacred?

I know that these dramas are the most intensely human motion pictures ever produced, because they deal with humanity's most vital problem.

Marriage and divorce—the "eternal triangle"—all the trials and troubles of married life are handled in these pictures with a wholesome frankness that is as refreshing as it is absorbing.

Such famous screen stars as Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Lillian Drew and Sydney Ainsworth, play the leads.

All are great, gripping pictures—each an absolutely complete story! See one of these unusual photo-dramas every week.

"ASK ME!—ASK ME!—ASK ME!"

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

MISS ROSE O.: Address Ella Hall care of the Bluebird-Universal company, Universal City, Cal.; Enid Bennett, Triangle, Los Angeles, Cal.; Viola Dana, Metro, 1465 Broadway, New York; Mae Murray, Lasky, Los Angeles, Cal.; Marie Dressler, World Film company, 130 West Forty-sixth street, New York, and Mary Miles Minter, American-Mutual, Santa Barbara, Cal. No trouble at all.

G. A. H.: You were right. It was Earl Foxe who played with Mae Murray in "The Dream Girl." So far as I know, it is the gentleman's own name.

M. V.: I shall take great pleasure in mailing you the printed material I have on the doubling process, if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope. You are entirely welcome.

H. AND R.: The Pathé company refuses to reveal the name of the silent menace. They won't even tell me!

E. D. C.: Wouldn't that be lovely? I sure do enjoy your letters; write again some time, won't you?

E. B. C.: Awfully sorry. Do write again and tell me about it.

ROXANNE: Robert Warwick was married to a Miss Peck of Chicago at one time. I understand they are separated now.

A READER: Not that I know of. Bessie Love and Bessie Learn are two different people. I suppose if I were quite clever I could make a pun for thee; but I'm not, so we'll let it go. Bessie Love was born in California. She was educated there. Her first work in pictures was as an extra girl for Triangle.

DAN C. II.: So you would like to see Marguerite Snow and James Cruze "screenically reunited." Well, are you sure this would be the best thing for Peggy? Thanks very much for the information. You're a good sort of a friend to have, Dan C. Glad to have heard from you again. You mustn't ask me to give my personal opinions in this column. I think you are right on a lot of things, however. Write again.

ANXIOUS: There are about forty scenes to the average reel. I think you had better send me a stamped, addressed envelope for the material I have on scenario writing and a list of firms that accept scenarios. No trouble at all. Glad to have heard from you.

AVON: Don't you worry about your bargain stationery. Heaven knows that any time we can get a bargain these days we should up and grab it. Douglas Fairbanks is with the Artcraft company. He does not, however, play opposite Mary Pickford. I look not like Billie Burke, neither do I look like Theda Bara. You should just see what I look like! Write again—and I don't mind telling you I had an awful time reading your writing, although it is certainly good to look at.

Singers and Things to Sing

By Frederick Donaghey.

GALLI-CURCI has been to Boston to sing; and the reviewers there have since been betraying most of the signs of ecstatic lunacy made familiar in Chicago print in the weeks following her first appearance in the Auditorium. Philip Hale, on whom New England has for many years depended for guidance and enlightenment in matters of music, sizzles in praise of the great bravura singer; and H. T. Parker, who regards a solid column of the Boston Transcript as the minimum container for what he has to say on any subject, goes well into a second column with reasons why she is wonderful in spite of her Chicago vogue. She is back in this neighborhood: she is to sing Friday night in Ottawa.

FAIRCHILD PHOTO

Miss Lucy Gates

Miss Gates, as yet unknown in Chicago, is indicated by the management as a luric soprano with coloratura leanings. She is to be heard on Wednesday night, in Orchestra Hall, as soloist of a concert by the Philharmonic Choral Society.

Mischa Elman is to return, week-after-next, as soloist with the Orchestra; and his selection of a conveyance for the occasion indicates that his main purpose is to convince B. L. T., at least, of Paganini's inferiority with the violin. Elman is then to play the most formidable of the battle-horse compositions, Brahms' concerto: this was last used by a very young man, Frank Gittelson, a guest of the Orchestra late in 1914.

Eric De Lamarter is to be represented anew in the program with Elman: this time, with a suite called "The Fable of the Hapless Folk-Tune."

Singers are doing so well with the "Marseillaise" that Bernhardt's press-agent is interested. She says, he says, that she is studying it deeply, with a view of "finding some new way to give the right uplift to the spoken words." Also, he says that she says, she has an impression that the hymn should be chanted "from some point above the stage." And she is unable to see how anybody could regard her using the "Marseillaise" as an infringement of the neutrality which, it seems, she is pledged to observe while in the United States. Nobody is likely to bother her: Muratore, late Friday night, sang it in Orchestra Hall, and pulled the cheering audience to its reverent American feet in the first measure with a jerk which was startling in view of the sad, reluctant, furtive mien with which our citizenry takes its stance when "The Star-Spangled Banner" is the tune.

"Lakmé," tentatively listed as among the works to be revived next season by Campanini for Galli-Curci and Muratore, is to be put back this week into the Metropolitan's schedule, after ten years—but, of course, with an Italian cast, led by Barrientos and Martinelli. Most of the newspapers there are persistent in urging Gatti-Casazza to give more French opera, urging the success of "Carmén" and "Thaïs" as argument. That the former remains Farrar's operas, so far as New York is concerned, is, doubtless, proved anew by the fact that a recent non-subscription performance, with Caruso not in the cast, jammed the theater.

De Koven's "The Canterbury Pilgrims" is, seemingly, a popular failure. The critics think that the management did everything easily possible in casting and mounting the piece, although most of the singers were from the German wing of the Metropolitan. One reviewer said that the audience was made to know that the opera was sung in English after Margarete Ober, as the Wife of Bath, distinctly said "Shut up!"

The Metropolitan is in the nineteenth week of a season which, from reliable accounts, will show a profit, in defiance of the tradition that opera may not be sold without loss. A sophisticated, disinterested observer of activities there tells me that the excess will be not less than $250,000, with $500,000 not improbable. The war, with its abolition of the European market, has made possible a radical economy in the pay of singers—not, of course, the Carusos and Farrars, but the so-so stripe of somebodies: able, sagacious, efficient performers whose merits, at the box-office, are negative. Singers who got $400 a night are singing whenever required for $400 a week: that, he says, is about the measure of the cutting.

The Society of American Singers is a new corporation made up of performers who are just dying to have the public understand what "Il Trovatore" is all about. Albert Reiss, Schumann-Heink, and Carl Jörn are in. So is Geraldine Farrar, who, although she never uses the language on the stage, is delighted to subscribe to the "movement for opera-comique in our English tongue." She certainly must be sorry that she sat through "O Say!"; for the rules of the society require that members shall be "singers of standing, and of American citizenship."

Walter Damrosch, headed hither, has been doing well by his press-agent, saying this to an audience in London, Ontario: "Although born in Germany, I am strongly pro-Ally in my sympathies: the rape of Belgium and the sinking of the Lusitania were too much for me." Then, urging that feeling against Germany should not lessen regard for Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, and Wagner, he added: "It were just as logical for Canadian Protestants to give up their religion because Luther was a German as to give up their admiration for the great German masters of music because of their nationality!"

Fritzi Scheff, imported for the Metropolitan in the late 'nineties, is said to have signed a contract to sing in the cabaret of a Broadway restaurant. She was, while there, the most popular soubrette the Metropolitan has ever had—thanks, mostly, to her getting the "fat" rôle of Musetta when "La Bohême" was new and the public excited by the discovery that, although it was "grand-opera," Puccini's tunes could be whistled. Her vogue in operetta, after she found a good piece in "Mlle. Modiste," was enormous. Managers thought so well of her, despite the woes that flowed from her sheer perversity, that she was able, for singing in "The Mikado"—and she was bad beyond description in that—to get $300 a performance seven times a week, with extras in the way of maids, service, et-cetera running into $200 more.

A reader writes in to ask why Clara Butt comes no more to Chicago. My impression is that she did not find great prosperity in this country, although in possession of what is, perhaps, the greatest contralto voice in the world. She is busy in England, singing programs involving a fair measure of patriotic ballads: one in her program is a setting by Edward German of a new song by Kipling, "Have You Heard of My Boy Jack?"

Another setting of Kipling words is Sousa's of the poet's "Boots!" This, just now, is of greater vogue here than in Great Britain, where the nature of the verses is not regarded as precisely a solvent for the Conscientious Objector. Sousa has made a good job of this: there is grisly eloquence in the musical idiom of his devising to express the collapse of the haunted Tommy.

New York's two orchestras, the Philharmonic and the Symphony, are embattled in the newspapers on questions of répertoire, soloists, racial preferences in programs, and such, the respective clienteles doing the fighting in letters to the editor. A third element in the quarrel is represented by non-patrons of either: they insist that the best music to be heard there is given by the Boston Orchestra, and that the only first-class audiences of the city are those that go to the visiting organization. The critic of the New York Evening Post, by way of illustrating the contention as to the quality of attendance, says he overheard, at a recent Boston Symphony concert, the following rhapsodies:

"The symphony is in D-minor: I just love a minor!"

"I don't care what they play! I just love to listen to the sound of the orchestra!"

"No—I don't care to read the program notes: I love to interpret the music in my own way. It may be crude; but it suits me!"

"I suppose almost every one here is a real lover of music."

Three Best Sellers in Music.

The following were the most popular Edison records:

"Ole Virginny" and "Listen to This."

"Cradle Song" and "What Have I to Give?"

"Yaddie Kaddie" and "Way Down in Iowa."

The best selling Columbia records have been:

"See the Pale Moon" and "The Pearl Fishers."

"Macushla" and "Mother Machree."

"Old Zip Coon" and "Arkansas Traveler."

The most popular player rolls of the week have been:

"Northern Nights."

"Let's All Be Americans Now."

"Hawaiian Butterfly."

The three best selling sheet music numbers of the week were:

"Nothing's Good Enough for a Good Little Girl."

"Naughty! Naughty! Naughty!"

"It's a Cute Little Way of My Own."

While the smartness and beauty of the outer Dort is in complete keeping with its excellence within, it is the inner Dort that you should know thoroughly. Here, under the surface, is beauty of another sort—the beauty of sturdiness and efficiency.

All the Dort's component parts are remarkable for their unfailing dependability, simplicity, accessibility.

This kind of excellence has opened the eyes of thousands of motorwise men and women—and made them Dort owners. It makes the Dort a car that the whole family can use and enjoy.

With all this quality, with complete equipment, with 'big-car' refinements and conveniences, the Dort is a moderate priced car—$695—and it is a supremely good car.

When a Woman Drives

When a woman drives a Liberty car she instantly brings out its most remarkable points. She is infinitely comfortable in the driving seat, with all the easily handled controls readily within her reach. She need not adjust herself for the car, or reach, or exert strength. It is as if the driving seat and all controls had been designed with her alone in mind.

Some Vital Superiorities

The clutch pedal yields easily to her foot. The powerful foot break requires no exertion of strength. The smooth and silent gear shift in its rhythmic motion is easily manipulated with two fingers, while its action is noiseless and mechanically perfect, even in the unusual shift from third to second at full speed.

Finally, of greatest importance for the woman who drives, is the Liberty emergency brake—applied with a short motion and the pull of one finger—and never failing to stop the car instantly—smoothly—safely.

If a woman can drive a Liberty without effort all day and every day—think how the Liberty must respond to a man's control.

Make This Direct Comparison

The best way to test a Liberty is to step out of a big car of which you approve and into the Liberty. Make this direct comparison. You will get proof by this test stronger than any words or the indorsements the Liberty receives from all car experts.

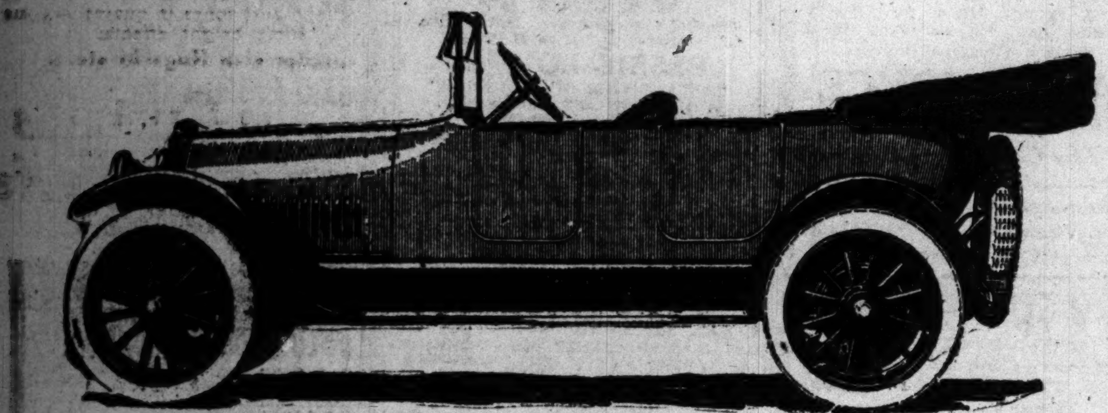
LIBERTY SIX 1195



Studebaker
Established 1852

More Power at Less Cost

Both Series "18" Studebaker FOUR and Series "18" Studebaker SIX are noted for their great power, and especially their great power in ratio to their very low consumption of gasoline.

It has taken Studebaker four years to improve, refine and perfect the wonderful Studebaker motor. It has been solved through the experience of 250,000 cars in the hands of owners. It is only, through an evolution like this, that perfection of power in ratio to fuel consumption can possibly be developed.

There are no secret processes; no basic patents; no features of design that are unknown or prohibited by patents. The Engineer can use what he wishes, but he can only know how to use the best features by continually improving, refining and perfecting—through the experience of a motor in actual service.

This is why Studebaker can truthfully claim that the design of its motor is unsurpassed in simplicity, accessibility and power. By the refinement of reciprocating parts, vibration has been reduced to an almost unobservable minimum.

The bearing areas of the motor have been enlarged and increased, giving greater durability, more strength, still further insuring smooth, vibrationless operation.

But you cannot appreciate the splendid POWER of the Studebaker car until you TRY it.

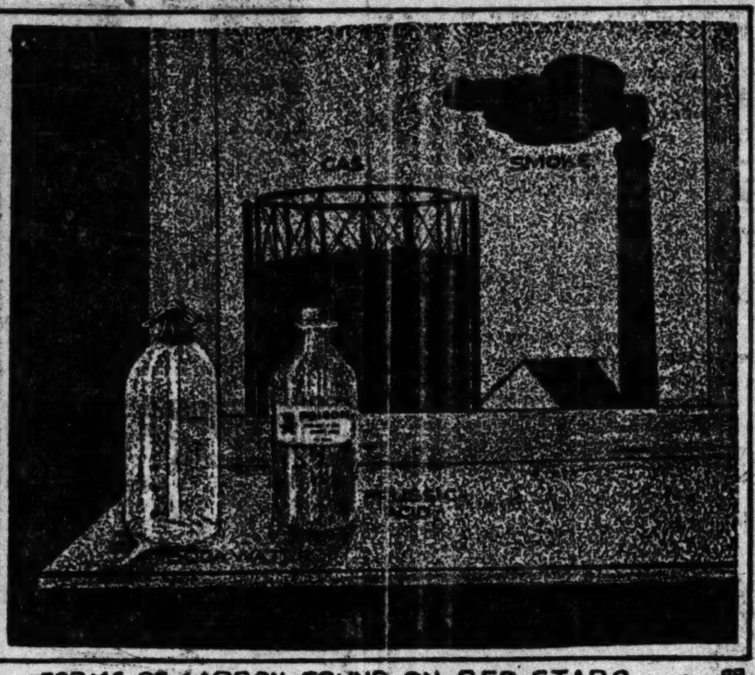
A RED STAR



FORMS OF CARBON FOUND ON RED STARS

DRAWINGS BY S. F. MAXWELL

RED STARS.

BETWEEN the stages in stellar evolution represented by Aldebaran and by the planets there is a gap. Stars of the type of Aldebaran, while still incandescent, contain many of the compounds found on earth. Between the condition of the vaporous stars and worlds with their rocks, water, and air, lie the red stars, gleaming out in the sky like dull rubies.

To find a red star, locate Orion in midsky, toward the south, draw a line through Betelgeux and Rigel and continue it half its distance toward the southern horizon. The red star in question can easily be seen on a clear night. Red stars are interesting because they show us the beginning of an element absolutely essential to life—carbon.

On earth we find carbon in a multitude of forms. It occurs in the air as carbonic acid, in the rocks as diamonds and graphite and as carbonates, notably chalk, marble, potash, and soda. It forms the skeleton of wood, furnishes the main bulk of coal, and is an element essential to all living tissue. Familiar carbon compounds are prussic acid, smoke, coal gas, and soda water.

These last four occur in great profusion upon the red stars. The encircling vapors on these suns are thick with a pall of smoke, and render the light struggling through from the hot nucleus below a deep, blood red.

In filling this middle stage the red stars present characteristics of old stars and young worlds. They are no longer able to even approximately generate enough heat to supply the normal loss by radiation, and the spheres of hot metal they are cooling.

On Aldebaran we have seen our familiar rocks form, float for a time in the hot atmosphere as vapors, and settle toward the center of the ball. The red stars are like planets because at their centers they have solid rock instead of viscid gases. In addition, the compounds of carbon are rapidly forming.

The succeeding stage is that represented by the planets. Saturn is a solid body, but, unlike the earth, it has a dense atmosphere. All the belts and other markings on the ball are merely cloud formations. In the atmosphere of Saturn we find those substances which boil at a moderate heat—salt, sal ammoniac, steam, muriatic acid, and such vapors. All the others are condensed. Deep under the cloud shell lie red hot rocks, already forming themselves into the backbones of the future continents of that globe.

PALACE.

Pat Rooney and Marion Bent:

"The way the young women are wearing their skirts nowadays seems to me

They're shorter than ever or they're building the sidewalks lower.

"Where were you born, Marion?"

"I was born in Milwaukee."

"Give my regards to the American consul."

'I hear that Teddy Roosevelt is going in the movies——"

"What! T. R. going in the silent drama!"

"This book here says that no matter how hungry a horse is he can't eat a bit."

McVICKER'S.

Senator Murphy: I want you to congratulate me. I'm engaged. It's no use telling you that I'm engaged to a woman, because you know very well it couldn't be a horse. But, anyway, she's the loveliest girl! She's an artist, too. In fact, a sweet artist, you might say. That girl can draw more flies! We'll get married as soon as I can save up enough money to get a license. It costs $2. And I've got $1.60 saved already. O, well, a year ain't such a long time to wait. In this state a marriage license costs $2, while in Minnesota a dog's license costs $3. I can't understand why it should cost $1 more to be a dog in Minnesota than a married man in Chicago.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box.

High Living at Little Cost

For your table you would like, in season, the finest, juiciest tomatoes, tender corn, delicious, crisp radishes, luscious melons. You want all you want of these and other good garden things. You want them often and in variety—but can you always afford them? Not at present high prices. Must you, then, be satisfied with a choice of this vegetable or that for dinner? Not if you have enough ground for a garden.

FERRY'S SEEDS

and a little plot of ground and a little patient effort will give you a chance to indulge your fancy with better than the market offers. A successful garden is not an accident. It does not mean ceaseless work and care. It does mean a great first care in the selection of seeds.

Garden products and flowers, like all forms of life, inherit family traits, sturdiness, vigor, size, weight, quality. They transmit these traits from generation to generation. Ferry's Seeds are selected, tested seeds. They have pedigree. They come from families noted for qualities of deliciousness, ability to grow, abundance of growth, full weight, size, taste, all that is most desired.

Gardens planted with Ferry's Seeds are surer of being a success and bringing reward for effort spent. Doubtful seeds are dear at any price.

Send for your free copy of Ferry's Seed Annual. Dealers everywhere sell Ferry's Seeds.

The Orchestra: Concerts and Recitals

TWO "soloists," Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowitsch, will take part with the Orchestra in the Friday-Saturday concerts: they will be concerned with Mozart's concerto for two pianos [No. 365 in the Köchel catalogue, for those who care to know] and Saint-Saëns' variations for two pianos on a theme of Beethoven's. Mr. Stock further lists for the week's program Beethoven's fourth symphony, for the first time in three years, and Richard Strauss' tone-poem of "Don Juan."

TODAY:

3:00—The American Symphony Orchestra in the ninth concert of its series of ten. Mr. Gunn's soloists today are Mrs. Moreis Rosenwald, soprano; Robert MacDonald, pianist; and Anthony Linden, the first-flautist of the orchestra, who will take part in the first Chicago hearing of Chaminade's concertino. Grand Opera-House.

3:10—Concert, with lecture by Moaurice Rosenfeld. Chicago Hebrew Institute.

3:30—Edna de Lima, soprano, in recital: she is new in Chicago. Illinois Theater.

3:30—Alfred Hiles Bergen, baritone, in recital: his second. Mr. James Whittaker, accompanist. The Playhouse.

3:30—Evan Williams, tenor, in recital: all songs in English. Orchestra Hall.

3:30—Fritz Kreisler in his second (and final) recital. The Auditorium.

3:30 and 4:45—Chicago Concert Ensemble in twenty-third program, made up as a memorial to Walfried Singer, its conductor, who died two weeks ago. Fullerton Hall.

8:00—Henriette Weber's twentieth "opera-evening": "Le Jongleur de Notre-Dame." Fullerton Hall.

8:15—Arthur Dunham and orchestra in concert: Isaac Van Grove, pianist, will assist. Sinai Temple.

TUESDAY:

8:00—The Shostac String Quartet in its tenth chamber-music concert: Silvio Scionti, pianist, will assist. These concerts, at fifteen cents for a ticket, are open to the general public. The Lounge of the City Club, 315 Plymouth place.

8:15—The Lewis Institute Chorus and the choirs of the First Congregational Church in first of three concerts: the others on Thursday (with Alfred Hiles Bergen) and Friday nights. First Congregational Church.

WEDNESDAY:

11:00 a. m.—Rose Lutiger Gannon, contralto, and Edna Gunner Peterson, pianist, in recital. Ziegfeld Theater.

8:15—The Philharmonic Choral Society, under O. Gordon Erickson, in concert: Miss Lucy Gates, soprano, will assist, making her first appearance in Chicago. Mr. Erickson's promise is of a program of works mostly new to Chicago. Orchestra Hall.

AUTOMOBILES Conducted by SHEPPARD BUTLER MOTORCYCLES

Doubled Fees for Motorists May Pay Illinois Road Bill

By Sheppard Butler.

THE somewhat unexpected turn taken by Illinois good roads affairs last week should provide that one-twentieth of the state's population which owns motor cars with a moment or two of sweetly solemn thought.

The Illinois Highway Improvement association, with the approval and, indeed, at the suggestion of Gov. Lowden, proposed to the state at its Springfield meeting that the $80,000,000 better roads project now being urged for Illinois be financed by motorists, and motorists alone.

Carefully thought out plans and figures for taxation to meet the big bond issue were consigned to the waste basket by the association officials as soon as they surveyed things at the capital. In their place the boosters offered the simple proposition that principal and interest on the bonds be paid by doubling existing automobile license fees in the state.

The suggested bills, which are to have a hearing on Wednesday afternoon, provide a 50 per cent increase when the legislation becomes effective and another 50 per cent raise on Jan. 1, 1920. This, it is estimated, would yield a revenue of $145,000,000 during the twenty year life of the bond issue—$82,000,000 for the bonds and $63,000,000 for a good roads surplus.

Time to Think It Over.

Of course, the motor car owner need be in no haste to make up his mind whether or not he feels like taking to himself the exclusive privilege of providing Illinois with its state aid road funds. All the legislators are asked to do now is to bring the bond issue question to a referendum vote in 1918. There will be plenty of time for arguments pro and con, and if anything is certain now it is that snap judgments should not be formed.

Only the voters (of whom the automobile owners form a modest quota) can give Illinois better highways, and that Illinois needs better highways is a point on which there is not much difference of opinion hereabouts.

Illinois mud is proverbial—as much so as was the New Jersey mosquito in its prime. Tourists from other parts of the country plan their routes so as to keep out of the state if possible, and, if not, to get across it as quickly as may be. Chicagoans, when they start out, edge around into Indiana without any unnecessary loss of time or beat it across some other available state line.

Letting George Do It.

We want more paved roads all right; the question is, Who'll pay for them? It's up to the motorists, we are told—up to 250,000 or 300,000 people out of a population of more than 6,000,000, which includes 2,190,000 voters.

Viewed from the standpoint of abstract justice, it's a quaint, old fashioned idea, to be smiled over perhaps rather than grimly argued against, but typical nevertheless of the roundabout way of getting at things we so frequently use in these United States.

The notion persists, it would seem, that the automobile is a luxury pure and simple, and the automobile owner a droll spendthrift just a bit different from ordinary folks. If the gosh darned dudes want the contraptions, let 'em pay. They can afford it.

Indeed, just before he went to Springfield an official of the highway improvement association explained to me with engaging frankness why he hadn't attended a previous good roads meeting fathered largely by motor clubs.

"No, I wasn't there," he said. "I don't know about those things. I'm not a motorist."

Some Argumentative Bugbears.

As a matter of fact, of course, the automobile nowadays is well up in the list of prime necessities. Almost any Illinois farmer will tell you that, as will almost any Chicago business man.

The good roads men who are "not motorists" will do well, one suspects, to enlist the considerate attention of the automobile owner when the topic of the $80,000,000 bond issue comes up from time to time.

They will want sympathetic listeners when they explain why the man who maintains a horse driven vehicle in Illinois is asked for no license fee in return for the better highways under his wheels. They will expect at least minds open to conviction when they demonstrate why the keepers of hotels, roadhouses, small town garages—every one whose property values are increased by the opening up of road travel—should pay no part of the state money that builds the roads.

They'll be disappointed if the man who pays 20 cents for gasoline doesn't listen when they tell why the farmer—the nonmotorist farmer, that is—isn't asked to share the cost of benefits and economies to come with better transportation for himself, his family, and his crops. It may be disconcerting when Highway Commissioner Bradt repeats his assertion, that 66 per cent of the state's population lives within a five mile radius of the proposed highway system, and some one comes back with a question as to why a scant 5 per cent should foot the state's bills for said system.

Justice vs. Expediency.

The nub of the matter is that these things can be and will be explained, reasonably if not logically. When the good roads boosters went into conference with Gov. Lowden last Monday the executive told them he would support no measure involving an increase in general taxation.

"We could not add a single cent to the general taxation of Illinois under the present constitution without going bankrupt," he said. "Taxes are as high as the people can bear. If you are right in your calculations it seems to me your proposed bond issue is a safe, conservative business enterprise, which ought to have the consideration of the people of the state. But whether or not it is just to impose the cost on the motorists, it is the only way you have a chance of success."

Presumably the governor is right. However that may be, his dictum has been accepted by the good roads men, and the campaign to double Illinois automobile license fees has been definitely launched.

The question to be decided, therefore, is not whether it is fair to motorists, but whether it is desirable on the whole to accept the one feasible method offered for the improveemnt of Illinois roads. If this is made clear at the start it should go a long way toward clarifying the automobile men's attitude toward the enterprise.

What Other States Pay.

It should be borne in mind, too, that increasing the Illinois fee really involves no great hardship. Of the forty-seven states aside from Illinois, twenty-eight now require their motorists to pay more than we do. The rates in six states are virtually the same as those in Illinois, and in only thirteen are they lower.

Thus we are far below the average.

Should the Illinois rates be doubled, the motorists of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Vermont, Virginia, and West Virginia would still be paying as much or more. In Vermont, for first registration, they have to separate themselves from $1 per horsepower!

Wisconsin, whose rate now averages the same as that of Illinois, is planning to double its license fees. Rhode Island has an even greater raise in contemplation, as have several other states. So misery won't lack for company.

In Illinois the fees paid in 1916 averaged almost exactly $5 each. The exact figure is $4.94. Assuming that the most popular cars will continue to have the same horse power (the rates vary according to horsepower), our average in 1920, under the proposed plan, will be $10. Arkansas and West Virginia now specify this as a flat rate.

Chicagoans, of course, have an added burden to bear in the wheel tax, and throughout the state automobiles are also taxed as personal property. In this connection it may be mentioned that in seven states—Idaho, Iowa, Michigan, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Vermont—registration fees are in lieu of all other taxes.

But whatever the arguments pro and con may be, they should be thrashed out openly and fairly. Misrepresentation won't help, and, quite unintentionally, no doubt, there has been a bit of this already.

That the motorists are "ready and willing" is by no means an assured fact. The right kind of a campaign may make it an assured fact, for no one realizes the need of better roads in Illinois more keenly than the automobile fan. But there should be no tricks. Let's get at the thing squarely and reasonably and see what's to be done.

DANGER

McMORRISON PHOTO

The Illinois public utilities commission has ruled that by April 1 all railroads in the state must have crossing gates painted in heavy black and white stripes and equip their flagmen with round signs bearing the word "Stop" in large black letters. The move is largely for the protection of motorists and follows a practice which has been in effect for some time in several eastern states. Painters are now at work throughout the state making the required changes. The photograph shows equipment already installed by the Northwestern railway at Winnetka.

Motor Notes.

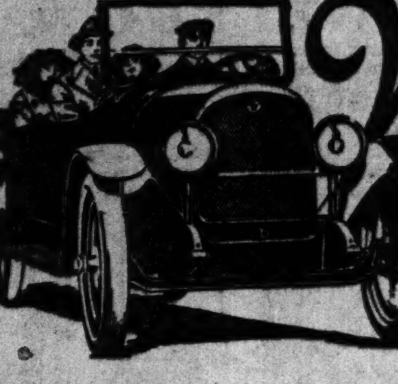
The attention of James Levy, president of the Saxon Automobile company, is centered just now on a little four cylinder Saxon which is starting out after a new record by attempting a continuous circuit of the extreme borders of the United States. "Perhaps it won't be quite so fast on good roads as some of the high powered cars," says Mr. Levy, "but I'll wager it more than makes up for that by being able to go where heavier cars would not think of trying to get through."

Delegates from fifty cities in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota will meet at La Crosse, Wis., on Friday to plan the extension of the Indian Head trail to Minneapolis. The road is now marked from Peoria, Ill., to Prairie du Chien, Wis.

The Chicago distributors of the Moline-Knight are building a three story showroom and service department at 2247 Michigan avenue. They expect to move in about May 1.

The Premier Motor corporation shipped 121 cars from Indianapolis last week. "We will soon have our schedule up to 150 cars a week," says P. D. Stubbs, the general sales manager. "Such volume for the first year on a car in our price class is unheard of."

The shops of the Louis Geyler company, Hudson distributors hereabouts, are acquiring a wide reputation for the quality of the special color designs they are supplying for patsons who desire "something different" in the appearance of their cars. From as far away as Omaha, the other day, came an order from a Hudson dealer who wanted an unusual color combination for display at a local automobile show and found he couldn't fulfill his hopes satisfactorily any nearer home than Chicago.



Westcott SIX

Open Bodies... [illegible]
Tour Sedans... [illegible]

The only Car in its Class

MOST AUTOMOBILES classify themselves according to price and weight. The very heavy cars are frequently the most expensive, both to buy and to own.

The Westcott Six embodies all the essentials of the heavy, high-priced cars, yet it possesses every advantage of light-weight construction. No car is more durable, none is safer. Few equal it in economy of operation.

With a quality ideal constantly before them, the builders of the Westcott Six have not sacrificed one detail or lowered one standard to keep pace with the frenzied speed of colossal production. This is why three-fourths of all Westcotts are bought by experienced car owners.

John W. Bate's Car—No. 19

Two Sizes—Many New Attractions. Hundreds of Extra Values

The Mitchell we now show—in two sizes—is the 19th model built by John W. Bate. With all his extras—all his 700 improvements

We invite you here to see the new Mitchell—John W. Bate's latest car.

It now comes in two sizes, at two prices—120 and 127-inch wheelbase.

It embodies the cumulative results of his 14 years on Mitchells.

It shows the amazing extra values which factory efficiency can give.

It has all of his extras—100 per cent over-strength, 31 unique features, 24 per cent added luxury.

These cars will surprise you by their completeness, and the value they give for the money.

No Similar Cars

No other car, in many respects, even resembles the Mitchell.

This mammoth factory was designed and equipped for building this single type. Every machine and method aims to build it economically.

All this work has been done under John W. Bate, the famous efficiency expert. It has cut our factory cost in two. It has enabled us to build an extra-grade car for less than anyone else in the world.

The savings show in extra strength, in extra features, in extra luxury and beauty. We ask you to see the result.

31 Unique Features

The latest Mitchell has 31 extras, which nearly all cars omit. Things like a power tire pump, dashboard engine primer, reversible headlights, new-type control.

Come see them. No car then will seem complete without them.

It has many added luxuries and beauties. We have this year added 24 per cent to the cost of finish, upholstery and trimming. That is all paid for by savings in our new body plant.

See these new-style bodies—all Mitchell-designed. See how we finish and equip them. There are no others like them.

100% Over-Strength

In these new Mitchells, every vital part is twice as strong as need be. Our margin of safety—once 50 per cent—has been doubled lately, to give you a lifetime car.

TWO SIZES
Mitchell—a roomy, 7-passenger Six, with 127-inch wheelbase and a highly-developed 48-horsepower motor.
Price $1460, f. o. b. Racine
Mitchell Junior—a 5-passenger Six on similar lines, with 120-inch wheelbase and a 40-horsepower motor—¼-inch smaller bore.
Price $1150, f. o. b. Racine
Also six styles of enclosed and convertible bodies. Also new Club Roadster

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All important parts are oversize. Parts which get a major strain are built of Chrome-Vanadium. Gears are tested for 50,000 pounds per tooth. The springs—Bate cantilevers—have never yet been broken. Not a single one. Yet they make the Mitchell ride like an aeroplane.

These Bate-built Mitchells—numbers of them—have run over 200,000 miles. About 40 years of ordinary service.

Costs Us $4,000,000

The Mitchell extras, on this year's output, will cost us $4,000,000. They would be impossible in cars at these prices without our factory efficiency.

They are things which others do not offer. Things they cannot offer at our prices until they use Bate methods. See what they mean to you.

Also Mitchell Junior

Men content with a 5-passenger car will this year find Mitchell Junior. A roomy car—120-inch wheelbase. A powerful car—40 horsepower. And the price is $1150, f. o. b. Racine.

So you can now get the size you want, and the price you want, in Mitchells. Come and see both sizes.

NO matter how perfect the landscape, the Ohio Electric fits into the picture perfectly.

Every line of this master car is a graceful and artistic conception; the body is a product of genius—hand-hammered aluminum, virtually seamless and finished exquisitely. From top to bottom, inside and out, the Ohio Electric is practically a hand-made car. Obviously, not very many Ohio Electrics are made each year. But the first Ohio Electric ever made is still in daily service—so well is quality and integrity built into this supreme car! And to those who secure the Ohio Electric today, the same promise of years of faithful service and supreme satisfaction holds good.

Easy to operate—exclusive magnetic control—distinguished in appearance—the one car for the lady of fashion and discrimination.

Questions and Answers

Owing to the large volume of inquiries for automobile routes and the relatively small amount of space in which to answer them, readers wishing immediate replies are advised to inclose a 2 cent stamp with inquiries so they may be answered by mail. Only routes and answers to questions of general interest will be published.

As soon as advisable it is my intention to drive from Chicago to French Lick Springs, Ind. Will you please inform me through your touring department as to the best route to follow; also the distance?

A. L. E., Chicago.

You go to Indianapolis over the Jackson highway, which runs through South Chicago, Hammond, Dyer, Crown Point, Thayer, Rensselaer, Walcott, Montmorenci, Lafayette, Frankfort, and Lebanon. The distance, according to the Automobile Blue Book, is [illegible] miles. From Indianapolis drive through [illegible] Martinsville, Gosport, Ellettsville, Bloomington, Clear Creek, Harrodsburg, Bedford, Mitchell, Paoli, Prospect, and West Baden. This also is the route recommended by the Automobile Blue Book and measures [illegible] miles, making the total distance from Chicago [illegible] miles.

Would an automobile tour from this city to Los Angeles be a wise undertaking at this time of year? I wish to join a party that is planning to drive to the coast within the next week or two and have been commissioned to get information regarding the best route. Which would you advise, the Lincoln highway or the Santa Fé trail? How are the western roads and would we be likely to encounter much trouble in crossing the desert providing we took the southern route? Where may we obtain maps and all necessary information regarding such a trip?

PERRY HUTCHINSON, Chicago.

You would be quite safe in starting your trip at this time, though the middle western roads would be found better later in the season. However, the roads have stood up remarkably well the past winter and there has been more country driving than ever before. I would not advise you to follow the Lincoln highway at this time, owing to bad roads and deep snow in the mountains. By all means take the Santa Fé trail. From Chicago follow the Chicago, Kansas City and Gulf road, which takes you to Kansas City. This route is the same as the Lincoln highway as far as Sterling, Ill. From Sterling the Chicago, Kansas City and Gulf runs through Galt, Lyndon, Hillsdale, Watertown, Moline, Davenport, Moscow, Iowa City, Washington, Ottumwa, Centerville, Seymour, Newton, Chillicothe, Plymouth, and Excelsior Springs to Kansas City. At this point pick up the Santa Fé trail, which runs through Emporia, Newton, Hutchinson, Great Bend, Dodge City, La Junta, Pueblo, Trinidad, Las Vegas, Santa Fé, Socorro, Magdalena, [illegible], Yuma, El Centro, and San Diego to Los Angeles. The desert is now crossed by a fine new road. The roads average good the entire distance and are excellently marked. For C., K. C. & G. folder and map address Robert N. Carson, Iowa City, Ia. For Santa Fé map and information address Transcontinental Garage service, Kansas City, Mo., and also Automobile Club of Southern California, Los Angeles.

What are the regularly established automobile routes and trails entering Chicago? Which ones are the most completely marked? Did THE TRIBUNE publish an article and map of the marked routes, and, if so, what was the date?

C. E. D., Morgan Park, Ill.

Among the leading highways that either enter Chicago or come within a short distance of the city are the Lincoln highway, Dixie highway, Egyptian trail, Pontiac trail, Chicago, Kansas City and Gulf highway, Illinois Valley way, Grant highway, Jackson highway, Yellowstone trail, Starved Rock trail, Cannonball trail, and National Parks highway. Owing to the rule of the park boards regarding signs, none of the routes is marked clear into the city. The most completely marked routes are the Lincoln, Egyptian, C., K. C. & G., Grant, Jackson, and Starved Rock. An article on marked highways, together with a map of the routes, appeared in "The Sunday Tribune" of Oct. 29.

Can you tell me what is the matter with my motor? At times it runs perfectly; then, without visible cause, it begins to use a large amount of oil and rapidly loses power. The oil goes into the firing chamber, but the motor has fair compression and the rings seem to be tight. The people who made the motor told me to drill a small hole in the oil lead, just above the pump gears, but I am afraid this would lower the necessary oil level in the lubricating troughs. Can you advise me?

X. J. B., Ann Arbor, Mich.

From the symptoms I would judge that the piston rings work around at times until their slots are opposite each other. This would allow the oil to pump up into the tops of the cylinders, with the natural result that excessive quantities of lubricant would be used. Loss of power also would result. In order to prove this, have the motor taken down and the rings fitted properly. They must be pretty loose to work around so easily. The hole drilled in the oil lead would be all right if placed high enough.

AUTOMOBILES ◻ Conducted by SHEPPARD BUTLER ◻ MOTORCYCLES

How Auto Owner Can Aid U. S. if War Call Comes

By John A. Wilson.

[Chairman Military Preparedness Committee, American Automobile Association.]

MOBILIZATION on the high speed includes the promptest assembling of the individual units in in each state at the concentration camps. The answer as to how the organized motorists of the country can do their part in the plans now being formulated for defense would seem to lie particularly in the direction of transportation.

From all over the country have come repeated offers from A. A. A. clubs and members to count upon them in any preparatory program into which they would logically fit.

Naturally we have been and will continue to be vitally concerned in roads improvement, and, of course, we appreciate thoroughly that any comprehensive defense scheme must include substantial attention to highways in connecting up main arteries and providing for coastal and border avenue of communication. I have asked President H. M. Rowe of the national body to add to the military preparedness committee not only Chairman George C. Diehl of the good roads board but all members of the executive board, as these men are scattered over the country and can assume much of the work in their respective vicinities.

It appeals to us that there are two definite ways in which the motor car owners can be exceedingly valuable. One of them is in connection with mobilization effectiveness, especially of the minute men sort. In every state there are now more than enough passenger automobiles which could be made systematically available in carrying to state camps those men who could not be provided for conveniently by railroad transportation. Those states which have gone forward in highways betterment would particularly lend themselves to the carrying out of such a plan, which probably would include county arrangement and appointment of officers responsible for the details and the apportioning of specified cars to certain enlisted men.

Once the troops were assembled, then would come the necessity for longer periods of service, and undoubtedly there would be plenty of motor driven vehicles available under an enlistment project on which the war college has been at work for some time.

In the army appropriation act, approved by congress, among the duties given to the council of national defense is set forth the 'coördination of military, industrial, and commercial purposes in the location of extensive highways and branch lines of railroads.' Not long since the A. A. A. good roads board, which had much to do with the passage of the federal aid road act, called the attention of the secretary of war to the great value of a southwestern frontier highway in the effective handling of troops and munitions. The communication was referred to the council of national defense, which is now about to give its thought to the essential matter of roads in the furtherance of its work.

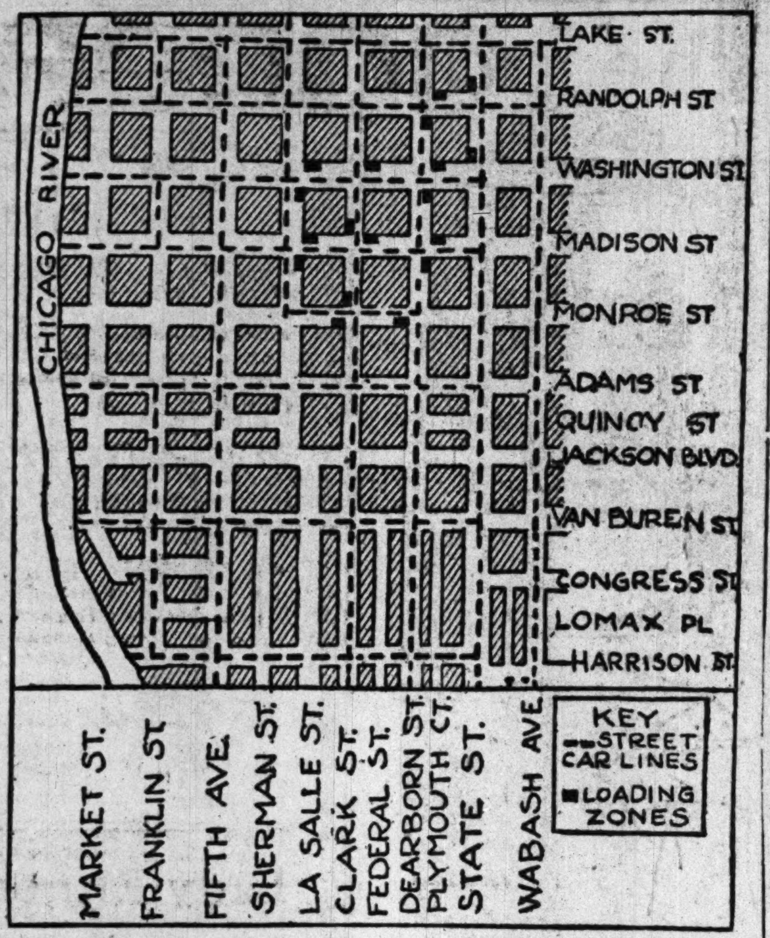
In connection with the southwest, it might be said that Texas receives more money than any other commonwealth from the federal act, and New Mexico, Arizona, and California obtain large sums.

An Inexpensive Air Gauge.

To measure the air in the tires without disconnecting the pump while inflating is going on, a pump connection costing 35 cents is offered. It fits all pumps and attaches to the hose. The gauge may be applied at any time.

NO PARKING

Drastic New Ordinances for Downtown District Put Curb on Motorist Who "Lets His Car Stand."



The diagram shows the exact territory affected by the anti-parking ordinances passed by the council last Monday. After May 1 no automobile may be parked on any car line street within this area during the six busiest hours of the day—from 7 to 10 in the morning and 4 to 7 in the evening. In addition, street car loading zones (indicated by short black lines) have been created, to extend 100 feet from the corner in each case and occupy half the roadway. In these zones, to be indicated by signs, no parking will be permitted at any time.

"No parking" is interpreted to mean that motorists may stop at the curb only long enough to discharge or take on passengers or load or unload merchandise. On streets without car lines (those in the diagram which show no dotted lines) thirty minute parking will be allowed, of course, under the old ordinance.

A third measure, establishing seventy-one cab stands, has been blocked. If something of the kind does not pass taxicab men say the new anti-parking rules will mean a sharp rise in taxi rates.

The LITTLE THINGS THAT HELP

Elbow Room for the Driver.

Down the street the other day breezed one of the winter top type of cars in which the driver had neatly solved the problem of getting room for his left arm. If he had kept the glass pane in it wouldn't have left room for him to use his left arm at all. So he took half the pane out and substituted for it a soft leather panel. He could poke his elbow into this and have plenty of leeway.

Necessity Is the Mother, Etc.

It was down grade on an asphalted side street, and when he went to jack up a rear wheel to made a tire change the chauffeur couldn't find a rock anywhere to block the outer wheel and keep the car from rolling back. He couldn't put his brake on, because then the wheel he was working on wouldn't revolve. So he reached into the tool box and got out the crank handle. That acted as a block for the wheel and so he went on about his work.

Mud Insurance.

Getting out of the mud can be accomplished by the use of a device which is chiefly a strip of heavy duck. It is long enough to go comfortably around a tire, and has at regular intervals heavy transverse rope insertions. When it is needed, the box in which it comes is put in place in cleats under either running board. The end is tied to a spoke in the rear wheel. When the engine is started, the strip winds around the wheel and gives friction. It is contended that this can be used where it is impossible to put on chains. One person can apply it. The device costs $6.

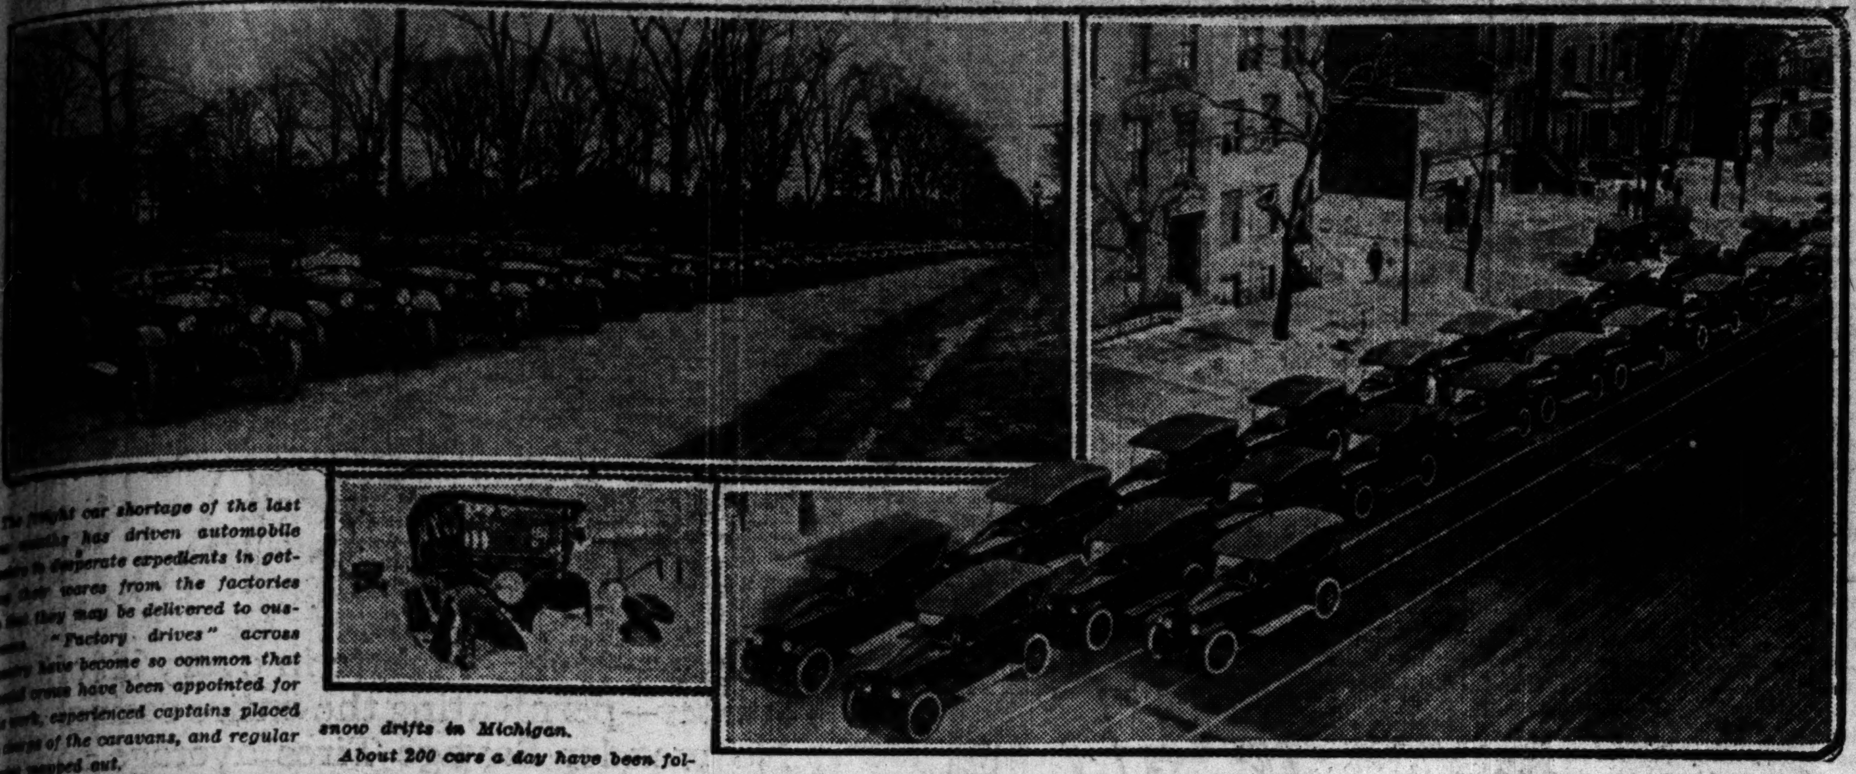
"DRIVE-AWAYS"

How Automobile Dealers and Manufacturers, Unable to Obtain Freight Service from the Railroads, Are Tooling New Cars Across Country from Factory to Salesroom.



The freight car shortage of the last four months has driven automobile dealers to desperate expedients in getting their wares from the factories so that they may be delivered to customers. "Factory drives" across country have become so common that special crews have been appointed for the work, experienced captains placed in charge of the caravans, and regular routes mapped out.

At the left are sixty-two Grants leaving Cleveland for the Chicago salesrooms. At the right is a glimpse of a long "train" of Hudsons en route to Chicago. The small insert shows the pilot car of a Dodge fleet bucking snow drifts in Michigan.

About 200 cars a day have been following the route from Detroit to Chicago for several weeks. In many cases Chicago purchasers have elected to go to the Michigan factories after their 1917 machines, driving them across country themselves.

Gossip of the Auto Trade

Twenty-one tons of aluminium "pigs" was delivered at the Marmon factory in Indianapolis the other day when the difficulties of freight shipment threatened to close the foundry. The metal, worth $20,000, looked like silver and made some folks think the factory had been turned into a subtreasury.

A Cumberland, Md., dealer in Indian motorcycles has just produced the first motorcycle limousine—a machine in which the driver and two passengers are enabled to sit within an entirely inclosed body.

A combination dome and "trouble" light is an unusual and convenient feature of the new King models.

A Chicago advertising agency mailed to this department last week a communication quoting a local automobile dealer thus: "Chicago is to see hordes of guests from all over the west at its automobile show in January. As usual, the exhibit will be a splendid affair." Unfortunately the show is but a memory now, but, inasmuch as the dealer is probably paying the agency good money for its service, it seems at least kindly to give his belated observation the benefit of this much publicity.

Owners of the Indianapolis speedway last week abandoned their hesitation as to the holding of the Memorial day race because of the war menace, began active preparations for the event, and mailed out entry blanks. This year's race will be [illegible] miles—a change from last year's program, when the distance was cut to [illegible] miles—and the prize money totals [illegible].

That the men trained in automobile racing in the United States could supply the government with a daring and experienced aviation corps if they were properly organized is the suggestion made last week by Tom Hay, Chicago distributor of the Chandler. "When Eddie Rickenbacker came back from Europe," said Mr. Hay, "he had become an aviation enthusiast. He says we have at least seventy-five race drivers and mechanicians who could be developed into military aviators with a month's training. I believe he's right."

Willys-Overland cars this year have the gasoline tank at the rear, with a vacuum feed system. The plan, it is said, gives better distribution of weight, convenience in filling, and greater comfort for passengers, who need not be disturbed or subjected to the annoyance of gasoline fumes.

On Your Davis Car

ONLY two weeks are left before the price of the Davis is increased $100. On April 1st, the advanced price goes into effect.

But if you order your car for delivery before April 1st, you will get the Davis at the old price. That is, if your dealer has not sold his allotment of cars of the present production.

There will be no changes in the Davis. The car you get after April 1st is identical to the car you are offered now. So if you can get a car of the present production you are making a clear saving of $100.

It has always been our policy to give the best value at the lowest price possible. We have no desire to make an excessive profit—rather we prefer to give unusual value, and build up a large volume of business, insuring a steady profit through a long period of years.

However, the continuous advances in material and labor have forced us to raise our prices in order to be able to maintain our enviable reputation for quality production and follow our policy to make the "DAVIS" the best car of its class in the world.

Everywhere our dealers are informing us that all cars of the present production have been sold. Your dealer may have a few left. But they will soon be gone. Go in and see him today. A clear saving of $100 is certainly worth while.

Buying the Used Car; Some Hints for the Novice

By John De Long.

Chicago is to have its first used car show May 5 to 13. Among Chicago dealers there is talk of organizing a permanent used car clearing house or disposal company. These enterprises should go far toward simplifying the vexatious problem of buying a second hand automobile under the present hit or miss conditions.

But to the man or woman without expert knowledge the satisfactory purchase of a used car will always be a more perplexing matter than the choice of a new machine. Here are some suggestions that may help.

FOR the man who wishes to become a car owner, but who is deterred by the original cost bugbear, the used car is the thing. While there are a number of good, low priced new cars on the market, still thousands of people decide to put their money into cars that originally cost much more and which may be picked up second hand at surprisingly low figures. Later on, when the art of driving and maintenance has been mastered these same people often graduate to brand new machines.

But the utmost care should be exercised in purchasing a used car, as many a man has been stung at the beginning of his career as a motorist. No machine should be bought on its good appearance only, or because of glowing descriptions of its performances. Careful inspection, rigid testing, and absolute guarantee as to clearness of title should be insisted upon by the prospective purchaser. Used cars are divided into two classes, rebuilt and straight second hand. Of the two the rebuilt kind is much the better, though the cost is somewhat higher. The rebuilt machines are usually put in the shops of the concerns that constructed them, thoroughly overhauled, including the substitution of new parts for worn out ones, repainted and placed on sale. In many cases these machines are guaranteed by the dealers for a reasonable length of time. The out and out second hand machines usually are sold "as is."

Some idea of the magnitude of the used car industry may be gained by scanning the classified ad section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, where thousands of machines are listed for sale. These cars are of all kinds. Some of them are advertised by individuals, while others are listed by the used car departments of various concerns located on automobile row. The prices range from $100 to $3,000 or more, according to the make, vintage, or condition. If a used car is purchased from a reputable dealer his guarantee is about all that is necessary to insure the purchaser's peace of mind. But in case the car is bought from some individual unknown to the purchaser it would be a wise precaution to insist upon a clean bill of sale, and also to have the machine thoroughly inspected and tested by some competent automobile man, providing the prospective owner does not possess the ability himself.

Assuming that the purchaser decides to take all of the responsibility, a few words of advice may not come amiss. First, inquire carefully into the history of the car. Ascertain, if possible, how long the seller has had it, if he bought it new or second hand, and how many miles it has been run. It may be hard to get definite information regarding this point, especially if the seller has gone to the trouble of having the odometer reading set back a few thousand miles. In some cases stolen cars are sold, with the result that the buyer has to give up the machine in case the real owner turns up and proves the property to be his. In such cases the buyer is out the amount of the purchase price.

Make a complete mechanical examination. Even if the car has a starter, insert the starting crank and turn the motor over slowly. If the compression is poor it is likely the pistons and rings are worn or that the cylinders have become scored from lack of proper lubrication. Poor compression is indicated by lack of resistance when the starting crank is turned. Rock the motor and listen for knocks in the main and connecting rod bearings. Metallic knocks usually mean that worn out bearings will need replacing before the car will be able to give good service.

Some of the rattles in a used car, while annoying, may not be serious. For instance, the timing gears and camshaft may be loose without seriously affecting the running of the motor. Start the motor running, remove the radiator cap, look into the radiator and see if the water is circulating through the cooling system. Examine the water jacket around the motor and look for uneven places on the surface of the metal which might indicate that the car had frozen up at some time and been welded. Very often the welded places let go and trouble results.

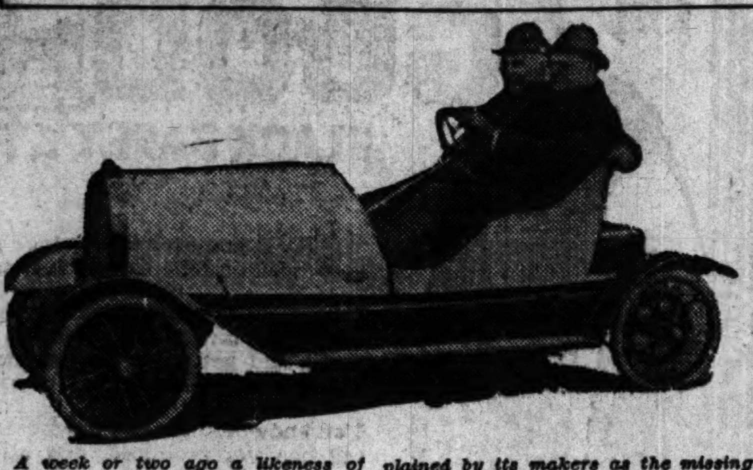
The transmission system is of prime importance and should be thoroughly tested. Put on the emergency brake, open the compression cocks on top of the motor, and put one of the gears or speeds in mesh. Then rock the flywheel back and forth to determine how much backlash or play there is in the shaft and connections.

Take the cover off the gearcase and feel of the gears. The edges may be chipped off, and if so there will not be much harm. But in case the teeth are out of line it will not be long before the gears will begin to break. It is likely that the carburetor may need attention, and, if so, take the car to the concern that handles the carburetor and have it properly adjusted to insure the most efficiency and economy. Do not overlook the brakes, but see to it that they are faced and adjusted so that the wheels may be slid when the pedal is forced down hard. Both brakes should be evenly adjusted, for if they are not even skidding will result. If the car passes all of these tests the prospective purchaser may safely buy it, but if many faults are found pass the machine up and try something else.

Revival of the project for an underground public garage in Grant park promises to be a live topic of the next few months, particularly in view of the problems motorists will face when the new downtown anti-parking ordinances go into effect. W. O. Duntley, president of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company, is urging the plan strongly, as is Judge Joseph Sabath, formerly of the Speeders' court, who discussed the matter at the Automobile Trade association's banquet last week. The underground area from Adams street to Harrison has been suggested as large enough to take care of all machines used downtown for years to come.

MISSING LINK?

It's Just Appeared and Is Designed to Fill the Gap 'Twixt Automobile and Motorcycle.



A week or two ago a likeness of the "red bug" appeared on these pages—a sort of buckboard affair driven by a fifth wheel, which has been popular at Palm Beach during the winter. Here's another variation of the baby motor car. It turned up in Chicago the other day and was explained by its makers as the missing link between the automobile and motorcycle. You are not, under any circumstances, they say, to call it a cyclecar, though it doesn't hurt their feelings at all if you refer to it as a flivver.

To Standardize Motor Fuel Is Detroiters' Aim

IN the passage of an ordinance by the Detroit council that city has started what its motorists hope will be a national movement to standardize motor fuel.

The object of the standardization is to provide a quality that can be used readily in any temperature or altitude, and to prevent adulteration by unscrupulous dealers. In low temperatures it is almost an impossibility for the highly developed engines made today to consume most of the fuel being sold. Under the standard adopted in Detroit, it is declared, any motor will burn the product specified.

The technical committee of the Wolverine Automobile club coöperated with J. C. McCabe of the municipal department of safety engineering to perfect the Detroit ordinance. Then representatives of the Society of Automotive Engineers, manufacturers, and oil companies were called to a conference, at which all agreed the Detroit standard was fair to those concerned.

Under its provisions, fuel must show 20 per cent boiling at 220 degrees Fahrenheit in order to qualify. This, the experts say, will be suitable for use in any climate or altitude. The old idea of showing a flash point has been abandoned.

Use "Gets-It," Lift Corn Right Off

Shrivels, Loosens—and It's Gone!

"Just like taking the lid off—that's how easy you can lift a corn off your toe after it has been treated with the wonderful discovery, 'Gets-It.'" Hunt the wide world over and you'll find nothing so magic, simple and easy as

"O-o-!"
End Corn and Stop Pain Quickly With "Gets-It"

"Gets-It." You folks who have wrapped your toes in bandages to look like bundles, who have used salves that turned your toes raw and sore, and used plasters that would shift from their place and never "get" the corn, and who have dug and picked at your corns with knives and scissors and perhaps made them bleed—just quit these old and painful ways and try "Gets-It" just once. You put two or three drops on, and it dries at once. There's nothing to stick. You can put your shoe and stocking right on again. The pain is all gone. Then the corn dies a painless, shriveling death; it loosens from your toe, and off it comes. "Gets-It" is the biggest selling corn remedy in the world today. There's none other as good.

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Advertisement.

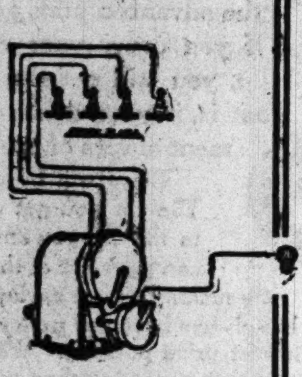
GMC TRUCKS

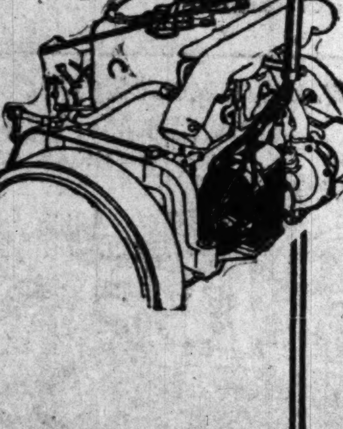
Ignition

An efficient, reliable, trouble-proof IGNITION SYSTEM is one of the greatest motor truck assets.

TRUCK TALK
No. 10



The illustration shows how utterly simple the GMC Ignition System is. There are only five wires in all—one running from the magneto to the switch on the dash board, and one to each of the spark plugs.



Much of the credit for the dependable service rendered by GMC Trucks is due to their simple, efficient, thoroughly reliable Ignition System.

For the Ignition System on GMC Trucks is without question the simplest—the most practical—the nearest trouble-proof to be found on any truck.

The system can readily be understood by the average driver. As the illustrations show, there are only five wires—one from the magneto to the switch on the dashboard—one wire to each spark plug—that's all there is to the system—just five wires.

The system is so simple—so utterly free from complication—that there is little likelihood of any ignition trouble developing. Should any trouble develop, it can easily be located and quickly remedied.

As the source of the Ignition current we use a high tension water-proof magneto. It is of the latest and most approved type, and embodies many distinctive features and improvements. It comprises the fewest possible number of working parts—has no outside terminals, nuts or connections to catch dirt, cause short circuits or other trouble. Dirt, grease or water cannot get into the magneto—cannot cause starting or running trouble.

We have used this magneto on GMC Trucks for a long period and have had no serious Ignition trouble of any sort.

The magneto is conveniently located, readily accessible, and all working parts are easily gotten to in case adjustment is required.

The Ignition System on GMC Trucks is an example of the simple, thorough, practical construction of all GMC units, and indicates what may be expected in service from GMC Trucks—every part of which is the equal of the Ignition System.

MFG. BY THE SAVAGE TIRE COMPANY SAN DIEGO, CAL.

In every layer of fabric, in every bit of rubber—permeating the entire casing! No wonder Savage Tires average so much greater mileage.

Savage Tires are built to give mileage first, then road comfort and complete satisfaction—they are not made to sell at a price. And yet Savages cost no more than ordinary casings.

Sold through our own distributors. We put the middleman's profit into extra quality—"Heap big mileage!" Watch for the red Savage sign.

RIALTO.

Lillian Watson: Dear old Boston. There's a city for you. You may talk about New York till further orders, but for me the big beanery on Massachusetts bay. Give me the home of John [illegible]. Say, did you ever go to the theater with anybody from Boston? You can take a Boston man to see Bernhardt, Langtry, Rehan, Marlowe, or Adams, and before the first act is over he'll say, "She's good, but did you ever see Annie Clarke?"

Did you ever notice the way they talk in Boston. Now you know you'll hear a New York girl say, "What are you giving us, taffy?" A Boston girl never says that. She says, "Of what avail would you like to make me the recipient of a confection whose chief ingredient is molasses?" The other day I saw a man drive up in front of a hotel and say to the boy, "Take that horse out of the shafts, give him some oats, and I'll settle with you in the morning." Now a Boston man would never say that. He'd say, "Boy, extricate the quadruped from the vehicle. Stabulate him. Donate to him a sufficient quantity of nutritious aliment and when the aurora of morn again gilds the eastern horizon I will award to you a pecuniary compensation for your amiable hospitality."

A Boston man asked me how I was prospering and I replied, "Everything is lovely and the goose hangs high." He said, "My dear young lady, you must not talk like that. You should say, 'All things have assumed a rosy cast and the fowl whose cackling was the salvation of Rome is suspended at an altitude hitherto unknown in my experience.'"

McVICKER'S.

Rucker and Winifred:

"Don't speak to me. I don't care to have any conversation with you."

"Why, what's the matter?"

"You've been going around saying I was a dog."

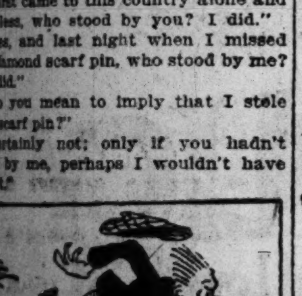
"No, indeed; I consider a dog to be a man's truest and most faithful friend."

"I've been more than a friend. When you first came to this country alone and penniless, who stood by you? I did."

"Yes, and last night when I missed my diamond scarf pin, who stood by me? You did."

"Do you mean to imply that I stole your scarf pin?"

"Certainly not; only if you hadn't stood by me, perhaps I wouldn't have lost it."



"How much was the pin worth?"

"I don't know; how much did you get on it?"

"Please understand once and for all that I haven't your pin."

"Well, give me the ticket and we'll call it square."

"O, come now, there's no sense in two old friends like us fighting."

"Well, I guess you're right. But, say, I hardly expected to see you today."

"Why, how's that?"

"Somebody told me you had been gored to death by a mad bull."

"No; that was my brother."

"Well, I'm sorry to hear that."

"There you go again. But talking of adventure, do you remember that experience we had in the African jungle when a lion chased me?"

"I'll never forget it."

"You certainly climbed up that tree pretty fast."

"Yes, and I'd have climbed up faster if you hadn't been ahead of me."

"Africa is a great land of sport, isn't it?"

"That's what it is. Do you recall that day we went gorilla hunting?"

"Of course I do."

"You wore a funny red jacket."

"Yes, I remember that red jacket."

"It's a lucky thing you wore it."

"Why?"

"If you hadn't worn it, when I started in shooting, how could I have distinguished you from the other gorillas?"

MARCH

Intimations of Spring

THE beauty of the resurrection is revealed at first by suggestion rather than by demonstrations defined for the ordinary perceptions. The sense which first catches the significance of the new mood would be difficult to isolate and describe. It is a function related to the spiritual youth of folk.

Skilled eyes may find March full of life completely hidden to the casual, and yet the casual are as perceptive as the skilled. March, with its intimations of spring, is expressed by moods rather than revealed by signs.

A thunderstorm is a portent, breaking down the white and gray walls of winter, pelting on the roof with assurances of the returning sap. The bluejay, which has been silent, uses, with suddenness, a melody not associated with this brilliant feathered scream.

The lengthening day comes to brighter sunsets. The earlier dawn brings a clear, washed sunlight. The intimation of spring is tonic in the air. The eye does not have to see the opening catkins or the swelling maple buds for the senses to perceive the reawakening.

The March wind blusters at the windows. The hearty appetite of winter remains reconciled to cakes and sausage. Snow and sleet fill the woods, but the perceptions register the premonitions and portents. Frost is deep in the ground, but it has gone from the soul.

Why They Laugh in Vaudeville.

McVICKER'S.

Sadie Sherman: Women are going to run this country a thousand per cent better than the best man ever ran it—even if you do belittle us. Why, the most famous authors of the day tried to belittle us, I think it was Kipling, who said: "Woman is a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair." Well, my answer to that is, of woman is a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair, man is a jag, a drone, and a tank of air—and hot air at that.

By what right does man presume to govern woman, anyhow? Is it by the good example he sets her? I should say not. For instance, take his views on prohibition. He says, "Down with whisky," and this [puts hand to lip] is the way he puts it down. He says, "Let there be no half measure about it," consequently he takes the largest glass he can find. And when he goes home, what happens? He doesn't know, he is too intoxicated; but his poor wife who has been waiting up for him half the night knows—she knows the moment she hears him trying to unlock the front door with a lead pencil. She gets disgusted and retires, leaving her intoxicated husband to struggle to his slumber as best he can, and in the morning what does she find? An umbrella in the bed, covered over with the blanket and the husband asleep in the hatrack. I tell you, my good people, the taste for whisky is an awful thing—and the after taste is worse yet.

When an institution, almost from its inception, takes the commanding position in its field—

And when that institution maintains that commanding position without interruption over a series of years—

Then you may be assured of that institution's integrity—both as to its product and its dealings with the public.

From an output of 465 cars eight years ago the Willys-Overland industry has grown steadily and this year our dealers have contracted for more than 200,000 cars.

Our net resources have grown in that time from a little more than fifty thousand dollars to more than sixty-eight million dollars.

This year we are building the most comprehensive line of motor cars ever produced by any one concern.

They include Fours, Sixes and an Eight.

If yours is a family of average size, you will be particularly interested in the comfortable, powerful, Big Four at $850 or Light Six at $985. They exemplify the remarkable values characteristic of the entire line.

When you buy any car in the Willys-Overland line you are assured by our commanding position in the industry, by our unequalled facilities and resources, of integrity of value in your car throughout the whole period of its performance in your service.

WAR ON WORMS IN DOGS

Few dogs but have worms, yet so insidious is their health destroying work that it often passes unnoticed until the dog is in serious condition. Many owners of dogs know worms are dangerous, but how to know when the dog has worms is the question.

It is far safer to follow the rule of many of the best informed breeders of pedigreed dogs, who simply take the presence of worms for granted and regularly administer Vermilax Worm Remedy, which positively removes all round or tape worms, usually within an hour's time, and there is no prostration of the dog, such as attends the use of harsher remedies.

Try Vermilax Worm Remedy "For Your Dog's Sake." This remedy and many famous Vermilax Remedies for other dog ailments can be obtained at Buck & Rayner's six stores, Public Drug Co., and other druggists. Also for sale by Von Lengerke & Antoine, Kaempfer's Bird Store and Atlantic & Pacific Bird Store. Wholesale distributors, Fuller-Morrisson Co.

ART By Louise James Bargelt

Cushing's Work Makes Impressive Show at Institute

MORE of the gorgeous splashes of color by Cushing in the way of decorative panels and sketches have arrived at the Art institute since last week, and also a valuable addition to his portrait work. It is really a magnificently impressive exhibtion now, the three galleries of the new annex devoted entirely to the works of the late Howard T. Cushing.

The variety of this man's gifts is amazing. One sees his uniqueness of design in such decorative sketches as his undersea canvas designed for a swimming pool in the deep blue colors of the ocean in summer. The wide play of his fancy is revealed in such panels as his mermaid series, with the figure of a graceful nude nymph outlined against a sky of actual rose pink and above a line of horizon tinted the vividest of green blue. Then there is another series of three panels in the same room which is no less bizarrely attractive in their green pointed rocks and gold skies and sails which spread their Titian colors to the winds.

In the hallway between two of the first galleries there are some circular door panels with the curly figures of young boys done in exquisite cream and gold and blue.

Among his pieces of portrait work his portraits of Mrs. Cushing, done in various fashions, fanciful and realistic, are his best. Her hair is the sort of gold red with the gold in predominance which takes the lights of the sun for its model, and in all of her portraits the grace of her tall, slender figure and the distinction of her rather foreign personality are sharply potrayed.

Only a few of the paintings by Gruppe, which were to have occupied an entire room, have been hung, owing to delay in their transportation. Apparently they are still en route, and perhaps a half dozen in all are grouped together on one of the walls. They can hardly be called representative, since there are so few of them, but they are on the order of the work he does, and two of them are excellent landscape glimpses of the country Gruppe loved best to paint.

Rosen's pictures have lost none of their charm during the week that they have been hanging there. They still cast their spell, half poetic, half real. The mists of early morning and of night still hover about them and the glories of the day at noon time are still radiated from their canvases.

In the main corridor of the second floor at the entrance of the new annex certain large pieces of sculpture of Michael Angelo's have been placed as a permanent installation, according to present plans. There is his stupendous statue of Moses, that half beast, half god, neither pagan nor Christian, and yet colossal, the balance maintained between violent passions and an iron will. Then there is another statue of the Duke of Nemours of the house of Medici, which was made for the duke's tomb, and also another large piece of the Duke Lorenzo de Medici of Urbino. Besides these there are two fettered captives, a Cupid and several others.

These works of the colossal Michael Angelo make a handsome decoration for this great square corridor, which greets one at the top of the institute stairs. No other sculptor could have been chosen whose pieces would have been more impressive or which would have radiated a greater vigor and a greater idealism than this man who appeared like a whirlwind on the high keyed, emotional stage of Italy, dazzling and holding enthralled Italian art at a time when it had already fallen into its twilight era of decadence.

Another interesting exhibit has opened at the institute this last week, and that is the memorial exhibition of the Bryan Lathrop collection of etchings and lithographs by James McNeil Whistler. It is a large collection, occupying nearly three rooms, and it excites in one, as Whistler so often does, a vague, emotional joy, a visional pleasure, as it were; not definite, hardly tangible, and yet wholly delightful.

There are etchings here from different periods of Whistler's life. There are many examples of his earlier work, when his passion for detail resulted in such marvelously picturesque values, elaborately worked out; and there are many instances, too, from his later life, when his equally vigorous passion for the elimination of detail and extreme simplication of the etching and the lithograph led him to his costly, rare simplicity.

Most individual, perhaps, of Whistler are the vagrant mists that envelop everything, blot out the existence of things except in shadowy form in so many of his pictures. How he loved the intricate moods of nature, the snowfall, the twilight, the night hours which won for him the title of painter of the night.

Everything English Whistler touched affectionately, understandingly. We see the dark Thames in a dozen different moods, with its multitudinous burdens, its stately bridges, its shores swarming with workers and idlers, lazy saunterers and hangers-on of the city's edges, and strenuous toilers and dwellers in the hives of men and things.

He brings out with such lightness of suggestion the lines of the human creatures, as in "Ten Trade Wharf" and the "Smithy" and the "Archway, Brussels," which teems with the men and women he interpreted so swiftly and so well. For Whistler seldom failed to read the poetry of human nature as he read the poetry of the sky and the air.

In a large collection of this kind one is impressed with the lack of action in his men and women and children. Millet's people labored; the personal experiences of men and women was one of his unfailing themes. Not so with Whistler. His people either sit or stand or recline, but they do not act. He is quite content to show character in repose.

In this display there are a number of portrait pieces, figure etchings, and several especially fine children's faces and heads. There are some exquisite renderings of Venice to be seen—old crumbling houses reflected in the canals flowing slowly in front of them, and then some stretches of country which look across a canal with windmills beyond.

The Three Great VESTA Triumphs

AMONG the various makes of storage batteries there is only one radically different and superior to the rest. This one exceptional battery is the Vesta. Three great battery improvements make the Vesta different. These triumphs give it double life:

1. Vesta Indestructible Isolator—an ingenious device, locks the plates apart and prevents short circuits.

2. Vesta Impregnated Wooden Mats—prevent "treeing" and its disastrous consequences.

3. Titanium—a rare mineral, enters into the lead plates, hardening them and giving them longer life. It precipitates minerals and impurities in solution, thus increasing the efficiency of the battery.

These remarkable features are covered by U. S. Basic Patents belonging to the Vesta. They cannot be used in any other battery.

Vesta costs no more than ordinary batteries. Ask any Vesta Service Station man to explain Vesta superiority.

Before You Get Married—

HAVE you considered your duty toward the girl who will be your wife? Have you provided for her support in case of your sickness, accidental injury, total disability, old age and death? These five points include ALL the usual life risks. You can be protected on all these five points in one policy—the New National Five-Point Policy—at a cost of only One Dollar more per thousand at the age of thirty-five than some other companies charge for a policy covering only one or two points. Send the coupon for free descriptive booklet.

The National

5 POINT POLICY

"Complete Protection-Insurance—at Lowest Cost"

The New National Five-Point Policy is, we believe, the very utmost in insurance efficiency. It offers the maximum protection for the minimum cost. For example: A $5,000.00 National Five-Point Policy gives you these benefits:

$5,000.00 in case of death from ordinary causes.

$10,000.00 in case of death from accident.

$25.00 weekly for total disability due to accidental injury.

$25.00 weekly for House Confinement due to sickness or disease.

$500.00 Annual Income for life, in case of permanent total disability from any cause. Premiums are waived.

$5,000.00 Paid-up Life Insurance at end of 20 years.

$5,000.00 Face of Policy Payable to Insured at age of 85; or an annual or monthly cash income for life, beginning at the age of 65.

In addition, the National Five-Point Policy carries liberal cash and loan values and other benefits and privileges. Yet this modern Policy costs as low as $39.73 per thousand at the age of 35. The rate is based on age and occupation.

Protection on These Five Points:
1. Sickness
2. Accident
3. Total Disability
4. Old Age
5. Death

A New Policy

The National Five-Point Policy is a new form of life insurance. By combining five points in one policy, we are enabled to cut down operating costs. You get the benefit. The National Five Point Policy is an evolution—the result of years of research and a careful study of insurance requirements. We find for instance, that one man in every six has an accident. Consequently, accident insurance is necessary. One man in every five has sickness or disease. Protection on this point is necessary. Fifteen men out of every hundred who can get insurance at the age of 40 are totally disabled before the end of their life expectancy. Not more than five men out of every hundred have an income at the age of 65. Less than five per cent leave any estate! Protection on all these points is included in the new National Five-Point Policy. To take out separate policies is costly. We combine five points in one policy and thus can make this very low rate.

Established Since 1868

Make no mistake in placing insurance. Judge your insurance company as you would a bank. Insurance is protection. The National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A. has been established since 1868—49 years. It has nearly one hundred million dollars of insurance in force today. It owns its own building—a La Salle street skyscraper. It is an old company—conservative, reliable, with over Fourteen Millions of well invested assets. All the strength of the National Life is back of the new National Five-Point Policy.

TRADE SCHOOLS.

THE PRICE YOU PAY FOR INSTRUCTION.

The Greer College of Motoring is not a "cheap" school. Our courses cost more than some. We do not offer something for nothing—neither does any one else. Cheap courses mean cheap training. Cheap training means low pay and strong competition for a job. The market is flooded with "dubs" and "monkey wrench" mechanics. But there is a big demand for first class men.

Which will you be? Why save a few dollars at the beginning and lose hundreds in the end? The cost of material alone for one department is over $15 per student in our school. Get the facts before you enroll.

We train men along practical scientific lines. Our instruction makes first class Repairmen, Chauffeurs, Truck Drivers, Demonstrators, Salesmen, Garage Owners. Men trained for 18 divisions of the work.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES.

Complete day courses, $75; other special courses, $25 to $150. Evening courses, $25 to $60. Liberal time payments. Jobs secured without extra charge.

Write or call for free booklet today. We have very important information for you.

COME OUT TODAY AND LOOK OVER

SOUTH SHORE BRYN MAWR

The new residential district.
"Only 22 minutes from Randolph-st."

All the benefits of the country combined with the convenience of the city.

This most favored section lies along the lake, just south of Jackson Park, with its two public golf courses, tennis courts, bathing beaches, etc. Close to South Shore Country Club and Windsor Golf Club, not far from the new grounds of the South Side Tennis Club.

Transportation facilities are good. The I. C express takes you to the city in 22 minutes; trains every 10 minutes during rush hours; 8c fare by monthly ticket. The 67th-st. and 73d-st. surface lines close at hand.

All of the buildings are brand new and are modern in every way. Sun parlors, shower baths, screened in rear porches, large lawns and rear yards, etc. Rentals range from $37.50 to $250 per month.

These apartments are renting rapidly and it will be to your advantage to make an early selection.

A beautiful booklet has been prepared describing this attractive locality—any of the renting agents listed below will gladly mail you a copy gratis. Phone them or send a postal card, or, better still, come out today.

HOGENSON'S Bungalow Homes in Austin

Available for spring occupancy.

Built in 5 to 8 light and liberal sized rooms and with large screened porches, sun parlors, or sleeping porches. The heating plants are large so as to give sufficient heat in the coldest weather.

The varied exterior designs, together with the interior arrangement and the completeness of the finish and decorations, and considering that these homes can be had in brick, elastica-stucco or California redwood, one, at least, should be found which would please the disposition and needs of the most critical home seeker.

Inspect these homes in our home section on Latrobe and Laramie-avs., between Thomas and Division-sts. now so as to select and secure one for spring delivery.

Our prices are low—ranging from $4,000 to $6,500 on terms to suit or cash.

Take a Chicago-av. car direct to our office, 5312 W. Chicago-av., or walk north on Latrobe-av. to houses. They are open for inspection every day and Sunday afternoons.

The Division-st. car also passes these bungalows and connects with Grand, Crawford and Cicero-avs.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Alabama.

A GOOD TIP

THE PORT OF MOBILE, ALABAMA, with its 24 steamship lines, making all ports of the world, is nearest to the Panama Canal. A downhill haul from the wheat fields of the Northwest of 200 miles less than to any eastern port, and with a saving of 2,000 miles on water, is a natural economic condition which will make the southern ports the front yard of commerce of the United States.

THIS WILL FURTHER the already rapid development of the Gulf Coast Highlands of Alabama and Mississippi, and land in this section will, in our opinion, sell as high in five years as the lands of Illinois and Iowa.

NOW IS YOUR TIME to invest while these lands are comparatively cheap and you have the opportunity of securing a farm on your own terms.

BY BUYING NOW you can repeat what your forefathers did in this section. Don't wait until the price is out of your reach.

OUR FARMS ARE RICH and productive; no swamp, no bad lands. The prices we are now making will be advanced without notice.

SEVEN DIFFERENT denominations have fifteen churches within a radius of seven miles, on or near our property. Good schools, good roads.

THE MEN WHO BUY first profit most. Call or write at once for full particulars.

Canada.

FOR SALE—A QUICK FORTUNE—FORTUNES are now being made growing wheat in Southern Alberta [Canada]. From grain alone during the past 2 seasons this country produced more than $3,000 for every man, woman, and child residing here. This is a record no country has ever attained. [Not an idle boast, but a concrete fact.] Average yield per acre of wheat has been 40 bushels, the price $1.50 each, or $60 per acre. THIS SHOULD BE CONCLUSIVE PROOF OF THE GREAT POSSIBILITIES OF THIS COUNTRY.
I am a practical farmer; am farming more than 2,000 acres this season, besides have an option on one of the finest grain and stock ranches of 2,000 acres in Alberta, near market, flowing water, and fully equipped with the most up to date machinery, including Thrashing Machine, Food Grinders, Seed Separators, Blacksmith's Shop, 15 Wagons, Seeders, Plows, Binders, Mowers, 40 Horses, 60 Cows, 100 Brood Sows, etc., etc.; also abundant Alfalfa and Timothy Hay.
The equipment and stock would sell today for more than $20,000 cash. 1,400 acres of this property can be seeded this season.
The price is $40 per acre, including stock and equipment. $20,000 cash, balance arranged for at 6%. I am in a position to handle this property to advantage. My ability and responsibility can be established beyond question.
To a party who will furnish $20,000 I will enter into an equitable arrangement whereby the property should pay for itself within three years without requiring additional cash.
ADDRESS BOX 548, Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada.

GROUND FLOOR

The New Orleans Great Northern Railway opens for farm settlement the immense acreage of the great lumber company lands along its lines in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Growing towns, churches, schools, lumber companies, shipbuilding, turpentine distilleries, pine oil, and paper mills have sprung up all along the line of the railroad, but timber being the chief asset, the land itself, regardless of its great agricultural worth, has been carried on the books at a mere nominal value.

As the timber is being cut and the stumps and discarded tree trunks and limbs in the logging field are being ground into pulp for pine oil, turpentine, and the manufacture of paper, an immense acreage of virgin land close in to the railroad, towns, factories, churches, and schools is being left for farm occupation.

Unless the railroad settles these lands with farmers it will fail to provide for a chief source of revenue when the timber is gone, and the railroad, with its future means of support materially at stake, will therefore afford every aid in the matter of prices, terms, and co-operation in obtaining settlers on the land.

Write Walter S. Ayres, industrial commissioner N. O. G. N. Ry., 884 McCormick Bldg., Chicago, Ill., how to obtain first hand a desirable farm out of this great body of cheap virgin land.

ARE YOU PREPARED?

YOU ARE OUT OF STEP with your fellowmen and out of tune with the times if you are not preparing yourself and all your affairs for what may come to you and those depending upon you at a future day—in five years, or perhaps a year. Who can tell? Preparedness, readiness to act, to take prompt advantage of an opportunity, is the keynote to success in war or in business. Ask yourself the question, are you prepared or preparing for what may arise in the future? It is equally as important to the individual as to the nation.

WHAT COULD BE BETTER than to prepare for a Farm Home of your own, which is a self-sustaining, money earning business, and the most substantial foundation for the independence of any family? No nobler work can be undertaken by any man. Agriculture, we all know, is the very backbone of our nation, and its greatest need. Land owners are every year becoming more influential in controlling the affairs of counties, states and the nation itself. Land ownership not only makes for better citizenship, stronger men financially and morally, and for better families, but it is also the most certain route for most people to the Main Channel of Prosperity.

TO OWN LAND means more to a man now than ever before.

I AM POINTING OUT the [illegible] Road to your self-advancement. It is Sure because there is nothing so staple as land nor so secure as land values, particularly the good Agricultural Lands I am offering. They are located in Manistee, Mason, [illegible] Wexford, Kalkaska, and Antrim Counties, Michigan, and with the great number of settlers coming this and next season, we shall see more than the usual steady increase in population and land values for these counties. This is in Michigan's Fruit and Clover Belt, where apples, plums, peaches, pears, and cherries grow in great abundance, where the soil is good for potatoes, wheat, rye, oats, corn, clover, alfalfa, and barley, and where all root and leguminous crops, cattle, dairying, and poultry pay well.

ANY MAN who is a [illegible] can save enough to buy this land, so liberal are my terms. I ask only $15 to $25 an acre, and you can pay $25 to $100 down and $7 to $10 monthly for 40 acres, or even lower terms for one of my choice ten acre tracts. When you go on the land my agricultural advisers whom I employ to help new settlers will start you in the best methods of farming for our district.

EXCURSION SEASON opens Tuesday, March 27th. PRIVATE CAR. Round trip from Chicago, including meals, berth, and automobile trip over the lands, $12.95.
Write for information, statistics, etc., and I will send you free my large 72 page book; or you are welcome to come in and talk it over and get the literature and see samples of our [illegible] crops and stereopticon views, which will give you a good idea of the country. Office open Monday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Texas.

FOR SALE—NEW FARM OPPORTUNITY IN ONE OF THE GREATEST STATES IN THE UNION. A new line of the Santa Fe is tapping a rich and fertile prairie section of Northwest Texas, where already many farmers have MADE GOOD in a big way with wheat, hogs and live stock. Here, if you ACT NOW, you can get first choice—get in on the ground floor of a great opportunity. You can get in AHEAD of the railway—ahead of the people whom the railway will bring—ahead of those who act more slowly than you do. This is the chance of a lifetime for a man of moderate means. A certain number of thrifty, farseeing farmers can acquire good land at an astonishingly low figure and on long, easy terms. If you have confidence that a great railroad, like the Santa Fe, would only recommend what it considers a good thing, and because it wants to see new territory developed and wants newcomers to PROSPER and PRODUCE—then write me TODAY for particulars about this district. Mild climate, social advantages, schools, churches, telephones, good roads. Everything there but enough men with their families. Will you be one of the fortunate first comers to reap the advantages of a section that has been minutely inspected by a Santa Fe agricultural agent and pronounced RIGHT? Write me NOW and let me send you a copy of the special illustrated circular we are getting out. C. L. SEAGRAVES, 1105 Railway Exchange, Chicago.

FOR SALE—FOR QUICK SALE, 20,000 acres, East Texas tillable land in one body, accessible to railway, good county roads; exceptionally desirable tract for colonization purposes. BRYAN SNYDER, Marshall, Tex.

A REBUILT CADILLAC

It's a Safe Used Car to Buy

A Rebuilt Cadillac is superior to any new car at the same price. They are the truest values on the street. By rebuilt we mean that the cars have been taken entirely apart, each part examined, and, if necessary, replaced by a new part made at the Cadillac factory, the entire car repainted and refinished like new, all equipment put in first class condition—the whole car, in fact, carefully reconstructed until it is as good as new in every detail.

We are as interested in the performance of these rebuilt cars as we are in new Cadillacs. In actual service value these cars are worth a great deal more than we ask for them, and we usually have a variety of body styles to select from. See them before you buy.

ARE YOU THE MAN FOR THIS OPPORTUnity? If so, you can make at least $10,000 a year for the next ten or twenty years. This business is now well established and consists in selling a $5 household device in Chicago only [about 25,000 of which were sold here during last two years] through house-to-house demonstrators on easy payments. You would require about $20,000 to take over this business, about $8,000 of it now and balance during spring and summer to buy the devices. Address A L 277, Tribune.

IF YOU ARE WILLING TO LOCATE IN some good town or city and have or can get from $1,000 to $5,000 with which to buy the devices only as needed, to be sold on easy payments, you cannot afford to overlook this opportunity of becoming the owner of a most desirable, permanent, and very profitable business in the city of your choice. You had better investigate this very unusually good and legitimate business. Address A S 245, Tribune.

WE HAVE PLANS FOR THE MOST EFFIcient electric steel jobbing foundry, enabling us to produce a superior grade of steel castings at a minimum cost, ever erected, and have a capable organization of steel foundry experts ready to run same.

We will melt our steel by electricity and use approximately 25,000 kwh. every 24 hours.

Planned to build our foundry 80x500 ft., employing 300 men at West Allis, Wis. [suburb of Milwaukee]. Have been notified by the electric power company here that they "have reached the limit of available power for this service and will not be able to make further contracts for its use."

Towns or cities not antagonistic to modern and up to date methods, having an abundance of cheap electric power and desiring such a company as ours to locate will do well to write, giving full particulars in first letter.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

SECURE THIS TRUCK AGENCY.

THE PULL-MORE MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY of Pittsburgh, Pa., a new one million dollar corporation, is desirous of placing an agency in your territory. THE PULL-MORE is bringing out an innovation in motor truck construction. This company is bringing out a three ton truck that will practically sell itself without a single demonstration. The truck embodies such selling features as FRONT WHEEL DRIVE, which develops more power, reduces fuel consumption, eliminates skidding and friction on wheels, increasing tire mileage. TWO UNIT or tractor trailer truck, with three point suspension on each unit, eliminating vibration, strains, and stresses. ACCESSIBILITY FEATURE—All working parts in two piece case, which opens and closes in thirty seconds, giving complete workable access to every part, reducing repair bills from dollars to cents. We are being besieged for agencies, so write today for full particulars. PULL-MORE MOTOR TRUCK COMPANY, 459 FRICK ANNEX, PITTSBURGH, PA.

HUSBAND GETS WORST OF IT, SAYS MERE MAN

Marital Court Attache Asserts Wife Often to Blame.

"I should say the men do have the bad end of it," admitted John J. Gardner, the man who sits on the other side of the arrest warrants in the court of Domestic Relations.

"There isn't a law to protect a husband, not a law in the world. A woman can desert her husband and can't be made to live with him, but a man can be compelled to support his wife and children. No, it's not always the man's fault.

"I've seen poor boobs, time after time, come up here pleading with a woman to come back and live with him, but she won't. It's often another man. But if a woman comes in and says anything about there being another woman, they grab the man so quickly he don't know what's happened.

Woman Can Testify.

"If a couple breaks the law and marries within the year after a divorce, the woman can testify against the man, and she always does. She is granted immunity and he is landed in the bridewell for a statutory offense. The man is always the goat.

"A man as a general rule stands things. He don't compalin, but a great many can't understand why the law is made so largely for the benefit of women."

I mentioned the little matter of husbands beating up their wives, a frequency in the court, but it didn't disturb Mr. Gardner. He came back with something worse than that.

"Why, do you know, we had a man in here the other day with a scar at the corner of his lip two inches thick, where his wife had cut him with an ax. In addition, she had drawn a gun on him and a neighbor had interfered, and she had the gun on her, right there in the courtroom. We took it off of her and put it on the judge's desk.

Wanted to Avoid Her.

"All the man wanted was to ask us if we'd please enter an order permitting him to pay his weekly $12 to the clerk so he wouldn't have to expose himself to her. She hung around for half an hour waiting for that gun and then for all her shrieking around went away with another man. She was one of these hysterical women. The truth of the matter is, everybody sympathizes with a woman. She can cry and when she cries she can get anything. Once she gets emotional everybody wants to get rid of her.

"A man don't get emotional. He's a big goof if he does—that's the way they play him.

"Ordinarily a man wants to support his wife and children, I believe, and if he doesn't there is something the matter with the situation that isn't his fault."

Thus is the man championed by the man who issues warrant after warrant to wives for husbands.

CHICAGO'S ONLY WOMAN MADE MAGAZINE OUT

The only woman made magazine in Chicago has just made its appearance. It is the Club Messenger, edited by Mrs. Nellie C. Roberts at 421 North Trumbull avenue. The entire staff of the magazine is composed of women, even down to the humble compositor.

"I hated to do it," said Mrs. Roberts, "but I had to give the heavy presswork to a man. That's the only thing that is done by a man, however. I want to show the men that a woman made magazine is a well made magazine. It is printed in the interests of women, and I want the work to be done solely by women."

Men contributors are not barred from the magazine if they write in the interest of women's work. Earl H. Read, etcher and worker in the "save the dunes" propaganda, has the first article in the March number. Other contributors are Miss Ida M. Lane of the Chicago Woman's club, Mrs. Robert L. McCall, Mrs. Callie Pritchard Coon, and Mrs. William S. Wallace of the Brookfield Woman's club.

The magazine is published once a month in the interests of clubwomen of Chicago and vicinity.

Warrant for Mont Tennes Follows Gambling Raid

A warrant for the arrest of Mont Tennes on charges of distributing gambling literature and conducting gambling houses was issued in the Chicago avenue court yesterday after three men, arrested yesterday in a raid on his "news agency," in room 51, 303 West Chicago avenue, on charges of conducting a lottery, had taken jury trials.

SEARCHERS SEE CITY AS PORT OF MISSING MEN

Chicago police are receiving numerous requests from other cities that search be made for missing persons. The following are some of the requests received today:

Arthur Carpenter, 45 years old, is being sought by Mrs. Edward Mettel, 1518 South Eighteenth street, Newcastle, Ind., at the request of his father, Adam, who is ill.

Frank and Joe Johnson are being sought by their mother, living at 304 Lake street, Waukesha, Wis. Mrs. Johnson is destitute.

Thomas Arthur Bell, who left Liverpool, England, twenty years ago, is sought by his sister, Mrs. Ada Coulson, Pacific avenue, La Salle, N. Y.

Edward Herman, formerly employed in the street department in Chicago, is inquired for by his father, A. Herman, 423 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ferdinand Ibsen, native of Odder, Denmark, is inquired for by a daughter, Mrs. Thora Dianus, 4035 Twenty-sixth street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Estella M. Cook Brown, 949 U avenue, Des Moines, Ia., is seeking her grandfather, George Cook.

Mystery Man Dead.

W. W. Rathbun, 65 years old, believed to be an attorney, was found dead in his bed in the Chicago hotel, 22 South Clark street, yesterday by the clerk. Nothing could be found out about his past.

SOUTH AMERICA TRADE HELD BY WARRING LANDS

U.S. Fails to Gain Foothold, According to Traveler.

Germany, England, Italy—even Japan—are crowding America out of the South American trade, according to J. S. Schwartz, an American commercial traveler who has been covering the South American trade for over thirty years.

Mr. Schwartz, who recently returned from an extensive trip to the interior of Bazil, deplores the manner in which American interests are overlooking the tremendous possibilities of the trade in that country.

Germans and English Prevail.

"The German and English interests, in spite of the fact that both countries are at war, are getting far more in Brazil than the American interests," said Mr. Schwartz. "It is because they are better organized. There seems to be a condition of jealousy and snubbing among American business travelers in South America that is reacting to the detriment of our trade there.

"The Germans have clubs—the English have clubs—but the motto of the American seems to be 'all for myself.' As a result he often gets squeezed out of business. Another point is that he doesn't take the South American business man seriously. He doesn't give him credit for being as good a business man as he is. The result is that he frequently doesn't make good on his promises of goods, delivery, price, and so forth. The Brazilians have become suspicious of the alluring promises of the American representative, which so often do not materialize.

Honor Behind Flags.

"The flag of Germany is implanted, the flag of England waves, and the South Americans know them and respect them. There is honor behind those flags. But the American flag is not looked upon so favorably. And that is not the fault of the local governments. They are favorably disposed. It is the fault of the lack of cooperation, the jealousy of America's business representatives.

"The South Americans no longer want luxuries. They require necessities. There are millions waiting for the progressive manufacturers who come there with liberal minded representatives to get business and give value. Of a population of 25,000,000 there are 5,000,000 Italians alone who are making splendid livings in the South American republic.

Japs Getting Foothold.

"The Japs are here. They are taking advantage of the alluring promises of South America—and they are coining great returns.

"We ought not to let this Klondike of trade sweep by us. We should establish Y. M. C. A. clubs in the various cities of the South American republics. We should institute business men's clubs. We should encourage coöperation. The Englishmen are snubbing American business travelers, and Americans are snubbing each other. And Japan, Italy, Germany, and Spain are garnering the profits."

GRAFT INQUIRY THREATENS NEW INDICTMENTS

The investigation into alleged police graft was again taken up yesterday by the grand jury. It is expected that indictments which will name persons who have not yet been indicted will be returned next week.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury were August W. Miller, clerk of the Circuit court, and Julius Annixter, owner of a cigar store and poolroom at 1343 South Kedzie avenue. Annixter, it was charged, had paid money for police protection in order to operate handbooks and dice games.

Annixter is known by the name of "Loving Putty" Annixter.

Among other witnesses were Lieuts. J. J. O'Connell, Bartholomew Fleming, and William Friel. Their testimony had to do with paying $300 each for promotion. Another witness was Lieut. Martin Augustus White, who confessed after he and Thomas Costello and others had been arrested in a raid on a room in a North Dearborn street building.

"Lieut. White and Mr. Miller were called to corroborate other evidence given," said Assistant State's Attorney Ernest Buehler.

The nature of Miller's testimony could not be learned.

The investigation into the police graft will be continued tomorrow.

HIGHEST HONOR OF NOTRE DAME PAID TO BENSON

Notre Dame, Ind., March 17.—[Special.]—Admiral William Shepherd Benson, chief of naval operations and ranking officer in the navy since the death of Admiral Dewey, has been chosen Laetare medalist by the University of Notre Dame for the year 1917. It is probable that the presentation will take place during commencement week in June and that the admiral will be present to participate in the celebration of Notre Dame's diamond jubilee.

The Laetare medal is the highest honor within the power of the university to bestow and is given each year to a lay Catholic whose markedly meritorious endeavor has made him worthy of the distinction. Among those who have been awarded the medal in the past are Gen. William Rosecrans, Thomas Emmett, Edward Douglass White, Anna T. Sadlier, Charles G. Bonaparte, Agnes Repplier, Dr. John B. Murphy, and Eliza Allen Starr.

Admiral Benson was born in Macon, Ga., on Sept. 25, 1855. His mother was the first woman to receive a diploma from a woman's college. In 1877 he graduated at the United States Naval academy and has served twenty-two years at sea. He was promoted to the rank of admiral in August, 1916.

Temple Judea Center to Be Dedicated Today

Services will be held this afternoon dedicating the community center of Temple Judea. The ceremonies will start at 2:30 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30 a congregational supper will be held, followed by an informal dance. Temple Judea is at 1227 to 1237 Independence boulevard. Among the speakers at the dedication will be George B. Kurtzon, Dr. H. B. Shapiro, Rabbi Samuel S. Cohon, Sol Heller, and Dr. A. J. Messing.

MOTOR PARKING LAW BECOMES PROBLEM MAY 1

Loop Business Men Then Cannot Let Their Cars Stand During Day.

The recently enacted auto parking ordinance becomes effective May 1. It provides that no autos may be parked for any period longer than the time necessary to take on or discharge passengers in the limits of the loop district between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock in the morning and between 4 and 7 p. m.

Thousands of business men now come down to work in their automobiles and keep them in service throughout the day. Almost to an individual these automobile owners are gloomy at the prospect of the new ordinance, although a number said that if it were enforced properly no great harm would be done.

Many Tricks Used.

The present automobile regulation provides that no auto may be parked in the loop district for more than one hour at a time. In connection with its operation there are many ways that are dark and tricks that are vain. The boss sends the office boy down at intervals of an hour. Willie moves the car about an inch and a half, and the ordinance is thus technically obeyed. Or the boss' wife goes shopping in her little electric. For 50 cents she hires a juvenile car pusher for the afternoon, who keeps the car moving sufficiently to render its owner law abiding. But the traffic suffers.

It will be easier to enforce the new ordinance, yet there is no legal time limit of taking on or discharging passengers. Notwithstanding which the majority of those affected will undoubtedly make no effort to violate the spirit or letter of the law. And thereby hangs the problem.

No Trouble for Him.

It is one easy of solution for Lucius Teter, president of the Chicago Trust and Savings bank. Mr. Teter uses his car daily in coming to business and riding home, as well as occasional trips about town.

He is a member of the Chicago Automobile club. He leaves his automobile in the club garage.

But H. L. Schmitz, manager of the real estate loan department of the bank, is not a member of the club.

"I suppose the only thing to do would be to park my car across the bridge at Monroe street, on the lake front," said Mr. Schmitz. "It is about ten minutes walk from the office. The only trouble is that even this space is inadequate. During the summer time, under operation of the present ordinance, there are between three and four thousand cars parked on that space, which extends from Washington street to Van Buren street. All these automobiles are in charge of one or two park policemen. It is impossible for them to personally know all the owners."

Favors Underground Garage.

H. H. Harper of the real estate firm of Oliver & Co. believes that the exigencies of traffic and the rights of pedestrians should be considered above all else, but that some provision should be made by the city for the parking of the cars in the loop.

"I think it might be a feasible plan for the city to operate a municipal underground garage between Michigan avenue and the I. C. tracks, extending say from Washington street to Van Buren," he said. "We would all be glad to pay a nominal garage fee."

The passing of the new ordinance is a severe blow at the efficiency of the selling force of the Toledo Scale company, 184 North Dearborn street, according to the manager, H. F. Anderson.

Inconvenience for Salesmen.

"I come down to work in my car and I use it all day," said Mr. Anderson. "We handle a line in which the individual units are very bulky. These scales weigh hundreds of pounds each. Our ten city salesmen each use cars. Under the new ordinance we would have to hire expressmen to deliver samples. All our men carry sample scales in their autos now. It would take half an hour to deliver a sample scale from our office to the parked car outside the loop. I am afraid we will have to terminate our lease here, where we have been established for fifteen years, on account of the law, and move outside the loop.

'ABSOLUTE' BEN MAKES LANDIS WORD WEARY

Federal Judge K. M. Landis has an antipathy for the word "absolutely." Benjamin Koch, alleged bankrupt, was on the witness stand yesterday. "Absolutely" was his favorite answer to the judge's questions.

"I want you to come back here Monday morning and meanwhile I will ask your attorney to operate on you to remove that word 'absolutely,'" said Judge Landis. "You use it as a substitute for thought."

Michael Gesas, attorney for petitioning creditors, reported that Koch purchased $6,000 worth of woolens since Jan. 1, 1917, shipping them to a brother-in-law, Henry Bornszak, in Milwaukee, in return for 60 per cent of their value. Bornszak, the judge was informed, denies that he owes Koch anything. Judge Landis ordered him to be brought to Chicago Monday.

"Bankruptcy law," said the judge, "is a fearful and wonderful thing. It imposes on the judge the duty of protecting a lot of dead beats from their creditors. There are some honest bankrupts, but they are dead beats for the most part."

Totals........	159	$2,009,800
Same wk. last yr.	166	1,929,500

WHILE the aggregate movement of property for the last week showed a large falling off compared with the corresponding week a year ago, as evidenced by figures of the recorder's office, the week's market was fairly good. There were no particularly large transactions, and little of importance was doing either in apartment or manufacturing property, which generally have cut a prominent figure in the market's activities, but nevertheless the market was along rather broad lines, a marked improvement in this respect being shown over the previous week.

Thus, business property, which made an especially poor showing during the preceding week, was much in evidence, being the most conspicuous feature of the week's business.

La Salle and South Water.

The most important transaction was the sale by Ferdinand Peck and the estate of Clarence I. Peck to the Chicago real estate trustees of the property at the northeast corner of La Salle and South Water streets for an expressed consideration of $80,000. The lot fronts forty feet on South Water street, with a depth of fifty-five feet on La Salle street, and is improved with a two story brick building, leased to Aman, Enders & Gunderson, produce dealers, who have occupied the building for over twenty-five years.

It is interesting to note that the property was purchased by the father of the grantors in 1832 for $78. The original lot ran from the river to Lake street before South Water street was cut through. It is stated that when the new La Salle street bridge is completed the purchasers probably will raze the present building and improve with a modern structure. Aldis & Co. represented the purchasers and Dibblee & Manierre the sellers.

Near Wilson Avenue.

The Wilson avenue district furnished a noteworthy transaction in the sale by John A. Lewis to James R. Cardwell, president of the Union Draft Gear company, of the property at 4523 Broadway, a half block from Wilson avenue and opposite the Northwestern L station. The lot is 25x89 feet to Kenmore avenue and is improved with a two story brick building under lease to the Commonwealth Edison company. The consideration is not disclosed, but is said to have been in the neighborhood of $50,000, subject to $15,000 incumbrance.

The clear residence property at 1824 Pratt boulevard and the fifteen flat building at the northeast corner of Mildred and George street were taken in part payment. White & Tabor represented Mr. Lewis and Koester & Zander Mr. Cardwell.

Store and Flats.

Arthur C. Schieferstein has purchased from J. A. Hayes the property at the southwest corner of North and Clybourn avenues, lot 25x149 feet, north front, with store and flat improvements, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000.

Daniel M. Healy has acquired from Pasquale Gaudiana the property at the northwest corner of Van Buren and Mozart streets, 50x125 feet, with store and flat improvements, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $24,000.

The Bopp Motor company has conveyed to William P. Worth the property in West Lake street, 128 feet east of Kedze avenue, north front, 50 feet through to Park avenue, with brick improvements, consideration $22,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000.

Fee Under Elks Building to Be Sold for $235,000

It is reported that negotiations are nearly closed looking to the sale of the fee under the new Elks building at 174-76 West Washington street by the heirs of James B. Speed of Louisville, Ky., for $235,000, which is on a basis of a little under 5 per cent. The land, 40.37x110 feet, is under lease to the Elks club for ninety-nine years at a graded rental of $8,000 to $12,000, the average being $11,644. The building, a twelve story structure, is now nearing completion.

Two Board of Trade Men Partners of A. H. Woods

It is reported that Joseph D. Snydacker and Samuel C. Scotten, two prominent board of trade men, are associated with A. H. Woods of New York in the ownership of the proposed theater and office building at the northwest corner of Randolph and Dearborn streets. They both figured in some real estate transactions some time ago on the west side of Canal street from Harrison to Taylor streets.

THE NELSON BLOCK

Store-Apartment Building to Be Erected in Kedzie Avenue Near Lawrence.

The Nelson block is the name of an attractive building to be erected by Nelson Thomasson Jr. on Kedzie avenue, 100 feet north of Lawrence avenue. It will occupy a lot 100x150 feet, will contain four stores and ten apartments, while the rear 50x100 feet will be occupied by a large public garage. It will represent an investment of over $80,000, and in connection with its construction Baer, Eisendrath & Co. have underwritten a bond issue of $45,000, maturing in two to six years, at 6 per cent. The construction is somewhat out of the ordinary. The first floor will be of red brick and white cement, while the upper floors will be brick covered with stucco.

BUTTERINE CO. ACQUIRES PLANT IN 'YARDS' ZONE

Some Activity Shown in Properties for Factories.

There were a few interesting transaction in manufacturing property, the most important being the purchase by the Ed S. Vail Butterine company, a new organization with offices in the Continental and Commercial National Bank building, from the Great Western Serum company of the plant of the latter at 4728-36 Gross avenue. It is a modern one and two story concrete building with a frontage of 160 feet on Gross avenue. While the consideration is withheld, it is said to have been around $100,000.

The purchasing company is remodeling the plant, which is expected to have a capacity of 30,000,000 pounds of butterine a year.

A noteworthy transaction in the Calumet district, made a matter of record, was the purchase by the General Chemical company from J. S. Phipps and others, of a tract of about twelve and one-half acres adjoining the present plant of the company on the Calumet river and the Calumet and Western railroad right of way, for an expressed consideration of $55,845. The property is said to have been acquired for future possible requirements.

Harold A. Howard, who took title early in the week to the northeast corner of Racine avenue and Twenty-first street, 116x243, later transferred it to Norman K. Anderson, trustee. Mr. Howard has also acquired from C. D. Foster, 75x116 feet, in Twenty-first street, 168 feet east of Racine avenue, upon which it is planned to erect a factory and office building one story high.

MINOR OUTSIDE REALTY DEALS

Among several minor transactions in outside business property was the sale by J. J. Velek et al. to Ernest Messner of the property in Halsted street, 273 feet north of Sixty-fifth street, lot 50x124 feet, east front, with store and flat improvements, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $17,500.

The property at 2507 West North avenue, lot 25x125 feet, improved with a two story store and flat building, has been conveyed by Leo L. Brunhild to Ida R. Graff, consideration nominal, but actual price said to have been $15,000. In this connection Sol K. Graff conveyed to Mr. Brunhild the property at 4226 West Twenty-sixth street, lot 24x118 feet, with a three story store and flat building, at a reported consideration of $12,500. Sidney C. Edenburg in connection with Graff & Balch negotiated the deal.

The property at 3928-30 North Ashland avenue, about 300 feet south of Irving Park boulevard, lot fifty feet front, with store and flat improvements, has been sold by Emma Seibt to Michael Raemer for a reported consideration of $18,000, the purchaser conveying in part payment the property at 2483 Milwaukee avenue, with store and flat improvements, at a reported consideration of $13,500. George S. Lurie & Co. were the brokers.

URGES AMERICA SAVE PULP WOOD

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Secretary Houston appealed to the country today to conserve its pulp wood resources as a means of insuring a future supply of news print paper. In a statement on the subject he pointed to the present close balance between production and demand in the news print industry and to wasteful forestry methods, and urged state forest departments to support reforestation plans.

Real Estate Transfers.

Real estate transfers filed for record yesterday totaled 173, of which 121 were in the city and 52 outside, including 21 under the Torrens system. Transfers were as follows:

Rogers Park..	1	Hanover	1
Lake View ...	8	Leyden	1
Jefferson	19	Lyons	10

LOOP PROPERTY OF M'CORMICKS NEAR $10,000,000

The Leander J. McCormick estate, of which the late R. Hall McCormick was a trustee, owns eight pieces of property in the downtown district which were given a total valuation of $9,671,655 by the board of review. They include the McCormick building, northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Van Buren street, $4,214,517; Lumber Exchange, southeast corner La Salle and Madison streets, $1,742,664; southeast corner Randolph and Dearborn street, $1,502,031; and fee under Unity building; Ceylon building, northwest corner Wabash and Lake, $218,955; Atlas block, northwest corner Randolph and Wabash, $1,137,924; Galbraith building, northeast corner Madison and Franklin, $506,370; Oxford building, 120-22 North La Salle street, $269,825; 62-64 South Water street, $79,863.

TORRENS PLAN WINS APPROVAL

In reply to a query from James C. Russell, editor of "Land Registration," a periodical devoted to furthering the Torrens system, Charles E. Lobdell, member of the federal farm loan board, makes the following interesting statement:

"The federal farm loan board on the subject of evidence of title has stated: 'Any abstract or evidence of title sanctioned by sound business usage in the community and approved by the attorney of the Federal Land bank will be satisfactory to this board.'

"I think there is no doubt that so-called Torrens certificates are included in the foregoing statement. I may say further that the statement was made on behalf of the board and with such certificates specifically in mind as acceptable evidence of title."

FOREIGN TRADE DROPS SHARPLY

Washington, D. C., March 17.—American exports and imports decreased almost $190,000,000 in February—the first month of unrestricted German U-boat warfare—according to a report of the department of commerce issued today. This is the largest loss in export and import trade in a single month ever reported.

The report shows that exports fell off $147,032,959, compared with the previous high month, while imports decreased $42,239,685. The total exports for February amounted to $466,523,034, while imports totaled $199,578,597. For the eight months ended Feb. 28 the total exports showed an increase of $1,496,013,216 over the same period in 1916. Imports for the same period increased $256,858,645.

Ald. Geiger to Talk to Board.

Ald. Ellis Geiger will talk on "The Terminal Situation in Chicago" at Tuesday's weekly luncheon of the Cook county real estate board at the Hotel Sherman. John V. Fox will act as toastmaster.

ENGINEER FIRM BUYS FORMER HOME OF CATON

Residence in Calumet to Be Used for Business.

Another of the one time fashionable homes in the old exclusive residential district around Calumet and Prairie avenues, south of Eighteenth street, the former Arthur Caton residence at 1910 Calumet avenue, is to be used for business purposes. Following Mr. Caton's death the house was occupied by Mrs. Caton up to the time of her marriage to the late Marshall Field, and was sold by her to Eugene Wendnagel about six years ago.

Sold to Chase H. Lord.

It has now been sold by Mr. Wendnagel to Chase H. Lord, president of a large civil engineering company, operating mining and electrical properties, for $45,000. It is a large three story brick structure containing about twenty rooms, on a lot 111x177½ feet, with a three story garage in the rear. The house will be used for the offices, clubhouse, and laboratories of the company. The sale was negotiated by Engene A. Bournique & Co.

In Midway District.

An interesting transaction in the University of Chicago district, involving the erection of a handsome new residence, was the sale by Prof. A. Alonzo Stagg of the university to Aline L. Friedberg of the vacant property at the northeast corner of Fifty-fourth street and University avenue, 60x164 feet. While the consideration is withheld, it is understood to have been in the neighborhood of $8,000. It is announced the purchaser will improve at once with a handsome residence. Draper & Kramer represented both parties to the transaction.

WARNS AGAINST ISSUE OF BONDS

In a communication calling attention to the constantly increasing rate of taxation and the growing tendency to vote bond issues, Francis E. Manierre of Dibblee & Manierre says in part:

"Would it not be well, therefore, to sound a note of alarm on the fast growing practice of raising funds through the often questionable use of the bond issue? In New York we have seen an example of how realty values are staggering under the load of an unrestrained bond issuing debauch.

"The city of Chicago has been fortunate in having one of the lowest bond issue indebtednesses per capita of any of the large cities in the United States, but in no way can I see that this fortunate state of being has militated against its growth and prosperity. Why take chances then and allow the city to live beyond its income?"

SLOW TRADING IN APARTMENTS; NO BIG SALES

Modest Priced Property, However, Makes Fair Showing in Week.

Apartment property made the poorest showing, particularly as regards transactions of any magnitude, for several weeks. On the other hand, there was a freer movement of cheap to medium priced properties.

Record was made of the sale by Gustav G. Anders, the builder, to Axel Pearson of the twenty-four apartment building on 100x164 feet of ground at the southeast corner of University avenue and Fifty-fourth street, the consideration being nominal, subject to an insumbrance of $52,000.

The apartment property at the southeast corner of Sixty-eighth street and Dorchester avenue, lot 59x131 feet, has has been conveyed by Louise F. Cline to F. L. Norris, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $24,500.

Swanke Acquires Building.

Another interesting transaction was the sale by O. O. Jackson and others to H. R. Swanke of the twenty-one apartment building of four, five, and six rooms, on a lot 103x125 feet, at the southwest corner of Indiana avenue and Fifty-ninth street. The building was erected about twelve years ago and is said to have a gross annual rental of approximately $10,000. A nominal consideration is given in the deed, subject to an incumbrance of $25,000, but the actual figure is said to have been in the neighborhood of $55,000.

Murray Wolbach has sold to August J. and Mary A. Le Jeune the six apartment building at 6720-22 Chappel avenue, lot 57½x125 feet, for a reported consideration of $28,500, subject to an incumbrance of $16,000. The building is said to have a gross annual rental of $3,420, and the purchaser in part payment conveyed the equity in the Herman Sasse farm, known as the Deer Creek farm, east of Crown Point, at a reported consideration of $8,250, the balance cash. The sale was negotiated by Lindh & Dahlin.

In Lafayette Parkway.

James Maltman has sold to Mrs. Catherine Boehming the six apartment building at 828 Lafayette parkway, lot 50x110 feet, between Sheridan road and the lake, for a reported consideration of $25,000, subject to an incumbrance of $15,000. The purchaser conveyed in part payment a three flat building on Foster avenue, near Clark street. Williams & Hicks were the brokers.

The six apartment building at 3520-22 Grand boulevard, lot 54x124 feet, east front, has been conveyed by Sylvia Allen to Louise C. Rosander, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $14,000.

The property at the northwest corner of Turner avenue and Twenty-first street, 50x125 feet, with flat improvements, has been conveyed by Albert Flogans to Edward Rippberger, consideration nominal, subject to $19,000 incumbrance.

Eastern Woman Buys.

The property at the northwest corner of Evans avenue and Forty-eighth street, lot 50x120 feet, with flat improvements, has been conveyed by George C. Newbury to Effie A. McKey of Auburn, N. Y., the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $20,000.

The property at the northeast corner of Sangamon and Seventy-seventh streets, lot 80x124½ feet, with a twelve apartment building of four and five rooms, has been conveyed by T. F. McFarland to Ernst Wedoff, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $23,500. The building was erected about a year ago.

The high grade six apartment building in Grand boulevard twenty-five feet south of East Fortieth street, lot 50x150 feet, west front, has been conveyed by F. C. Van Norstrand to Gilbert G. Wolfe, a consideration of $1 being given, subject to an incumbrance of $22,500.

Record has been made of the transfer by H. W. Duncanson to Aaron B. Moe of the property in Broadway at the southwest corner of Ainslie street, 63x150 feet, with improvements, consideration nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $30,000.

Six Apartment House.

Timothy J. Sullivan has purchased from H. W. Tully the property in Harper avenue, 219 feet south of Sixty-second street, lot 50x150 feet, east front, improved with a six apartment building, the consideration being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $12,750.

The six apartment building at 5484-86 Ellis avenue, lot 50x169 feet, has been sold by Sol K. Graff to Alfred E. Barr for a reported consideration of $24,000, subject to an incumbrance of $13,500.

Leases and Loans.

THERE was considerable doing of an important character in leases of business space, both in the downtown as well as outside districts. A number of good sized building loans were also reported and made matters of record.

The chief feature was the State street lease, involving the location of a bank at State and Adams streets and a change in the name of the new Twentieth Century building, at the southwest corner of the streets named, to the Century building. The lease covers the bank floor of the building, which has been taken by the Lake and State Savings bank, now at the corner of Lake and State streets, for a term of twenty years. The name of the bank also will be changed to that of the Century Trust and Savings bank, after which the building is to be named. It will have a capital and surplus of $600, double that of the Lake and State bank.

In addition to a regular banking business, the bank will have a savings department, safety deposit vaults, and transact a general trust business. While the terms of the lease are not disclosed, it is understaad the term rental aggregates about $190,000.

The building now occupied by the bank is to be torn down to make room for the sixteen story store, office, and theater building to be erected at the southwest corner of State and Lake streets.

Another important lease of store space in the loop district was reported covering the store and basement at 308-10 West Madison street, on the north side of the street, between Franklin and Market streets, which has been leased by Willis & Frankenstein for the estate of Marshall Field, through Dibblee & Manierre to W. H. Salisbury & Co., for a term of years from April 17, 1917, at a term rent of approximately $90,000.

Salisbury & Co. have for the last ten years been located at 105-107 South Wabash avenue, but have concluded to return to Madison street, having originally built up their business on that thoroughfare.

The Fiat Automobile company of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., through their Chicago representative, R. C. Cook, has renewed its lease of the three story and basement building at 2239 Michigan avenue at an annual rental of $5,400. Howard Bros. & Co. were the brokers.

W. D. Kerfoot & Co. have leased to the Hanover Life and Casualty company, which has outgrown its quarters in the Westminster building, space for Clark & Trainer in the Michigan Boulevard building for a term rent of $120,000 from May 1 next.

Meyering & Klein, north shore builders, have leased the corner store in the building at the northeast corner of Bosworth and Howard avenues, to the McLean Drug company, operating the Central Drug Stores, for a term of fifteen years at a reported term rental of $36,000, which is looked upon as a fine showing for that neighborhood.

Phillip O. Hantover has leased from the Jackson & Morgan syndicate, composed of Messrs. Alter, White & Brown, the property at the southwest corner of Jackson boulevard and Morgan street, 150x120 feet, improved with three story building, containing twenty-seven flats and four stores for five years at a term rent of $21,500. It is proposed to remodel the building for hotel purposes, occupying the corner himself with a buffet and restaurant. David Harris of Hugo Ash & Co. and White & Tabor were the brokers.

Paul C. Loeber & Co. have leased for Henry F. Nuelson to Sigmund Bachman of the Automatic Paper Box company the two story and basement building at 1011-25 South California avenue for a term rent of $45,000. The property is served by a Baltimore and Ohio switch track.

Edwin A. Roser and others have given a trust deed to the Fort Dearborn Trust and Savings bank, trustee, to secure a loan of $57,500, seven years at 6 per cent, secured by the property at the southwest corner of Wilson and Dover avenues, 53x153 feet.

Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company have made a loan of $50,000 to Gilbert Baillargeon, seven years at 6 per cent, on the property at 1300-12 Morse avenue, 150x173 feet.

The State Bank of Chicago is trustee in a loan of $60,000, five years at 5½ per cent, to Adolph Lindstrom and Henry E. Hedberg on about 900 feet of frontage on Seventy-first street and a large frontage on Jeffery, Paxton, and Clyde avenues.

Frank L. Fifer has given a trust deed to O. Kaspar to secure a loan of $58,500, two years at 6 per cent, on the property at the southeast corner of Twelfth street and Cicero avenue, 550x125 feet.

Several Conveyances Made to Carlton Hudson

Record was made of several conveyances to Medora T. and Carlton Hudson covering the property at the northeast corner of East Forty-seventh street and Lake Park avenue. They are of no significance in a market way, being made as the result of a recent order of the Appellate court in connection with long pending litigation over the property. They have no relation to the Waterman matter, it is said.

HULBERT FAVORS TORRENS PLAN; LIQUID ASSET

Advocates Plan in Talk at Realty Luncheon.

The Torrens system of land registration as a means for making real estate a more liquid asset was advocated by Edmund D. Hulbert, president of the Merchants Loan and Trust company, at the weekly luncheon of the Chicago real estate board at the Hotel La Salle on Thursday.

Mr. Hulbert declared that even though the "quieting" of title to all of the real estate in the county would take a generation, as he had been informed it would, the sooner the matter is started the better. The ideal arrangement, he said, would be the use of the Torrens system in combination with a law permitting proceedings to quiet title up to the date of registration.

Old System Cumbersome.

After dwelling on the delays and cumbersome methods employed in the old system of land transfers, which he designated as a relic of feudal times, and the friction between bankers and real estate men regarding real estate loans, he said in part:

"The point I want to make today is that the main benefit of the Torrens plan, if in general operation, would not be the saving of useless labor and expense, but the saving of time, which would go far toward putting real estate in a list of bankable collateral by giving it the quality of quick transferability, without which no property is proper collateral for short time loans.

Stock Merely Real Estate.

"Certificates of stock in great industrial corporations, like our Commonwealth Edison and Western Electric company, for example, represent largely ownership in real estate, yet they are among the most welcome collateral in every bank in Chicago. This is because they are readily transferable and have a wide market, and one involves the other. If they were not readily transferable they would not have a wide market.

"If every time a certificate of stock in a corporation was transferred it were necessary to show a record of every transfer of that certificate, it would necessarily follow that no one could safely buy one of those certificates without a legal opinion as to the validity of every transfer, which would at once destroy the value of such stock as bank collateral and depreciate its market value.

"I do not believe any of us fully appreciates the effect the difficulty of transfer has on real estate values. A great deal of capital would seek investment in real estate if it were readily convertible that never turns in that direction now."

SPRING BUILDING DUE TO TAKE LEAP FORWARD

There was a sharp increase in the number and total cost of the permits issued by the city building department, as compared with a number of weeks past, the figures being 159 in number, with a total cost of $2,009,800, as compared with 166 and $1,929,500 for the corresponding week in 1916. It is the first time in several months that the cost has exceeded corresponding weeks in 1916. It seems to indicate that despite the high prices of materials there is likely to be much building during the spring months at least.

Standard Oil Co. Pays $2,000,000 Cash in Deal

S. Karpen & Bros. received $2,000,000 in cash in connection with the sale of the twelve story building and leasehold interest in the 134x241 feet of ground on which it stands at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Ninth street to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the deal being closed and filed for record late in the week. The oil company also assumed the remaining unpaid trust deed bonds on the property, amounting to $500,000, making the total consideration $2,500,000.

In addition the oil company paid the First Trust and Savings bank, trustee of the estate of Otto Young, $1,000,000 for the fee of the property, making a total of $3,500,000. W. A. Merigold & Co. were the brokers, while the legal details were handled by Chauncey W. Martin for the oil company and Henry M. Goldsmith for the Karpens.

TRANSACTIONS IN VACANT FEATURE WEEK'S DEALING

Montgomery Ward Buy Another Parcel Along the North Branch.

Transactions in vacant, some of them involving extensive improvements, were among the most conspicuous features of the week's market.

The most important of these was the purchase by Montgomery Ward & Co. of another parcel on the north bank of the river adjoining their plant at the Chicago avenue bridge. The property which comprises about 40,000 square feet, was acquired from the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company and was wanted by the company for lumber yard purposes. It is described as being on Kingsbury street, between Hobbie street and the north branch of the river, 190 feet east front to the river.

The Chicago Title and Trust company took title in the deed, which was filed for record yesterday, a consideration of $10 being given. The actual price, however, is understood to have been about $125,000, at the rate of a little over $3 a square foot. While it is understood the property was acquired by Ward & Co. with a view to improving it with another addition to the large warehouses at that point, representatives of the company declined to make any statement regarding the plans they may have in connection with the property, which is now traversed by the tracks of the company.

Northwest Lots Sale.

A sale of northwest lots also was among the week's features. The property comprises a tract of seventy-three lots fronting on North Avers and Springfield avenues, between Argyle street and Foster avenue, which has been sold by George F. Nixon and George W. Frassue to Nellie E. Thompson, Elsye M. S. Johnson, Elizabeth McKee, and Lucy F. Greenburg for a reported consideration of $40,000. The property adjoins on the west the new section of Ravenswood Highland, and it is stated the same high class improvements will be maintained in the tract just acquired. The subdivision is registered under the Torrens system and it will be retailed by Healey, Gibbs & Co.

On the South Side.

There also was a sale of valuable frontage in the new south shore district by Murray Wolbach, a large operator in that section. He has sold to John E. Baker the vacant property at the southeast corner of East Seventy-first street and South Shore avenue, irregular in shape and with a frontage of 100 feet on each street, opposite the entrance of the South Shore Country club, for $21,000 cash, which is at the rate of $210 a front foot.

While Mr. Wolbach is understood to have taken a handsome profit in the transaction, it is looked upon as a good purchase on the part of Mr. Baker.

Sell Ten Acre Tract.

Record was made of the conveyance by the Consolidated Fire Works company to Arthur C. Schieferstein of a tract of 10.7 acres in West Division street between Central and Lamon avenues extended, consideration nominal. Then grantee conveyed to George B. Hotchkiss Jr., consideration also nominal. Mr. Hotchkiss gave a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company to secure a part purchase money mortgage of $15,000, twenty years, at 6 per cent.

The Chicago Title and Trust company has taken title from F. B. Daniels et al., trustees of the Pullman Land association, to a tract of thirty-seven acres on the east side of the right of way of the Illinois Central road between One Hundred and Twenty-first and One Hundred and Thirtieth streets, for an expressed consideration of $94,864.
